Twiggy Is Hopping Mad

LONDON (AP) —Twiggy is hopping mad about a report in the Moscow Literary Gazette calling her "a capitalist tool" and the wrong kind of image for modern youth.

"It is a load of old codswallop," she said Thursday.

Codswallop is an untranslatable Cockney expression, roughly equivalent to baloney or nonsense.

"I loathe anything like the beatniks and hippies, and am certainly no sort of model for them."

Twiggy may look frail, but for a 92-pounder she's got quite a temper and she had a few things to say about the Communists who accused her of being exploited by beatniks and hippies and of not knowing what happened at Hiroshima.

"What I know about Communists sounds just terrible," she snapped. "I've just come back from a tour of Germany and I do know about the Berlin wall and censorship and lack of freedom.

"It's not only a lot of nonsense what that paper said about me but they are being very unfair. In fact, I have a lot of supporters in the East, and I get a lot of fan mail from behind the Iron Curtain. Maybe that's what is bothering them.

"I am not the world's greatest expert on politics, but I certainly know what happened at Hiroshima was the first atomic bomb and I think war is terrible. They ought to let the leaders fight duels to settle things, since they are the ones who want the fighting."

The 18-year-old Cockney model said she had "kind of gone off press conferences. Because they always ask me stupid questions like do I take drugs."

"Of course I don't."

Capacity Crowd Attends UCW Hat and Fur Show

A capacity crowd attended a most successful fur and millinery show held in the Education Hall, Holloway Street United Church on Wednesday evening, sponsored by the UCW of the church.

Hats for all occasions and elegant furs through the courtesy of Woodley Furriers were shown and modelled by Mrs. G. Dobbs, Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. G. DeMille, Mrs. W. Cone, Mrs. P. Annis and Mrs. G. Donaldson.

Commentary on the hats was given by Mrs. H. Hutt and it was noted that the newest spring fashion is the "A" hat. The collection included hats of many styles and colors with the new circus shade most popular. The fur fashions as described by D. Woodley featured coats, jackets and stoles and included a bekutiful full length Canada Majestic Hope mink coat, a black Persian lamb jacket with sapphire mink collar and cuffs, and a lovely violet mink stole.

Those in charge of the event were: Mrs. I. Knight, Mrs. D. Richardson, Mrs. C. Lowther and Mrs. K. Lewis assisted by Mrs. W. Townson and Mrs. R. L. Burnett, while warmly greeting the many guests at the door were: Mrs. W. Lamb, Mrs. K. Parks, Mrs. T. Poste, Mrs. J. E. Dixon and Mrs. M. White

Here the main hall was attractively decorated with floral arrangements and pyramids of hat boxes Coffee and delectable desserts were served buffet style and in charge of Mrs. V. Bailey with Mrs. H. Ostlingdyke attending to the numerous kitchen duties. Centering the many guest tables were petite green hat stands topped with miniature hats, made in a variety of colors, styles and trimmings.

Mrs. L. Bowes played background music throughout the evening.

CHRIST CHURCH ACW

A splendid attendance of members of the Anglican Church Women of Christ Church met for the March meeting in the Church Hall on Monday evening.

The prayer service was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. Kilburn assisted by Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. H. Stevens with Mrs. M. Williams at the piano.

Thank-you letters were read from Mrs. V. Milne, Mrs. I. Reid, and Mrs. E. Smith.

Reports were given from the Dorcas secretary Mrs. F. Goodfellow; extra-a-day and Sunshine fund secretary Mrs. H. Stevens; the thank-offering secretary Mrs. J. Spencer, including the reading of the minutes by the secretary Mrs. E. Mossman, and the financial report by the treasurer Mrs. P. Burton. Magazines have been sent to resident s of the Manor and members have also visited the home; also patients at the Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. J. Kilburn reported that she had attended the board meeting at St. Thomas' Anglican Church in Belleville when an interesting talk was given on unification of all groups in the church by Mrs. McKye. She said that special groups for help for elderly people and shut-ins was done by help over the phone, by prayer, and by writing letters. Mrs. McKye has been interested in this kind of work for the past five years.

Mrs. A. Bogard told of the World's Day of Prayer held in the new auditorium at the Hastings Manor with a goodly number of the residents participating.

The president suggested that the next meeting be a quilting, and the following Thursday a film on "Two Strangers" will be shown in the Parish Hall sponsored by the Afternoon Branch of the ACW.

Alcoholism Hurts The Whole Family

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 17-year-old girl who hopes you will continue to print letters about alcoholism and the harm it does. This is what happened at our house last week.

ANN LANDERS

When I got home from school Mom was in bed, which was not unusual. At dinner time she didn't get up and I figured she was sleeping off a hangover so I started to fix supper for Dad and us kids. Dad came home at six and went in to check Mom. He came out of the bedroom white as a ghost. "Mom's dead," he said and went to the phone and called the police. When he returned to the bedroom he yelled, "she moved — call the police and tell them not to come. Call the doctor instead."

Well, the police came anyway, and so did the doctor and so did the newspapers, and it made the front page and everybody is talking about it. My sister and I can't hold up our heads at school and my father is ready to change jobs because everybody at the garage where he works is making jokes. People are going to talk about this forever and there's nothing we can do about it. Please print my letter in another example of how alcoholism hurts the whole family. — S.L.

DEAR S-L: Here's your letter and the address of an organization that can help you. Write to Alateen, P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, New York 10010. Kids who live with alcoholism need strength, courage and information. This group offers all three — in abundance.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday we had dinner at my cousin's house. She had her Christmas cards still pinned to the dining room draperies. I asked her if she planned to carry the Christmas motif indefinitely. "Oh," she sighed, "I don't throw the cards out until I record the names of the senders."

When I asked what that was all about, she explained that the record is for next year. "It saves me a lot of time with people who have sent cards to us the previous year." I then asked if she ever sent a card to a person just because she wanted to wish him well. She replied, "Only on special days. The whole thing is a pain in the ankle. We send cards because we have to — and so does everyone else."

DEAR V-2: I think there an awful lot of people whose motivation for Christmas giving is the same as your cousin's. The spirit of Christmas has become a commercial racket. How much better if people would treat one another more kindly all through the year.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married my husband four years ago (my first, his second) I was prepared for the problems that come with stepchildren. I thought I could handle anything. Now I'm not so sure.

My husband's first wife has the boys (ages from 8 to 15) but every weekend they are with us and they have me spoiled, babyish and undisciplined. I love children but not when they behave like wild animals.

Lately my husband has been talking about taking the boys on a trip next summer. I am dreading it. Is there something wrong with me? — A.Z.

DEAR A.Z.: Stepchildren have broken up more second marriages than anything I know of. All children respond to love and kindness. If you want your marriage to work, dig in your heels and learn to get along with those children. Easy? Of course not. It takes maturity, saintly patience and perseverance, but it must be done or everything else might come undone.

Successful Living

Elderly Mother Discontent When Left Home

Dear Doris: How can an aged mother find contentment in being at home a good deal, when her whole life is enjoyment all her life has been go, go, go?

Eight too bad to read much, TV becomes a bore, poor hearing makes conversation with most visitors an exercise in misunderstanding. Sight and learning ability seem to limit crafts or skills to things as simple as to be nearly meaningless.

How can she be helped to accept the fact that her daughter and son-in-law need to get out to social events and she cannot always be included? She weeps every time she knows we expect to be out without her unless I arrange a party for her at home, yet gets so exhausted after being responsible for guests that she is tired and irritable for days after. — Too Much For Me.

Dear Too Much: There are hearing aids, magnifying glasses and large print books. But you can't do much about failing alertness. I have two suggestions:

(1) Find a companion — equivalent of a baby sitter — who would come in by the hour to free you. It would have to be a congenial woman willing to read to her, or play a game, or help her bathe and get to bed. Your church group or a visiting-homemaker-type organization might find you the right person.

(2) Get her doctor to talk heart-to-heart with her. She is not as clueless she can't be helped to see that a married couple (you and husband) need times out by yourselves; and that her happy home depends on your mental health.

Dear Doris: I've been married for five years Had a very successful marriage for three years, but now his close relation has stepped into our lives. She started drinking and having an affair with my husband. They lived together for a short time but broke off their relations a few months ago. But he still continues to visit her quite regularly — sometimes as much as four times a week.

He said he loves me very much. Would it be possible that they are still carrying on their relationship? — What To Do?

Dear What: Your visits a week sound to me like an extra-close relationship with this close relation.

But were those first four years really all that successful? Love and companionship grow all the time, in the Class A marriages. Your counsellor could help you look at all this and take stock of your part in making home the place where your husband wants to be.

Confidential to In Trouble: Your school principal has separated all the rooms at recess because of a feud between two rooms. He doubtless feels that any rule has to apply to everybody.

If you want to tell him how your room feels, write something out in courteous, respectful language and get everybody to sign it. Take it to your room teacher first and ask him to deliver it if he thinks the request reasonable.

There are Canadian resources to help solve your problem. Write to Doris for directions, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.

Inadequacy of Educational System Discussed at UCW Conference

Mrs. Clayton Thompson, Campbellford, conducted a mock Why Not Call? program on sources of information for study of women's status.

Minimum wages, birth control, tax relief for married women and succession duties were considered by eight discussion groups. To free women for greater participation in community, business and government, a housekeeping service, day care centres and retraining programs were suggested. To the question, is there discrimination against women in the United Church of Canada? The answer was yes, at all levels.

At the supper, the Catholic Women's League of the Archdiocese of Kingston was represented by Mrs. J. A. Cordick and the Anglican Church Women was represented by Mrs. P. S. Irwin of the Ottawa Diocese. Miss Marjorie Smith, Toronto, travelling secretary for the Board of Women, told of conditions on Cree and Ojibway reserves in northern Ontario.

A SEAWARD ROUTE

"I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide . . . may not be denied." — from "Sea Fever" by John Masefield.

Betty Ann Waghorne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Page of Belleville, and her husband Clay, who are sailing to the West Indies via the International Waterway in their 36-foot sailboat Yonder II from Toronto, did not go through the Dismal Swamp Canal, after all, because, writes Betty Ann:

"People told us the swamp canal is very shallow and there's nothing to see but the sides of the deep ditch, so we left Norfolk locally headed for Morehead City, North Carolina. The country side which we passed is much like the middle part of Ontario — a lot of fir trees.

"We are in North Carolina now. Today we crossed Albermarle Sound, N.C. which is shallow and about 12 miles across. Apparently, it can get rough fast. By noon, we were at the mouth of the Alligator River and decided to dock in a quiet protected part of the river.

This morning, we started through the Alligator River and the Purgo River Canal. The shore on both sides is a jungle of bushes, trees and creeping vines. These vines are all over the place, from hanging in the water to dangling from the tallest trees. The water close to the shore is full of old tree stumps, coming out about ten or 15 feet on either side. It isn't hard to navigate the canal, but you couldn't take your eyes off the chart for an instant.

This part of the country is the home of the last of the bald eagles. We saw two, that looked to have a wing spread of about seven feet and they didn't move their wings for ten or 15 minutes. They just glided so smoothly.

The rising wind made it difficult to dock at the nice little town of Belhaven, N.C., where we went shopping, then left at noon to go to Hobucken, N.C.

It's really windy and we arrived in Morehead City, N.C., after shivering all the way and had a hairy time trying to dock.

It was here we encountered a fellow sailor who with his wife have just returned from a round-the-world cruise which took six years, on their 30-foot sailboat! He really encouraged us, .

We left Morehead City to go to Surf City. All day we went from bony to bony, not daring to go one foot out of the channel. There's little tufts of grass in the water and the thing you don't see is that these little islands are all joined to each other under the water, about a foot under the surface. We are close to the ocean-today, so it is narrow in places, by the way.

Here, at Surf City (a summer village, really,) we took a look at the ocean. The waves that broke over a 1,000-foot-long pier made it shudder. I have never seen such powerful looking things as those waves.

Out to the marshes and canals again. The currents are becoming stronger at times. We stopped at Southport, N.C. this afternoon.

On December 6, 1967: "We spent the whole day going in canals, looking at trees and more trees, dodging logs all the way. There was a quarter of an inch of frost all over everything this morning. It was so cold. We're in South Carolina now, but it feels more like the South Pole!"

(To be concluded next week)

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I couldn't sleep."

Discovery of Skeletons Held Publicity Stunt

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — The Lincoln County grand jury returned no indictments Friday in its investigation into the unearthing of three human skeletons at nearby Cummins Prison farm, but said the "whole episode was designed as a publicity stunt" to benefit Thomas O. Murton.

Murton, the outspoken penologist brought here last year to reform the state's prison system, was fired Thursday as prison superintendent by the state board of correction under orders from Governor Winthrop Rockefeller.

Board Chairman John Haley told a news conference at Little Rock Friday that Murton was insubordinate, a poor administrator and fiscally irresponsible.

The grand jury disclaimed reports that skeletons discovered Jan. 29 might have come from an unmarked cemetery for murdered prisoners. Murton had said there was a possibility there were as many as 200 "bodies in that pasture."

Instead, the report to Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith said the site had been in use as a cemetery as far back as 1923. The jury said a U.S. government map dated in 1930 also shows the cemetery to have been there for some time.

Barnard Calls Proposed Study Of Heart Transplants Insult

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heart-transplant surgeon Dr. Christiaan Barnard told U.S. senators Friday that a proposed commission to study legal, ethical and social aspects of such operations is "an insult to your doctors."

"Either you are seeing new problems or you are not satisfied with the way doctors have handled these problems in the past," the famed South African surgeon told a Senate government operations subcommittee.

Despite repeated efforts by the four senators present to convince him that the advance of expensive operations which can only save a limited number of persons has created new problems, Barnard remained adamant during his hour before the subcommittee.

"None of these problems are new problems," he said. "You can't tell me one new problem."

Barnard, whose first patient, Louis Washkansky, died after 18 days but whose second patient, Philip Blaiberg, is still alive, said he sees no problem about deciding when a donor-patient has died.

"Why do we have to have new definitions of death, or commissions to tell us when a patient is dead?" he asked. "We doctors have done that for years."

Flying Saucer Returns Daily

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A dim light to a flaring thing about the size of a small cup, he said.

"The pulsating blue core seemed to shift position from the front of the phenomenon to the back while a red mass not unlike flame coming from a blowtorch appeared now at the bottom of the craft, now at the top."

"For my money it was a flaying saucer of some description and it's going to take some pretty convincing scientific facts to make me change my mind," he said Friday.

Alfred Sturzenegger, who rises at 3 a.m. every morning to check on his herd of beef cattle, says the object appeared Monday, Tuesday and Thursday and disappeared at 4:05 a.m.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1968

Ould St. Patrick bestirred himself up there in his Pearl Pagoda, inhaled a mint or two of Irish Mist and blew "assembly" for the hell-raisers, his private squadron of Leaping Leprechauns.

After the little green men had presented shillalaghs in salute St. Pat exhaled a misty burp and gave his orders.

"Get down there and find out whatinell is going on in the wacky world of sport. People are acting up worse than the big clutch of snakes I kicked out of Ould Ireland."

"The coorse av evints, as I see it, is raisin' ould hob among hockey fans. They're actin up worse than a barrel av banshees out on a Shelaternth av Oirland wing-ding."

"Trouble is" quoth St. Pat "they're as fickle as a lovesick omadhaun, Fr'instance the other day in Toronia when the Maple Leafs coach Imlach jumped on the former darling of the gods, Frank Mahovlich and tuu,lesser lights for a threesome of scoring feathers from the Detroit Red Wings, they raised more hell than a hungry fox in a chicken coop and went huntin' for the Imlach scalp."

"That was like lookin' for a mini-skirt on a mid-Victorian dowager. They'd forgot that some time ago they had lured the million-dollar baby almost out of the rink. There were more "sour grapes" than you'd find in a French winery pandemon.

"And this what happened? The three buckos who swapped their Red Wings turtlenecks for the blue-and-white of Bay Street, scored three goals for adopted Uncle Punch and the fan faithful changed his mind quicker than a hat-hungry dame in a millinery shop."

"Come back, Punch, come back," they yelled in their new-found joy. Ne w, mind, they hadn't seen the Leafs score three goals in one game since way back when. They would have covered the Imlachian bald pate with a laurel wreath of mink. "Attaboy, Punch ole kid," they chortled with glee, "we knew you were doing the right thing all the time."

"Better sick around, if Detroit blanks the Leafs tonight and Mahovlich and his ex-Leafian buddies come up with a couple of Red Wings tallies, those Toronia ticketburners will have another shoot-out and claim Ole Punch was what they said he was in the first place."

"And remimber the pome;"

"Hockey's real and hockey's earnest,

Superstars must score some goals,

Or in the other teams returnest

Claiming coaches have no souls.

"And while yez are cavortin' down there drop around Chicago way and find out who's been dealing out the anasthetic to the hitherto high-flying Hawks!"

"Find out, if yez can, what is handcuffing the Hulls, mumbling the Mikitas and whammying the Wharrams. First thing they know they'll be looking down and finding only one team there."

"Don't bother about New York and Boston. Resurgence has put the Broadway Blues and the Beantowners within shooting range of the Stanley pewterware and they show no signs of faltering on their march to the upper halls of glory and gold."

"So away wid yez. Next trip out will be down Florida way where they say the Yankees batting eyes have developed creeping paralysis, Mebbe they had better import Imlach and Francis as Trader Horns."

The "Hull" Of It

Orr; Asks $100,000

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' all-star defenceman, will ask for a $100,000 contract next season, the largest in the history of the National Hockey League.

Alan Eagleson, lawyer for the 19-year-old Orr, said Friday:

"We'll have to ask for $100,000 on the basis of the club's own evidence of how important Bobby is to the team

"I understand Bobby Hull is going to ask the Chicago management for $100,000. If Hull is worth $100,000 to the Black Hawks, then Orr is worth at least as much to the Bruins."

In an interview, Eagleson said that without Orr the Bruins win about half their games, but with him they win seven out of 10.

With Orr in the lineup this year, the Bruins won 22 games, lost 12 and tied seven. Without him, the club is 11-10-3.

Tonight In Toronto — Big M On Spot

Imlach's Choice Faces Abel's Pick!

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The OK Corral had nothing on Maple Leaf Gardens when it comes to showdowns.

The difference is that when the good guys and the bad guys shot it out in the classic western setting, there was no question who was who.

Tonight when Detroit Red Wings invade the Gardens to tackle Toronto Maple Leafs it's not going to be that simple for the more than 15,000 fans in attendance and millions more watching on television or glued to their radios.

The fly in the ointment is Frank Mahovlich returning for the first time to Toronto since he, Peter Stemkowski and Garry Unger were traded to Detroit for Norm Ullman, Floyd Smith and Paul Henderson.

Rated by some as a superstar although reaching his potential only once in his unhappy career with the Leafs, Mahovlich still was the biggest threat they had going for them.

Big, powerful, smooth he has the ability to bring even the most jaded observer off his hands bowling by winding up behind his own net, sweeping down left wing, finessing his way past opposing defenders and terrifying goalies with the paralyzing power of one of the biggest slap shots in hockey.

First returns, Tuesday gave the nod to Punch Imlach, manager-coach of the Leafs, as a shrewder trader than Sid Abel, his opposite number with Detroit.

Ullman, Smith and Henderson each scored once in dropping Philadelphia Flyers 7-2 while none of the new Detroit players earned a point as the Red Wings fell 6-1 to New York Rangers.

It is expected that the new Toronto players will continue as a line while indications are that Unger will centre Mahovlich and Gordie Howe on right wing. Stemkowski has been working with Alex Delvecchio and Bruce MacGregor.

The Leafs are fighting for a berth in the playoffs, hoping to avert elimination for the first time in 10 seasons.

The team they now have to catch is Chicago Black Hawks, who are in Montreal against the Canadiens, leaders of the Eastern Division while second-place New York is in Minnesota to play the North Stars.

Western Division games tonight have Los Angeles Kings at Pittsburgh against the Penguins while Oakland Seals are in St. Louis to play the Blues.

Sunday, the Leafs are in Chicago, Los Angeles is in New York, Detroit is in Boston to play the Bruins, third in the east, St. Louis is in Oakland and Minnesota plays the Flyers in Quebec City.

The game in Quebec was made necessary last week when Philadelphia city officials closed the $12,000,000 Spectrum—home of the Flyers—while there is an investigation into construction of the building. Holes have appeared in the roof twice, caused by high winds.

The Flyers lead the Western Division, but only by two points over Minnesota. Since closure of the Spectrum they have played all their games on the road—in New York Sunday and Toronto Thursday- and now have a variety of offers for a semi-permanent home.

Toronto has offered the Gardens and Winnipeg has offered its arena, home of the Canadian national team.

A collateral scene of action today was to be the offices in Montreal of NHL president Clarence Campbell where he was to decide on what, if any, further action to take on the stick-swinging, head-bashing duel Thursday between Eddie Shack of Boston and Larry Zeidel of Philadelphia.

Both picked up $300 in fines, both got match misconduct penalties, both earned several stitches in their heads and both got personal invitations from Campbell to sit with him and show cause why substantially larger fines and-or suspensions should not be added to the penalties already assessed.

After Thursday's game, Philadelphia general-manager Bud Poile said Boston players had been on Zeidel for several games.

This was partially confirmed Friday by Mrs. Zeidel in a telephone interview from Philadelphia in which she said he was being baited by Bruin players because of his Jewish ancestory, although she said she did believe Shack was one of the hecklers.

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Woodstock Alcans defeated Kingston Aces 5-2 Friday night to even their best-of-seven, quarter-final series 3-3 in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series.

The deciding game is scheduled for Kingston Sunday.

Shack, Zeidel

There's No Red In This Carpet!

MONTREAL (CP) — Forward Eddie Shack of Boston Bruins and Philadelphia Flyers defenceman Larry Zeidel have a command performance with National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell today as a result of their Thursday night stick-swinging duel in Toronto.

Also in attendance will be referee Bruce Hood and linesmen Matt Pavelich and Ron Ego, who worked the game, won 2-1 by the Bruins over the homeless Flyers. The Flyers have been forced to take their home games on the road because of wind damage to the roof of the Philadelphia Spectrum.

Campbell said he will review the incident with the principals and then decide if a suspension is warranted on top of the $300 each has been assessed for his part in the brawl.

Both players were cut on the head in the brawl which occurred in the first period of the contest. Campbell said each player had been assessed $100 automatic match penalties and $200 for using their sticks during an altercation.

Marie Zeidel said in a telephone interview from Chester, Pa., Friday night that some Boston players had been heckling her husband consistently because he is Jewish, but the clash with Shack had nothing to do with this.

"Larry said that ever since the first game with Boston some of the players were tormenting him, and it got worse as the season progressed," she said. "Some of the players were saying they were going to get him.

"But Larry felt Eddie Shack was not involved. Shack was on him, but not about Jewishness."

Mrs. Zeidel said her husband was worked up and tense be- cause of incidents in previous games, and this might have been a factor in the clash with Shack.

Reds Stop Barons 3-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The fans in Providence must have known something as they turned out in unexpected numbers to watch the Reds record their first American Hockey League victory in three years Friday night.

The Reds biggest home turnout in three years—5,352—was on hand as Providence dropped Cleveland Barons 3-0.

In the only other game of the night, Rochester Americans broke a six-game slide in the Western Division and moved two points ahead of Cleveland with a 3-1 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

"Red Jacket" Wins Another

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP-AP) — The 40-foot Toronto-owned sloop Red Jacket Friday night was declared the probable winner of the 30-mile Nassau Cup yacht race, the last race of this season's Southern Ocean Racing Conference series.

Another official victory would give the white-hulled Red Jacket, owned and skippered by Perry Connolly of Toronto, three over-all triumphs in the SORC six-race series.

Official results were to be announced later.

Red Jacket, which won Class B honors in the 184-mile Miami-to-Nassau race earlier this week, was seventh to cross the finish line Friday.

Bolero, skippered by Ted Turner of Atlanta, was first across but, as the scratch boat, had to give handicaps to all other craft in the fleet. The 13-foot yawl also led the fleet in the Miami-to-Nassau race.

Bobby Hull's World Of Hockey

By BOBBY HULL

The recent trade Punch Imlach swung with Detroit Red Wings was probably the biggest livestock deal outside of the Hereford sale I plan to conduct in Belleville next fall.

The swap was spectacular because Imlach pried Frank Mahovlich loose from Toronto Maple Leafs, primarily in exchange for Norm Ullman. Mahovlich was sent away with Paul Henderschott and rookie Gary Unger, for Ullman, Floyd Smith and Paul Henderson and the Toronto rights to Carl Brewer.

It is popular for general managers to say, after the trade winds have subsided, that such deals "benefit both clubs." Some cynics occasionally crack that such negotiations are "a trade that hurts both clubs."

In this case, you must say that Ullman is guaranteed to help Toronto. Henderson and Smith, too, especially Henderson, who is several years younger than both Smith and Ullman. Henderson is swift and alert, particularly around the other team's goal. He can, and has, played right or left wing.

Ullman has been one of the best centres in the National Hockey League in the last 10 years. Most experts rank him among the top four or five at the position, including Jean Beliveau and Henri Richard of Montreal, Dave Keon of Toronto and our own Stan Mikita in Chicago. These four have dominated the all-star selections in the last decade.

Ullman has had some industrious, vigilant playoff series against me. He belongs with the toughest checkers in hockey, constantly forcing the play in the other team's zone. He couples that ability with a talent for several goals a game, or 30 goals a season.

The style of the Toronto club has been established through a succession of coaches, from Hap Day down to Imlach. It is as Bob Pulford says, "We try to score two or three goals, then check to stop the other team from scoring more than one or two."

In that respect, Ullman will really fit the Toronto system. He is a checker who, as one sports writer has said, persists in following you around like a busted garter.

Mahovlich? Has to be ranked as a home-run hitter who can break up any ball game with his booming shots. On his big nights, everybody has to be impressed. I don't know if the late Jim Norris was kidding or not when he offered a million bucks for Frank six years ago, but I know this: if we had got him, we'd really have cranked some firepower on the left side.

I hear the rumors like everybody else, that Mahovlich couldn't get along with Imlach. So far as I can see, there was no direct evidence of conflict. I think Frank understands, like most pros, that you wind up playing hard for yourself, no matter who the coach is.

Still, some players do respond to what the sportscasters call a change of climate. In Detroit, playing on a line with Howe and Delvecchio and under Sid Abel's guidance, Mahovlich may fly beyond his considerable accomplishments in Toronto.

Time will tell who got the better of the deal, but this seems certain: if Detroit can coax Brewer out of his amateur retirement, the Wings will get an all-star defenceman that any team in hockey could use.

Napanee Ties Series

Napanee and Picton go to the wire tomorrow night in Picton for the rubber battle for the OHA intermediate "B" playdown series victory.

Last night in Napanee the homesters grabbed a 5-4 overtime thriller to square the best-of-seven series at three-all.

Pringle, the Picton players admit, has been little short of sensational.

The teams battled to a one-all first period with Picton holding a 2-1 lead at the end of the second frame. The final period ended in a three-all stalemate.

Picton outshot the winners 37-32.

Alberta Rink Captures National Curling Title

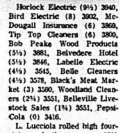
KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Ron Northcott of Calgary rolled past nine rinks on his way to victory in the Canadian curling championships, but he wanted to run his total to 10.

"Let's face it, we were thinking about that big 10-0 record," he said Friday after he posted his ninth victory to win the 11-rink, round-robin competition. "It would have made a lot of difference to us.

"But the way the ice was and the way we were curling, I think it pretty unlikely anyone could have gone through this thing with a perfect record."

The villain of the piece for Northcott was Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas, Ont. The 36-year-old dentist handed the Alberta skip his only loss, 9-8, Thursday night.

"The game could have gone either way," said Northcott. "But I missed a raise and he won it. We're still happy with our 9-1 record."



Northcott's rink of third Jimmy Shields, 29, second Bernie Sparks, 28, and Lead Fred Storey, 36, curled with methodical precision Friday to post victories over Burke Parker of Gilbert Plains, Man., and Herb Pile's Northern Ontario rink from Geraldton.

The 32-year-old Western skip, winner of the world and Canadian titles in 1966, needed two in the 12th end to defeat the stubborn Parker 10-9 but had an easy 13-9 win over Pile.

From "Hike" To Mike

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said Friday it has hired veteran quarterback Bernie Faloney as a commentator for the coming season's football coverage on television.

Faloney, 36, announced his retirement earlier this week after 14 seasons in the Canadian Football League. He played Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Edmonton Eskimos, Montreal Alouettes and British Columbia Lions.

L. Lucciola rolled high four-string of the season, 1211 (335), L. Labelle 1205 (338), J. Sorvers 1181 (325), J. McKenzie 1121 (321), J. Calnan 1117 (346), D. Meiklejohn 1102 (316), J. DiGenova 1083 (359), E. Lugtenburg 1072 (306), J. Nicholls 1004 (304).

Pickering finished with an 8-3 record; losing 17-6 to Northcott and 10-5 to Bob McCubbin of Richmond, B.C.

"British Columbia was the big one," said Pickering Friday. "If we could have got going on that heavy ice Wednesday we would have beaten them. I didn't mind losing to Ron because he outcurled us, but I think we should have beaten McCubbin.

"With the one loss we could have forced a playoff and I know we'd be fired up to meet Northcott again. I can promise you it would have been a game."

Ice was the main bone of contention at the 1968 finals and it was so bad Wednesday that curlers were hogging takeouts. Garnet Campbell, making his seventh trip to the final, was light on at least seven take-outs and called the ice "the worst I've ever seen."

But Alan Smith of Charlottetown didn't have too much trouble figuring it out and finished with seven victories and third place in the championships—the best finish for a Prince Edward Island Rink since the competition started in 1927.

"We knew we had a chance for the record," said the happy Smith after he posted a final round 17-16 victory over Bill Piercey of St. John's, Nfld. "But we didn't really curl that well."

"We nearly blew our last game against Piercey because we opened a big lead and lost interest."

Fourth place in the competition was shared by Gilbert and Jim Ayer of Fredericton, both with 6-4 records.

"I think we set a record for the most wins ever scored by a New Brunswick team," said Ayer's skip Ron Kerr. "but I'm not sure. The official records are not here and it seems to me a New Brunswick team had six victories in the 1930s."

Ayer's rink was the surprise of the competition. The 200-pound electrician drew the first-round bye—the worst draw of the competition—and suffered three consecutive defeats. Then he won five in a row, upsetting Ontario and B.C.

"We should have beaten Northcott too," said Ketch. "We were only inches away from upsetting him, but Jim was light with a raise in the last end. Still we're happy with the standing."

McCubbin finished with five victories while Don Flemming of Halifax and Parker both had 4-6 records. Bill Tracy of Bagotville, Que., had a 3-7 mark while Piercey had two victories and Pile one.

More than 23,000 fans attended the competition as Alberta won the championships for the 10th time.

In the final round, Parker defeated McCubbin 11-10, Ayer swamped Tracy 12-5 and Pickering downed Flemming 9-6.

The Saskatchewan skip defeated Piercey 9-3 in the morning round Friday while Flemming edged Ayer 8-7, Smith downed Pile 14-5 and Gilbert defeated McCubbin 11-8.

Golden Bear Misses Cut By Stroke

MIAMI (AP) — He stands 23rd on golf's money-winning list with a puny total of $8,450. Two weeks ago at Phoenix, they cut him out of the tournament after 36 holes because he was four strokes over par.

In the Doral Open here Friday, he was two over par at the halfway point. One more stroke and he would have been cut again.

His name? Jack Nicklaus.

In 1967, Nicklaus was the golfer of the year. In the modern era of golf, he has won $723,000. Nobody tops that but Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

What's the trouble with the famed "Golds Bear?"

"I need work," Nicklaus said Friday after firing a two-over-par 74 and a 36-hole total of 146 in Doral. The players who had 147 were out of it.

After next week's tournament at Orlando, Fla., Nicklaus said he would drop off the tour and try to regain his touch for the Master's at Augusta, Ga.

As Nicklaus faded out, Tom Weiskopf came on with a great second round charge and stood one stroke behind Dickinson in the Doral. Several other players were within striking distance for the stretch run.

Nicklaus' troubles were not so heartbreaking as those of Doug Sanders, Doral's 4 leading champion, and Canadian George Knudson, who had come into Miami with a two-tournament winning streak. Both wound up with 147s and were eliminated.

Today's example is Chicago White Sox, those lovable, hitless wonders who had a team batting average of .225 last year.

The Sox made their 1968 debut at Sarasota, Fla., Friday, pounded out 14 hits and thumped Boston Red Sox, the American League champions, 7-3. It was enough to make manager Eddie Stanky risk a contented smile.

Two newcomers—outfielders Russ Snyder and Tommy Davis —led the offence with two hits apiece. Snyder, acquired from Baltimore, rapped a triple and a single and scored twice. Davis, who came from the New York Mets, slapped a pair of singles and scored twice.

Oakland's brand new Athletics won their first start with an exciting late rally, beating Detroit Tigers 3-2 at Bradenton, Fla.

Four Houston pitchers limited Pittsburgh to four hits at Fort Myers, Fla., as the Astros beat the Pirates 4-2.

Ken Holtzman, unbeaten last season, took the loss as San Francisco Giants dropped Chicago Cubs 6-3 at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Kingston Whips Oil Kings

The Kingston Merchants defeated the Belleville Oil Kings 9-2 in Kingston last night.

No score-card was submitted.

The teams meet again tomorrow (Sunday) in Memorial Arena here in the next game of the series. Time 1.30.

Quinte Project

Arts Council, Loyalist Sponsor Fine Arts Study

DOROTHY TRIEGER

The status of the fine arts—painting, sculpture, music and drama — in the Quinte district will be under scrutiny during the next six months.

Sponsored jointly by Loyalist College and the Quinte Arts Council, the fine arts study will be the first of its kind undertaken in Ontario.

Dorothy E. Trieger, a Toronto researcher, will spend six months in South Hastings-Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington seeking answers to three questions:

Is there enough interest in the area to justify a program of fine arts study at Loyalist College?

What kind of artistic events do people want to attend and take part in?

In what areas of the arts is encouragement required?

"The final report should constitute a blueprint for development of the arts in the region, both from an educational and hobby point of view," Mrs. Trieger says.

As their amount of leisure time increases, more and more people are turning to painting, drawing, crafts, music and drama as a means of self-expression.

She plans to sketch a simple "audience profile" at all events from now to the end of June.

Each member of the audience will be asked to fill in a short questionnaire giving his age group by decades, the number of events he has attended during the past year, whether or not he is a member of a subscription series, what fine arts activities he would like to watch or participate in, and whether he reached the auditorium by public or private transportation.

Mrs. Trieger also hopes, with the permission of proper authorities, to distribute a similar questionnaire to high school students in grades 10 to 13.

She also plans interviews with leaders and members of community organizations in the region.

Mrs. Trieger is a veteran of fine arts researching. She has just completed a 14 - month survey of education for theatrical careers and the use of drama in education, for the Ontario Theatre Study. Its aim is to present a blueprint for future growth of the theatre in the province.

She has been business manager of two theatres operated by the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and of Burton Auditorium at York University, Toronto. Two years ago she served as an administrative assistant in organizing and presenting a seminar in human communications at York.

Mrs. Trieger is no stranger to the eastern Ontario region. She was educated in Kingston before attending the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, for professional singing training.

Married to a university professor, she has three children. She plans to spend three or four days each week in the district until her survey is finished.

Diamond Staking Rush Hits Kirkland Lake

OTTAWA (CP) — Discovery of kimberlite in the Kirkland Lake area of Northern Ontario has started a claiming rush and promises better than one in 50 chances of yielding diamonds, a government geologist reported today.

Dr. H. A. Lee, 44-year-old geologist with the Geological Survey of Canada, came on the kimberlite—like rock of the diamonds—last July 5 while engaged in a research project aimed at testing a prospecting method known as glaciofocus prospecting. It is probably the first proven discovery of true kimberlite in North America.

His official report of the discovery was made public today by the Geological Survey of Canada. An initial report of it in January sparked a claiming rush.

At least 1,000 claims have been staked in the general area in the last eight weeks, comparable to the February rush to stake uranium claims around Elliot Lake, Ont.

Information say staking has covered extensive areas of Gauthier and four other townships —Arnold, McCrea, Catharine and Marter. Upper Canada gold mine in Gauthier Township is reported to have made an agreement with a major diamond prospecting company in exchange for discovery.

Dr. Lee estimates that the area of concentration of similar structure may be 30 miles by five miles in a north-south pattern east of Kirkland Lake.

The first kimberlite was found by Dr. Lee in one of several 60-by-20-foot test pits.

The kimberlite rock is relatively young by geological standards—late Jurassic formed about 151,000,000 years ago, compared with the surrounding pre-Cambrian rock formed 2,500,000,000 years ago.

To Your Good Health

Inflamed Eyelids Require Treatment

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain a condition called blepharitis? — Mrs. G. M.

The Greeks had a word for it — blepharon, or eyelid. So blepharitis means irritation or inflammation of the eyelids.

The trouble can range all the way from irritation due to wind, dust, smoke, or fumes, to a savage infection — it can follow measles; may occur independently from streptococcus or staphylococcus germs getting into the eye; can be a spread of infection from some area near the eyes.

The eyes become red and sore, and there is increased flow of tears. Some types of infection are accompanied by accumulation of pus which may form crusts on the eyelids, and the lids may be stuck together after a night's sleep.

If ulceration occurs, the eyelids may bleed. Chronic infections can affect the eyelashes so they fall out, and if the root structures are destroyed, the lashes can't grow in again.

Since so many causes are possible, each case becomes an individual one. If some irritant can be pinpointed, and then avoided, that may be the basis of ending the trouble.

If it is the invasion of germs, then subduing them is the vital step, and antibiotic ointments make treatment vastly more effective than was the case only a generation or so ago.

Scrupulous cleanliness is essential—and obvious. It is also important to clear up any infection in adjacent areas, as nose, sinuses, or the eyeball proper (conjunctivitis).

A sty, incidentally, is a form of blepharitis in which the follicle of an eyelash is involved.

In some instances in which an eyelid is everted outward — that is, gaps away from the eyeball, usually from a facial scar — blepharitis is common, because irritants and germs invade, and the eyelids (and tears) cannot keep the area safely cleansed. In such cases a type of plastic surgery may be necessary to restore the eyelid to proper shape.

Blepharitis can occur at any age, but there is one type which deserves special mention, blepharitis in the older person. Vitamin deficiencies are often the underlying trouble, so with the older person (and it can be true, occasionally, in younger ones) it is always wise to see whether there is any diet deficiency, so it can be corrected with better diet and supplemented with vitamins if necessary.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there really such a thing as "spring fever"? If it's for real do you know of any cure? — I. F.

If it is for real, it is the weariness of the doldrums of a long, dreary winter, and triggered by first days that tempt you to just sit.

Cure, for adults: Gardening, housecleaning, sunshine, overhauling fishing tackle, taking off the snow tires. For boys, the cure is girls; for girls, boys.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does one have any nutritional value? I am anemic and so many people have suggested drinking a small glass of wine — that it makes blood. Is this true? If so, what kind? — E. G.

Yes, wine has nutritional values — mostly sugars, alcohol, minerals, and a complex variety of other odd and ends, but it doesn't "make blood," which is an extremely ancient superstition. Better rely on your doctor determining what type of anemia you have, and let him prescribe an effective treatment.

Child Abducted

TORONTO (CP)—The administrator of Humber Memorial Hospital said Friday it would be impossible to guard against the type of incident which led to the kidnapping of a two-year-old boy Thursday.

Robert Ferguson said it would be necessary to surround the hospital with security guards to cope with such an eventuality.

Daniel Arndt was abducted from a second floor ward by a man who later threatened to kill the child and himself with a butcher knife.

Lawrence Joseph Villeneuve, 21, of Toronto, has been charged with abduction and possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace.

He was remanded until March 15 when he appeared Friday in magistrate's court.

OTTAWA (CP) — Supreme Court of Canada Friday upheld the validity of an arctic apprenticeship clause in the job contract of a white man fired for wooing an Eskimo girl.

The court, in effect, rejected the contention that racial discrimination could be applied to any ethnic group in Canada if the non-fraternization clause is allowed to stand.

"We are concerned here only with a particular clause of a particular contract," said Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, in announcing the unanimous opinion of the five-member panel of judges that the clause is valid and not contrary to the public interest.

The effect of their decision, upholding rulings of lower courts, washed out the $25,000 damage action by Terence John Whitfield against Canadian Marconi Co. of Montreal.

Mr. Whitfield, 36-year-old Australian now reported to be working in Labrador, was fired in 1961 by Canadian Marconi for associating with Ann Witaltuk, a practical nurse and the first Eskimo air stewardess.

When hired as a $600-a-month electrician for an arctic radar base, Mr. Whitfield signed a contract which said:

"Indians and Eskimo villages are considered out of bounds and the personnel are prohibited from fraternization or association with the native populations except in special circumstances. Infringement of these orders is cause for discharge."

Posted to Great Whale River, Mr. Whitfield became friendly with Miss Witaltuk, whose family lived at a nearby Eskimo village. They later became engaged but have since parted and Miss Witaltuk married another man.

Chief Justice Cartwright said the court agreed with the Quebec Appeal Court judgment, which said that Mr. Whitfield's rights were not affected by the non-fraternization clause.

Icebreaking Starts March 18

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Coast Guard icebreaker Simcoe, based at Prescott, Ont., will begin opening the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario channel between Prescott and the Bay of Quinte on March 18.

The transport department warned Friday that ice along the river and in thelake will be unsafe for ice fishermen once the breaking begins.

After the Prescott-Bay of Quinte channel is open, the Simcoe will work her way eastward. Passage through Lake St. Lawrence will not be made until about April 1.

Airman Convicted

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — A nineteen-year-old airman married U.S. Air Force Capt. Dale Noyd, who objects to the war in Vietnam, guilty Friday of wilful disobedience of a lawful order.

The tribunal deliberated one hour and 25 minutes before returning the verdict. The court will reassess sentence until today, when Defence lawyers will present arguments on extenuating circumstances before sentencing is passed.

The maximum sentence is five years imprisonment at hard labor and dismissal from the air force.

Noyd, 34, from Wenatchee, Wash., testified Friday that his conscience prevented him from helping train a student at nearby Cannon Air Force Base for duty in Vietnam.

Noyd has said he would fight to defend his country but objects to Vietnam war as one of aggression. He said his position is that of a selective conscientious objector.

Low Cholesterol No Help After Heart Attack

TORONTO (CP) — High levels of cholesterol in the blood are related to the onset of coronary disease, but once a patient has had a heart attack the cholesterol level is unimportant, a Toronto researcher said Friday.

Dr. Henry Shandf of the Brunswick Diagnostic Clinic and chief of cardiology at Doctors Hospital here, said this was indicated by a 15-year study of moderation and.

He said that one implication is that, while cholesterol-lowering therapy might help prevent or postpone coronary disease before a heart attack occurs, it is of little value after a heart attack.

Dr. Shandf told a symposium of the Toron'o Academy of Medicine that the study showed that there is no absolute value of blood cholesterol level that can be considered normal or abnormal, contrary to popular belief.

Gold Stocks Are Lower Than A Week Ago

By FRITS ROOS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Violently fluctuating gold stocks dominated Canada's exchanges this week as European speculators renewed their attack on major western currencies with a surge of gold bullion buying.

Most gold issues on the Toronto Stock Exchange hit all-time highs, but at Friday's close most were down from the previous week.

The week opened with an unprecedented 14-point surge in the exchange's gold average amid rumors that Washington would end the sale of gold abroad and that South Africa, the world's major supplier of the yellow metal, would switch its gold trade to Paris from London.

The rumors subsided and Tuesday's profit taking reaction accelerated Wednesday into a 29-point plunge—the sharpest loss on record.

However, the index bounced back with an eight-point gain Thursday which continued at the same pace Friday until the final minutes of trading when speculators cashed in on their profits.

During the week, the Index declined 5.31 points to 241.69 after soaring to a record 260.76, breaking the 31-year-old mark of 252.89 set in February, 1937.

Analysts said that if the price of gold doubled—or Washington devalues the dollar by 50 per cent—most gold stocks still are heavily overpriced.

Dome Mines, which traded between a record 89 and a low of 77, paced the declining issues, tumbling 5¼ to 79 on sales of 22,000 shares.

Camflo, down 10 cents to 6.05, was the group's most active issue trading 266,000 shares.

Dickenson was up 45 cents to 5.20 while McIntyre-Porcupine, which derives only a fraction of its income from gold mining, jumped 8½ to 86½.

Wright-Harr=reaves, which hasn't prod ed an ounce of gold since it closed its mine in 1966 to concentrate on exploration, soared 70 cents to 3.75 on 200,000 shares. Earlier, the stock hit 4.90—more than three times its 1968 low of 1.51.

Most other sections of the market declined in quiet trading, despite a strong mid-week advance influenced by a major rally at New York.

Most active industrial was Massey Ferguson which slipped ¼ to 15 on sales of 63,000 shares.

Standard Radio, which proposed a 3-for-1 stock split and an increased quarterly dividend in addition to announcing an extra dividend, soared 6¾ to 48¼.

Scurry-Rainbow, heading the list of declining oils, dropped 2¾ to 23¼. Dynamic Petroleum, the week's most active oil, climbed 38 cents to 1.75 while 330,000 shares changed hands.

Campbell Chibougamau, up 60 cents to 9.95, held centre-stage in the quiet base metals section. The company produces gold as a by-product to its copper operations.

Denison dropped 1 to 60 Northgate gained ¾ to 13 in active trading.

On index, Toronto's Industrials were down 1.05 to 148.64, oils 2.97 to 177.56 and base metals .22 to 100.42. Volume increased to 18,842,000 from 17,505,000 the previous week. Declines outnumbered advances 451 to 226.

Gold Price Stays Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western orld has suffered no acute attack of the financial jitters ever since Britain devalued the pound Nov. 18.

A new surge of speculative gold-buying in Europe this week reflects an attempt to get aboard the gold bandwagon should the price change or paper money tumble.

Frederick L. Demin, undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs, said any belief that the price of gold might be changed is absurd.

Swiss bankers attributed this week's gold rush to a lack of confidence in measures taken by the United Kingdom and the United States to end the deficits in their balance of payments.

There was growing speculation in Europe that the U.S. would be unable to hold the gold price at $35 an ounce.

But after the London market closed Friday the treasury's Demin reiterated the U.S. position to maintain the $35 price.

Teaching Aid for Blind

A smile from teacher Mrs. Barbara Neill indicates that Joy Huean, 14, of Kitchener, Ont., has the right answer during introduction of the Multiple Answering Teaching Aid at the Ontario School for the Blind in Brantford, Ont. The student answers verbal questions from the teacher by pushing one of four keys on a handset on her desk. A light on the teacher's console indicates whether the answer is right or wrong. Employment News

By J. R. STAVLEY,
Manpower Counsellor

The role of the Canada Manpower Centre is to ensure in co-operation where necessary with other public or private bodies concerned, the best possible organization of the labor market. This concept is an integral part of the national program for achievement and maintenance of full employment and the development and use of Canada's productive resources.

Students, as prospective workers, come within the scope and interest of the Canada Manpower Centre. Within the next two months, many of the community's university undergraduates will be returning to their homes in this area to seek temporary employment.

Indications to date are that a greater number than in previous years will be looking for temporary work.

Any employer having such a temporary labor requirement, from early May to the middle of September, calling for the qualifications possessed by these undergraduates is invited to contact the Manpower office at the earliest convenience.

Although the labor demand remained slow during the past week, with spring just around the corner, a number of employers, especially those in construction, anticipate increased activity in the immediate future.

In the female division, locally, retail outlets are seeking sales persons to sell yard goods and quality women's clothing. Another retail store has regular and part time work for someone to act as cashier, answer the telephone and also stock the shelves. A capable housekeeper is required on a live-in basis. Still unfilled by an industrial plant is a career opening for a university graduate who has taken sociology courses and also possesses some personnel industrial or other personnel experience in other work fields. For those persons who are interested in working outside of Canada, a number of qualified typists are still required at the United Nations typing pool in New York City. Also in very short supply are registered nurses.

In the male division, local Industrial plants are still seeking the services of chemical engineers, an electrical engineer and a mechanical engineer. Other industrial requirements call for a cost clerk and a general clerk for the estimating department. There are manager trainee vacancies in the field of consumer credit for those young men who are interested in this work and who possess at least a Grade XII education, in addition to being willing to move to other locations and also bondable. Other industrial firms have positions calling for qualified plant maintenance mechanic, a mechanical draftsman, an estimator, a screw machine operator, and a wood pattern-maker. There is an urgent requirement for an experienced salesman to sell vehicle tires and automotive accessories. An experienced shop foreman is in demand for the service department for an automobile dealer. In addition to these local employment opportunities, there is a wide range of unfilled positions elsewhere in Canada and also abroad.

If interested in any of these positions, seeking other employment, or thinking of reentering the labor market, contact the Canada Manpower Centre.

Pictured here is the Lexington. This outstanding split-level home on its beautiful treed lot is now more outstanding than ever! Completely different in design, the entrance foyer provides direct access to the 13' x 12' dining room which is attractively designed and at a lower level than the living room. The view of the living room through the big bay window is a picture of comfort and contentment reflected in the glow of the corner fireplace. The kitchen with its attractive, mar-proof cupboards is sure to win the approval of the entire family. Another sure-fire clincher for this house is the huge master bedroom along with two other bedrooms of good size. The basement is ideally designed for a future rec-room.

If ever a house was designed to be a home this is the one. All it needs is you and your family.

For those of you who would prefer to choose your own house plan, come into our sales office and ask for Mr. Jim Cathcart. If you can't get away, call Mr. Cathcart and he will be happy to visit you at your convenience. But, whatever you do, act quickly. Remember there are only 13 lots left.

Civilian Advisers Balk at Army Bid

War Doubts Rise

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A recent Gallup Poll conducted throughout the country indicates that more Americans now than at any previous time feel the United States was wrong to get involved militarily in Vietnam.

Moreover, only 32 per cent of those interviewed thought the United States and its allies were making progress in the war. The figure compares with 50 per cent in a November poll.

The survey showed that seven out of 10 doves—those who favor reducing American military efforts—believed the U.S. was wrong to have become involved in Vietnam, but perhaps more surprising, four in 10 hawks also felt the U.S. was wrong. A hawk was defined as a person who wants to step up the military effort.

Munition Dump Blown Up

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 102 insurgent troops in a northern frontier battle Sunday but North Vietnamese gunners blew up tons of ammunition at a U.S. Navy base just below the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

A spokesman said South Vietnamese casualties were light in the eight-hour fight with an estimated 600 insurgent soldiers, the eighth major encounter since Feb. 29 for government troops below the zone. He said the South Vietnamese captured seven suspects and 25 weapons and that their casualties were only three killed and 37 wounded.

A 19th men of the 2nd South Vietnamese Infantry Regiment battled five miles north of Dong Hal North Vietnamese gunners blasted the U.S. naval supply and repair base at the mouth of the Cua Viet River, 15 miles south of the zone.

Westmoreland Asks for Aid

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The Johnson administration was reliably reported Sunday to be bogged down in deep controversy over military demands for Vietnam troop reinforcements ranging up to 40 per cent above current American commitments.

Informed sources said powerful civilian policy-advisers are resisting requests from the Saigon field commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, for 206,000 more men.

President Johnson has considered various proposals for a sharp manpower increase for several weeks, but White House officials insisted no decisions have been taken yet.

It was widely accepted in the highest levels of government that an increase within the next few weeks is inevitable and that the American commitment may approach at least 600,000 men this year. Present authorized plans call for 525,000 by midsummer.

Johnson's advisers were said to be debating urgently whether intensified North Vietnamese and Viet Cong guerrilla pressure justify a still bigger increase.

Meanwhile, the White House maintained his refusal to discuss specific troop figures and there was no comment on the request for 206,000 more men reported by leading Sunday newspapers.

White House Press Secretary George Christian said Saturday "there are a lot of figures kicking around, including this one."

He said Johnson "has received no specific request" from either Westmoreland or the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, who made a special visit to Saigon two weeks ago to assess troop needs.

The New York Times said quest for 206,000 more men "has touched off a divisive internal debate within high levels of the Johnson administration."

The Washington Post called it an "intense debate."

Rhodesia Hangs Two More

SALISBURY (CP) — The Rhodesian government hanged two more black Africans today but reprieved nine others who have been in death cells since before Premier Smith seized independence in November, 1965.

The clemency appeared to be the result of a worldwide storm of protest following the execution last week of three other blacks whose death sentences had been commuted by the Queen. The executions were the first since the seizure of independence.

A total of six executions had been scheduled today, and those reprieved did not include the other four. A government spokesman said their cases were still under consideration.

The men hanged were Francis Chiresa and Taka Jeremiah, sentenced to death Feb. 6, 1965, for the murder of a tribal sub-chief.

The court was told they had been sent by an African nationalist party to "execute" their victim. They shot him as he lay sleeping with his wife.

Chiresa and Jeremiah were the only ones of the six Africans who had been sentenced to death for killing. The other four were all sentenced under the Maintenance of Law and Order Act, which has clauses for mandatory death sentences.

Appeals for clemency had been made by the men's lawyers and also by Pope Paul.

Toronto Men Die in Gunfight

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Two men died following a gun fight Saturday night in this town on the western outskirts of Toronto.

A police spokesman said Joseph St. Cyr, 25, died of shotgun wounds in his stomach. Norman Edward Matcyk, 29, died in hospital of bullet wounds in his chest and stomach.

He said a shotgun and a .22 calibre rifle were found in the house shared by St. Cyr and the Matcyk family.

Salisbury Tourists Attacked

SALISBURY (Reuters) — A gang of Rhodesian Negroes attacked a group of elderly American tourists in Salisbury's Harari African Township Sunday, putting three of them in hospital with head injuries.

Two of the injured were women—Gladys Long 70, and Theresa Krebs, 72. The third was Frank Houghton, 75.

Police said a group of 18 tourists—16 women and two men—were walking through the market in the suburb when they were set upon by a group of about 10 Negroes.

The tourists then fled for the bus, from which they had disembarked on a sightseeing tour of the township, taking their wounded with them.

As they got aboard the vehicle, slamming the door behind them, the Negroes attacked the vehicle with sticks and stones, smashing windows.

Four Negroes were later arrested.

Police said they did not know whether the attack was a case of simple thuggery or had been sparked by emotions whipped up by the execution of three Negroes convicted of murder here last Wednesday.

Peace Bid Blocked

JERUSALEM (AP) — Diplomats say United Nations envoy Gunnar Jarring's efforts to set up Middle East peace talks appear to have broken down. Egypt and Israel accused each other of blocking a settlement.

Jarring told Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban Sunday that President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government has refused to meet with Israeli officials directly or indirectly. Diplomatic informants in Jerusalem said Egypt had reverted to the hard line of no peace talks until after Israel pulls out of Arab lands it occupied in the June war.

Government circles here said Israel is ready to comply with any attempt by Jarring to bring the two sides together but will not give any advance pledge to give up the occupied territories.

Rabbi Says Auschwitz Ended Special Status Myth

MONTREAL (CP) — The idea that Jews had a special status with God was a myth that ended at Auschwitz, a U.S. rabbi said during the weekend.

Dr. Richard L. Rubenstein, a lecturer at the University of Pittsburgh, told a Jewish men's association meeting that the Jews are no longer "the chosen people" of God.

He criticized the concept that God is on the side of the Jewish people and that the tragedies that befall them are God's punishment for not keeping the Torah.

"The idea that God used Adolf Hitler to punish the Jews is too absurd and too obscene to consider. There was no religious meaning to Auschwitz."

Continental Demand For Gold Unabated

LONDON (AP) — The rush to buy gold dropped sharply in London today but continued in full strength in Continental bullion markets despite the central bank commitment to defend the present $35-an-ounce price.

Sales in Paris set a high for this year of eight tons, two more than as Friday. In Zurich, demand duplicated Friday's high mark.

But in London sales were estimated at less than 10 tons, compared to more than 75 tons Friday.

One Zurich banker said the gold pool's announcement "does not seem to have had the desired effect, as far as we can judge at this time."

The pound jumped to $2.3980 (U.S.) on the London foreign exchange market, after closing Friday at $2.39225, its lowest level.

At the daily gold fixing in London, at which representatives of the major dealers balance the demand for gold against the supply and set the price, turnover at less than 10 tons was anticipated.

Dealers said that despite the drop in demand for gold, there was no active selling by speculators who have built up hoards of the yellow metal in anticipation of the pound in November.

The consensus among London dealers was that the gold pool's action was sufficient to halt speculators but was not far-reaching enough to shake out sellers yet.

French-Canadians Shock Fergus Presbyterians

FERGUS, Ont. (CP) — "For them to kiss, they have to be going steady."

"The play games that we never would."

The comments come from students involved in an exchange program between the Centre Wellington district high school here and the Ecole Secondaire Paul Hubert in Rimouski, Que.

Twelve students from Rimouski arrived a week ago for a two-week visit with their Fergus counterparts. They attend classes together, lunch as a group in the school cafeteria, and get together in the evening at the home of one of the Fergus students.

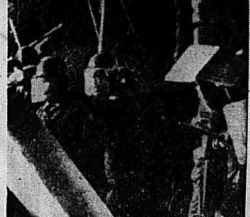
"They play games that we never would," said Kathy Elgie, 16-year-old hostess. She said when the group assembled Tuesday night, the Rimouski students proposed a kissing game.

A boy, blindfolded, would be kissed by a girl if he guessed the last kisser him, he got to kiss all the girls.

The French girls entered into the game with enthusiasm. But Miss Elgie said many of the English girls held back, and some refused to participate. "For them to kiss, they have to be going steady," said Gaston Lisolle from Rimouski.



The French students also were awed by how abstemious they found the Fergus group. "We all smoke," said Mario Ouellette. "But just about none of them smokes."

Contentious Issues

County Steering Committee on Education Meets Tonight

The initial step in the formation of a Hastings County board of education takes place tonight.

Members of a steering committee representing 12 school boards in the county will meet with department of education officials to lay out plans for the amalgamation which takes place Jan. 1, 1969.

The plan to integrate the school boards was unveiled by Premier John Robarts in November. Subsequently, the government produced a White Paper in February detailing the form the county-wide elective units would take.

Opposition to the plan has been received from many groups throughout the province.

Only last week, Hastings County Council after a meeting with deputy minister of education, Dr. J. R. McCarthy, passed motions opposing the plan.

But they aren't the only group. Other municipalities and various teachers' groups are opposed to the new system.

At the present time Hastings County has 12 school boards. Two of these handle administration in the secondary schools, nine administer education in public schools and Trenton has a board of education controlling all education within the town.

A recent amalgamation of the Bay of Quinte High School Board and the Central Hastings High School Board broadened the base of the secondary school system in the county.

Representatives on both the public school boards and the Trenton board of education are elected but high school board trustees are appointed by the municipalities involved.

With the formation of the new system, all positions on the board of education will be elective.

The government claims the county-wide system will provide equality of education throughout the province. "We want to give every child the advantages offered those in the most favored areas," Dr. McCarthy told Hastings Council last Wednesday.

So far the department of education's employees seem to be the only group extolling the benefits of the new system.

R. W. Frosts, regional supervisor for the department, says special classes for the handicapped and other widely varied services can be offered under the new boards.

The department contends the quality of education will be upgraded with the introduction of the broader tax base.

But some of those opposed to the plan claim city taxpayers will end up paying for county improvements.

Mr. Frosts assures ratepayers this will not be the case. "The city ratepayer will not be paying for improvements to any great extent," he said recently.

Another contentious issue is the White Paper's ruling that areas outside the county cannot be included in the new boards.

In Hastings County two areas are complaining about this section of the plan.

High school students from Ameliasburg, which is in Prince Edward County, will continue to attend classes in Belleville but trustees will sit on the Prince Edward County Board.

In Deseronto the opposite situation occurs.

Students will continue to attend classes at Napanee High School but representatives will sit on the Hastings County Board. Napanee is in Lennox and Addington County.

Trustees now sit on the Napanee board.

Many people throughout the county say the new system was put into effect arbitrarily and without consulting officials at the local level.

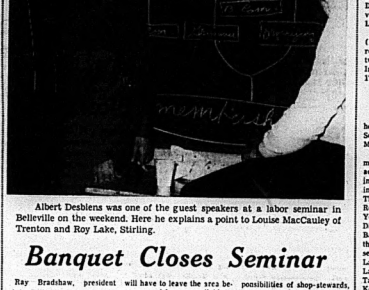
Another concern is that the new boards will cost more to operate. Some local officials contend administration staff for the new board will be "enormous."

Teachers and inspectors are also concerned about transfers to outlying areas. The inspectors will be brought under the control of the new boards rather than the department when the change is made next January.

Whatever the case the steering committee meets tonight at Quinte Secondary school to plan for the takeover.

Tweed to Get New Supermarket

TWEED — Harold Gall, manager of the IGA store in Tweed, is erecting a new IGA supermarket at the southern end of the village across from Hungerford Municipal Hall.



Construction of the 68 by 80 building will begin immediately. Sales area will be double that in the present store. The Brewers' Retail Store will be located at the south side of the building.

The one-storey supermarket will be constructed of concrete blocks with a brick facing on three sides. The Brewers' Retail Store will be somewhat higher than the main building to permit mechanical handling of stock in the warehouse.

The store will face Victoria St. and will be set back from the street with space for parking about 30 cars. Entrance will be from Jamieson St. and the exit will be to Victoria St.

To make room for the new supermarket the house occupied by Bill Barnett was sold to Rev. J. G. McElhoes and moved to College St.

The moving of the house attracted large crowds. The one and a half storey stucco building was moved by a Lindsay house moving company. Hydro, telephone wires and street lights on the route had to be removed temporarily to permit moving of the house.

Albert Desbiens was one of the guest speakers at a labor seminar in Belleville on the weekend. Here he explains a point to Louise MacCauley of Trenton and Roy Lake, Stirling.

Prince Edward Fair Board Plans Changed Format

PICTON (Staff) — Committee chairman for 1968 were chosen by Prince Edward County Fair Board Friday night. Members emphasized the need for changes in the county fair this year and an extra effort will be made to introduce new ideas in 1968.

The annual parade to the fair grounds by costumed school children from all the single room schools in the county has been set for this appeal since the central schools are too large now for teachers to organize participation in the parade. Instead the board hopes to have the teachers arrange for floats from each school in place of the marching children.

Fair dates this year were set ahead to beat the weather. In the past, dates were always late September or early October, this year they will be Sept. 5, 6, and 7. Entertainment this year will include a new thrill show, Paul Riddell's Imperial Hell Drivers, one of the largest in the country. Once again the Doc Williams show from Wheeling West Va. will appear.

Fair Board secretary Phil Dodds said in the past the county fair in Picton has held the largest attended fair in Ontario averaging 3,000 exhibits. The board is now alloting space for the new central schools for this year's fair.

Banquet Closes Seminar

Ray Bradshaw, president of the Belleville Labor Council said last night industrial expansion has not been promoted extensively enough in the past.

Speaking at the final meeting of a two-day labor seminar Mr. Bradshaw claimed 1,000 people will complete their education this summer but they will have to leave the area because no jobs are available.

The seminar, sponsored by the Belleville and Trenton Labor Councils, at the Club Canara, was attended by about 125 delegates from throughout the Quinte area.

Guest speakers included Gordon Wilson of Toronto, who spoke on the duties and responsibilities of shop-stewards, Doug Farquharson, a representative of the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board and Albert Desbiens of the United Steelworkers.

Mr. Bradshaw was chairman of the seminar.

Hundred Affected by Lay-off

PICTON — A spokesman for Proctor-Silex Ltd., in Picton has announced a lay-off of personnel numbering about 100 persons.

The people were laid off of chores in the plant, office and from the supervisory staff.

The lay-off was a result of two months of plant re-organization which has just been completed.

The spokesman explained that the re-organization was necessary due to product changes and loss of an export market affected by Kennedy Tariff Round and devaluation of the British pound.

There were no indications as to the duration of the lay-off. Management, however, is optimistic about the future plans and developments of the Picton plant.

The current situation was described as "temporary."

Prince Edward Collegiate's As You Like It variety night brought out the ham in Betty May. The show played to packed audiences.

Show Successful

PICTON (Staff) — "As You Like It," a two-night performance by students of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, drew huge crowds both Thursday and Friday nights. This year's annual variety night followed a single theme, Television and the Average Family.

The show had a cast of 80 students and was produced by Lindley Baxter, Bonnie Clark, Monica Alyea and Elaine Bishop.

Bright costumes and surprisingly perfect sound and lighting highlighted the show which was sponsored by the students' council. Comments from students and audience alike have proclaimed this year's show "the best ever."

Prince Edward Council Meets

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County Council meets today in Shire Hall, Picton. March is usually budget month, but this is likely to be delayed. One of the chief factors involved in setting the budget is the amount of grants to be received and it is difficult to obtain firm figures at this time.

Chief among the grants is that which the county will receive as a result of the province assuming the entire costs of the administration of justice (formerly borne almost entirely by the county). These grants could reach as high as $70,000 and as such would play an important role in setting the county's 1968 budget and tax rate.

Kingston Rink Wins Spiel

Mrs. William (Ardith) Goodfellow, one of the hard working women behind the Brighton Curling Club's steer spell, shows elegant trophy and miniature. Bill Lewis' rink returned to Kingston yesterday with it in addition to a fifth of a ton of choice beef.

BRIGHTON — The Bill Lewis family of Kingston will be living high off the hog for a long time as the result of a father and two son's performance in the third annual Steer spiel here during the weekend.

The Limestone City rink comprising Bill Lewis (skip), Wayne Appleton (third), Gary Lewis (second) and Dale Lewis (lead) took the first event in competition with 32 rinks involved. Their reward for winning was four hind quarters of blue brand beef averaging 100 pounds apiece. They also took home the Glegy Chemical trophy and four miniature shining gold plated steers as mementos to remind them of their feat.

Winning the Steer spiel is old hat for a Bill Lewis rink, however. When it was originated here in 1966 his foursome curling under the Trenton RCAF club's colors made a clean sweep of the event. Last year representing CFB Trenton the Lewis rink was a runner-up.

Other winners were the Chuck Hall rink of Colborne finishing second and the Mel Sjostrom rink of CFB Trenton placing third. They hold the Quality Cleaners trophy and the IGA trophy respectively for one year.

Cable TV Service Cut By Hydro Interruption

Mild weather over the weekend which brought frost out of the ground was responsible for a hydro cut-off in Sidney township last night, the power interruption also resulting in Belleville Cablevue subscribers losing out on their favorite Sunday evening TV programs.

The hydro cut-off affected an area along the first and second of Sidney township west of the city, the length of the interruption varying from a few minutes to several hours.

Ontario Hydro officials at the Frankford area office said the interruption was caused when an anchor stay near the intersection of Wall bridge Road and Highway 401 loosened allowing the hydro wires to sag. The short circuit caused oil switches to burn out.

"We had quite a time locating the trouble," said the hydro official.

Cable TV service to Belleville was cut when power to the line equipment went off.

Belleville viewers said Cablevue service went off at 7:30 and was off for several hours.

Cablevue service to Trenton and Glen Miller areas was not affected.

Carl D. Sills, Former City Merchant, Dies

A former Belleville business man but now living in Cobourg, Carl Dorsee Sills, 150 King St., East, Cobourg, died in Cobourg General Hospital early today. He was in his 80th year.

Born in Belleville, Mr. Sills was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. German Sills and for many years ran the Sills Stationery and Bookstore on Front Street.

For the past 15 years he had lived in Cobourg where he engaged in summer property development.

He was a member of Bridge Street United Church and was a former Sunday School teacher here. He was a past president of the Belleville Kinsmen Club and was a life member of Eureka Lodge, A.F. and A.M. No. 283 and also belonged to Moira Chapter No. 9, R.A.M. and King Baldwin Preceptory, No. 6 .

He is survived by his wife, the former Thornton Love, a son William Robert Sills of Cobourg and a sister, Mrs. H. (Aletha) Mallory of Port Credit.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral home in Belleville after 7:00 p.m. this evening. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon with interment in Belleville Cemetery.

Driver Killed In Mishap

STIRLING — The son of a prominent district dairy-farmer was found dead by his brother — a half-hour after a car accident near here last night.

Gary Wallace Thompson, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thompson, R. R. 1 Harold, was believed killed instantly.

Provincial police said he was driving his father's care when it struck a culvert bridging a small creek the sixth concession of Rawdon township.

Police said his body was found about a half-hour later by his brother.

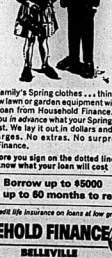
Hillier Reeve; Mrs. Calnan Given Centennial Medals

PICTON (Staff) — Two Prince Edward County people were honored this week. The Canadian centennial medal presented in commemoration of Canada's 100 years of confederation has been received by Reeve Gordon Lloyd of Hillier.

Mr. Lloyd was the choice of the Hillier Township Council and centennial committee because of his years of planning and work for his community. It was mainly through his efforts that an up to date addition, including a basement and kitchen with facilities, was added to the 100-year-old municipal hall. This changed it to the Hillier Township Community Centre centennial project for the township.



Mrs. Thelma Calnan was also honored for the fine work she did as chairman of women's activities in Prince Edward during centennial year. She was recipient of a box bearing an inscribed brass plate and containing twelve gold coffee spoons, each with the provincial crest. Mrs. Calnan not only devoted a great deal of time to the promotion of centennial activities but her enthusiasm was contagious. Some 80 different women's groups were under her direction. She spoke to many meetings and served on the county centennial committee.

Many Signs of Spring

Signs of spring are in the air!

The crows have returned to the Quinte district in full force.

The Moira River is running wide open in downtown Belleville.

And farmers in the West Lake area of Prince Edward county have hauled out the sap buckets to start another maple syrup season.

For the past week or so flocks of crows have been making their presence felt — and heard — as they congregate in tree tops.

The Moira River, ice bound only a few weeks ago, is running wide open through downtown Belleville with huge masses of ice just north of the CPR bridge having every appearance of giving up the winter ghost

In the West Lake (banana belt) area farmers last week started tapping their sugar bushes but so far the sap run has been intermittent.

A check by one farmer over the weekend revealed some buckets were about half full of sap while others had little more than the bottom covered.

This morning it was too cold for the sap to run and no sap boiling has yet been done.

An added sign that spring is in the air is the fact that crocuses are starting to peck through the ground in their beds on the south side of buildings.

Regionalism I

Regional government and school area amalgamation are new concepts that are generally recognized as necessary prospects on the modern educational scene.

And yet, the process of arriving at a smooth-running administration in each is going to be a formidable one.

Where the schools are concerned regional superintendent R. W. Frosts of Kingston put it this way recently, "It's going to be hard, admittedly, to integrate some areas. But we had to start somewhere, and the county lines were it . . . There will be a lot of wailing and gnashing of teeth in Ontario for the next couple of years. It will be hell getting this program straightened out."

His words come to mind while viewing one aspect of amalgamation, as outlined by A. E. Brown, chief psychologist for Toronto board of education in an address to the Children's Aid Society here.

Amalgamation, he said, presents opportunities, challenges and dangers. A big advantage will be facilities for students who cannot be accommodated in normal classrooms. Segregating these students has its dangers, however. A child should be retained in the normal classroom when possible.

On the issue of availability of staff, Mr. Brown warned it is useless to have a psychologist service unless it is large enough to make a significant difference in the schools. He thought it better to have an adequate service for part of the system than to spread it all over the school system. And that makes sense.

Meanwhile, at the county administration level, the county of Hastings has adopted the report of a special committee opposing the proposed new boundaries for regional government as outlined in the Smith report on Taxation. Hastings says it will not willingly accept any change from the present county boundaries. It was felt that the county, including Belleville and Trenton, with an overall population of 95,000 was large enough to support any regional type of government in the future. Any union with Prince Edward county moreover should be voluntary.

From this and other statements on this controversial issue, it is obvious any arbitrary move by the government to establish new county boundaries is causing uneasiness in many areas, not only locally but throughout the province. Any such plan should be sufficiently elastic to make allowance for the continued recognition of present boundaries, the preservation of the status quo, where it is felt this will provide the most efficient administration.

Regionalism II

On this subject of regionalism deputy education minister J. R. McCarthy's observations to Hastings county council and school officials in Belleville give plenty of food for thought.

And the dominant thought left in the mind is that while overall administration and educational facilities should improve other difficulties may present themselves.

At one point Dr. McCarthy claimed the new boards would be able to plan educational facilities on a broader base. Another factor he added, was the overlapping of bus routes which under the new system would be used to capacity. Well and good, but what about the students who will have to travel much farther each day than they do now?

Then later, to a question from public school chairman James Clarke whether the supply of teachers and specialists would be increased Dr. McCarthy replied:

"We would be the last one to claim the additional program the new units can provide will be available immediately. We are developing in-service training programs to overcome a lack of qualified personnel and these can be handled easier in the reorganized system."

Can they? Only time will tell. The reorganized system is not even in being yet, certainly not in practical form.

As to representation on the new boards a curious situation obtains in Amelisburg. Students of that community will continue to attend Belleville schools but will not have any representation on the Hastings board of education.

Dr. McCarthy said students will be guaranteed an education in Hastings county but their representative will sit on the Prince Edward County Board. Amelisburg of course is in Prince Edward.

One thing is certain, the plans are now too far advanced to permit any turning back. They must be made to work. Otherwise there will be chaos. Still, there must be some leeway to avoid the scrapping of existing systems that work well, and which do not lend themselves to easy transition to the new system. For all that, the road ahead is a rocky one on the administrative scene in education.

Leadership Race Plus Routine Duties Hard On Candidates

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Unless something dramatic happens, Parliament is expected to sit until late March, throwing a crimp into the campaigning of Liberal leadership hopefuls in the cabinet.

The eight cabinet aspirants will have to divide their time between the Commons and the campaign trail as long as Parliament is in session. This means that campaigning is largely a weekend and odd-interval affair.

Most likely date for Parliament to rise is March 22, which leaves only a short period of free time until the April 4-6 leadership convention. The government had hoped earlier to shut down Parliament at the end of this week.

Neither is it known yet whether Parliament will adjourn to permit a campaign window, or end the session entirely by proroguing it.

If it's an adjournment, then Parliament could pick up where it left off after the convention is over. If the session is ended by prorogation, then everything has to start fresh in a new session. Uncompleted bills in the parliamentary mill die, for example.

The more likely step is adjournment. Even so there's much work to be done before that can happen. The supplementary spending estimates of several departments must get Commons approval and this can take up considerable time.

More important is the new federal tax measure to replace the one defeated last Feb. 19 in the Commons. The government is anxious to get it through prior to adjournment.

That also could take a little time depending on the mood of the opposition parties, which touched off a parliamentary crisis with the defeat of the earlier measure.

For a time, the life of the minority Liberal government was threatened by the defeat. It saved itself by winning a later confidence motion. But the time lost during the crisis itself and the time that will be lost repairing the damage through the new bill threw the whole schedule out.

Campaigning in any kind of election is a rigorous chore. It is an even more wearying process when the campaigner has a key role in running the country at the same time.

UK Village Runs Its Own Pub

Do you want to lower taxes? Here's the solution.

The village council of Horbling in Lincolnshire runs its own pub and the rent money goes toward tax relief.

Every time a villager downs his pint of bitters he helps to keep the community's income up and his own tax burdens down.

By how much would our taxes be lowered if the City of Winnipeg became its own innkeeper?

Mothers Argue Over Birds and Bees

Letter to The Globe and Mail

It is quite apparent that Mrs. Marian Crow of Burlington (Go-Co Bye-Bye? — March 2) and I are at opposite ends of the pole when it comes to our opinions on what is the proper environment in which young boys should be raised.

It is unfortunate that I mistakenly gave the impression that I am trying to hide sex from my sons. Our boys are fairly intelligent and have been aware for some time now that there is a difference between little boys and little girls. There is no doubt in my mind that their knowledge on the subject will be substantially increased as time passes. However, I never felt that pictures of nude women on our walls were a requisite to this segment of their education.

Our breakfast routine must be rather dull compared to that enjoyed in the Crow household. All that we look at is the back of the cereal box or the sports page. With all respect to our Prime Minister, I find it a little hard to believe that a picture of Lester Pearson and that of a well-built, half-dressed go - go dancer will command the same attention, be the reader 8 or 80.

She [illegible] at what age I expect that my boys will cease to be impressionable. Do we ever reach an age when we cease to be influenced by what we read, see and hear? Has it not been said that "we are part of all that we have met"? I do believe, however, that children in their early teens and pre-teen years are far more impressionable during their character-forming years than are their elders. It is my earnest hope that by the time my sons are 18 — when they are old enough to leave us and give their lives in war—that I have acquired sufficient moral judgment to assess the value of what they read and see and hear. Until this time I feel that it is my responsibility to help them choose.

I strongly resent the implication that I am raising potential peeping Toms and sex deviates simply because the background of our home is not broad-minded enough to include the Playmate of the Month and like trash. These inferences were entirely uncalled for and, as Mrs. Crow has never met me, I take strong exception to them.

She stated that nude women do not rate a second glance from her 8-year-old son. One might wonder where his pleasure will lie when he is 16. Is she under the illusion that his interest in the opposite sex will be trivial and that his sexual appetite will be normalized because naked pictures have been his "cup of tea" since the age of 8?

The rest of the world can cover the walls of their homes with what they see fit, that is their business and I cannot into my home will remain mine.

Newfoundland Spider Crabs Rival Nova Scotia Lobsters

Cornwall - Standard - Freeholder

Newfoundland is getting into the picture with a new seafood product expected to snare some extra dollars to help the hard-pressed island fishermen. Nova Scotia already is busy with a new lobster development and new and speedier fish processing methods.

The new catch by Newfoundland-fishermen is a species of spider crab, which has been given the more palatable name of queen crab for development purposes.

The provincial government hopes to establish a crab meat industry and advance experiments are under way. Results so far have been encouraging, but it is still too early to assess fully the commercial possibilities.

A two-stage project has been undertaken in exploratory fishing and processing. A similar project is under way in the Gulf of St. Lawrence off Nova Scotia. A technical advance with the latter experience in catching and processing crab meat on the west coast has been recruited and a processing factory has been set up at Hants Harbor on the shores of Trinity Bay.

The federal department of fisheries began studies on the crustacean several years ago, to lay the foundation for the present development.

Large numbers of Atlantic queen crabs have been taken in gill nets set out for ground fish and it was this report that led to establishment of the pilot plant at Hants Harbour.

Samples lots of crab meat have been processed but the plant will need general technical assistance for this year.

When the pilot plant is in full production, it is expected to turn out about 1,000 pounds of crab meat a day. It will employ about 60 persons on land and will benefit at least another 60 in the fishing boats. Crabs will be purchased from fishermen in Trinity, Conception and Placentia bays in eastern Newfoundland.

Lovers of crab meat will welcome the new development and be anxious to compare the "atlantic crab with the wider known Pacific variety.

In addition, prosperity in that island province will benefit all Canada and each new industry is welcome.

In Switzerland Women Still Without Franchise

Brantford Expositor

Canadian women who have pressed the federal government into appointing a royal commission to investigate their status would have little cause to change places with their counterparts in Switzerland.

Campaigns to win Swiss women the right to vote a mile-stone reached by Canadian women 50 years ago are making slow progress, if [illegible] — all male naturally — in the election of heme last week authorized individual municipalities to allow women to vote in civic elections. However they still cannot vote in canton-wide elections nor in elections for the Federal Assembly. Only in the French-speaking cantons can they now vote in both canton and municipal elections.

The main male objection is said that "we are part of all that we have met"? I do believe, however, that children in their early teens and pre-teen years are far more impressionable during their character-forming years than are their elders. It is my earnest hope that by the time my sons are 18 — when they are old enough to leave us and give their lives in war—that I have acquired sufficient moral judgment to assess the value of women's suffrage has generally been that female voters — more than half the electorate in Canada — would radically alter the complexion of elections. There has been no evidence of this. Canada has a majority of women who vote or don't vote in civic, provincial and federal elections in roughly the same ratio as that of men voters. Their representation in public life bears scant relationship to their numbers. Their are just four women MPs in Ottawa and two MPPs at Queen's Park.

The Swiss have little reason to fear that an extension of the franchise to females would upset the balance of a dominantly male political society.

Tax Money Down Drain In Britain

Daily Mail

"Can you beat this story for shameful waste of taxpayers' money? According to Sir Roy Wilson's report, Bristol Siddeley knowingly overcharged the government by 4 million pounds for overhauling aero engines. Bristol Siddeley also did not allow the ministry men to look at their books properly nor to cover the figures to check their estimates of cost. Appalling enough. But, worse still, the ministry immediately accepted the shackles as normal. How naive can you get? Any green-grocer who refused to sell apples because the housewife wanted to inspect them first would soon be in trouble."

William Hodson, hero of British suppression of the Indian Mutiny, was [illegible] dead 110 years ago today—in 1858—by a rebel mob at Lucknow. Hodson had been court - martialled and dismissed in 1855, aged 34, but was later cleared by an inquiry. He raised an irregular force, Hodson's Horse, in the Indian Mutiny and, with 50 men, captured the king of Delhi from among several thousand natives. The following day he shot the king's sons on the spot when the mob prevented arresting them.

"Cheaper Money" Needed To Boost Housing Program

Kingston Whig-Standard

According to this source, the first job is to find cheaper money. The Economic Council of Canada has already pointed out that the Government must not use housing as a pump-primer through which to help itself, not a means. Then architects and builders must be encouraged to build alternative forms of housing. Also, restrictive building codes must be replaced by performance standards "which permit flexibility.

For instance, instead of making a 6-inch wall between apartments mandatory, we might specify rather upon insulation efficient — then cut out the transference of noise at a tolerable level. Fire resistance and other criteria would naturally come into the reckoning." Mr. Drossel maintains and provided he meets the standards a builder could then build a wall of cardboard if he and nobody would object.

Housing costs could be reduced if the home-owner could buy only the housing unit and not the land. The new condominium legislation is a move in this direction, but condominiums are expensive and affect only the middle-income income groups. This kind of arrangement for lower income groups is already in existence—mobile housing (trailers) comes under this category, although not recognized as such.

The article stresses the trailer, maintaining that it represents a technological triumph of factory-production of living units free of the constraints of labor and visibly acclaimed with respect to materials and skills. Mr. Drossel thinks that the trailer industry is a prime candidate this kind of housing should be changed. If such units were allowed to compete with regular housing on a performance-standard rating great improvements could be made in designing and siting. The trailer park is only a makeshift as it is now. After all, as the author asks, why government has a right to prevent acceptable forms of housing as long as it does not provide alternatives?

LRJ on the Spot

Peterborough Examiner

As one letter from the 82 crew members of the captured Pueblo, "appealing for assistance in our repatriation" places President Johnson and his administration in a most awkward spot. Once again it would appear that the unorthodox North Koreans have stolen a march on the United States and continue to keep the Americans off balance. The latest new and unexpected raid on the U.S. Navy ship caught, the United States off guard — so much so that American attempts to prevent the capture of the Pueblo never materialized — and now the surprising "request" by the crew for an American apology to secure the crew's release can only prove to be most unsettling.

William Teskey, Robert Burrus and Donna Campbell, all of Wellington, played a hilarious role in the Wellington skating club's annual ice show Saturday.

Circus Daze Big Hit

PICTON (Staff) — Wellington Figure Skating Club Saturday night put on one of its finest performances. Presenting Circus Daze 1968, the show proved to be colorful and fast moving with some fine examples of figure skating. A large crowd was in attendance to see some of the outstanding young figure skaters of the area

Debbie Jones and Michael Bradley were superb in their exhibition. This couple won first place in the Canadian novice pairs in the Canadian championships and was second in the junior mixed pairs in the Central Ontario section competitions held at Oakville. They are considered top Olympic prospects.

Also a guest star was Lynn Houghton of Kingston, formerly of Picton. She won third place in women's singles and first place in pairs dance in the Eastern Canada section figure skating championship held in Kingston. Another splendid artist was Michael Fitzgibbon of Quinte Skating Club, Belleville, who has passed his third figure tests.

The program, which lasted about two hours, contained about 10 acts and the bright costumes of the clowns and the fine costuming of the other participants made the show one of great enjoyment.

Master of ceremonies for the circus daze was the Rev. J. M. C. Soutter of Wellington. Much credit is due to Mrs. Jill Brown instructor for the Wellington children.

Work for Better Education OBC Graduates Are Told

"I firmly believe that young people are far more aware of their emerging responsibilities than some would have us to believe," said Jack Ellis Saturday while speaking to the graduating class of the Ontario Business College here in Belleville.

"There have been, and will always be, some, among the youth of our country who will shirk this responsibility." He spoke of gang wars, narcotics users, teenage unemployment and "teen-age marriages and their too often unhappy results."

Of the critics of youth he said, "I am sure that those people we have heard criticizing in the past are the vociferous few, and not the quiet and sincere majority."

"Let's hear more from this majority for a change and give credit where credit is due, as in the case of the graduating class here this evening."

Mr. Ellis warned the students of resting after accomplishments. "To those of you who are receiving certificates, please by good continue towards the diplomas. To those receiving diplomas please don't rest on your laurels. There is always more to learn and you will always profit by more education."

"The whole world belongs to those willing to work towards a better education."

Turning to the subject of politics Mr. Ellis told the students that he felt the system with which all politics and politicians are held was a matter of understanding or lack of understanding.

"As you know, one of the criterons of this or any other community have a full realization of the workings of politics, the responsibilities of the elected we can then expect them to do justice to the position to which they are elected."

"Some of the people in politics have proven themselves unworthy of public trust. While they are in the minority, there have been enough scandals and near-scandals across the country to put the curse on just about everyone who was ever elected."

"But the depths to which the political career has fallen is also the fault of the people who elect them or, more specifically, the people who don't vote."

He suggested that it would be an excellent idea if all secondary schools in this city were to include a course in politics, municipal functions and responsibilities.

"Education is living at an almost incomprehensibly rapid pace. We must have larger units of administration if we are to give an equal opportunity to all our young people."

"Perhaps on the lighter side for a moment it seems that we who are now second and perhaps third generation need to renew our education."

"Words no longer mean what they did when we were young. References often made to all the euphemisms we use today when we don't like the connotations we are used to".

"We don't have depressions any more. We have 'recessions'. We don't make 'mistakes' any more. No one does. It's errors in judgement".

"In this every shrinking world, knowledge is the greatest single deterrent to prejudice and bigotry. If I can aspire even a few of you to greater learning, I feel I have succeeded".

More than 70 diplomas, certificates and wards were presented OBC students.

The students also were addressed by former principal, Mrs. Ruth Poling.

Alcan Aluminum Profit Drops

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alcan Aluminum Ltd. reports consolidated net profit for 1967 of $65,100,000, or $1.94 a share, compared with $77,700,000, or $2.43 a share, the previous year.

President Nathanael V. Davis said in the annual report released Saturday that growth in aluminum consumption for 1967 had been overestimated. He attributed the drop in earnings largely to inflation, and lower sales and fabricating profit.

Gross revenues totalled $955,100,000 compared with $1,007,300,000 in 1966. Sales were down to $915,200,000 from $929,200,000. Income increased to $878,00,000 from $862,000,000, the report said.

May Locate Town Dump

PICTON — A waterpipe will cause relocation of this town's municipal dumping project.

The move results from tests that continued as part of the present town dump will place too much pressure on the 50-year-old water main. The landfill project will be transferred to marshland in the town.

The town's public utilities commission may have to relocate the eight-inch feeder main anyway.

Streets and property chairman Andrew Jarvis feels "the town is in no position to relocate the pipe now. The PUC is considering the matter but relocation would not be possible for the next year or so" by the utilities, said Mr. Jarvis.

Pregnancy May Not Re-activate Cancer

TORONTO (CP) — A British specialist said Friday that pregnancy is less dangerous to a woman once treated for breast cancer than had been thought.

Dr. H. J. C. Bloom, consultant radiotherapist to the Royal Marsden Hospital, London, was participating in a two-day clinical conference on breast cancer ending today and arranged by the National Cancer Institute.

It had been thought that pregnancy was likely to reactivate the disease in a woman who had earlier been treated for breast cancer.

But Dr. Bloom said a study of 60 breast cancer patients who subsequently became pregnant showed that "the outcome was surprisingly good."

He said that successful treatment is possible even if breast cancer occurs during pregnancy.

Another British researcher, Dr. J. L. Hayward of London, thinks there is a simple, painless test that could help diagnose breast cancer much as the Pap test now is used by doctors for cervical cancer.

He said hormone levels in the urine and blood may be the clues.

Six years ago, he gathered urine specimens from 3,500 women aged 35 to 55 on the English Channel island of Guernsey and filed records of the levels of hormones each excreted.

Women who later developed breast cancer appeared to have abnormal levels of hormones at the time of the original test.

He found a particular difference in the hormone called etiocholanolone. It is not known exactly what its function is.

He said sisters or mothers and daughters often had similar hormone levels. Doctors have long known there is a higher-than-average rate of breast cancer among female relatives of a woman who develops breast cancer.

Dr. Hayward thinks the hormone level may be an inherited factor that could make a woman more prone to develop breast cancer.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY

The Queen Mary Home and School meeting was held in the middle of Education Week and a comparatively new aspect of the ever-all educational system, was the main topic.

John Dixon, supervisor of guidance in the city's public school system, spoke for more than an hour to about 50 parents.

From listening to Mr. Dixon, from reading material like the feature story in the Intelligencer of the same date (March 5), two things stand out. Guidance counselling has come a long may since W. J. Musgrove set himself up in a small office in BCI in the mid-forties, becoming the city's first vocational guidance counsellor. Today, guidance covers vocational, educational, and personal aspects. It helps the student, at both the elementary and secondary level, to realize good study habits, to organize their strengths and weaknesses, to identify and plan realistic goals.

Parents, principals, and teachers must play their own particular role in helping the child to develop. Development is a necessity in today's complex culture. "It might be . . . probable that the job a student begins training for in first year high school, could be non-existent by the time that child has finished the course," said Mr. Dixon. Mobility of the population increases the possibility that specialized training at too early an age could result in the job disappearing.

Mr. Dixon outlined the way in which counselling is carried out, explaining the variations used for junior grades ("incidental guidance"), with Grade 7 and 8 (formal guidance) in topics as disparate as study habits and extra-curricular activities). "The key word in education these days is individual schooling . . . tailored to each child's capabilities and needs."

There were quite a number of questions asked. Special opportunity classes (Queen Mary has one for senior boys, another for senior girls) came in for detailed study during this period. Junior special classes are available, but they are just getting started. Mr. Dixon, who has put in time at a number of centres, did not say whether Belleville now has them. Students from these classes are often able to return to the regular school program within the year.

A bake table was in operation both before and after the meeting.

Principal Bruce Monroe introduced Mr. Dixon. Grade 6 teacher Mrs. J. Whiting thanked him.

Lunch was served by Mrs. O'Connor and Mrs. Lancaster.

The April meeting, the annual meeting, will be addressed by Mr. L. Kells, this year's recipient of the Sir Mackenzie Bowell award.

Ann Landers

Husband Recognizes Shirt He Ironed

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife works in an office and I work in a plant. We used to take the same bus to and from town and it worked out fine.

A few months ago Wilma's boss decided to stagger the quitting time so there wouldn't be a crush at 5:00, and now she takes an earlier bus. She is always home when I get there. Last night I left work 30 minutes early because I had a bad backache. When the bus stopped at Wilma's stop she boarded with a good looking, well-built guy. They seemed to be having a great time, laughing and joking.

When Wilma saw me she got red in the face and introduced me. I recognized the plaid shirt he was wearing because I had ironed it.

Wilma has been bringing home this fellow's shirts for months — said they belonged to some orphan kid she wanted to help out. Wilma does all the washing in the family and I do the ironing because I was a presser in the Navy.

When we got home I got mad and told her I wasn't ironing any more of the "orphan's" shirts. She called me a jealous fool and acted highly insulted. What do you make of this? — MANNY.

DEAR MANNY: Just when I think I've heard everything I get a letter like yours. This is indeed a new wrinkle —one that Wilma ought to iron out.

She sounds like a big-hearted girl, but I think in the interest of peace and tranquility the "orphan" should consider drip-dry shirts or carry his laundry to a commercial place.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A member of our family must take several pills before and after meals. This man is educated and refined. He insists that other members of the family adhere strictly to certain rules of etiquette, yet he brings his medicine to the table, lines up the bottles and makes a production of popping the pills into his mouth and swallowing several gulps of water to "wash things down."

Don't you feel that taking medicine is a personal matter and should be done in private? Why should a person want an audience? May we hear from you? — BELOW THE SALT.

DEAR B.: A person who has to bring his medicine to the table and doctor himself in full view of the family is obviously desperate for attention. I feel sorry for him. And you should, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15 years old and play the violin well. I practise six hours a day.

My Numero Uno also plays the violin well. He is two chairs ahead of me in the school orchestra. The problem is the girl who sits next to him. She doesn't practise nearly as much as I but she is a better violinist. I just burn when I see them sitting side by side . . . him turning the pages for her.

The music contest tryouts start soon. If I get an excellent and she gets a superior, I will die. Please tell me what to do. I'm cracking up. — MISS NERVOUS WRECK.

DEAR MISS: If you practice six hours a day you are working as hard as you can . . . or should. If the doll next to Numero Uno is a better violinist, and doesn't practice nearly as much as you, she is undoubtedly gifted . . . and you can't beat that.

Do your best, honey, then forget it. Angels can do no more.

Successful Living

Wide Open Spaces Still Available

Dear Doris: The letter from "North Country" prompted this missive. We too are terribly alone, because I am a stay-at-home, but I do like to write letters, so if you will by kind enough to send me your list of pen pal services, I shall perhaps find some interesting friends.

I like old houses and old things. I love the trees and birds and it saddens me to see the destruction of all these lovely creations of God.

I hope I don't sound like a nut but it must be admitted that all these lovely things are fast disappearing from the earth. — Another Lonely One.

Dear Lonely One: Oh come, now. A good deal is being done to preserve trees and forests and birds. And surely we still have some beautiful wide open spaces here in Canada.

Dear Doris: I have liked a certain young man from a distance for several months now. One evening with him and I knew my feelings for my dating partner of two years' standing were not enough to base a marriage on. I am 21. He is 23, and seems to have strong home ties.

There are quite a few young men like him in our area who don't seem to date and are always together. He has asked me on numerous occasions if I wanted a ride home from a certain place where a group of us girls go and I always accept. He has never phoned me and arranged a date, however.

My mother thinks it is just awful to be "picked up" like this. Yet he is one of the nicest boys I have ever dated. Years ago we dated for a couple of months and he told a friend of mine that he liked me but that I was too possessive. Now I am afraid to make any kind of a move at all. — Is Maw Right?

Dear Is Maw: To accept a ride home from a man you've known several years is not my idea of a pick-up. Do you go in this certain place just because you are hoping to see him?

I'd say he likes you but is skeary of getting involved. The bachelor type. Why not try snagging him in the most innocent of ways — Drop-in refreshments at home, with three or four other young people, after your evening out with the girls?

Many a family man got that way after being intrigued into running after a girl until she caught him.

Confidential to Over Anxious Mother: Usually children who under-achieve at school are telling us that something is wrong. Fear that he can't match up to his clever sisters may keep him from trying and thus risking failure.

A laddie who will punch and throw his teddy bear around, and crash his toy cars about, is getting something off his chest. Could you hold off the scolding and try showing him that you know he feels badly about something?

Talk with the teacher; and if you have any reason to suspect brain damage, see his doctor. I'm sending you the name of a book on child behavior which may give you some clues.

(We now have some understanding of why people act as they do. Write to Doris about your particular human problem, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Jerry is not the student of the family. That's for sure. This report card is terrible. He'll just have to buckle down and work harder."

Mother: "It may help your grades if we have a quiet study time every night. I can help you understand those grammar rules."

Instead of treating poor grades as a general fault and discussing them with others, talk with your child about specific ways to improve his study habits.

Beginners Can Make Outmeal Drop Cookies

By MARY MOORE

Teacher says, "When you bake cookies stay in the kitchen — do not stray from the oven. I do not want one cookie in the whole batch to be burned."

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Beef Chop Suey on Rice; Braised Celery; Lettuce Wedges with Russian Dressing; Pumpkin Pie with Ice Cream; Tea.

These cookies are lovely and of professional merit. I have made the recipe small so that young inexperienced cookie makers will not become impatient when shaping time comes.

DROP COOKIES (Oatmeal and cocoanut — yields forty 2½")

one - third cup butter or shortening (half - and - half mixture butter and shortening recommended) ¾ cup plus 1½ tablespoons light brown sugar
1 large egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup desiccated cocoanut
½ cup stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
1¼ cups quick-cooking rolled oats

Into beater bowl measure butter and shortening and brown sugar and beat until light and creamy. Add egg and vanilla and beat well again. Add all remaining ingredients and beat until perfectly blended.

Butter two average-sized cookie sheets. Using a silver teaspoon as your tool, neatly shape dough into 1¼" mounds placing them 2" apart, on buttered cookie sheet. (On baking they spread just a little.)

Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. exactly 10 minutes but change and test pans on shelves in oven at halftime. Do not burn one of these cookies for they are lovely as you will find out as soon as you taste one.

Later when you are a confident cookie maker you may substitute nuts or raisins or chopped dates for the cocoanut but the combination of ingredients is so popular and easy I suggest you master it first.

Now go ahead and best of luck from Mary Moore.

Hellyer and Trudeau Meet Twice as They Campaign in West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Welcome to Lethbridge," said Transport Minister Paul Hellyer with an embarrassed grin.

"I see you're got all my people arranged," Justice Minister Pierre Trudeau, said with a smile as he climbed out of his jet and saw a crowd of Liberals with Trudeau signs waiting on the tarmac.

It was the first of two accidental meetings in Alberta Saturday for two of the 12 men campaigning for the leadership of the Liberal party.

And it was luck they did not run into Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner, also stumping Alberta Saturday for delegate's support in the leadership convention at Ottawa 4-6.

Mr. Hellyer and Mr. Trudeau conferred with party officials in Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat Saturday and were in Winnipeg Sunday.

Eric Kierans was also campaigning on the Prairies over the weekend. In Winnipeg Saturday, he said the government's defeat over the income tax bill in February had hindered the chances of several of the cabinet ministers in the leadership race.

"The argument that the new leader must be a cabinet minister is now thrown out," he said.

SPORTSLICE

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Over the past few years the tournament virus has infiltrated the blood-streams of minor hockey brass from the eastern border of Quebec to that of Manitoba.

In most instances it is the best thing to hit the moppet puck-chasing scene since helmets were invented.

From the first experimental get-together some years ago and its attending success, the tournament bug has bitten a number of centres from Quebec City to a small Ontario hamlet.

Each year a new tournament springs up somewhere along the line and the plat-size purchasers opt it as another opportunity to get out and "see the world."

Not that travelling is the big incentive. It's the fame and the name of winning over teams in other centres and giving the players some idea of how they stack up against their provincial counterparts.

And some of the tourneys are reaching a magnitude not heard of when the whistle blew to open the first minor playing convention.

The Quebec city peewee tournament is a household word in classification circles in La Belle Province and Ontario. Teams from the United States have participated in the past few years.

A number of tournaments growing each year in magnitude have sprung up in Ontario. From daily and weekend affairs, not a few have numbrowned the weeking-long programs attracting teams numbering well over the 100-mark in some cases.

And the young Hulls, Howes and Bowers have taken the tournament bug and set-arts like a hungry bear to a honey tree.

Belleville teams have acquitted themselves well in a number of tournaments. They have won some and made a highly creditable showing in others.

Among these are the Smith Fuel peewees and the Rinmen bantams. Highlight of the Pats tournament efforts was the Ontario Centennial when they reached the finals and were stopped in the titular battle against Toronto Young Nationals.

The tournaments are a wonderful thing for the youngsters. They match their ability against that of teams they have never seen; see parts of Ontario which otherwise would just be places on the map and meet youngsters of their own age in a social as well as competitive setting. It all goes to make them better citizens of the future.

But one must remember that these youngsters, like their older brothers, are pawns in ice battles, particularly in league or playdowns series against outside teams.

To bring a provincial championship to the home town or perhaps the greatest thrill the moppets and their officials can experience.

This brings up the only criticism I have against tournament play at certain times.

It is leveled against management of teams that are participating in Ontario championship playdowns. If these hockey squads should pass tournament play while they are in the throes of provincial title contests.

I am not against these teams taking part in the tournaments but it must be remembered the injury jinx is no respecter of teams, tournaments or championships.

A team headed for an Ontario title can jeopardize its chances of winning by taking part in tournaments while waiting for the next championship opponent.

Injury, the occupational hazard, strikes suddenly and without warning. It could be minor or serious enough to halt any further play on the part of a player. And a key player or players could be — as well as not — the scoring or other top stars of the club.

Better be safe than sorry, gentlemen. You can play in tournaments anytime — but those Ontario titles are worth more to your prospective sponsors at home than the all the tournament victories tossed together.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Split-end Raymond Berry, who caught 631 passes for Baltimore Colts and gained 9,275 yards and 68 touchdowns during his 13-year career, said Saturday he is retiring from active play in the National Football League. Berry said that injuries that have him sidelined for all but six NFL games last season played a part in his decision to retire at 35.

MILAN (AP) — A cheering crowd of boxing fans greeted world middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti when he returned to Italy Sunday. Benvenuti and his wife, Giuliana, flew into Milan's Malpensa Airport from New York where the Italian won the title and champion Emile Griffith for the title in Madison Square Garden last Monday. Benvenuti assured his fans that America is fine for a visit but he wouldn't like to live there.

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary foursome skipped by Bev Snyder won the Alberta Seniors' curling championship Sunday, defeating an Edmonton rink skipped by Bert Robertson 8-7. Snyder will represent the province in the national championship at Edmonton March 25-29.

Split Over Weekend — Hawks Must Lose 4

Leafs On The Brink; Must Win 10!

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was heard to recognize Jack Norris Sunday as the same goalie that played against Montreal Canadiens Saturday. Many folks in Dallas, Tex., wouldn't recognize him at all.

Saturday Norris stepped in after Dave Dryden had given up three goals and allowed two more as the Canadiens bombed Chicago Black Hawks 5-0.

Norris had been called up to the National Hockey League from the Central League when regular netminder Denis Dejordy, recovering from a split finger on his catching hand, left the team to attend his father's funeral.

But Sunday Norris, a 27-year-old native of Delisle, Sask., was flawless in dropping Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0, inducting stopping Mike Walton's second penalty shot in as many games, and almost eliminating Toronto from the playoff chase in the Eastern Division.

The last time he was in the NHL was three years ago with Boston Bruins and his last NHL shutout was 2-0, also over Toronto.

Tossed in as one of the Boston bodies sent to Chicago when Boston picked up Phil Esposito, Ken Hodge and Fred Stanfield last season, he was shipped by the Black Hawks to Dallas, where his fortunes were such that last month he was given a month's holiday in Mexico following a 12-4 defeat at the hands of Toronto's Tulsa farm team.

The Leafs now must win all 10 of their remaining eight league games while the Hawks lose four of their remaining eight, an unlikely prospect, to avoid missing the playoffs for the first time in 10 years.

Detroit Red Wings, despite a 7-5 victory Sunday over Boston Bruins, are a single point from elimination while in the Western Division, Oakland Seals long ago saw their playoff hopes disappear.

A 1-0 loss to St. Louis Blues Sunday didn't help matters any for the Seals, who have won only 15 of their 67 games to date, while at the same time Philadelphia Flyers cleaned Minnesota North Stars 2-0 in a game played in Quebec City before Los Angeles Kings clipped New York Rangers 4-3.

The Rangers loss was their first in 17 Sunday home games, a string of victories that has gone far in keeping them second in the East six points behind Montreal and two ahead of Boston. Chicago is another point off the pace.

The assists gave Mikita a four-point edge in the NHL scoring race over Phil Esposito of New York, who now has 75.

Ratelle scored twice for the Rangers, but may well have been missing his right winger, Rod Gilbert, who missed the game after being knocked out for a time following a collision Saturday.

Bob Nevin scored the other New York goal, but it wasn't enough to match the two goals Mait Pavelich and Ron Ego were in attendance at the three-hour hearing in Campbell's office Saturday.

Campbell also viewed videotapes of the affair.

Campbell said both general managers and the principals agreed with the officials' version of the incident.

In a statement, Campbell said he found Zeidel more at fault than Shack.

MIKE WALTON

for Los Angeles by Bill Flett and the single goals by Ed Joyal and Brent Hughes.

Craig Cameron scored the only goal for St. Louis as they beat the Seals, but almost everyone scored in Boston where the Bruins got five second-period goals to tie the score before Detroit came back to life and win their win.

A week ago the Bruins spotted Chicago three goals then fought back for a 5-3 victory, but it wasn't going to work this time.

Sid Abel, Detroit manager-coach, pulled Edwards in favor of Crozier to try and stop a penalty shot in the third period, but Walton slapped it home with little effort before Crozier skated back to the Detroit bench.

The other Toronto goals went to Dave Keon and Norm Ullman, with two, Floyd Smith and Ron Ellis while Mahovlich, Howe, Gary Unger, MacGregor and Nick Libett scored for Detroit.

At Montreal there was seldom any question of the outcome, only the work in Gilles Tremblay scored twice and Jacques Lemaire, Dick Duff and Jean Beliveau once each.

Bill Goldsworthy for Minnesota and Harry Howell for New York exchanged fisticuffs in the game while Val Fonteyne, Bill McCreary and Earl Ingarfield paced Pittsburgh against the Kings, whose only goal went to Real Lemieux.

Larry Popein scored the only Oakland goal Saturday while Cameron, Larry Keenan and Gary Sabourin scored for St Louis.

Zeidel, Shack Draw Suspensions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, Saturday suspended Philadelphia Flyers defenceman Larry Zeidel for four games and his Boston Bruin's forward Eddie Shack with a three-game suspension for a bloody stick-swinging duel in Toronto Thursday night.

The suspensions, without salary, are in addition to $300 fines each player had been automatically assessed for the incident.

The Bruins won the game 5-4 at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, which the Flyers were using as home ice because of the wind damage to the roof of Philadelphia's $12,000,000 Spectrum.

In addition to the principals, Philadelphia general manager Bud Poile, Milt Schmidt, general manager of the Bruins, referee Bruce Hood and Linesmen

In review, he said, Zeidel had cross-checked the Boston player midway through the first period as Shack was crossing the Philadelphia blue line. Shack retaliated with a cross check of his own and as he turned away, Zeidel struck him a two-handed blow with his stick.

Shack retaliated with a two handed swipe at Zeidel and they sparred with their sticks at close range before suddenly erupting into a two-handed battle with sticks.

Shack was seen as the more aggressive in the fillers as he backed Zeidel behind the Flyer's net where the Philadelphia defenceman was reduced to defending himself.

Finally, Campbell said, the officials were able to move in and break up the battle, but by this time both players were suffering head wounds.

College Hockey Championship To Alberta U.

MONTREAL (CP) — A piston-legged centre named Ron Cebryk led the University of Alberta to the Canadian intercollegiate hockey championship Sunday, scoring the first two goals that gave the Golden Bears a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over Montreal's Loyola College in the title game.

The goals were the fifth and sixth of the four-day college playoffs for Cebryk, 21, a native of St. Paul, Alta., voted most valuable player of the tournament.

He got taree in Alberta's opening game Thursday in which the Bears swamped St. Francis Xavier University 12-3, and another Friday night as Alberta downed Sudbury's Laurentian University 4-2 for the right to advance to the final.

He scored the title winner in the overtime with 17 seconds left to play, a heart-breaker for the Loyola Warriors who generally outplayed the Albertans and outshot them 47-27.

Loyola upset the powerful University of Toronto Blues, last defending college champions, 1-0 with an overtime goal Friday night.

"No doubt about it, Loyola outplayed us," Alberta coach Clare Drake admitted after the final game. "We had to come up with our best game of the season to beat them."

Alberta won the championship with 12 freshmen.

Aces Oust Alcans

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gerry McNamara, goaltender for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series, experienced the longest afternoon of his life Sunday, but it was worth it.

McNamara, one of the key cogs in the Marlboro team that won the series, stopped 34 shots in Collingwood Sunday afternoon as Marlboros defeated Collingwood Kings 4-3 in the second overtime period.

The win tied the best-of-seven, semi-final series at one game each. Collingwood whipped the Marlboros 7-2 in Toronto Saturday.

Jim Pappin Comes Back

By THE-CANADIAN PRESS

Jim Pappin returned to professional hockey Sunday and right away established himself as an important link in the American Hockey League.

Pappin was suspended Feb. 9 by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League, but relented after a month of not being paid and reported to the Rochester Americans Saturday.

The suspension lifted as soon as Pappin appeared in uniform against Quebec Aces Sunday and helped the Americans to a 4-1 victory over the Aces by getting the puck to Dick Gamble on a power play in the first period for Rochester's first goal.

The only other Sunday game had Providence Reds club Buffalo Bisons 6-4 after the Bisons had shut out Springfield Kings 6-0 Saturday when Quebec tied Hershey Bears 4-4 and Baltimore Clippers dropped Cleveland Barons 2-0.

Tulsa Nips Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tulsa Oilers strengthened their second-place hold in the Central Hockey League's Northern Division Sunday with a 4-2 victory over Dallas Black Hawks.

Tulsa now leads the division with 76 points, 12 more than second-place Kansas City Blues.

NHL Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stan Mikita appeared in charge of National Hockey League scoring again after earning three assists Sunday as Chicago Black Hawks oombed Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0.

The slick centre now has 79 points on 38 goals and 41 assists for a four-point edge over Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers.

Tre Rangers lost 4-3 to Los Angeles Kings Sunday, but Ratelle scored twice to boost his goal output for the season to 30, which along with his 45 assists gives him 75 points.

Ratelle's winger Rod Gilbert didn't play Sunday after being knocked out Saturday when the Rangers tied Minnesota North Stars 1-1 and watched as Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins picked up two assists for a third-place tie at 74 points with Gilbert.

Esposito now has 31 goals and 43 assists while Gilbert has 29 goals and is tied with Ratelle for the most assists at 45.

Bobby Hull of Chicago still leads with 42 goals and earner 1 as assist Sunday to give him 33 goals and 75 points for fifth place.

Leeds United Blanks Bristol, Eyes Cup Final

LONDON (CP) — Leeds United marched into the English Football Association Cup quarter-finals Saturday by trimming Bristol 2-0 at Leeds before more than 45,000 soccer fans.

Leeds, favorite to take the cup, won despite having goalkeeper and Welsh international Gary Sprake sent off 15 minutes before the end of the match after an incident reported by a linesman.

The referee was speaking to Chris Garland of Bristol after a foul on Sprake when a linesman came on to speak to the referee who sent off Sprake.

Tottenham, the defending champion, was held to a 1-1 tie at home by powerful Liverpool and they will replay Tuesday.

Everton, West Bromwich Albion and Sheffield United all got through to the last eight. Arsenal, Birmingham, Rotherham — Leicester and Sheffield Wednesday-Chelsea all will replay because of this.

Everton scored a 2-0 win over Tranmere, West Bromwich Albion won 2-1 at Portsmouth and Sheffield United won by the same margin at West Ham. Arsenal and Birmingham tied 1-1, Rotherham and Leicester shared two goals and Sheffield Wednesday and Chelsea tied 2-2.

Leeds score both its goals in a 10-minute period in the first half. Mick Jones put Leeds ahead after 34 minutes. Peter Lorimer got the second 10 minutes later.

Defences dominated at Tottenham where a crowd of 54,000 saw Jimmy Greaves open scoring after 32 minutes with a tremendous 20-yard shot. Liverpool equalized two minutes later when centre-forward Tony Hateley soared high above Spurs defenders to head a goal.

Main interest in league football centred on the English League's First Division. Manchester City beat Coventry 5-1 to move into second place, two points behind Manchester United which was without a game.

It also was Cup day in the Scottish Football Associations and the big surprise was Hearts holding Rangers to a 1-1 draw. Morton which beat Elgin City, the non-league team, 5-1, went through to be semi-finals but Partick Thistle was beaten 1-0 by Dunfermline.

A goal by Bert Paton two minutes from the end gave Dunfermline the victory over Partick Thistle which might have won but for some splendid goalkeeping by Dunfermline's Martin.

BCI Juniors Win Title; Seniors Beaten

By STEVE BISHOP

Defeat came swift and hard for the BCI seniors, who defeated Queen's tournament and Bay of Quinte basketball champions. They went out in the first round of the COSSA playoffs in Oshawa Saturday, a fate shared by the bantam representatives from Quinte.

But the BCI juniors pulled through the first round and went on to capture the COSSA title with a convincing 64-45 victory over Kenner Collegiate of Peterborough.

The junior Collegians had to get over some rough spots in their opening clash with Oshawa Donevan to gain the final. BCI came out on top of an often scrappy contest, 50-46.

Dave Cass and Dave Wright paced BCI's opening-game victory with 14 and 13 points respectively. Peacock, with 17 points and Kiraly, with 11, were Donevan's high scorers.

But the Collegians started strong and pulled into an 17-12 first-quarter lead. They dominated the second quarter outscoring Kenner 13-12, to take a 16-point lead at half-time.

Kenner put on a determined charge in the third quarter, but BCI's amazing long passes and aggressive attack kept them on top, and they outscored the opposition once again, 15-12.

The two teams were even in scoring for the last quarter, but it was far from enough for Kenner, and the final buzzer found BCI in possession of a well-deserved victory and the COSSA championship.

Dave Wright led the BCI scoring effort with 16 points. Tarino Heydock scored 13 points. Dave Cass collected 13 points. Ken Richardson and Brent Gallupe scored 8 points apiece. Bob Wright and Bob Stirling rounded out the BCI scoring with 4 and 2 points respectively.

John Campbell and Rick Hall led the Kenner scorers with 14 and 12 points respectively.

Wally Beevor's senior Collegians came up against the host team, Oshawa Central, in the opener, and ran into a strong determined club.

The Collegians started well, and led Central 11-7 after the first quarter. But the home team came back and scored 21 points in the second quarter, and only 12 for BCI.

Central dominated the second half, topping BCI by 12 points to carry home the win.

Brian Harder paced BCI with 14 points. John Chalmers, BCI's key man, failed to get untracked and wound up with just 11 points.

The Central team went on to take the senior COSSA title in well-fought battle with Peterborough's Adam Scott, 48-39. It was Central's fourth COSSA championship in as many years.

The Quinte bantams, like the BCI seniors, went down to the eventual champions in their division. They were beaten by Oshawa O'Neill 25-39. The O'Neill team defeated Peterborough Collegiate, 29-21 to capture the bantam title.

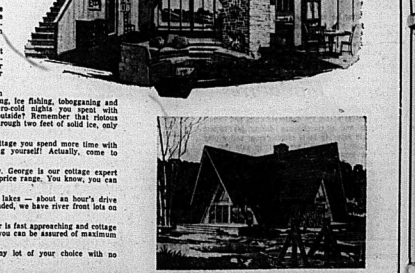
OK Pal, Is This You?

Lounging comfortably in your conversation pit before a crackling fire after an eventful day fishing. Your wife is just over in the kitchen frying one of those beauties you landed this afternoon and the kids are having a non-fight in that huge bedroom you furnished for them with pillow-fights in the back of your mind. As you languish, quietly contemplating your tall drink, the haunting call of loons over the lake focuses your thoughts on tomorrow's adventure — a boat tour through the neighboring lakes with the whole family. You could barbeque a couple of chickens over the fire right now and then the wife could whip up a salad in the meantime. Yes, it's the end and a day you've spent.

You really enjoy those trips, don't you. After the picnic, while the kids are away investigating a colony of chipmunks, you and your wife sort of lean around smiling fatuously at each other, blissfully discussing the various activities you've planned for your two week vacation next month at the cottage.

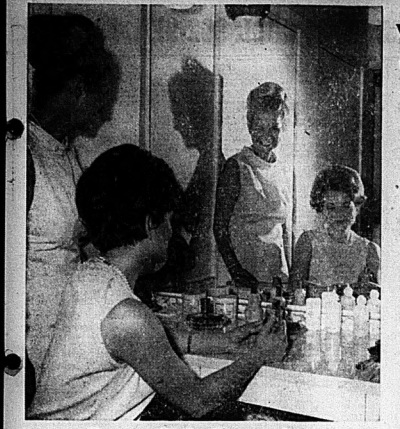
Things sure have changed since you bought the cottage, haven't they? Why before, summer's pleasantries were limited to your all-too-short vacation. But now! Every weekend, the family hops into the car on Friday night and in an hour or so, "bang" vacationtime all over again!

And that's not just in the summer. Now that you have your own cottage, winter has become a fun-in-the-sun time too! What, with skiing, ice fishing, tobogganing and ski-dooing, winter is just as exciting as summer. Remember those zero-cold nights you spent with friends in the conversation pit snug and warm while winter howled outside? Remember that riotous afternoon ice fishing when you trudged through waist-high snow, cut through two feet of solid ice, only to discover that no one remembered to bring the minnows?



They've been good times eh? You bet! Now that you've got the cottage you spend more time with your family, more time with your friends, more time simply enjoying yourself! Actually, come to think-of it, you should have bought the cottage 10 years ago!

If you agree that this is you, give George Mills a call right now. George is our cottage expert and he can show you a multitude of cottage plans and sites in a wide price range. You know, you can own a pretty nice cottage for as little as $2,000.



Rollins have cottage sites on beautiful Shawenegog and Limerick lakes — about an hour's drive from Belleville — at very reasonable prices. Also, for the economy minded, we have river front lots on the famous Trent River System — enjoy fishing at its best!

May we suggest that it is most important that you act now. Summer is fast approaching and cottage orders will be increasing every day. Make preparations now so that you can be assured of maximum use of your cottage this summer.

When you deal with Rollins you may purchase your cottage and any lot of your choice with no money down. All loans are life insured with terms up to 10 years.

Vienna Academy Chorus

Community Concert Program Enjoyable

By EUGENE LANG

One of the most enjoyable presentations of the Belleville Community Concert Association in many a moon was the second appearance here on Saturday evening of the world famed Vienna Academy Chorus under the direction of Xaver Meyer at the Collegiate Auditorium. It appeared here in Belleville during the 1954-55 season for its local debut.

The Academy Chorus of 24 voices was formed back in 1946 by Ferdinand Grossman and is considered one of the world's finest vocal ensembles, having toured widely during the past decade. It has dozens of recordings to its credit on various labels, most of these being waxings of some of the finest choral works of Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert and other Austrian and German composers of the past two centuries. Long before its first tour to these shores this group was known extensively through its fine recordings of the masterworks of the past. Under the leadership of its Conductor, Xaver Meyer, it is gaining thousands of devoted fans from its present North American tour, resulting in heaping praises from critics and audiences alike.

The program was made up of music by J. S. Bach, Bruckner, Mozart, Schubert and the brothers Strauss (Josef and Johann Jr.,). The only non-Viennese composer was J. S. Bach, whose eight part motet "Singet dem Herrn" in four movements, provided ample opportunity for the singers to demonstrate their marvelous vocal abilities. The rollicking song of rejoicing that begins the motet as well as the boisterous alleluia that concludes it were vehicles of virtuosity that the voices traversed with highly organized unity, while the multicol skeins of contrapuntal weavings were knitted with embroidered delicacy by the double choir.

Anton Bruckner's Mass in E Minor had its Kyrie excerpted for the second number. Organlike sonority was achieved by the two dozen voices in this slightly romantic setting of the traditional Mass. As in the Bach this unaccompanied vocal music of deep religious fervor was developed in a tonal radiance that shone with golden hues which emanated from the velvet voices of the choir. The rendition was one of compassion in conception with solidarity in sound.

Three short comic Canons by Mozart changed the atmosphere into the secular phase, each of these being whipped up with lightness, charm and scontanesity. Schubert's "An die Sonne" and "Gott in der Natur" was music of newness to most ears but was of an enduring quality that demands many more hearings. The martial like strains of the opening song brought out the voices in bold relief and the powerful and stentorian strains of the second item were promulgated with a vibrant and dramatic pronouncement by the entire choir. Here was a different Schubert but one that we could hear a lot more of in future choral presentations.

Following intermission the lilt and gilt of music by Johann and Josef Strauss made up the entire second half of the concert. Although most of the compositions formed are more familiar in their orchestral versions, nevertheless the adding of lyrics to the well-known melodies did nothing to detract from their perennial charm. Josef was represented by his buoyant "My Life is Love and Laughter," the clock like "Moulinet" Polka and the sensuous "Music of the Spheres" Waltz. His more famous brother, the Waltz King, Johann Jr., was depicted with the rhythmic "Pester Czardas" and the lovely "Blue Danube Waltz."

In music by Strauss there are subtle nuances in rhythm, mood and dynamics, which (the Viennese say) you cannot learn, but must feel. In the provocative handling of all these light hearted musical offspring by the Herrn Strauss the Vienna Academy Choir could not help but make the audience feel that unknown quality of its countrymen reach out and strike like Cupid's dart into the hearts of all for sheer love of this music that has captivated millions over the years.

The rousing "Eljen a Magyar" Polka was the only encore given to the continued applause of a most delighted and pleased audience. Surely, everyone went away from this concert completely assisted musically. Pianist Ronald Schneider gave excellent accompaniments to the Schubert and Strauss numbers, with his keyboard flair adding immeasurably to the entrancement of the voices. If there were flaws in this program this reviewer didn't notice them and I doubt anyone else did likewise. Precision, discipline and sincere musicianship were the keywords of the Vienna Academy Choir with musical utopian results.

Following the concert members of the executive of the local Association and the entire complement of the Vienna Academy Chorus were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kvarda, West Dundas Street.

Lawrence Welk Marks Birthday With No Thought of Retiring

His fettle is so fine, in fact, that he thinks nothing of playing 36 holes of golf—"and I usually have my best score on the last nine."

Such prowess, he believes, results from his boyhood.

"I did a lot of walking behind a plow, I really did. I built up strong legs, and they have helped me throughout my life. That's how I've been able to stand up in front of a band all these years. That's also why I'm still able to dance the polka and the waltz."

Far from retiring, Welk continues his busy schedule of recording, appearing on ABC television weekly and at the Hollywood Palladium Saturday nights. He claims the work is not as strenuous as it seems.

"I have a very efficient staff working for me," he explained. He reported happily that the ratings have been holding firm, and he noted: "Our audience seems to be getting younger. I notice that especially when we play at state fairs. I think it's because we have been playing more and more new songs on the show."

Lawrence, who had been plenty of traveling in his 44 years as a band leader, is happy to spend more time at home.

"I haven't felt so good in a long time," he remarked. "I'm really surprised, because back when I was '32, '33 and '37, I spent a lot of time in St. John's Hospital (in Santa Monica).

"I had a great deal of trouble with a spastic colon, with my gall bladder and gall stones, and I thought I wouldn't be around too much longer.

"Well, I got a lot of cuts in my tummy, but I'm feeling stronger than I've ever now."

He's celebrating his 65th at home with his family including two children, their mates and five grandchildren. A daughter, married to an army doctor, and another grandchild won't be able to make the party.

Will he ever retire?

"Perhaps somday," he said. "But if I do, I want to leave the organization so well-pressed that it will continue on without me. I wouldn't want to put 200 people out of work."

LEE IN NEW ROLE

Lee Remick has signed for a starring role in Sol. C. Siegel's production No Way to Treat a Lady, which also stars George Segal and Rod Steiger.

Rerun Time Starting Early For Many of Major Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's winter season seems to be getting shorter. Rerun time used to start in May, then April. Now it has moved into March.

The Smothers Brothers had their final show of the season Sunday night, brought on all the crew to thank them and bid the audience farewell. Reruns of their variety hour will start next Sunday, and later there will be a replacement variety hour with Pat Paulsen and singer Glen Campbell.

The Andy Griffith Show also on CBS, tonight will be looking ahead to September. Andy and associates will introduce Ken Berry as a new character. And, it is hoped, three guest spots on the departing Griffith show will set Berry up so he gets a head start on next season's sequel, Mayberry, R. F. D.

All three networks, it should be noted, already have begun to slip in reruns of their feature movies.

ABC, during the weekend firmed up its fall schedule, announcing eight new programs for September. Birth of new shows means the death of some old ones, and those that will disappear at the end of ABC's season are Garrison's Gorillas, Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, Rat Patrol, N.Y.P.D., The Invaders, Second Hundred Years, Off to See the Wizard and Cowboy in Africa.

Batman departs toward the end of this month to be replaced by a game show, Dream House, which is also included in next season's schedule.

New programs are Land of Gaitus, another science fiction series replacing Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, The Outcasts, a western, Mod Squad, police action; That's Life, a weekly musical with continuing characters; Here Come the Brides, post-Civil War drama about mail-order brides; Tales of the Unknown, suspense; a game show starring Don Rickles and Uglies Girl in Town, comedy.

Peyton Place will continue with two episodes weekly, but Dorothy Malone and Tim O'Connor, who have been in the centre of the drama for so long, will disappear. They will not, however, be killed off, just sent somewhere in case it becomes necessary to recall them.

Two of the major networks will each devote two nights a week to feature movies, and a third plans three movie nights. Thus there is room for fewer regular series than before. As the three network schedules stand now, there will be 19 new series arriving in September. In recent years, the number has been around 30, and even more in the days when the half-hour situation comedy was more popular than it is today.

SEATTLE (AP) — Scott Hunderson, 34-year-old Canadian star from Banff, Alta., won the men's downhill and combined crowds at the United States national Alpine ski championships but Olympic medallist Nancy Greene of Rossland, B.C., flunked out.

The other titles went to U.S. natives.

Rick Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., and Judy Nagle, 16, of Enumclaw, Wash., won Sunday's slalom competition of the three-day event.

Most of the skiers who competed in the event on Crystal Mountain, 78 miles southeast of Seattle, left immediately for Aspen, Colo., to compete in the Roche Cup Races.

Miss Nagle won both slalom and combined championships.

Ann Black, 18, of Seattle won the women's downhill on opening day and Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt., also 18, took Saturday's giant slalom.

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Diamonds, sparked by the 28-point performance of centre Chris Brass, won the Canadian junior girls' basketball championship Saturday by defeating University of Victoria Vikettes 63-25.

Exercises May Help Prevent Cramps

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor thinks you might give me some information about my trouble: Intermittent claudication. What is the cause, if known? And the cure, if any? — C. C. H.

Intermittent claudication is a cramp which occurs off and on in the leg usually in the calf muscle, while walking.

The usual cause is lack of sufficient blood supply due to gradual hardening of the arteries. (Severe loss of salt, as can occur in hot, humid weather, may be a factor at times.)

Cure? Well, the search is on for some way to "unharden" hardened arteries, but that's a pretty big order. However, several things can be done to ease or prevent these "walking cramps."

One is to walk more slowly, or for shorter distances between rest, so the demands on the leg muscles do not exceed the blood supply which is being carried to them.

Sometimes Buerger's exercises are helpful. This is really a simple type of exercise but can do a good deal to improve circulation. One method of doing the exercise is to lie on the edge of a bed, raising one leg, then lowering it to the floor. Try to hold the leg in each position two to four minutes. You can repeat the cycle for as many as ten times. And move to the other side of the bed and do the same with the other leg.

Its purpose is to put gravity to work — letting the leg empty thoroughly of old blood, and replacing it with fresh blood. It can be remarkably effective at times.

Occasionally medication designed to dilate the blood vessels helps — your doctor perhaps has already discussed that with you.

Finally, the faulty circulation may not be due so much to general hardening or clogging of the blood vessels as it is to an obstruction at some point in the large arteries leading to the legs. If such obstruction is shown to exist at a particular place, then surgery can be beneficial, by replacing the obstructed portion with plastic tubing, or in some instances using such tubing to provide a bypass, allowing the blood to flow more freely.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are radium or X-ray treatments always given after a cancer operation, even though all the cancer cells were removed? I have in mind an intestinal operation. — Mrs. E. D.

No, radiation is not always given but it very frequently is used, particularly if there is difficulty in knowing whether all cells probably were removed. That, however, depends on the location, whether the cancer is clearly encapsulated and has not spread outside a definite area, and other matters.

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife had a bladder infection and after a smear test the doctor found she had trichinosis. I know you can get that from eating pork that isn't well cooked.

But can I get it from my wife, or using the same bathroom? Could our daughter get it? — W. M. V.

Your ears played tricks on you, I think. If you will check again with the doctor, I think you will find that he said trichomonas infection, not trichinosis.

Trichinosis is, indeed, caused by inadequately cooked pork. Trichomonas is an entirely different ailment, an infection of the vagina caused by an organism called a protozoon.

It is usually necessary to treat both husband and wife at the same time, even though the husband ordinarily is not bothered.

Proper treatment can clear up the trouble in the wife, but if the husband is not treated, too, he often harbors some of the microscopic protozoa, and his wife, once cured, becomes infected again and has the whole thing to do over.

College Basketball

Title To Waterloo Hawks

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — Waterloo-Lutheran Golden Hawks, seeded third at the start of the National Intercollegiate Basketball championships here, won their first Canadian title Saturday with a 66-61 victory over St. Mary's Huskies of Halifax.

University of British Columbia Thunderbirds, pre-tournament favorites, had to settle for consolation honors—a 74-71 win over Carleton Ravens, University of Western Ontario, the fifth team in the three-day tournament, was knocked to the sidelines Friday.

Pete Miskiweetz, a guard-forward who was chosen the best all-around player in the tournament, scored 25 points to lead the Golden Hawks to victory in the final with St. Mary's. The six-foot-two team captain from London, Ont., also hauled in nine rebounds and was the key man in setting up many of Waterloo's scoring plays.

The Golden Hawks placed two men on the tournament's all-star team—Miskiweetz and Norm Cuttiford who scored 12 points and snared 21 rebounds against the Huskies. Sandy Nixon, another Golden Hawk, missed the all-star team by just one point in the balloting by eight voters.

The other all-stars are Al Brown of St. Mary's, Neil Murray of UBC and Denis Schuthe of Carleton.

Nearly Blew It

Dickenson Wins Doral!

MIAMI (AP) — Gardner Dickinson says he has "kicked away about 50 tournaments" in his 17 years on the golf trail, and he almost put the boot to another one when he finished the Doral Open Sunday.

He was one over par, then two over at the last hole.

But young Tom Weiskopf, with a chance to capitalize on Dickinson's ragged finish, showed that he,too, can kick away the golden opportunities in the clinch.

Surging from three strokes behind to tie Dickinson in a dramatic stretch run, Weiskopf blew it with a closing pair of ones over par and his 40-year-old foe walked away with the $20,000 top prize.

"I hate a finish like that," said a dead-panned Dickinson, "but I've got the check in my pocket."

Weiskopf, who missed a 10-foot putt at the 18th that would have thrown the match into a sudden-death playoff, had the satisfaction of taking over the lead in the 1968 money-winning race.

His $12,000 check ran his bankroll to $52,546 and shoved him ahead of Toronto's George Knudson, who failed to survive the 36-hole cut here following consecutive victories at Phoenix and Tucson.

Mixed Curling

East Eyes National Title!

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP)—The Canadian mixed curling championship which gets under way today is giving coffee-row skips plenty to talk about.

They are wondering if an Eastern rink can grab at least one major national curling championship this year; if a rink comprising husbands and their wives can break a four-year jinx and win it, and if Saskatchewan's Larry McGrath of Kindersley is strong enough to defend the crown successfully.

Westerners took the national men's and women's titles this year, but Eastern mixed foursomes appear strong. Newfoundland has sent Frank Stent from St. John's. He played third on Newfoundland's entry in the men's championship last week in Kelowna, B.C.

Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown skipped last year's Islanders in the men's and Northern Ontario's Bill Tetley of Port Arthur was in the 1957 men's and tied for second in the 1967 mixed.

Another eastern entry in the 11-team round-robin event is Earl Carson of Canadian Forces Base Bagotville, whose rink finished the 1967 mixed in Quebec City with a 3-7 record. Carson and Tetley are considered co-favorites behind McGrath.

Mrs. Robertson skipped her province's entry in the national women's last month in Winnipeg and says that "with my being a skip, I know what my husband is going through."

Robertson, Tetley, Fred Fraser of Moncton, N.B., and Jim Hodgson of Rolund Man., are the only two-family fours in the competition. Stent on the other hand, has the only two single girls—Ruth Pomeroy and Jeanette Feaver.

Other rinks entered in the event are Ontario's Peter Connell from Arnprior, Edward Stochinsky from Timmonton and Vern Becker from Kimberley, B.C.

In the opening round, at 2:00 p.m. CST it was to have Ontario against Saskatchewan, Manitoba playing Quebec, Prince Edward Island and Northern Ontario, New Brunswick against Quebec and Nova Scotia playing British Columbia. Newfoundland had the bye.

Southern Ocean Racing

"Red Jacket" Placed First

NASSAU, Bahamas (CP-AP) — Red Jacket, a 40-foot sloop owned and skippered by Perry Connolly of Toronto, was placed first Saturday in the final Southern Ocean Racing Conference standings.

The white-hulled Red Jacket finished third in her class and seventh over-all in the 30-mile Nassau Cup yacht race Friday, the last of this year's six-race SORC series.

But two victories in earlier races helped bring the Class B vessel's over-all total to 853.50 points for the series.

Red Jacket, which won Class B honors in the 184-mile Miami-to-Nassau race earlier last week, was designed by George Cuthbertson and George Cassian of Port Credit, Ont., and built by Eric Bruckmann of Burlington, Ont.

One of the greatest racing sailboats of her class, Red Jacket won two of the SORC series last season. Before that, she had won 12 of 15 starts during her first summer of racing on Lake Ontario in 1966.

Red Sox Bats Red Hot In Training

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

It looks like Boston's Tony Conigliaro is seeing just one baseball again—and seeing it well—and that should give American League pitchers some unpleasant visions about the upcoming baseball season.

The slugging Red Sox outfielder was hit on the left temple by a pitch from Jack Hamilton of California last Aug. 18 and he did not return for the remainder of the season or the World Series because of double vision.

But Conigliaro showed he is regaining his batting eye by cracking a single and double and hitting the ball hard in his only other at-bat as the Red Sox trounced Oakland 14-4 in an exhibition game Sunday at Winter Haven, Fla.

The Red Sox, who banged out 20 hits, broke the game open in the first inning by scoring six runs off Bob Rodriguez. George Scott contributed two triples to the Boston attack.

The new spitball rule continued to give pitchers trouble. This time two Chicago hurlers were ejected for touching their hands to their mouths in the Cubs' 3-1 loss to California.

Pitcher Frank Reberger was ejected in the second inning, and reliever Dean Burn was given the thumb an inning later. Each was given one warning by umpire Emmett Ashford.

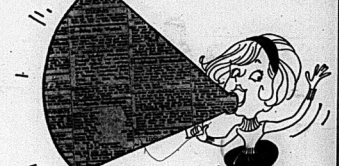
There were three extra inning games Sunday. Two ended in ties, and both involved New York clubs.

The New York Mets tied St. Louis 1-1 in 14 innings, and the New York Yankees and Baltimore battled to a 7-7 standoff in 13 innings.

St. Louis scored in the sixth inning when Phil Gagliano reached third, after Don Wilkinson misjudged his fly to left field, and came home on Dick Simpson's single. The Mets tied it in the eighth on singles by Bud Harrelson, Ed Kranepool and Jerry Morales.

Brooks Robinson's home in five Baltimore runs with two homers and a double. Mike Hegan knocked in two Yankee runs with a pair of singles and kept Baltimore from winning in the bottom of the 10th by making a diving stop at first base of a ball hit by Dave Johnson.

Girl, 12 Sets New Swim Mark



TORONTO (CP) — Twelve-year-old Jane Wright of Toronto, who has been competing in swimming meets in the U.S., set a Canadian record in the girls' 12-year-old, 200-yard breaststroke Saturday in two minutes, 44.7 seconds.

Jane, competing in the Ontario age-class swimming championships, also won the 100-yard breast stroke, 20-yard butterfly and anchored the winning team in the 20-yard free-style event.

Seven other Canadian records were broken by Toronto-area swimmers.

There Are A Hosts of Places For Exhaust System to Leak

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes: "A few months ago there was a strong odor of exhaust fumes inside my 1963 six cylinder car, and when the windows were closed I would frequently get a headache. My mechanic installed a whole new exhaust system — front exhaust pipe, muffler and tailpipe, and while the fumes are not as strong, they are still noticeable and on long runs my children become listless and sleepy. The mechanic has checked the car on numerous occasions but claims there are no leaks in the parts he installed. Are you aware of the dangers of carbon monoxide and hoped you could come up with an answer."

Frequently, motorists and mechanics only think of the muffler and its connecting pipes when a noise or leak develop. But there are many other points where trouble can occur.

The exhaust manifold may leak due to cracks, loose or missing bolts, a blown gasket, or the manifold itself will sometimes warp and not seat properly. Also, leaks can develop from a head gasket that has blown out externally or from a worn heat riser valve assembly. The gasket is to seals the exhaust pipe to the manifold outlet flange sometimes loosens and allows volumes of fumes to leak out. These fumes can then seep through the numerous holes in the firewall, which must be there to allow passage of the steering column, brake and gas pedals, electric wiring, heater and vacuum hoses.

These passages are not sealed with rubber grommets or hoods, age can cause them to shrink and deteriorate or they can be pushed out or installed improperly when the car is being serviced. It's wise to have these important grommets and hoots inspected periodically.

Even when new exhaust components are installed, it's imperative that the connection pipes fit snugly into the muffler. Quite a pressure builds up inside the exhaust system and the least little imperfection or bend between the joint can cause a stream of gas to escape, and when aimed in the right direction it can easily find its way inside the car.

In timbers or cases the safest way to locate a mysterious leak is to restrict the tailpipe with a rag which builds up internal pressure, then remove the air cleaner and with the engine idling, squirt light engine oil into the throat of the carburetor. Blue smoke will then seep through at the point of the leak.

It is extremely dangerous to ride in the car if there is even a suspicion that carbon monoxide may be seeping into the vehicle.

East German Fishing Ships Damaged by Ice Off Labrador

HALIFAX (CP) — A fleet of four East German ships was steaming out of the Labrador Sea today for St. John's, Nfld. after becoming trapped in the icefield off Labrador.

Two of the ships, the 10,000 ton factory vessel Junge Garde and the trawler Erfurt, were damaged when the ice closed in on the fishing fleet Sunday off Hamilton Inlet on the frozen Labrador coast.

The factory ship, which carries a crew of 170, reported she was taking water and her engine room was flooded but later Sunday all four ships made it to open water. The Junge Garde was being towed by either the factory ship Junge Welt or the trawler Elvira Eisenshreder.

A Canadian aircraft stood by Sunday at Greenwood, N.S., after the captain of the Junge Garde expressed fears for the safety of his ship. The Canadian icebreaker Sir Humphrey Gilbert was dispatched, but was later recalled when the four ships broke out of the ice and reported no further danger.

In St. John's, a spokesman said the damaged factory ship likely would be repaired in St. John's while the Erfurt was expected to go to the shipyards at Marystown, Nfld.

The big factory ships are used to process fish caught by the trawler fleet.

The pack ice which snared the four vessels is known to seal hunters as "the front", a vast icefield which moves down from Arctic waters and carries the big herds of seals. The hunt opens March 22.

Oregon Prisoners Riot

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Rioting prisoners released four hostages unharmed and finally gave up control of the smouldering Oregon state penitentiary on Sunday.

Guards moved into the cellblocks and established control over the prison about 10:15 a.m., 18 hours after the convicts went on a rampage that caused an estimated $2,000,000 damage.

The hostages were released three hours earlier after long negotiations between spokesmen for the prisoners and George T. Randall, the state corrections administrator.

Officials said 90 per cent of the wooden structures were destroyed.

Strictly Personal

U.S. Police Need Improving

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In a smashing lead article on "The Urban Crisis" in its January issue, Fortune Magazine states a point so insistent question that most citizens never bother to think about.

"Why," inquired the article, "expect effective riot control from the same law enforcement apparatus that for 50 years has failed to break up organized crime, failed to contain the narcotics traffic, failed to protect citizens on the street, failed even in traffic control and highway safety?"

Once asked, it seems an obvious question, and the answer seems equally obvious: We in the U.S. cannot expect effective riot control from the same law enforcement apparatus that has failed in so many other areas.

In our concern with rising crime and violence and unrest at all levels of U.S. life, we rarely consider the role of the police force. We take the police for granted — but does not the increase in crime indicate a decrease in law enforcement effectiveness, just as a significant increase in sickness would indicate a decline in medical care and attention?

And, as the article goes on to say, can any urban program "effectively reduce Negro hostility to police while the police are preoccupied with arming for urban warfare?"

As I have written before, with monotonous regularity, the police in U.S. society must be brought up to a strictly professional level. The force must consist of more intelligent and educated men, given far better training both in the law and in enforcement, and must be absolutely divorced from all political and social pressures.

Negroes know, and have always known, that the cops represent the Establishment. They know he are two "laws" in any city, North as well as South. They know that the poor, the ignorant, the unconnected and unrepresented are considered fair game by the police for insults, injuries, and even the gross violations of all due processes of law.

As long as they know this — and as long as it remains true — the cops will be considered their natural enemies, "law and order" will remain a meaningless phrase to them, and their increasing bitterness and rage will escalate small-scale riots into urban insurrection. This will call for more force by the Establishment, and the utter breakdown of civil government in all large urban areas.

A sound, sensible, impartial and politically untainted police force is the No. 1 necessity in U.S. cities today. To this end, every city budget should be cut and reshaped so that policemen can earn twice as much as the pittance they get today, and so that the profession will attract the keenest men, not the misfits and the maulers.

Stanfield Says Surtax Will Spur Inflation

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Canada will be faced with higher taxes, continuing inflation and increased unemployment if the government's latest tax proposals are approved by Parliament, Opposition Leader Stanfield said Saturday.

Mr. Stanfield told the annual meeting of the Ontario Weekly Newspapers Association that surcharges on income and corporate taxes "would cause both inflation and unemployment."

Finance Minister Sharp announced in the Commons last week government proposals to raise needed funds by imposing a three-per-cent surcharge on corporate and private incomes.

Mr. Stanfield said the new tax measures could be averted if the government made "vigorous cutbacks on all expenditures."

He said the proposed tax plan would "tend to slow down development and growth in an economy that is advancing too slowly."

The Opposition leader said Canada's economic problems are caused by difficulties at home and should not be blamed on international problems.

He said Canada "is plagued by uncertainty and a lack of confidence in its financial position."

Earlier, Mr. Stanfield told a press conference that the Liberal government's handling of the recent confidence issue set a precedent which will "encourage absenteeism rather than full attendance in the House of Commons."

Mr. Stanfield said his party regarded the Feb. 19 defeat of the government's tax bill as a vote of non-confidence. However, he added, the government "ran a replay" of the vote and established a precedent which "downgraded the importance of participating in the vote."

He said the government has encouraged "absenteeism by making it seem less important than it used to be to attend a vote."

THE PICK OF Punch

Prorogation Delayed

House Will Debate Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — This was to be the week Parliament closed down as cabinet members seeking the Liberal leadership would be free to roam the country seeking votes.

Now the word is Parliament will remain in session until late March and the front-benchers will have to remain close to Ottawa to avoid any chance of the government losing another vote in the Commons.

First order of business today is start of debate on second reading of Finance Minister Sharp's tax bill. It imposes a three-per-cent surtax on personal and corporate income taxes.

Social Credit MPs say they will support the measure. With this support, the government will have no trouble when the voting takes place.

All opposition parties combined Feb. 19 to defeat Mr. Sharp's previous tax bill which would have imposed a five-per-cent surtax on personal taxes.

While both Conservative and NDP MPs oppose the new tax bill, they say they won't stage a prolonged debate on it.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

Oh, dear, I think I've picked the wrong line again."

Detroit Psychiatrist Says Whites Not to Blame for Riots

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit psychiatrist completing a study of racism for the National Institute of Mental Health says social scientists should stop blaming the white man for all the trouble.

Dr. Elliott Luby, associate director of Detroit's Lafayette Clinic and professor of law and psychiatry at Wayne State University, says last summer's Detroit riots was "not an expression of apathy, hopelessness and despair."

Instead, Luby said, it was an expression of the black man's "growing identity, growing pride, growing esteem and an indication that the black man no longer is measuring himself in terms of the white man."

Luby's report on his findings was broadcast Sunday over the Sunday Supplement program of Detroit radio station, WJR.

Luby, who is white, was given a $135,000 grant by the institute, a branch of the department of health, education and welfare, to conduct his study. He and a staff of psychologists and psychiatrists interviewed 400 persons arrested in last July's riot and also talked to whites and Negroes in the areas where the rioting took place.

His findings are in direct opposition to a report released last week by the president's commission on civil disorders, which placed much of the blame for the riots on white racism and Negroes' poverty and despair.

Luby, however, said he is "beginning weary of social scientists" making white people "culpable for all of the difficulties which blacks have experienced in this country." He said "this seems to be the etiquette of social science research today."

Luby said "Riots in the past have been related to notions of hopelessness and despair, to the unemployment and to poverty."

However, he said:

"Our studies strongly suggest that this (the rioters) was a well-employed group making an average of some $115 to $120 a week, a group which felt that it had substantially improved its status in the community during the past three to five years, a group that was very optimistic about its future.

"And certainly this was not a despairing group of men, or an impoverished group. They in a sense were making a good income and they were rather confident about themselves and their future."

When asked to explain why such people would riot, Luby said: "The closer the distance becomes between the lower and middle class, the more militant and aggressive and assertive the lower class becomes.

"Black people . . . are now developing a sense of identity, a feeling of self-determination and feelings that they are able now to control their own community."

Polish Students Sent to Jail

WARSAW (AP) — A number of Polish students have been convicted in quick trials on charges of hooliganism during riot police clashes with police and given jail sentences of four to six months, informed sources said Sunday.

At least 10 and possibly as many as 50 were tried Saturday, the sources said, while other students and youths were battling with police for the second straight day in the Polish capital.

Officials were not available to confirm or deny this. Other officials declined to give the number of arrests during Friday's and Saturday's clashes. Estimates range from 150 to 400 arrests.

The disturbances were believed to be the worst in Communist-ruled Poland since demonstrations after the 1956 closing of a popular liberal student magazine.

Sunday was calm in Warsaw, but there was increase patrolling by police vehicles.

TOKYO (Reuters) — About 500 persons were injured Sunday when extremist student organizations fought a four-hour battle with police at Narita City, east of Tokyo, during a protest over the construction of a new international airport there.

Police said they arrested 198 of the 1,200 student demonstrators. A total of 271 policemen, 169 students and 51 journalists and bystanders were hurt in the battle, which was fought with nightsticks, stones, tear gas and water cannons.

Swedish Premier Backs Minister

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Premier Tage Erlander, reacting to Washington's recall of the U.S. ambassador to Sweden Heath, said Saturday he feels "it is fine" that a Swedish cabinet minister marched in an anti-American demonstration here alongside the North Vietnamese envoy to the Soviet Union.

The incident, compounding the strain created by Sweden's open-door policy for U.S. Army deserters and a threat on Heath's life, led Friday to his recall for what the U.S. state department said was a review of all aspects of U.S. relations. Erlander went on the Swedish national radio to state his support for Olaf Palme, the minister of education and ecclesiastical affairs whose participation in the parade last month was described by the U.S. embassy as "highly inappropriate."

Sweden, traditionally neutral, has been demanding an end to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and recognition of the Viet Cong guerrillas' political arm, the South Vietnam National Liberation Front. After withdrawing its diplomats from South Vietnam last year, the government moved toward closer contacts with North Vietnam through its ambassador to China.

New Racial Squabble In Making

LONDON (AP) — New political trouble over race relations lies ahead when the British government introduces a bill to bar discrimination in jobs and housing.

Officials hope the measure will demonstrate to members of the British Commonwealth, India especially, that Britain is not developing into a society infected with racial discrimination.

Home Secretary James Callaghan is caught between public feeling against Britain's non-white immigrants and various community and national race relations groups rushing to their defence.

Advocates of a keep-British-white policy, centred mainly in the suburban middle class and among workers who fear their jobs threatened, tasted success when Britain barred admission of many Asians from Kenya who hold British passports.

Many of the labor party's intellectual supporters feel the proposed anti-discrimination bill is not strong enough, especially in provisions covering employment.

Twenty Top Republicans Ask Rockefeller to Run

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 20 top Republicans met with Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller Sunday and urged him to plunge into the Republican presidential race.

"Governor Rockefeller will consult other party leaders in the next few days and his decision will ultimately be made by himself," said a statement issued by the group, which included seven governors, three senators and five congressmen.

Rockefeller himself was unavailable immediately after the closed-door meeting. He had said he will not be a candidate unless there is a draft.

Rockefeller called the meeting to discuss the state of the Republican party since Gov. George Romney of Michigan withdrew from the race, leaving Nixon the sole major contender in New Hampshire.

Kennedy Fears Split in Party

LONDON (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy said Sunday one reason he is not running for the Democratic nomination for U.S. president is a fear of splitting the Democratic party.

Speaking in a pre-recorded interview in the United States with the BBC, the New York senator added that he also considers running "would not be a very hopeful effort."

A third reason was that a "deep division" among the Democrats could result in a Republican being elected, "with whom I might disagree even more."

Alberta's Ombudsman Probes Mental Hospital

EDMONTON (CP) — George B. McClellan, Alberta's ombudsman, said in a letter made public Saturday he will investigate two accounts of alleged mistreatment of patients at a provincially-operated mental hospital near Edmonton.

Mr. McClellan, in a letter to the Edmonton Journal, said the incidents published by the newspaper and in The Canadian, a magazine supplement which it distributes here, were:

—Charges that a female patient was stripped by two male attendants, put in a cold cell and periodically observed by the two men.

—Charges that two hospital attendants poured liquor under the door of a room occupied by an alcoholic, whom they watched lick it off the floor.

The letter specifically referred to articles published in the Feb. 24 issue of The Canadian and the March 6 issue of The Journal.

Mr. McClellan, retired RCMP commissioner, said that his first self-initiated investigation since taking the post last fall finds other alleged mistreatment or brutality, he will use his authority under the Ombudsman Act to make further investigations.

He said the published charges have been denied by Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross.

Both charges were contained in an article written by G. Tori Salter, who had said she feigned mental illness to gain admission to the hospital, at Oliver, Alta.

California Farm Head Breaks 25-day Fast

About 4,000 farm workers joined Chavez in a symbolic bread-breaking ceremony.

"I am here out of respect for one of the heroic figuers of our time—Cesar Chavez," Kennedy told the worker throng.

"I congratulate all of you who are locked with Cesar in the struggle for justice for the farm worker and the struggle for justice for Spanish-speaking Americans.

"There are those who question the principle of everything that you have done so far—the principle of non-violence.

"Let me say to you that violence is no answer."

Why do young men pay twice as much for car insurance?

Because they have twice as many accidents as other drivers. Added to that, their accident costs are much higher.

These are the facts. Unfortunate—but true.

These figures can be changed, and so can the cost of insurance for younger male drivers.

There is only one way: by reducing their accident rate.

Even though younger men pay a lot more for insurance, they have the same opportunities as other drivers to reduce their own insurance costs.

One accident-free year can bring a 10% reduction.

Three accident-free years and the savings are substantial. And those who pass approved driver training courses can obtain a further 10% reduction.

If more younger men take advantage of these dividends by driving safely, the cost will be lower for everyone.

Motorists Ignore Screaming Naked Father as Flames Kill 7

TORONTO (CP) — An early-morning fire roared through a small frame house in North York today taking the lives of a mother and her six children while the father, burned and naked, stood outside on the street screaming at passing motorists for help.

The father, identified as David Lumsden, 26-year-old service station mechanic, was the only survivor. He was taken to hospital, suffering from first- and second-degree burns.

A policeman said six or eight cars passed Mr. Lumsden as he appealed for help.

The mother was found in a front bedroom of the six-room house. A baby was found dead in a crib in the same room. Another body was found on the ground floor and four others were found in two attic bedrooms.

Although they used masks, firemen were unable to get into the house at first because of dense smoke.

The mother was taken outside and given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by a policeman but in vain.

The Lumsdens rented the house last summer.

Constable Ronald Vollick, the first policeman to arrive, rushed the hysterical father to Humber Memorial Hospital in his cruiser. He later was transferred to Western Hospital, where a spokesman said he had second-degree burns on 30 to 40 per cent of his body.

The constable said, as he drove to the hospital, Mr. Lumsden mumbled: "They wouldn't stop. They wouldn't stop," referring to cars that passed him on the street.

"He kept saying 'help me, help me,'" Constable Bollick said. "The skin was peeling off him. His hair was burned off. He was crying that his wife and children were inside."

Alan Wayne Brown, 19, said he looked from his apartment and saw the flames and Mr. Lumsden naked in the street.

Police said Mrs. Lumsden may have tried to reach the children upstairs and been trapped by flames.

Speaker Requires Tax Bill Changes

This Time for Keeps?

Gordon Quits Again

OTTAWA (CP)—Walter Gordon again has quit the Pearson cabinet. This time he says he won't even run for Parliament in the next general election.

His resignation as president of the Privy Council was announced Monday by Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Gordon, 62, gave no specific reason for stepping down a second time.

He did say he had not been particularly effective nor active in cabinet affairs, "an experience I don't particularly like," and indicated the government was steering too cautious and conservative a course for him.

For a quiet man, he generated quite a bit of controversy in his parliamentary career.

He said he will take no active part in the campaign for the leader to replace Mr. Pearson, but he hoped the new man would be "a true, left-wing Liberal with progressive ideas."

Four-inch Snowfall Forecast

Watch It! Winter's back!

After a two-week balmy break, the Quinte area faced up to a bleak weather warning today.

The duty forecaster at CFB Trenton predicted up to four inches of snow in the district today.

In common with the rest of Southern Ontario, the Quinte area faces a hazardous driving warning, as treacherous weather moves in from the U.S.

It started snowing in the Belleville-Trenton zone around 11 a.m. And the weatherman said the fall should continue through most of the evening.

He also predicts snow flurries tomorrow with a high of 30 degrees, Low tonight will be 25.

Spring is due officially March 20 at 8.22 a.m.

Clauses Altered During Dinner

OTTAWA (CP) — The government hopes its new tax bill will finally begin moving through the Commons after a false start Monday.

Just as debate was about to begin on legislation to levy a three-per-cent surtax on personal and corporation income taxes, Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) said there were four clauses in the proposed bill identical to clauses in a measure defeated Feb. 19.

Mr. Knowles said the Commons should not be asked to do something inconsistent with a decision taken earlier in the session.

The bill was reintroduced in amended form after the dinner recess. The revenue-producing clauses were not affected.

Earlier, Prime Minister Pearson announced in the Commons the resignation of Walter Gordon as Privy Council president.

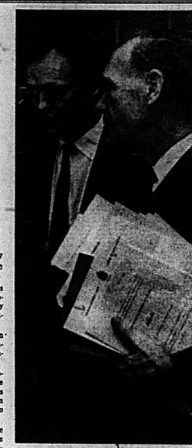
Unanimous approval was given to a resolution covering about $8,000,000 in supplementary estimates of the veterans' affairs department, of which all but $200,000 is needed to meet a 15-per-cent increase in veterans' pensions.



Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet said, in reply to George Chatterton (PC - Esquimalt - Saanich), it should be possible to begin paying the increases this month if the estimates obtain quick parliamentary approval. The increases are retroactive to Jan. 1.

"This does not go to the substance of the bill," Finance Minister Sharp told reporters before it was brought back in amended form. "It only goes to the form."

Three of the objectionable clauses were technical in nature and the fourth referred to repayment of a special, refundable tax on corporations.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) argued there was no appreciable difference between the new tax bill and the one defeated last month. The fact that the rate now proposed was three per cent, where it had been five per cent earlier, did not mean new legislation was before the Commons.

No Election Near

Another Sunshine Budget Is Unlikely

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton will bring down his second budget in the Ontario legislature today.

Indications are that it will not fit as neatly into the "sunshine" category as did last year's budget.

A year ago the Conservative government of Premier Robarts was gearing for an election and Mr. MacNaughton managed to announce a long list of "goodies" without mentioning possible future tax increases.

The juggling was accomplished by planning a record budgetary deficit of $187,000,000 in the 1967-68 fiscal year.

In the interim the "expense" side of the government's ledger has been swelled by unexpectedly high interest rates and implementation of two recommendations of the Smith committee report on taxation.

The government's takeover of the costs of administration of justice from the municipalities and the promised "basic shelter exemption grant" for all homeowners and tenants is expected to cost $175,000,000 a year, some $45,000,000 more than the Smith committee originally estimated.

The high cost of borrowing was shown in a recent announcement by Mr. MacNaughton that the government was postponing indefinitely construction of $39,000,000 in new capital projects.

Premier Robarts recently repeated a promise that there will be no increases this year in the provincial sales tax—now five per cent—or in income tax rates.

However, he hinted a few weeks ago that another major source of revenue, hospital care premiums, will be tapped more vigorously.

Vietnam Policy Is Under Review

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk was to appear again today before the Senate foreign relations committee after a gruelling six-hour public session Monday in which he said the administration's Vietnam policy is undergoing a searching review.

Rusk said during the first session that all alternatives "from A to Z" were under study.

His scheduled return today at 9:30 a.m. EST was an unexpected concession to the doves and war critics led by committee chairman Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem., Ark.).

Fulbright left no doubt as to the major question he wants Rusk to answer. That came when Rusk, asked about possible increases in U.S. troop levels, replied:

"Obviously the Tet offensive calls for an examination of many subjects, including the tactics and strategy of the enemy, the impact on the pacification program and on the military side.

"I can't speculate about decisions that have not been made or decisions that have not been reached."

Fulbright quickly responded: "That's what we're talking about. Congress wants to be consulted on such matters before—not after—the decision is made."

Primary Virtual Referendum

New Hampshire Votes on Vietnam

CONCORD, N.H. (CP) — New Hampshire voted today in the first 1968 presidential primary, widely viewed here as a referendum on President Johnson's Vietnam war policy.

Voting was expected to be complete in most of the 302 polling stations by 8 p.m. EST.

Main focus was on the Democratic party primary, in which Vietnam war critic Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota based virtually his entire campaign on opposition to Johnson's handling of the war.

The first trickle of ballots, from the ski country on the White Mountains, sent McCarthy and Republican Richard Nixon out ahead.

In the tiny village of Waterville Valley, there were eight votes for McCarthy and two write-in votes for Senator Robert F. Kennedy, New York Democrat. President Johnson didn't get a vote in that hamlet, where the ballots were cast moments after midnight.

Nixon received eight Republican votes, there were four write-ins for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and one Republican vote for McCarthy's name on his ballot.

The president's name was not on the ballot, but his supporters mounted an intensive campaign to secure write-in votes. Most observers agreed that anything less than a three-to-one vote margin over McCarthy would mean a political setback for Johnson.

It also would give McCarthy, a 51-year-old former sociology professor, impetus to carry his campaign into the April 2 primary in Wisconsin as well as key contests in several other states.

On the Republican side, former vice-president Nixon, who takes a harder line on Vietnam, was certain of victory as the only major declared candidate. But a substantial write-in vote for Rockefeller, watching in the wings, might lure him to announce his formal entry into the White House race.

Diefenbaker Is Alarmed By Arctic Apartheid

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker called Monday for a full session of the Supreme Court of Canada on a case in which a panel of the court last week upheld an arctic apartheid clause in a job contract.

A five-man panel of the Supreme Court Friday upheld lower court rulings and threw out a $25,000 damage action against Canadian Marconi.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons that the decision will make it appear internationally that Canada has legalized apartheid.

He suggested that the government should ask for a rehearing by the full board of the court "on a matter so important to Canada's international face."

Gold Demand High

LONDON (CP) — A renewed gold rush built up in Europe's bullion markets today, signalling an apparent failure of international efforts to hold down demand.

Demand in Paris set a high for the year.

Zurich, London and Rome reported heavy sales approaching last week's high level, but still below the crisis rate of November and December following Britain's devaluation of the pound from $2.80 to $2.40 U.S. and $2.00 Canadian.

Paris sales included 10 tons of 2.5-pound ingots, gold coins, and 40 27.5-pound bars. This compared with the 1968 high of eight tons.

London dealers described demand as extremely high. One market source said the turnover today was likely to equal the daily levels of the big scramble for bullion last week.

Problem with Elections

Present County School Boards May Operate for Part of 1969

By ROGER WORTH
Staff Reporter

At least one flaw has turned up in the government's plan to integrate school boards into county wide boards of education according to regional supervisor for the department of education R. D. Fraser.

At the initial meeting of the Hastings County interim committee last night, Mr. Fraser, told trustees strict adherence to county boundaries could "be "a flaw" in the system.

Students in Ameliasburg and Deseronto will attend schools in other counties but ratepayers will not be represented on the boards of education.

The interim committee was set up under a government White Paper laying out guidelines for the Integration of present boards by Jan. 1, 1969.

Trustees representing the 12 school boards in Hastings County were in attendance at last night's meeting.

Mr. Fraser said the county boundary lines created a particular problem in Hastings County. "In any reorganization we're bound to have the odd flaw and this is a problem", he said.

The regional superintendent also told trustees that present boards may have to carry on for three or four months after Jan. 1/1969. "The government originally thought board of education elections could be held in September or October of this year but we may not be able to elect officials until December."

In other business the interim committee,

● Elected James Clarke, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, as chairman of the new group.

● Decided to use school superintendents, inspectors and department of education employees as a secretariat to gather information which will be presented to the new board.

● Discussed changes in transportation which might take place with the county board.

● Questioned the regional superintendent on various issues involved in the new set up.

The new 16 member county board will handle all educa-

Twelve Men Compose Interim Committee

Representatives on the interim committee are Guy Bentley, North Hastings High School Board; James Clarke, Bay of Quinte High School Board; Donald Reid, Deseronto Public School Board and Herb Cox, Hastings County School Area number 2.

Daniel Kelly represents Hastings County School Area number 1; Macdonald Smith the Belleville Public School Board; S. C. Geneja from Tyendinaga Township School Area; T. S. Ketcheson, the Trenton Board of Education and Richard Reid the Frankford Public School Board.

B. J. Hunt is the delegate from Tweed-Hungerford High School Board, Clarence Reynolds from Thurlow School Board and Hugh Gray from Sidney Township School area.

An Ameliasburg observer, Seymour Hamilton, was in attendance at last night's meeting.

tion from kindergarten to grade 13. In Hastings County this will involve about 27,000 students. About 135 trustees sit on 12 school boards at the present time.

The interim committee was set up to prepare a "dictionary of all schools in the county" and make policy recommendations to the new board.

Mr. Clarke said transportation could be one of the major problems facing the committee. "All public school students in rural areas are picked up at the door while secondary students may have to walk a mile to meet the bus. It could mean a tremendous change if we treat them all equally," he said.

Mr. Frosts told the group no guidelines have yet been released for turning school boards into "dictionary of all schools in the county" and make policy recommendations to the new board.

Mr. Clarke said transportation could be one of the major problems facing the committee. "All public school students in rural areas are picked up at the door while secondary students may have to walk a mile to meet the bus. It could mean a tremendous change if we treat them all equally," he said.

Mr. Frosts told the group no guidelines have yet been released for turning school boards into "dictionary of all schools in the county boards. "I also should ention that what we're seeing here tonight depends on legislation yet to be passed.

Sidney Township representative, Hugh Gray said the northern areas of the county would be poorly represented under the new system. "The area is too large to be represented by seven trustees," he said.

Under the government guidelines the separate school board would be represented by six trustees, the city of Belleville will have five and the town of Trenton will have two trustees. The other seven trustees will represent the remainder of Hastings County.

"The distance between centres is also going to present a real problem," Mr. Gray said. "Toronto is closer than some areas in the northern end of the county."

Trustees in Belleville and Trenton will be elected at large while the county delegates will be elected on the basis of a ward system set up by county council.

"One of the real problems in electing the board is that municipal elections don't fall on the same dates in all areas," Mr. Frosts said.

"In some areas municipal elections are held every two years, in other areas its every three years and in still others elections are held annually."

"Amalgamation will benefit the youngsters who have been deprived," he said.

"I agree with the principle of amalgamation but I think it will be more difficult in Hastings County than in some other areas," chairman Clarke said.

Mr. Frosts said schools with lower standard equipment would be brought up to the level of units with quality equipment.

The meeting was held at Quinte Secondary School.

The next meeting of the interim group will be held at Moira High School on April 1.

Wish for Wishing Well Winner

Youth Not Rejecting Religion Says Pastor

"The vast majority of the world today wants the message of Christ. What youth is rejecting is our sectarian presentation of the historic Christ and our hypocrisy."

From this opening statement, Pastor Bob Johnson of Montreal held the keen interest of the 160 people who had come to the 7th annual Youth for Christ banquet held last night in St. Thomas' Parish Hall.

Mr. Johnson reminded his audience that in Israel "the ark of God was carried on the shoulders of men. So today, the kingdom of God will advance only as its concern is borne on the shoulders of completely dedicated men and women. No modern machinery can substitute."

Pastor Johnson cited as examples of dedication to their cause, the communists. He also referred to the 2,000 Jehovah's Witnesses in New York City who are receiving their room and board and $15 a month for spreading their literature. "While we may not agree with their doctrine, we must appreciate their commitment," he said.

Mr. Johnson was a pastor in Madoc, 1954-59. Then after a year in Toronto, he went to Montreal. On Sundays he conducts an open line program, Ask the Pastor on Radio Station CKGM from 8 p.m. 'til midnight. This program has the highest rated listening audience in Montreal. His radio program has brought him invitations to speak in many places including universities, cathedrals, synagogues and open forums. He is also founder of TEEN HAVEN for dope addicts, prostitutes and hippies.

Two teenagers, David Cechette of Napanee and Anne Blackman of Picton gave testimonies of their personal faith in Jesus Christ. Mrs. Dianne Leach sang two solos and Rev. Eric Penny led in chorus singing accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Bev. Foster.

Marvin Mountney is the new director of Youth for Christ at Rick Tyrell is chairman of the board.

'Prospectors' Checking

A Water Problem

Government "prospectors" who are concerned with water, rather than uranium-bearing ores, are paying monthly visits to eight ice-covered lakes on the Trent system in an effort to unravel a mystery surrounding algae growth.

Dr. Allan E. Christie, of the Ontario Water Resources Commission's division of research, is attempting to establish limits for safe harvesting of algae which occur there throughout the year.

Each month, Dr. Christie and an assistant trudge across the ice of Kushog, Twelve Mile, Gull, Balsam, Sturgeon, Buckhorn, Clear and Rice lakes, to collect water and algae samples.

An on-the-spot check is made at each hole to determine lake transparency, or the distance light penetrates the surface. Also, a temperature profile is made, by recording the temperature of the water at three-foot intervals to a maximum depth of 30 feet with the aid of an instrument called a "bathothermometer."

Samples are taken to the OWRC's Toronto laboratory for nutrient and other routine chemical examinations, and algae counts.

The program began last spring, and sampling was carried out at approximate two-week intervals before freezing. It probably will be extended another two years, if data collected so far indicates algae-nutrien links can be determined with present methods.

The Trent was chosen for the study because it is one of southern Ontario's largest river systems, it flows through various geographical areas, and because the chemical and biological make-up of the lakes vary.

If the program is successful, it would be a valuable aid in determining the potential of such lakes as municipal water supply sources.

Outdoor Carnival Ends Zwick's Island Program

Poor ice conditions cut short the program of race events scheduled Saturday at the Zwick's Island cove as a season's end to the Belleville Recreation Committee's outdoor winter activities.

The skating party was cut short at noon due to soft ice but the morning's events saw a good attendance of boys and girls from four to 14. Free transportation and hot chocolate drinks were supplied to the youngsters.

Winners of the respective races were: under 8 — Grant Sutherland, 6, Allison Sutherland, 4, John McPink, 6, in the under 10 group boys — Richard Brown, 9, Russell McPink, 8, and Wayne Becker, 9; boys under 12 group, Gordon Male and Michael Collins; in the under 12, girls, Louanne McCoy, 11 was first, Paddy Ackerman, 11, 2nd, and Joanne Sutherland, 9, 3rd. In the final heat Brenda Sutherland, 13, came 1st in the girls under 14 group with Marilee Ward, 12, second and Nancy Burkitt, 13, third.

Bob Crestney, Ron McIntosh, Tom Gill and Ralph Lumsden assisted the recreation staff. The committee is planning this as an annual event. The weekend carnival marks the closing of Zwicks Island to the general public until approximately the weekend of May 24.

Lowest Tender on Arena Complex $300,000 Higher Than Cost Estimate

Construction of Belleville's long promised and much discussed arena complex at the local fairgrounds is still very much up in the air.

Tenders for the arena complex were opened yesterday at city hall and were more than $300,000 higher than the last cost estimate of the architects.

The lowest of the five bids, submitted by Ball Brothers of Kingston, was for $1,653,000 as compared with the architects' estimate of $748,000 for the basic building.

Paving and landscaping, together with "extras" including increased capacity ice making equipment, ventilation and treated concrete base for the ice surface would boost the cost another $200,000, it is estimated.

Acting Mayor Douglas Boyle said the arena tenders would be considered by council on Thursday at a capital works budget meeting.

The acting mayor was noncommittal regarding prospects of the arena building built in view of the tenders received, noting that the project would have to be considered in the light of the "very considerable" number of capital works planned for this year.

He felt, however, that council would do its utmost to consider the arena matter favorably.

If council votes to proceed with the arena construction the expenditure would still have to receive approval from the Ontario Municipal Board.

Parks Board chairman, Alderman Kenneth Soden who, along with Alderman Don Williams, both strong proponents for the arena, made no comment on the tender prices.

Other council members present for opening of the tenders were Aldermen Enos David, Paul Russell, Arthur Keegan and Richard Ellis.

The five tenders for the arena complex ranged in price from a low of $1,653,000 to a high of $1,113,000.

Other bidders included T. A. Andre and Sons Ltd. of Kingston, Pisapia Construction Incorporated of Montreal, W. G. Gallagher Construction Ltd. of Downsview and Minuk Construction and Engineering Ltd., Toronto.

Harry Cohen Steelcrete and Sons of Belleville took out plans for the arena but did not submit a bid.

In addition to bids on the arena, tenders for the year's supply of petroleum products, traffic paint, emulsified asphalt, crushed stone, chips and gravel, and washroom renovations were opened yesterday at city hall.

William Selch and Son submitted the lowest tender for washroom renovations at city hall, the bid of $3,179.94 being the lowest of five received.

Not Surprised

Centre Should Be Built: Soden

Whether the city should go ahead with construction of the proposed community centre despite the fact tenders came in approximately one third higher than the estimate, is the question now facing Belleville city council.

Alderman Kenneth Soden, chairman of the city parks board, for one feels that the arena should still be built, but admits that Thursday's budget meeting of council will do much to clear the air.

"It's hard to say," said Ald. Soden this morning. "I feel as some other councillors do that we should go ahead."

Ald. Soden said he was not really surprised that the bids came in $300,000 more than the architects' estimate.

At the same time he felt the tenders must be well considered "to see what they all mean" before any decision is made.

The fact that there was only about $60,000 separating the lowest and highest tenders, indicated that bidding was really competitive, according to Ald. Soden.

"It seems they hit it pretty close," he said.

"I am not going to get any idears about it, but I don't feel we should delay construction," he said. "Admittedly the cost is a million now, but it will be more if we delay."

But Ald. Enos David and Arthur Keegan had doubts whether the arena would go ahead in view of the cost.

Ald. David felt "there wasn't a chance in the world," that the Ontario Municipal Board would approve the project.

Neither was he convinced that the fairgrounds was the proper place for the arena even if it was built.

Ald. David has campaigned for a downtown location for the arena and he said yesterday's talk to the Belleville Rotary Club by Richard Zeidler of Piggot Construction who built the new Ottawa Civic Centre, bears out his feeling.

Speaking to the service club on the new Ottawa centre, Mr. Zeidler said that project planners claim a civic centre should be part of downtown redevelopment.

"That's been my feeling all along," said Ald. David.

And Ald. Art Keegan held the same point of view.

Belleville Jaycees

Proposal May Be Rejected

City council could turn thumbs down on a community centre at its next meeting, the Belleville and District Labor Council was warned last night.

The action could be precipitated by the fact construction tenders were much higher than original estimates for the project, said Zdenek Kvarda, past president of the Belleville Jaycees.

"We're afraid that come the next council meeting they're going to say it's costing too much money—and that's it," he revealed.

Mr. Kvarda appeared before the labor group to boost public support for a community centre. Ironically, tenders for the project—the first proceeding estimate by $300,000—were opened at city hall yesterday afternoon.

City council "has its problems" and the Jaycees were merely trying to foster a community spirit in support of the centre.

"We agree it's going to cost a lot of money," the young Jaycee official. "But we say we're going to try and help city council out by raising public funds—or in any other way we can help."

The Jaycees hope to seek a definite commitment from council — either approval of the project "or at least, a concrete plan," said Mr. Kvarda.

Action on a new centre has hung fire for 20 years but "as far as we're concerned it has to go somewhere—and in the near future," added Mr. Kvarda.

"We feel that if council sees some sort of contribution coming from the public they will realize that the citizens really want a civic centre," he stressed.

"We, along with you feel the need for a community centre," he told the Jaycee.

"But when this was first introduced (to city council), it was badly presented and became a political football," Mr. Bradshaw claimed.

Henry Noakes, Canadian Labor Congress district representative, warned the project was "a matter of straight economics".

Hockey is "the one activity that promises financial returns" in any arena operation.

Operation of other community activities often is too costly for the groups involved, said Mr. Noakes.

"The upshot is Junior A hockey will pay a lot better and you end up with a hockey arena . . . regardless of the good intentions of the people who are starting it."

Five Flee Madoc Fire

MADOC — A family of five were left homeless today after fire destroyed their home at Millbridge, about 15 miles north of here.

Forced to flee in their night attire were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Henderson and their young children.

Police said the fire started in stovepipe in the attic of the frame home.

The house, about 75 years old, was heated by two wood stoves.

Trenton Calls School Tender

TRENTON — Board of Education is to call tenders immediately for the proposed six-room addition to Prince Charles public school.

The project, with an estimated price tag of $200,000, has been approved by the Ontario department of education.

Rotary Speaker Advocates Downtown Community Centre

Any arena-community centre project in Belleville should be located downtown and should be part of urban redevelopment, with provision being made for continued use of the arena for ice-skating in years to come, Belleville Rotarians were told yesterday.

Richard Zeidler of the Piggott Construction Company, expressing his faith in a multi-purpose building, said, "Belleville resembles your facilities the more scope there is for making money."

He said in an examination of 40 cities in North America, it was noted that the greatest distance from the central area of the city was one half-mile. Centres reporting a profit were a median of less than a half-mile from the centre of town, and those showing a loss were a median of 1.0 miles from the centre of town.

The study was undertaken in connection with construction of the Ottawa civic centre which contains an exhibit and convention hall, an assembly hall, and an arena. The centre has been a success according to Mr. Zeidler with attendance and booking requests attesting to the fact. "A large capacity theatre is a familiar city," he added, "makes the one and two night stands of entertainment groups economically viable."

Of the economics of such a venture, Mr. Zeidler said, "I would expect to operate at a deficit for the first two years. Eventually, if it is well run, there is no reason why it can not make money."

He said Belleville has "excellent" sites. "Here you have the lake and river as an environment for an attractive centre." Such a centre would play an important role in keeping members of an expanding labor force in their home city.

Speaking of the Ottawa centre, Mr. Zeidler referred to the significance of population growth, annual dollar factors in its construction and noted that the annual growth rate of Metropolitan Ottawa is estimated at 5.6 per cent, with a population forecast of 880,000 for the national capital region by 1986 to 1990, and 361,000 for the city proper by 1984.

Describing Ge Ottawa centre as a success, Mr. Zeidler went on to say, "I feel the role cities like Belleville play in the development of our country is to provide a location for industry which can offer prospective major population centres with reasonable land costs, taxes, and easier access from residence to place of work for the labor force.

"Industry is attracted by the facilities it provides. A civic centre would do much to attract and retain the labor force necessary for industrial expansion. I include here an aspect of the earlier downtown redevelopment than that which normally occurs in the life of a city such as Ste Toronto.

"In Toronto, urban redevelopment took place only when the downtown area spread threatened strangulation. The location of your centre should, therefore, be the start of your downtown redevelopment. This should be preceded by an industrial plan for the downtown area.

"In short, when you build, have a plan and build only beautiful buildings which will continue to contribute to the appearance of your city for many years, and which will act at the same time as the catalyst of your development."

Japs Boost Industry

Japan's astonishing progress in the post-war years and its modern role as one of the dominant powers of international commerce is well illustrated by its continuing interest in Canada's west coast.

British Columbia is not only the gateway for Japanese trade with this country, it is becoming a prime attraction for business investment by Japan.

The latest venture is by a Japanese firm that expects to develop Alberta's Athabasca oil sands this year. With this in view, the Japan Petroleum Exploration Co. is studying the possibility of using Kitimat, B.C. as a port and refinery site.

The plan, one of several being studied, would ultimately involve a 700-mile pipeline, a production refinery at tidewater and shipping in 150,000 tankers to Japan.

A significant factor in Kitimat's favor is that it is several hundred miles closer to Japan than Vancouver. This, allied with the fact the Japanese company expects to open a plant this year with an initial production capacity of 200,000 barrels a day, augurs well for an increase in the industrial capacity of both countries.

The Common Cold

"The poor devils. They are among 2,000,000 Canadians who have got a cold this week. What is to be done?"

That is the word on the front cover of The Canadian magazine and it accompanies an eloquent picture of a family all down with the cold. There is father with a towel round his shoulders, a glass in his hand and his feet in a basis of hot water, mother having a good sneeze, teenage daughter with that rare commodity of the age of central heating, a hot water bottle, and sundry other family members in various stages of extremity.

So what IS to be done? Says writer Tom Alderman, "Once you fall prey to the swarming viruses, not much helps — neither drugs nor vaccines nor many of the 10,000 cold remedies on the market. Most cold remedies have undeserved reputations because, as we grow older, we have fewer colds, and those colds we do have don't last too long . . ."

"The best you can do is cut down the chance of the infection spreading — take a hot bath, some headache pills, then crawl into bed and keep warm."

As Dr. Christopher Andrewes, a British authority has put it, "Untreated colds last seven days, and carefully treated colds, a week." In other words, it is six of one and half-a-dozen of the other.

Our own remedy, unless the bug is so serious that one should stay in bed, is plenty of fresh air and exercise. And as the doctor says, it still lasts seven days — or thereabouts.

Moscow and Twiggy

Twiggy, Britain's celebrated young fashion model, has come in for some adverse comment from the Soviet Union. And that is a sure sign the communists are feeling touchy — not for the first time — on some aspect of life in the decadent and bourgeois western world.

The fashion scene of course is one such area of discontent. For years Russian women have been going around looking like so many sacks of potatoes. But Russia has its attractive younger set too and in more recent times they have been giving a lead in improving the feminine image in their country.

The result is Soviet women today dress better and with more flair than in the immediate postwar years. Much of the credit for this must go to Soviet women who have visited Russia following the lifting of travel restrictions and whose clothes inevitably have made an impact on the fashion-conscious there.

But to get back to Twiggy, the Moscow Literary Gazette has called her a "capitalist tool" and the wrong kind of image for modern youth.

Well, the image of communist youth is not all that admirable either, to judge from the frequent reports of "hooliganism" that emanate from the Soviet press.

As for Twiggy, she is no fool and she had a few home truths for the Soviets which she passed on in an interview the other day. She said she had just returned from Germany and knew all about the Berlin wall and censorship and lack of freedom.

Beatniks and hippies and their like Twiggy said she loathed. She was no model for them. And no, she didn't take drugs and would people please stop asking her stupid questions!

Twiggy's most effective answer to her Moscow critics was the fact that she gets fan mail from behind the iron curtain.

"Maybe that's what is bothering them," she said. And she could well be right.

Charismatic' Is the 'in' Word in Leadership Stakes

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA. - Ever been so heartily sick of any word as charisma? Like in Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

It has become so utterly debased as to be positively sickmaking.

But, it is what the campaign, managers of each of the Liberal leadership candidates confidently claims his man has in greater magnificence and abundance than the other contenders.

Charisma, according to the college edition of Webster's New World Dictionary, is. . . .

". . . a divine gift, the supposed possession of some divinely inspired power as in prophesy, perform miracles, etc."

Precisely the talent, isn't it, to which any ambitious and self-respecting politician would lay claim in charismatic quantities?

But the word has taken such an unmerciful flogging in the great race that, in its current context, it is making a bit of a liar out of Webster.

For it has become just a fancy political "in" word for image.

You know image — the face, the mind, the character. In fact, the very man himself that each candidate hopes the public sees when he appears in the flesh.

The image goes much deeper than what appears in a photo or even on the TV screen.

That is why the candidates are running themselves ragged around the country meeting people, especially the voting delegates who will be picking the winner in the Liberal popularity contest.

It is a matter of seeing is believing — maybe.

But what the delegate is to believe when he sees daily becomes more difficult.

(Oops, sorry, correction: with the charisma he projects.)

So they are all busy changing their political makeup.

Mitchell Sharp no longer is so much the cool, calculating bureaucrat reflecting the warmth of a computer. . . not since he suspended his active personal campaign and became an Ottawa stay-at-home, busy as finance minister fighting inflation, shoring up the economy and defending the dollar.

No indeed. Suddenly he is less of the distant and slightly distainful intellectual, impatient of mere ordinary human beings, especially taxpayers — and more of the warm, understanding, just-plain-folks sort of person, relaxed, smiling, casual.

He is even telling jokes — would you believe on himself? The federal financial situation may be grim, but he can still laugh — and man, does that take a sense of humor!

Paul Martin is still shaking every hand within reach, even if he has to stretch for it. His card-index mind still pops the correct name out of his mental file of the thousands and thousands of faces he has seen — and remembers — in his 33 years in Parliament.

He may be a veteran, yes, he makes no bones about that. But he is every bit as much of a swinger as the youngest candidate in the race.

Wasn't his 1967 budget modern mind that thought up family allowances, hospital insurance and other progressive Liberal things, they ask? (It was, in fact, none other than the new "young" Paul Martin.)

Then there is John Greene. Yep that is right, John's the correct, Joe the nickname.

A sad case, this. For hasn't Joe Greene spent five parliamentary years posing as a card even a rube?

It didn't matter that Joe was really a city slicker—a lawyer from Toronto—he stuck a figurative straw in his mouth, and now he is stuck with the charisma of a lovable hayseed with a weakness for play-acting the part of an Ottawa Valley Abe Lincoln, tousled of hair, stoop-ed of shoulders, drawling of slow, cracker-barrel speech. But that wasn't the real Joe, he now insists, just a kind of act — a thing. Because the real John Greene is that polished sophisticate who has come out from behind the barn.

That former para-military man, Paul Hellyer, he of the hard - driving, hard-away modern mind that thought up family allowances, hospital insurance and other progressive Liberal things, they ask? (It was, in fact, none other than the new "young" Paul Martin.)

Then there is John Greene. Yep that is right, John's the correct, Joe the nickname.

A sad case, this. For hasn't Joe Greene spent five parliamentary years posing as a card even a rube?

It didn't matter that Joe was really a city slicker—a lawyer from Toronto—he stuck a figurative straw in his mouth, and now he is stuck with the charisma of a lovable hayseed with a weakness for play-acting the part of an Ottawa Valley Abe Lincoln, tousled of hair, stoop-

Resurfacing of 30 miles of the roads system in the south-eastern section of the county, will form a major part of the Roads and Bridges Committee's Spring activities this year, County Engineer W. L. Langlois said today.

Half a century in business in the same location is the proud record of Quick and Robertson, local men's and boys' wear store which this week is celebrating its 50th anniversary in business by a special anniversary sale.

Among the Ontario mayors who have been invited to be the guests of Mayor H. E. McCallum of Toronto at the National Sportsmen's Show in the Coliseum, next week, is Mayor L. E. Storey of this city. Mayor Storey has accepted the Toronto chief magistrate's invitation.

St. Thomas' Church Honor Roll: At St. Thomas' Church Sunday morning immediately following the processional hymn the church wardens approached the chancel steps and presented to His Lordship Bishop Bidwell a roll of honor containing the names of 89 members of the parish who have made the supreme sacrifice for King and Country. Upon receiving the roll the Bishop conducted a brief service of dedication. Following the presentation of the honor roll the rite of Confirmation was conducted by the bishop. The number confirmed was the greatest in the history of the parish, being 39, of which 17 were males and 22 females. Of the full number, 20 were adults.

The French "Fact" in Africa

Uranium and Oil Among Assets of Former Colony

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The little country of Gabon, straddling the equator in western Africa, officially became free Aug. 17, 1960, but continues to maintain economic and defence ties with France.

The government of the former French colony last month received an official protest from the Canadian government for directly inviting Quebec province to send a representative to an international education conference in Libreville, Gabon's capital.

Ottawa sources claimed France "manipulated" the invitation; Gabon said it acted with in the framework of the Canadian constitution.

With fewer than 500,000 inhabitants in an area of 102,000 square miles—twice the size of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island combined—tropical Gabon is the most prosperous of the black-ruled African countries, with a gross domestic product which in 1967 was reported at $450 per capita.

But the surface has only been scratched in exploiting Gabon's resources.

Engineering studies have been made for a 350-mile railway to a mountain of iron at Belinga in the interior. Plans announced in 1967 called for the railway to be completed by 1975, making possible the export of perhaps 8,000,000 tons of high-quality iron ore each year.

It also will open up for exploitation large areas of forest too far from the ocean to be profitable. For nearly a century, French firms exploited Gabon's huge forests, virtually exhausting those closest to the Atlantic coast.

However Gabon, like other underdeveloped countries, is having difficulty raising capital to carry out its development projects.

Meanwhile the little country, sandwiched between the former French Congo, Cameroon and Spanish Guinea, is exporting high-grade manganese ore, uranium and oil.

The manganese ore, found near Moanda in the southeast corner of Gabon, is the world's largest known high quality deposit outside the Soviet Union. The export value in 1967 was reported to be $35,000,000 a year, with production limited by the capacity of an aerial cableway that carries the ore 47 miles to a railway.

Not far from Moanda, at Mounana, a French company mines the uranium which France uses in its nuclear arsenal. The closely-guarded mine, opened in 1961, produces perhaps 1,000 tons a year of 75 per cent uranium concentrate, all of it going to France.

Gabon's oil production along the Atlantic coast more than doubled last year to about 7,000,000 tons of crude. A refinery has been completed to turn out gasoline and fuel oil for Gabon and its neighbors in the Central African Customs Union.

Brighter days for enormous pacts with this always-hot country.

Co-operation agreements, most of them signed the day in 1960 when Gabon became independent, include a defence pact.

Other pacts cover co-ordination of policy on foreign affairs, economic, financial and monetary matters, meteorology, shipping, civil aviation and education.

Corby Executive Clarifies Talk on Purchasing Issue

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

From recent letters to the editor I find myself in a position whereby an explanation may be in order to clarify certain comments.

Firstly, may I say that despite the article that appeared in your newspaper, I did not "blast" anyone, either collectively or individually, nor was there any "blast" intended. I am afraid that this unfortunate word has made my comments appear to have been derogatory rather than constructive. In point of fact, the object of my talk was to indicate that although Corby's have expanded their purchases in Belleville very considerably in recent years, there remains plenty of scope for further increase if existing facilities for goods and service could be enlarged. This in fact is all that I said and certainly all that I intended to say.

Corby's contribution to Belleville is something that we are very proud of and we would never do anything to jeopardize the support we in turn receive from the community. For this reason I am deeply concerned that any remark I made could have been construed in any other way than that in which it was intended, and that was an earnest and sincere desire to be of assistance to my community. Unfortunately, in the article that appeared in your newspaper, there was no mention of the many comments that I made highlighting the good services that we receive from a large majority of our local people.

I most certainly regret any misunderstanding this matter may have caused.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Kuomintang, died 43 years ago today—in 1925—only weeks after setting up a government in Peking. He was proclaimed president of China in 1912, when the monarchy was overthrown. Dr. Sun was embroiled in civil wars and widespread chaos until a political and military staff from Soviet Russia helped unify China.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—three German Zeppelins rode the northeast coast of England; large-scale German raids in Palestine fed and Armenieres areas were repulsed; John Dillon, MP for East Mayo, was appointed chairman of the Irish Nationalist party.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Soviet Russia removed all women and children from Rzhev, a Black Sea oil port; the Finnish Army reported slight Russian advances north of Viipuri; Finnish parliament met in a secret session, with no official report on peace negotiations.

Pollution Fight Being Lost

Financial Post

The nine governments with jurisdiction over the Great Lakes Ontario, six U.S. border states, Washington and Ottawa — are failing miserably to control lake pollution. Because they lack any inter-governmental machinery that would allow them to get down to a real statement of objectives, anti-pollution efforts have been piecemeal. The battle against pollution — the eutrophication (the death of water) has been a losing one.

Even Ottawa River pollution, a much simpler problem both jurisdictionally and physically, has not been faced up to because no real effort has been made to decide what exactly Ontario and Quebec want.

How clean do Canadians want their lakes and rivers to be? This is a very basic question the politicians and bureaucrats have still to ask, let alone answer. Yet until objectives are set planners don't know how to tackle the urgencies of pollution.

Emotional pleas for cleaner water make good headlines for politicians but not much else. What is needed is a realistic appraisal of what can be achieved at what cost and why it must be done.

This can be done only when all the interests concerned get set up the machinery of study and consultation. Ottawa and the provinces should get going now on the problems of waterways that are entirely within Canada, and press the U.S. for the establishment of an international system for consultation between all the governments involved.

Until this is done nobody can really tell what is involved in beating pollution.

Surfing on Snow Comes True Now Board on Market

REGINA (CP) — Up to now, a Prairie resident stood an excellent chance of getting through the winter without being hit by a surfboard. In the future, he will have to keep his eyes peeled.

In defiance of the notable absence of surf in landlocked Saskatchewan, three Regina men plan to market a board that will give that frustrated surfer his kicks on a snow-covered slope, or even a grassy or sandy incline if need be.

Outdoors World Distributors Ltd. was formed last November by three men of widely-differing backgrounds. Dick Driedger, who invented the board, is a printer for a department store; Elmer Doell is a finance company manager; and Mike Ryan is a lawyer.

"I had the idea," said Mr. Driedger. "They had the money."

The board was conceived while Mr. Driedger was watching some escapist television commercials.

He took it to his partners and they liked it well enough to invest more than $3,000 and uncounted hours of their time.

When the first crude model came off the work table, it was, in the words of its creator, "just a little piece of wood."

"It looked like a war-surplus tank hatch," was Mr. Ryan's blunter appraisal, referring to heavy steel flanges which were a vain attempt to provide directional control.

Approximately six feet long, compared with a real surfboard's eight feet or more, it has a rounded tip and tapers to a narrow tail. While it has the slightly convex bottom of a real surfboard, it also has a mouf-'d flange running down each side of the bottom.

The board will be produced by a Regina company which specializes in work with reinforced plastic.

Mr. Driedger said the board will be retailed through a major chain store for about $30.

The partners didn't patent the idea. Instead, they took out an industrial design registration, making it impossible for anyone to produce exact copies. Mr. Ryan said this protected them fully because changing the board's shape or the position of the flanges made it impossible to control—or, in the case of a couple of early models, hard to get moving.

Basically, the board's construction is a sandwich of a foam-filled plank with a top and bottom covering of reinforced plastic. The top is overlaid with friction stripping which gives the rider a sure footing.

It is best suited to about a foot of powder snow. On this, it's just like surfing. If the rider wants to turn, he leans into it. If he wants to stop, he just moves to the back of the board and digs the tail in.

The board will support the weight of an adult in water. And, for the laxier types, it can be pulled behind a power tobogan.

Visions of one of these things taking off down a hill on a solo performance spring to mind because it has no safety straps like skis. And it would be hard to put any on because the rider needs his feet free to control the board.

The makers have an idea for an elasticized belt-rope setup which would attach the rider to the board while allowing him mobility. But ideally, they said, it should be used on a genle slope with as few other people about as possible.

Expo's Deficit Is $295,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Expo 67 is expected to show a deficit of $295,000,000, the Commons was told Monday.

This figure, supplied in a written reply to Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland), will be the total net cost on the books of the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition, which ran Expo for the federal, Quebec and Montreal city governments.

Termination of contracts, disposal of assets and final financial statements were not expected to be finished until about June 30.

Of the deficit, the federal government will have to pay 50 per cent, the province of Quebec 37½ per cent, and the City of Montreal 12½ per cent.

1. An increase in Canadian tourist revenue in 1967 of about $400,000,000, most of it due to Expo.

2. An estimated increase of $230,000,000 in tax revenues of all governments generated by expenditures on Expo.

3. Assets transferred to the federal government, the province and the City of Montreal of a total value of $74,000,000.

4. An investment of $200,000,000 by foreign participants in Expo.

5. Intangible benefits to Canada's foreign trade and general reputation abroad.

The Commons was told that about 25,000,000 Expo admissions—half the total—were from outside the country, and about 1,000,000 from outside North America.

Gold Has No Place Says UK Banker

LONDON (CP) — Sir George Bolton, a leading British banker, dismisses the "legend of gold" as fundamentally irrelevant to the real picture of world trade and monetary power.

"The one thing that keeps the Western world going is the U.K. and United States banking systems, the only extensive banking systems in the world," Sir George, chairman of the Bank of London and South Africa and director of a number of Canadian companies, said Monday.

He was addressing a press conference on publication of the bank's annual accounts for the year ended Dec. 31, 1967.

Sir George said attention should be focused on the "growth," survival and expansion" of the U.K. and U.S. banking systems rather than the "fundamentally unimportant" question of gold.

Banks had clung to the legend of gold as the key to international liquidity, but it had "no place at all" in the world trade and banking, which was entirely executed out with paper money.

Board Representation Issue in Picton

PICTON — Every municipality should be represented on the amalgamated Prince Edward County school board, county councillors were told yesterday.

The prediction came as council debated in detail changes demanded by amalgamated Ontario school areas being launched next year. The legislation has precipitated controversy in many municipalities.

Yesterday's council debate was sparked by a brief on adjustment problems to amalgamation presented by an interim committee.

Committee chairman Malcolm Dulmage emphasized that council had power to decide how its representation on the new amalgamated board should be distributed.

Most councillors agreed with Deputy Reeve Thompson that membership should include all municipalities in the county.

However, Reeve Bernard Hepburn earlier said the department of education has specified local representation would be based on farm and residential assessment.

Labor Excluded From Key Roles Says Speaker

Organized labor is excluded from key roles in city affairs, the Belleville and District Labor Council was told last night.

The angry charge came from Gerald Cunningham, a former council president, as he specifically singled out the city's industrial commission for criticism.

Labor council aid is often enlisted for civic projects, but organized labor is allowed no representation on key city groups.

"When something comes up that needs to be done in the city they run down to the labor council," said Mr. Cunningham. "But when . . . It comes to anything that really interests us we're just riff-raff. Nobody is interested in us.

"The labor body is willing to work in the interests of the city of Belleville, but the labor body wants to have its own hand in there too so it will know what's going on," he said.

Mr. Cunningham claimed when he once tried to secure a labor appointee on the industrial commission "they thought I was crazy."

He said his proposal was rejected "because we were labor."

"We would like to get together," said the labor official. "We figure our aims — although approached from different angles — are the same: the city of Belleville."

Cradle Picture Service Is Another WHA Project

There's no need to wait until you get him home to photograph that important new member of the family.

Belleville General Hospital staff will do it for you, while your newborn is still in the nursery.

Cradle picture service is a project of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, operated with the co-operation of the nursing staff of the hospital's newborn nursery. Since it began two years ago, hundreds of new babies have been photographed for their proud parents and a copy of each baby's picture is filed away with his hospital record.

The Auxiliary arranges distribution of the pictures to the mothers, and collects 25 per cent of the total fee for support of its other hospital service projects .The remaining amount goes to the American firm which rents the camera to the hospital and the technician who develops and finishes the film.

Nine regular volunteers and four spares take care of the paper work involved, distributing the pictures and taking orders every day. Mrs. R. S. Rolston is convener of the service.

The camera used has a fixed focus and is mounted permanently over the bed where the baby is placed for picture-taking. A red filter on the flash minimizes any flaws or blotches on a newborn's skin.

The service offers a kind of twin insurance. Parents whose babies come in pairs get the set of pictures of the second infant for the price of the first.

Talk on Artificial Resuscitation

The regular meeting of the Argyll Chapter I.O.D.S. was held in the Officers' Mess, Belleville Armories on Wednesday.

Mr. James of the St. John Ambulance Corps using an authentic dummy showed the proper method of mouth to mouth resuscitation. Several members practised on the model. Many important details were learned to be used in case of an emergency.

Mrs. Sakamoto extended the thanks of the chapter and presented Mr. James with a small token.

The meeting was called to order by the Regent, Mrs. F. R. Allan. A letter was read from the commanding officer thanking the members for their assistance at the reception following the change of command ceremonies.

Mrs. W. E. Refausse distributed a number of dirty bags to be filled and asked that all sewing be returned as quickly as possible. Mrs. J. McLeod in charge of knitting gave out wool and received a number of finished articles.

Mrs. Sakamoto read a thought provoking article from the "Ontario ENO News Roundup" re civil defence preparation in Russia. They are carrying through a mass education scheme beginning at school age. This is of vital concern to the entire population.

Mrs. A. S. McConnell reported on publicity for Founder's Day and thanked The Intelligencer and C.J.B.Q. for their co-operation also with the short story competition. Several enquiries were received from interested parties. Mrs. A. Duffy quoted an article from the "Times Echoes" from London, England by M. Mayhew Hood "A View from Here". J. Sprague reported that 18 dozen dressings had been made by the Argyll Chapter at a recent Cancer Clinic.

A rummage sale will be held towards the end of April under the auspices of the two chapters. Retiring Regent was unable to attend the meeting owing to Regent Mrs. F. R. Allan presented Mrs. K. D. H. Willcocks with a gift in appreciation of her valuable service to the Chapter during her three year term of office.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Sakamoto and her group.

Robot Nurse Listens to Every Heart Beat of Coronary Patients

HALIFAX CP — A pretty nurse is often the better part of the cure, but the Victoria General Hospital here has a new kind of nurse and beauty is not one of her strong points. She's a robot.

She and another like her stand silently by coronary heart patients and listen to every heart beat. Her lack of gracious curves is perhaps compensated for by the colorful lights blipping across her glowing screens.

A specially - trained staff including pretty nurses — constantly observes the watching machines for any sign of irregularity in the patient's heartbeat. Every patient has just suffered a coronary heart attack or is in danger of attack.

One wiry arm of a machine is attached to each of the patient's arms and legs.

Any irregularity of heartbeat is recorded on the machine's screens and noticed immediately by the observing staff. One of them pushes a button on the machine an' it begins producing an electrocardiogram.

Dr. Anderson said immediate action is necessary in coronary cases because complications can develop within 30 seconds of the first sign of irregularity.

The mortality rate is 30 to 40 per cent among victims of coronary attack, he said, and two-thirds of the deaths take place during the first three days after an attack.

The hospital put its mechanical nurses in a heart care unit for the first time in February. Similar units are being established in teaching hospitals across the continent.

Dr. Anderson said coronary care units with the ever - watching machines have reduced the total coronary mortality rate by about one-third.

He described the unit as "nursing-oriented" and said success depends on the quality of nursing care involved.

Since it was not feasible to have a medical team made up solely of doctors, the nurses are given training that helps them recognize the first sign of irregularity.

A small number of machines can help save the lives of many people, Dr. Anderson said, because patients are kept in the unit for an average of only three days.

He hopes to see it become a training centre for doctors and nurses throughout the province who want to set up similar units in their own hospitals.

Ann Landers

Younger Brother Also Needs Attention

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son Henry is a good boy. He is not brilliant, but he has never flunked and has to work hard for those C grades. Unfortunately his older brother was not only a top student but a fine athlete. I am sure Henry feels he cannot compare with his brother, and this is part of the problem.

Several months ago Henry began to "miss" getting haircuts. He made excuses from time to time and suddenly it occurred to me that his hair was longer than his sister's. My husband became increasingly irritated over the boy's long hair and last night he ordered Henry to get a haircut right after school or not come home.

Well, Ann, Henry showed up tonight for dinner with his head completely shaved. He looked ghastly! I didn't realize his head was so bumpy and misshapen. I am angry with my husband because he threatened the boy into doing this foolish thing. He says, "It's only hair. It'll grow back."

Please say something that makes sense. I need it. — HEARTBROKEN MOM.

DEAR MOM: It's only hair. It'll grow back. And when it does, tell your husband not to make an issue of it and he'll have less trouble over the things that are really important.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in regard to the girl who wanted to know if she should tell her fiance about an affair she had a few years earlier. The girl should thank her lucky stars is was only an "affair."

We and I went steady for seven months and I was so sure he planned to marry me that I let myself go completely. When I told Vic I was pregnant he said, "Gee, that's a shame," and announced he had unexpectedly fallen in love with someone else. I haven't seen him since that night.

I am on the heavy side naturally and nobody can tell I am in my sixth month. I've dieted some nice fellows and one of them is getting serious about me. I know I must tell him the truth but I dread it and keep putting it off. What advice do you have for me? — NOT SO SECRET.

DEAR GIRL: You've got more than a secret, Toots, and you'd better tell the young man immediately in plain, every-day language. If you keep putting it off you may find yourself asking him to drive you to the hospital in the middle of a movie.

At any rate, the upcoming situation will prove a real test. If he stays around after he hears the news he's a true gem and you should consider yourself a very lucky girl.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is more of an annoyance than a problem but I'd appreciate an answer.

My Aunt Bessie is a lovely woman but she has a habit that drives me batty. When someone speaks to her she says, "Wait a minute, I can't hear you. Then she puts on her glasses and says, "There, that's better."

Does she actually think that putting on her glasses will improve her hearing? Please comment. — RUTHIE.

DEAR RUTHIE: Not only does she think so, but she may be right. The experts tell us that when one sense is sharpened it often makes the others more acute. Get it?

Dear Doris: A reader was enquiring about "The Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight". The poem dates back to the old-time "melledramme"—possibly the worst of the century. The story concerns the hero who was in jail and condemned to be hanged on the ringing of the evening curfew bell. The heroine climbs the belfry and hangs onto the swinging clapper of the bell, doubtless talking an awesome shellacking in the process — but doing an effective job of hobbling the deaf bell-ringer's best efforts.

As a boy (some 45 years ago) I was the proud owner of some magic lantern slides depicting this heartrending story of love and adversity. Also, during the 1930's, a popular comic song (in England) partly described the 'orrid details with a chorus which went:

Your boy friend is locked in a cold prison cell.
Swing to the left, Nellie, swing to the right.
Remember — the Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight."

Oh yes, they finally carried away the reid, lifeless body of our noble heroine, but while in the process of disposing of your tear-drenched tissues — ponder a while on the moral of the story: "You may give for Luv your all in secret, but a bell must be tolled." — S. H.

Dear S. H.: Cold: Lifeless! All my versions of this chef d'oeuvre (which have been pouring in) report a pardon for the H. F. by Cromwell — who happened along about then — and a deliriously happy ending with a very much alive heroine. My thanks for all copies and commentaries.

Dear Doris: In today's paper I spotted the note at the end which said "Doris knows Canadian resources and can guide. . . ." That gave me an idea.

I have been trying to figure out where to write to find out the rules of courtesy for the Canadian maple leaf flag. Also the fine points of folding the Canadian flag after lowering. I am a counselor for a girls' club and we are planning to take up a project along this line. — Club Leader.

Dear Leader: There are two government publications for you:

(1) A booklet entitled "The National Flag of Canada", available from The Queen's Printer, Ottawa, for 25 cents.

(2) A leaflet entitled "Etiquette for Canada's National Flag", distributed by the Canadian Citizenship Branch, Secretary of State, Ottawa. Free on request.

Dear Doris: I have been married nearly 10 years. Like so many women, I had a shady and possibly shocky idea of sex prior to marriage. My mother always gave me the impression she didn't have too much respect for men.

Somewhere in my life, and I don't know where, I got the impression that once the required family was had, sex life was finished, I am now finding out it isn't.

I am not demonstrative, either to him or to my two lovely daughters. It doesn't mean I think any less of them, though he feels dejected, I know. — Reserved.

Dear Reserved: It takes a sort of emotional earthquake to shake the attitudes which have been ingrained in us in childhood. Misguided parents like yours give youngsters the idea that sex is just something a woman puts up with.

Yet a good physical relationship is a mutual and continuing expression of married love. There is still time, with increasing understanding, for you to begin to be affectionate

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Recommended Lemon Slices

By MARY MOORE

This recipe came to me from reader Myrtle after we gave you Ruth's Lemon Slices and Hello Dollies.

It is a beauty and I am nibbling on a slice from our test batch as I hand-write this copy. It is highly recommended.

MYRTLE'S LEMON SLICES

Base:
½ cup butter
2 tablespoons icing sugar
1 cup all-purpose flour

Filling:
1 large peeled apple, grated (¾ cup)
1 lemon, juice and grated rind
2 tablespoons rind, packed; ¼ cup juice)
½ cup granulated sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon butter

Topping:
1 egg
¾ cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter
2 cups shredded coconut (or flaked or desiccated)

To make base blend all base ingredients together and pat evenly into buttered 8" pan. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from oven.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Chicken Fricassee; Buttered Noodles; Julienne Wax Beans; Citrus Fruit Cup; Drop Cookies (see Mon.) Coffee.

To make Filling grate apple and at once in heavy saucepan add lemon juice and rind, butter, sugar and egg and stir well and cook stirring until it thickens a little. Pour over baked base. (You do not have to wait until either is cool.)

To make Topping cream butter and sugar, stir in egg and cocoanut until all are blended. Spoon over filling, then carefully spread evenly over. Now there are two choices:

1) Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until cocoanut is tinged with gold, or 2) Do not bake but chill thoroughly.

Both methods are fine but the unbaked chilled version must be cool to cut neatly. I liked both versions equally. These are wonderful squares and the ladies at Shirley's shower raved about them. The women in the kitchen were scraping the crumbs from the pan and eating them before washing up.

Institute's Operations Questioned

OTTAWA (CP) — Stewart Sutton, secretary-general of the Vanier Institute of the Family, said Friday that the major emphasis of the institute's 1968 projects is on promoting healthy family living.

Mr. Sutton was commenting on a statement by Prof. Ben Schlesinger of the University of Toronto, who said Wednesday the institute has collected money for research "and does nothing but sit there in Ottawa."

The secretary-general of the organization said that Prof. Schlesinger, one of its members "knows from reports in his possession that one of the major projects this year is devoted to building and enhancing family life."

"This is our Family Life Education project, started in 1966 which will require at least three years to complete and involves every province in Canada. It also is designed to support numerous existing organizations in Canada working with young families."

Mr. Sutton said contributions to the institute go to its basic endowment fund and that all of the institute's operations, of which research is only a part, are paid for out of the income from the endowment. Capital is left undisturbed.

Minerva Chapter Pays Tribute to Organist

A visit on Friday evening, from the grand organist of the Grand Chapter of Ontario, Mr. Bruce Barnum, gave opportunity to members of Minerva Chapter No. 138, Order of the Eastern Star, to pay tribute to their own organist, Mrs. Lil Jordan.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Arlene Ashbury and the Worthy Patron, Mr. Adam Stalker, warmly welcomed the more than 200 members and visitors to the meeting. Special words were extended to Bruce Barnum of Campbellford, Grand Organist, and to the 14 visiting organists from district chapters and mention made of the appreciation felt by all to these who so freely share their musical talent and ability with their respective chapters and communities.

Other guests welcomed were Grand Chapter Committee members, Mrs. Marjorie Hargrave, Brighton, Mrs. Edna Dobbs and Mrs. Frances Hall, Port Perry and the District Deputy Grand Matron, Mrs. Henrietta Huff, Bowmanville. Other officers and Patrons were present from Belleville 55, Havelock, Brighton 190, Cobourg 192, Colborne, Madoc, Tweed, Port Hope and Picton.

Mr. Barnum addressed the meeting, bringing greetings from the Grand Chapter and pointing out how large a part music plays in the chapters and how difficult it is to get organists are so necessary. He mentioned how pleased he was to share the honours of the evening with Minerva's organist of 30 years, Mrs. Lil Jordan.

A gift from the Chapter was presented to Mr. Barnum by George Greatrix, Associate Patron, in a brief ceremony which followed the closing of Chapter. Each visiting organist was presented with a corsage.

Mrs. Ella Charlesworth, Trenton, thanked Minerva Chapter for the corsages and for including them as honoured guests for the evening.

The banquet hall, to which the gathering adjourned, carried out the theme of a musical evening with enlarged musical notes as a background, a floral centrepiece, flanked by musical motifs and a suitably sanctified and decorated cake centring the head table. Table favors further set out the musical theme.

Adam Stalker, as master of ceremonies, introduced the head table guests, among whom were friends and relatives of Mrs. Lil Jordan.

Mrs. Bessie Marsh presented Mrs. Jordan with a lovely floral lamp — a token of esteem from Minerva Chapter; Mrs. Laura Hyde made a presentation on behalf of the Past Matrons and Mr. Jordan presented his wife with a beautiful bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Jordan in expressing thanks to all for this fine tribute, gave a brief history of her musical background.

A vocal solo, sung by Mrs. Beverly Shaw, was a fitting finale to the program.

The refreshment committee headed by Mrs. Rhoda Grey and Mrs. Dorothy Nicholl served luncheon, ending an evening, unique in the history of the Chapter.

Hero Who Hates War Saved by Open Heart Surgery in Bunker

KHE SANH (AP) — Jonathan M. Spicer became a marine yet he hated war and refused to kill. He received the jeers of fellow marines, then became a hero. He was counted clinically dead, yet he lives today.

He was clinically dead, field doctors said, when hit while helping wounded 100 yards from Khe Sanh's main aid station. There, doctors fought to save his life with open heart surgery in a badly lighted, underground bunker.

Pte. Spicer, 19, of Miami, Fla., son of a former Methodist minister who resigned because of ill health, once was an outcast at this base manned by marines in South Vietnam's northwest corner.

Because of his feelings about war and killing he was assigned to the team of medical corpsmen. In that job he became a hero. Repeatedly he shielded fallen men with his own body when enemy fire came in.

His father, William Spicer, now a junior high school teacher, said in Miami that Jonathan was "a gentle boy who even now reads his Bible every day."

"What no one realized was that he was thoroughly unselfish and wouldn't hesitate to put himself in danger," said Lieut. Edward Feldman, a medical officer from Forest Hills, N.Y.

Spicer got hit in a situation he didn't have to be in. Men were having trouble loading wounded onto a medical evacuation helicopter because of shelling.

Spicer saw it but an officer called to him from a bunker:

"Get the hell back in here."

Nevertheless, the young private turned and ran to the helicopter. He arrived just as a shell burst among the wounded men and the litter bearers. Spicer was hit in the heart, face and legs.

In the medical bunker, Lieut. John Magilligan of Brooklyn began to work on Spicer.

"He died real fast," said Magilligan. "His heart stopped. So did his breathing."

Nevertheless he cut open Spicer's chest.

Dr. Joseph W. Wolfe of Rutledge, Tenn., forced a plastic tube down the throat and began pumping oxygen into Spicer's lungs.

Magilligan had helped in a similar operation at a rear area hospital in November. He suspected that the piece of shrapnel had penetrated Spicer's heart, which then pumped blood into its surrounding membrane sac until so much pressure built up outside the heart it stopped the organ.

Magilligan opened the membrane, called the pericardium, and let it drain, dropping pressure on the heart.

As he began giving massive transfusions of new blood, Dr. James O. Finnegan of Philadelphia, Pa., moved to the stretcher which served as an operating table, reacting into the opening of Spicer's chest and began massaging the heart.

The heart began to beat again.

Finnegan next put his finger into the small hole in Spicer's heart, stopping the blood flow. Then the doctor took two stitches in the heart wall, withdrew the finger and drew the stitches tight.

He added a third stitch and the wound in the heart was closed.

"The heartbeat was strong, breathing was normal, blood pressure was 92. It was remarkable, that's all remarkable," Finnegan said.

In all, 15 minutes had passed from shellburst to final stitch.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Herbert! We're having babies!"

Water Used to Flush Polluted Great Lakes Might Itself Prove Too High in Nitrates

WASHINGTON (CP) — Water used in any scheme to flush out the pollution-troubled Great Lakes system could be of inferior quality itself, the annual meeting of the U.S. National Research Council was told Monday.

It was also suggested American cities might help the problem by exporting their pollution away from the basin as in the Chicago River diversion of 1900.

Even natural precipitation — rain and snow—seems to contain about twice as high a rate of nitrates as much of the Great Lakes water, said Dr. William Ackermann of the Illinois state water survey.

These chemical elements have sparked lush growths of plant and animal life to the extent that Lake Erie, the worst hit, has broad areas of water denuded of oxygen and thus of all life.

Director J. P. Bruce of the Canada Centre for Inland Waters at Burlington, Ont. said initial tests indicate that even James Bay watershed water may have higher nitrogen nitrate elements than the lakes.

He and Ackermann were speaking on the use of water transfers in "possible de-eutrophication" of the Great Lakes. That means injecting new flows of water that would halt and reverse the build-up of chemical nutrients from industrial and city pollution or the fertiliser residues from adjacent farm land.

Treatment of wastes in advance seems to be the best form of control, Ackermann said. The North American Water and Power Alliance, sponsored by a private U.S. engineering firm, envisaged mass transfers from northwestern Canada. But, said Ackermann, preliminary tests showed nitrogen content roughly twice as high as lake waters.

The use of James Bay area waters, as proposed by engineer Thomas Kierans of Sudbury, seemed more promising. But Bruce said he fears such hopes could be dashed as well.

Ackermann defended the 1900 Chicago water diversion, which he acknowledged had brought strong opposition from Canada and neighboring states. But if the pollution in the water had gone into the lakes for the last 60 years, rather than south into the Mississippi, "the results would not be pleasant to contemplate."

Dr. Leonard Dworsky of Cornell University, third panel member, said a new arrangement of informal nature perhaps is needed for Canada and the U.S. to take a much broader look at their mutual problems.

Bruce concurred. He mentioned the growth of thermal energy plants around the lakes, and their production of heated water, as just one new problem that must be faced.

Murdered Man Sought Help

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — The chairman of the Ontario's Police Commission is investigating whether police received a phone call from a man shot to death Saturday.

Percy Milligan said Monday he is checking police stations to see which one Norman Matejk, 29, phoned for help three hours before he and Joseph R. Cyr, 25, shot each other to death in Matejk's living room.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

34th BELLEVILLE (LIONS CLUB)

The dinner opened with blessing by the Padre Rev. J. Hobbs, and was followed immediately by the evening's program.

Lion Bob Schammerhorn introduced the guests including Assistant District Commissioner Welch, Committee Chairman Lorne Bunnett, acting President Lion John Skurka, Secretary Lion Jack Dybie, Scouters — Akela Mrs. Dorothy Schammerhorn, Baloo, Mrs. Phyllis Schammerhorn and Scoutmaster Ron. Schammerhorn.

A special feature of the evening was the presentation of a new Canadian flag to the Pack and Troop by Lion John Skurka on behalf of the sponsors. Padre Hobbs received the flag for the Group and an impressive dedication ceremony followed.

Mr. Welch, A.D.C., speaking for Scouting thanked the Lions Club for their interest in Scouting over the years, and called attention to the new Cub and Scout Programs, especially the Scout program effect next September. He called on all parents to assist their boys in every way possible and to encourage them in their work in Scouting and Cubbing.

The new Cub and Scout Programs were explained in more detail by the Cubmaster and Scoutmaster, Mrs. and Mr. Ron. Schammerhorn. Lion Jay Collins, as organizer of the original 34th Belleville Group, thanked the speaker and a presentation was made to Mr. Welch on behalf of the sponsors.

Much credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. Schammerhorn for their continuous dedicated and untiring efforts during their 10 years of service to Scouting. The 34th Group, although one of the smallest in the District is one of the most successful, and progressive.

Fumes From Factory Prevent Quick Repair of Hydro Break

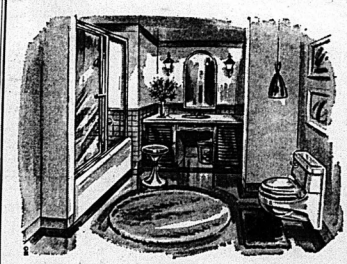
MONTREAL (CP) — A spokesman for Hydro-Quebec said Monday massive air pollution and atmospheric conditions combined to cause an electricity cut that affected a large part of the east-end of Montreal Island Sunday.

He also said that when repairmen sped to the scene they were "almost asphyxiated by clouds of chemical smoke from a nearby stack belonging to Union Carbide Canada Ltd."

"It took up to four hours to restore service because the men had to ask Union Carbide to cut back their production. Eventually the density of the smoke was reduced and they were able to work on the line."

The reason for the service break was that "thick industrial dust settled on two insulators, helped by the high humidity and the lack of wind.

"The insulators, which guard two live lines carrying 120,000 volts against grounding, became useless and there was a flash of current between the insulators. This caused a short circuit which cut the power."



Conservation Bodies Lose Seizure Powers

TORONTO (CP) — Conservation authorities will lose their independent powrs of expropriation under a bill that received first reading in the Ontario legislature Monday.

This change apparently was made in lieu of accepting a key recommendation of a select committee of the legislature that owners receive 110 per cent of the appraised value of their land plus costs.

Mr. Simonett said most of the changes were based on recommendations the committee tabled in the house a year ago.

Wrecking Made Easy!

Wrecking kept many a hand busy at city's Riverside Park project yesterday. On property were old buildings flanking Moira River, scheduled for destruction. Machinery did most of the work — but not all of it. At times sheer manpower helped accomplish task.

Housing Problem Is Solved

It's easy to solve the housing problem, when it's a matter of land clearance. All it needs is a hefty mechanical push — as in this scene at Riverside Park yesterday. Work crews removed old buildings, cleared scrub to extend prize park possession along Moira River near Highway 37.

Parks Projects

It Might Look Like Winter But Just Color It Green

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

It's drawing nigh to that peak period of domestic activity — Spring cleanup time.

But any householder grudging drudging might seek example from some city servants.

Specifically, city parks board, planners.

They not only have the biggest cleanup chore in Belleville — they look to with anticipation.

So much so, they've already set to work.

Yesterday, clearance crews moved in on Riverside Park, the city's newest — and most attractive — greenbelt acquisition.

On Highway 2, east of the city limits, crews last weekend, were scouring brush from a park project shared with Thurlow township.

But the busy time is yet to come, emphasizes parks superintendent Lloyd Syer.

In all, parks crews will have a total 125 acres to ready this Spring.

The acreage is scattered around the city graduating in size from the pocket - sized rose bower of Corby Park, to the sprawling Zwick's Island recreation area.

But seasonal work is also confined to a much smaller area — the parks board officers at 99 College West.

It's also budget - time and city department heads like Mr. Syer are rounding plans that will protect their demands on the treasury for another year.

In the final analysis, it will all depend on how much city council will allocate.

Until financial confirmations are received the superintendent is reluctant to discuss the focus of this year's parks programs.

However, yesterday's action along the river was to facilitate early grass seeding.

The project will extend the riverside belt another 1.3 acres, enlarging the park opened last year to nearly four acres.

There isn't the same bustling atmosphere down on Highway 2.

The deadline isn't as crucial.

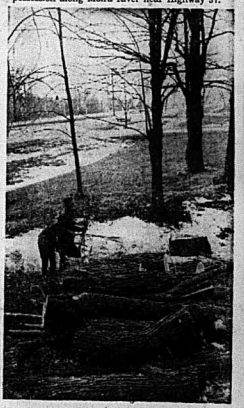
Both projects are slowly adding another spot of green to the city, symbolizing the change in public thinking.

Belleville, like all other Canadian communities has become increasingly aware of parks needs, says Mr. Syer.



The city has some natural advantages. The Bay of Quinte shoreline and the Moira River have tremendous potential for beautification programming, he believes.

Luckily, they have not been completely obscured by urban settlement.

"What happens in so many areas is that these spots get built up before a community gets park-conscious," says Mr. Syer. "Here, we're fortunate because there are still many areas available."

The ideal park situation "will gradually come about."

"But," says the parks superintendent as he turns back to his drafting board, "until you make a start you never get anywhere."

Work Log

Work already has started on greenbelt area immediately east of city on Highway 2. Trees and bush have been tidied in scheme projected over several years by Belleville, Thurlow township.

He Sees Green

Greenbelt plans start here. City parks superintendent Lloyd Syer works at drafting board as budget time nears.

Planning A Picnic

Some day this spot may be prime picnic approach to east-end Belleville. Meantime, crews have hoisted brush, lumber from Highway 2 belt in spring cleanup. Project is co-operative — engaging city and Thurlow township.

Cutting Up!

Clearing scrub is easy these days. All you need is circular bush cutter used by worker on Highway 2 project east of Belleville.

Bata Rail Crash Survivors Issue Writs for Damages

By MAURICE SWITZER
(Staff Reporter)

BATAWA — The controversy over a railway crossing here could be aired in the courts.

Claims for damages have been lodged by two local residents directly affected by car-train accidents at the crossing over the main road into this Bata Shoe Company community, a 100 yards west of Highway 33.

Toronto lawyer Norman Dyson, acting for William Rylott and Harold Rice, said he had issued writs for damages on behalf of his clients last week.

Mr. Dyson said the Rylott suit names Bata Shoe Company and Canadian National Railways and claims $65,000 damages.

The Rice claim is lodged against Sidney township, Bata Shoe and the CNR. The claim is "in excess" of that sought on behalf of Rylott, said Mr. Dyson.

Mrs. Rylott was driving her husband's car over the crossing March 11, 1967 when it was struck by a daily-scheduled CNR freight, killing her three-year-old son William Jr. and sending her to hospital with severe injuries.

Harold Rice, 48, lay pinned in the wreckage of his car for 40 minutes in 10-below-zero weather this January after a collision with the same daily ore train carrying iron pellets from Marmora to Picton. Eight weeks later, he is still in Trenton Memorial Hospital recovering from internal injuries.

Some 800 Bata workers and dependents are permanent residents of the community, and an estimated 1,000 cars use the crossing daily. The roadway over the crossing provides the main access to the company village for the 1,350 shoe plant and engineering employees.

City Crews Halt Fire

PLAINFIELD — Fire last night here threatened the home of a family which recently immigrated to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Finn Andersen with their 9-year-old son arrived from Denmark last summer, moving into a large two - storey house near Highway 37 in October.

Firefighters rushed two trucks to the scene last night when fire broke out in a second - floor room.

Damage was confined to the upper - storey and roof.

Fire Chief Ted Poole said the fire was caused by overheated stovepipes.

SPORTS SLICES

Many years ago when I was a cub reporter for the Halifax Herald covering the waterfront, my job took me to a small dusty gloomy place on Water Street where the owner bottled soft drinks for a living.

When I arrived Billy was bent over a table, his face close to a large blueprint. My layman eyes studied it for a moment and it dawned on me that a true craft was in the making. It was.

I asked Billy what the drawing represented but he didn't hear me. He muttered to himself, "Have to change those bow lines . . . Those bow lines."

What I didn't know at the time was that I was looking at the "cradle marks" of the finest international racing schooner that ever took an Atlantic bone in her teeth and went on to a watery grave undefeated in world international schooner racing. It was the famous "Bluenose."

Farther back in history, in 1886 or thereabouts, another boat, a schooner-yacht created a stir in international racing. This craft the "Atlanta" was built here in Belleville from North Hastings logs floated down the muddy Moira.

The "Atlanta" was the second Canadian boat ever to challenge for the famous America's Cup. She raced in the New York canals but didn't stand a chance race-wise with the outstanding, Yankee sea-going representatives.

The boat-building virus has never deserted the blood-stream of this Old Lady of the Moira. Practically everything from the crude "punts" of three decades ago to modern sleek racing craft have slipped into the waters of the bay from their "cradles."

The Belleville Marina Yards here caught the cruising-racing craft torch some two and one half years ago and in that time has produced some fifty of the corvette-class sloop-rigged beauties.

These boats are 31 feet long with a 9½ foot beam. They can accommodate four people comfortably with the last word in modern equipment. They have a working sail area of 640 square feet. This can be increased with a Genoa Jib which supplies an additional 125 square feet.

The craft the "Elektra III" was commissioned to be built by the Belleville Marina Yards by Mr. Gordon Stonehouse of Port Credit. The Ocean Conference was "Elektra's" maiden racing event.

The well-known Belleville yachtsman and builder Mr. Ian Morch, president of the Marina Yards Limited, was named skipper of the "Elektra" in her bid for ocean-racing fame. As events proved, Mr. Stonehouse could not have selected a better one.

It was Skipper Morch's maiden in ocean-racing and he and his crew acquitted themselves nobly.

Owner Stonehouse was "delighted:" the crew in the seventh heaven and Skipper Morch said modestly "We are real happy over Elektra's performance."

Experienced American skippers and owners, said to be the top yachtsmen of the world, eyed the performance of this 31-foot corvette, the second smallest craft in the ninety-two Conference entries, with something akin to amazement.

And well they might, for "Elektra" won her division class race and the Lipton Cup, finishing 26th in a fleet of 80 craft in a 25-mile race off Miami.

What Skipper Morch says "was our finest effort" came when "Elektra" won second in her class and came second in the overall finish in a field of 92 international racing craft in the 184-mile Miami to Nassau race.

In her third race (she did not enter two of the five conference events) the Morch-skippered beauty finished second in her "D" division class and fifth in the overall finish."

No wonder the tough American skippers and other yachtsmen eyed "Elektra III" and "Red Jacket," among other Canadian entries with something like surprise and admiration.

Wandering Tribe — Could Affect Morale

Arena Flipped Lid; Flyers Unhappy

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

National League hockey is tough enough without having to cope with politicians. Ask Philadelphia Flyers.

The Flyers have led the Western Division of the NHL most of the season while building up tremendous fan support in their new $12,000,000 Spectrum.

But 10 days ago they were turfed out of the Spectrum when, for the second time in two weeks, high winds ripped gaping holes in the arena roof.

The Spectrum was closed for repairs and an investigation launched into the structural safety of the building. Since then the Flyers have been playing scheduled home games wherever they can find ice.

So far they have played in New York, Toronto and Quebec City, until the Spectrum is ready for hockey again, they will continue to be the league gypsies with the probability that most of their scheduled home games will take place in Quebec.

Of course, that presents another problem, since the Aces have their own American Hockey League schedule to complete and are still in the thick of the AHL's playoff picture.

Flyers' Thursday home game against Los Angeles Kings set for Quebec. has been set back to Friday. The Aces are at home Thursday to Rochester Americans. The Flyers also have scheduled their Sunday game against Toronto Maple Leafs into Quebec's Colisseum.

Bud Poile, general-manager of the Flyers, is justifiably unhappy with the situation, which he says is beginning to erode the morale of his team. In an interview in Toronto last week he said it's just a matter of politics that the Spectrum hasn't been reopened.

The contractor on the building, apparently is a staunch Democrat while the district attorney, the main opposition to reopening the building, is a solid Republican.

"The roof has been repaired," said Poile, "but the district attorney is opposing the opening of the rink because the Democratic contractor neglected to take out the proper type of building permit.

"Now we're running into a morale problem because our players are tired of being on the road continually. We could blow our lead before we find a permanent home."

One unidentified Flyers official has suggested that president Bill Putnam "will move the team out of the city if the Spectrum isn't ready soon."

"The fans are for the Flyers," said the spokesman, "but they wouldn't blame us if we moved to Quebec.

"Some people are telling us to move out. They say Philadelphia is like a bush town."

When informed of a Montreal newspaper report that the trouble could cause the Flyers to drop $400,000 this season, the spokesman said "that's in the right neighborhood."

The only game tonight has Detroit Red Wings in Los Angeles. The Kings can move into a tie with the Flyers and eliminate the Red Wings from the Eastern playoff picture by winning.

Wednesday is a big day with Toronto at St. Louis against the Blues, Boston Bruins in New York to play the Rangers, Detroit at Oakland, Pittsburgh Penguins against the Black Hawks in Chicago and the Flyers in Minnesota against the North Stars.

New York is in Montreal Thursday to try and pull a notch closer to second place behind the division-leading Canadiens while Oakland is in St. Louis for another Friday game.

Golf Miracle

One Round; Two Aces!

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The life dream of many golfers is a hole-in-one. But two in one round?

But Kennedy, 27, a driver for a soft-drink firm, missed the thrill of watching either shot drop into the cup.

On the 143-yard third hole, he hit an eight-iron for the first ace in his 15 years of golf. He thought the ball had stopped and turned his back.

He used his six-iron on the next par-three, the 159-yard eight hole. The green is elevated and it wasn't until he reached the green that he realized it was an ace.

The shots were witnessed by three co-players.

Junior 'A'

Webster Scoring Champion

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Right winger Tom Webster of Niagara Falls Flyers has succeeded former teammate Derek Sanderson as scoring champion in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Webster finished the regular season Sunday with 50 goals and 64 assists for 114 points, 11 more than runner-up and linemate Garry Swain.

Sanderson, now with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, won the championship last season with 101 points.

Swain finished this season with 41 goals and 62 assists for 103 points. He was followed by Don Luce of Kitchener Rangers with 24 goals and 70 assists for 94 points. Luce's assists were less.

Walt Tkaczuk, also of Kitchener, came next with 37 goals and 56 assists.

Hamilton won the netminding award with a team goals against average of 3.03. Montreal's Bruce Mollet had the best individual mark of 3.03 for goaltenders appearing in 10 or more games. He and Niagara Falls' Phil Myre led in shutouts with four each.

Norris, Diamond In Rough

But he always comes back.

Norris came back Sunday in his first start for Chicago and turned in a brilliant 40 shutout to all but ensure the Black Hawks a playoff berth in the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League.

He not only blanked the Leafs but also stopped Mike Walton's penalty shot in the second period when a goal would have lifted Toronto into a 1-1 tie.

Not bad for a guy who only reported to Chicago from Dallas Friday to fill in for injured Dennis DeJordy and didn't know he would start until a couple of minutes before the game.

Norris's only previous NHL shutout came against Toronto while with Boston three years ago. Chicago acquired him in a trade last year with Boston.

There was some question about the legality of Norris's save on Walton's penalty shot.

Referee Bruce Hood told Norris not to leave the crease until Walton had passed the blue line. After the shot, the Leafs complained—to no avail—that Norris had left early.

The Belleville bantam girls' entry had the best local showing. They finished just 30 pins behind McArthur in the bantam competition.

Linda Sands of the Belleville bantam girls posted an outstanding 543 triple. Roger Durant, a senior bowler from Ottawa, was the best bowler over - all with a 254 single, and 617 triple.

TORONTO (CP) — Sandra Post watched her first professional golf tournament when she was six, got her first clubs at seven and wanted to be a woman professional ever since.

Miss Post, the 19-year-old sensation from Oakville, will play in her first professional tournament this week—the $12,500 Orange Blossom Classic, which opens Friday at St. Petersburg, Fla.

"You know it will be funny playing against Marilynn Smith. She's a real good friend, but she was the girl who gave me my first set of clubs."

Miss Smith, formerly of Australia, lived in Ottawa for a time before becoming a regular on the women's professional golf circuit.

"My dad gave me a lesson or two and that started me off," Miss Post said while in Toronto recently.

The muscular blonde, who becomes -Canada's first woman professional golfer, first caused a stir in local golf when she won the second-round bye.

Still in with after two games are Jim Hodgson of Roland, Man., and New Brunswick. Frank Stant of St. John's, Nfld., who had the first bye, is also winless.

Mikita With 79 Tops Traffic Jam In Scoring Race

MONTREAL (CP) — Just when everyone is ready to concede the lead in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race to someone else, Stan Mikita, Chicago Black Hawks centre, pops up atop the heap again.

Last week Mikita's bid for his fourth scoring championship was challenged by New York Rangers Rod Gilbert as two were tied with 73 points. However, statistics released by the NHL Monday show Mikita has once again been beaten back the challenge.

Mikita collected his 32th goal and five assists last week to give him 79 points with eight games left to play. Another centre, Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers, moved into the runner-up position with 73 points, including 30 goals. Ratelle is centre to right winger Gilbert.

Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins climbed into a third-place tie with Gilbert, who missed Sunday's 4-3 loss to Los Angeles Kings because of an injury. Both have 74 points, with Esposito recording 31 goals.

Bobby Hull of Chicago, the league's leading goal-scorer is fifth today with 72 points, including 42 goals. Veteran Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is sixth with 68 points, followed by Boston's Johnny Bucyk with 64 and Mikita's right winger—Ken Wharram—with 63.

Detroit's Alex Delvecchio and Boston's Fred Stanfield round out the top 10 with 62 points each. Ed Joyal of Los Angeles and Andy Bathgate of Pittsburgh Penguins are co-leaders among West Division players. Each has 31 points and are tied for 16th place in the over-all list with Mike Walton of Toronto Maple Leafs and Yvan Cournoyer of Montreal Canadiens.

While Mikita's run to the top is a stop-and-go affair, Lorne (Gump) Worsley and Rogatien rookie goaltending combination —have been steadily increasing their lead in the Vezina Trophy race as top goalkeepers.

Worsley greatly enhanced the twosome's chances for the trophy with a three-game performance last week that saw him allow only two goals and register two shutouts to bring his season total to six.

This shutout mark is the best Worsley has compiled in 18 seasons of pro hockey. Fourteen of those seasons have been spent in NHL competition—10 with the then punchless Rangers.

Good Hit, No Pitch Mark Exhibitions

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press ports Writer

Three pitchers who have known better times—Dick Radatz, Jim O'Toole and Steve Barber—ran into roadblocks Monday along the baseball comeback trail.

Radatz, the once-mighty Monster of the Boston Red Sox bullpen, is trying to win a spot with Chicago Cubs. He came on in the fourth inning with the Cubs trailing San Francisco 2-1 in their exhibition game.

Radatz walked the first three men, uncorked two wild pitches and hit a batter and two runs were in. Manager Leo Durocher yanked him when he walked the first two batters in the next inning. The Giants went on to a 7-2 victory.

O'Toole, a 19-game winner in Cincinnati's 1961 pennant push and now trying to catch on with Chicago White Sox, fared some what better. But he still was clipped for two runs in three innings and was the losing pitcher as Los Angeles Dodgers trounced the Chisox 7-2.

Barber's misfortune took the form of an eight-run second inning in New York Yankees' 11-7 loss to Washington Senators. Barber compiled a 10-18 record last season with Baltimore Orioles and New York and showed signs of regaining his 20-game form of 1963.

But Washington teed off on him with two-run doubles by Paul Casanova and Eddie Brinkman and a 450-foot, three-run homer by Mike Epstein.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals edged Boston 6-5 in 10 innings in a rematch of last October's World Series.

Besides the Senator-Yankee slugfest, there was another 11-7 game with Bob Raudman's pinch three-run homer propelling Cincinnati to victory over Pittsburgh Pirates' 'A' squad. And Detroit Tigers, with Jim Northrup and Ed Mathews driving in three runs apiece, walloped Philadelphia Phillies 9-5.

Orlando Cepeda, the National League's Most Valuable Player, outwigged an infield hit to drive in the winning run for St. Louis. Cepeda had homered earlier, along with team-mate Mike Shannon and Boston's Reggie Smith, Mike Andrews and Gene Oliver.

The Mets edged Houston Astros 4-3 in 11 innings on a bases-loaded walk to Jerry Morales, a rookie outfielder. Wood ie Held drove in one run and scored the other as California Angels edged Cleveland Indians 2-1.

Hawks Select Ottawan

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Black Hawks have selected forward Pierre Jarry of Ottawa 67s to replace injured defenceman Barry Salovarra for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs.

Jarry, who scored 32 goals for Ottawa, will play Tuesday when the Black Hawks meet the Junior Canadiens in Montreal in the first game of their best-of-seven, quarter-final series.

Salovarra was lost for the season Jan. 21 when he hurt his knee in the league all-star game. OHA rules permit a team to select a replacement under these circumstances.

Bobby Orr May See Action Soon

BOSTON (AP) — All star defenceman Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins skated Monday for the first time since undergoing knee surgery Feb. 12 and raised hopes that he may get back into action before the end of the regular National Hockey League season.

Orr feels good—no twinges, nothing." Orr said after working out for 45 minutes.

He didn't do any sudden stops or starts, but he cut loose for a couple of bursts and took some shots on the nets.

The operation was for removal of a torn medial cartilage.

For Two Hours Or Less

Would You Believe $125,000?

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jimmy Ellis says it will be "the fight of the year." For Ellis and Jerry Quarry it'll also be the payoff of a lifetime.

Ellis and Quarry, having each climbed over two other fighters in the World Boxing Association elimination tournament, will battle it out here Saturday April 27 for the WBA heavyweight championship.

The fight was awarded Monday to Oakland promoter Don Chargin and will be fought in the 14,000-capacity Oakland Coliseum Arena beginning at 10 p.m. EST, Chargin said.

The bout, awarded by Sports Action, Inc., will be televised virtually worldwide. The ABC network will carry it live and the fight will be beamed to Europe, Japan and most of Asia. A 150 mile area around Oakland will be blacked out.

Each of the fighters has been guaranteed $125,000 for the night's work and the tournament winner is almost assured of a match against Joe Frazier.

Frazier knocked out Buster Mathis March 4 to win recognition-in New York, Massachusetts Pennsylvania and Illinois —as Cassius Clay's successor to the heavyweight throne.

A live gate of $400,000 is expected for the 15-round bout with tickets ranging at $10 to $50.

Quarry, a 22-year-old from Bellflower, Calif., a Los Angeles suburb, barely got by the tournament's quarter-final event. He battled Floyd Patterson to a draw, then narrowly outpointed the former champion.

Five College Stars

Pass Up Olympics!

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of college basketball stars who will pass up their chance to make the U.S. Olympic team has grown to five while Life magazine quotes Lew Alcindor as "not wanting to get caught in the middle" of the growing Olympic Games boycott movement.

Westley Unseld, the two-time all-American from Kentucky said Monday in Louisville he was "weary" from playing and that he would pass up the Olympic trials later this month in Indianapolis.

Concentrating on school work was the reason given by Alcindor and his UCLA team-mates Mike Warren and Lucius Allen for not trying out for the team.

But Life said the trio admitted their refusal was "implicit approval of the boycott."

J. D. Morgan, athletic director at UCLA, said the decision of Alcindor and the others was "the trials was entirely scholastic."

"They'd miss eight days of school they couldn't afford to miss," Morgan said.

Alcindor, Warren, Allen and Unseld are Negroes. The fifth player to say he would not try out for the Olympic team was Nel Walk of Florida who is white.

Oiler Tops CP Scoring

Jim Lorentz, rookie Oklahoma City centre, holds the runner-up spot with 39 goals and 41 assists for 71 points.

Fire Dept. Answers Two Calls

NAPANEE — A large frame house, condemned by health officials but frequently used by squatters and drinkers, burned Saturday night.

The 80-odd-year-old house, located on a dead-end street behind the liquor store, was owned by a former Napanee property owner, Mrs. V. O. Hart, now living in Florida.

The two-storey frame dwelling near the water's edge west of Vine's coal yard, has been a thorn in the flesh of Napanee for a generation. Once a handsome home, it has been allowed to deteriorate for many years.

Two firemen narrowly escaped injury when the front wall fell out.

Children reported the blaze to neighbors, but it was some time before the fire department was notified. They were unable to save any part of the house and concentrated on saving a nearby dwelling owned by Harold Alkenbrack. Damage was confined to blistering of the fenestrick on the back of the Alkenbrack home, and damage to two storm windows which cracked under the heat of the fire. Fire Chief "Pat" Patton estimates the damage to this home at less than $100. A total estimate on loss of the burned dwelling.

Fire Chief F. W. Patton said there was some concern that someone might have been in the Hart building when the blaze was reported about 9 p.m. Saturday.

The fire chief states that he had been requested several times to burn the house as the only means of preventing it becoming a hangout, but that he was afraid of damaging the Alkenbrack home.

A second call came at 11:12 when smoke was reported in the second floor banquet hall of the Superior Restaurant. It was finally traced to a burned-out motor in the basement. The smoke had come up the stairs to the kitchen, and then through a dumb waiter, to the banquet hall.

No estimate of the damage was given.

ANAF News

The president and members of Duke of Edinburgh Unit 201 were saddened over the past few days by passing of two old comrades. They wished to extend their deepest sympathy to the families of the late Comrades Harry Taylor, and Bert Herrington. They will be sadly missed around the club.

A little better news from the sick chairman shows that only two members are still on the sick list, Comrades H. Boyle 218 and J. Semark sr. 115 Belleville Hospital both reported coming along as well as can be expected and have been visited and looked after.

Two big events in the coming week will be the legion and general meeting on Thursday, March 14, 1968, and the gala St. Patrick's day dance with Smitty's Orchestra supplying the music with good door and spot prizes, on Saturday, March 16, 1968, bring your colleen down for a good old Irish evening of entertainment.

There were 52 players in double darts matches on last Saturday afternoon and the winners and runners-ups were as follows: 1st. round winners, C. Lloyd and P. Sculthorpe, runners-ups, B. Brooks and H. Green, 2nd round winners, D. Hunter and A. White; runners-ups, H. Northey and B. Salter. High three darts B. Trotter 125.

A good crowd of 34 players took part in cribbage on Mrs. Darts competition with the epic battle of the evening being between Mrs. Hargreaves and Cotes and Forans with loud applause when the better hal' won. Prizes were served this evning double. The final winners and runners ups of the evening were winners Cowdry and Sills and Eileen Sills and runners ups Comrade Greg Acker and partner. Lucky draw with the latter having high three darts for the night 140 and sang a number of the old and favorite songs in which a number of the crowd joined in. Another very successful and entertaining evening came to an end with the spot chairman Comrade Rose Blaind presenting the lucky winners with their prizes.

The manager of the Unit Pipe Band states that there are a few more vacancies for anyone over sixteen wishing to join and learn about the pipes or drums.

Comrade Bill Salker reports that quite a number of new applications are being received and is hoping to be able to arrange an initiation and stag evening in the near future also a gentle reminder that there are only two weeks left to get your dues paid in time for 1968.

Ladies' Aid Holds Pie Social, Concert

DESERONTO — The Ladies' Aid of the Church of the Redeemer sponsored another successful event Friday evening, the annual pie social. The 150 people who attended also enjoyed a variety program.

Henry Kraver was master of ceremonies for the program, which featured a dozen both ministers could not get there on time. Rev. Robert Jones of Shannonville was minister, and Rev. S. Gentle, of Belleville who supplied the music. Community singing in summer both spoke briefly at the conclusion of the program.

Mrs. Blake Moore led a sing-song, and afterwards played a solo. Ernest Clapp was a second soloist and sang again in connection with a skit in which Mrs. Charles Griffiths also took part. Pianist for the evening was Mrs. Fran Walker. Mrs. Kay Hood gave an amusing reading, and the Bongard sisters gave a demonstration of baton twirling.

A short comedy play presented by the group was one of the highlights of the program. Every member of the Ladies' Aid was in the cast of "Tom Says So," some as children and some as moms.

Equally popular was the part of the program presented by two members of the Rob Roy Pipe Band of Kingston, assisted by two of their friends. Peter Barbier and Virginia Sutherland played the pipes separately and together and Miss Sutherland danced to Mr. Barbier's piping. Later, two of the pupils, Janet Thorburn and Diane Collon joined with her to give an exhibition of other Scottish dances.

Gout Itself Is Never Fatal But--

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you settle a dispute which involves what might be an important question: Can gout ever be fatal? "A" and "B" can be frightfully painful but is never fatal. "D" says it can cause death. Which is right? — J.A.

You are correct in saying that this can be an important question.

I don't think that anyone ever died from a swollen, exquisitely tender big toe (the favorite place for gout to strike), in that sense. I guess we can say it isn't a "fatal disease."

But it is important to look at it another way. Gout is the result of an excessive buildup of uric acid and urates in the body. Topbi, or crystals of urates can form in the joints, and pain can strike elsewhere than in the toe.

But the dangerous aspect, aside from the pain and disability, is that the build-up of uric acid also can cause kidney stones to form, and a substantial number of deaths are reported each year from kidney damage gradually caused by stones.

The deaths may go on the death certificates as "kidney disease," but the real, underlying cause is uric acid, the same thing which causes gout.

Therefore the person who takes effective steps to reduce his uric acid very often is lengthening his life as well as protecting himself from attacks of gout. I have scn flyers as high as 10,000 for the number of deaths attributed in a year to kidney damaged by stones traced to high uric acid.

My booklet, "Gout, the Modern Way to Stop It," points out the danger of kidney stones. (The booklet is available to anyone in return for 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send requests to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Tribune Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.)

Modern drug treatment, as the booklet points out, can bring-down the uric to a safe level and keep it down.

For the majority, this is a means of avoiding the extreme pain of gout attacks, but for an important minority, it can also be a means of avoiding kidney disease which in too many instances can be deadly.

Dear Dr. Molner: For about four years I have been drinking cola drinks the way an alcoholic drinks liquor, sometimes a case a week.

I have been heard that they could hurt a person, but lately it seems I have been very nervous and shaky and am wondering if that could have anything to do with it. S.

The cola drinks contain caffeine, just as coffee and tea do. It's the caffeine that gives any of these drinks their pick-me-up effect. But also too much caffeine can make people jittery. Some folks can tolerate quite a bit; some very little. So why don't you cut out the cola, or other sources of caffeine, and see whether your nerves calm down? If they do, you've had the message: Limit your caffeine intake.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am in my third month of pregnancy and have been thinking of bleaching my hair, but my sister says this is not advisable while pregnant. If you can't bleach, is it all right to dye or use a rinse? — Mrs. J. C.

I don't know of any reason why you shouldn't bleach, dye or rinse or do anything else to your hair during pregnancy.

Your sister may have confused this with warnings against taking medicines internally. One should avoid any unnecessary use of drugs in the first three months of pregnancy. In fact, the best rule, for that period, is to take no medicine unless your doctor approves.

Hearing on Vietnam War Raises Many Conflicting Views

NEW YORK (AP)—The televising for more than six hours by NBC Monday of State Secretary Dean Rusk's appearance before the Senate foreign relations committee was a massive and worthy piece of public service.

The hearing, which raised the many conflicting views on the subject of war in Vietnam, made disturbing, provocative viewing and indicated the width and depth of differences within the U.S. government. NBC dropped much of its daytime schedule to televise the hearings.

The liveliest and perhaps most challenging post-mortem on the session was an educational network round table discussion that included two journalists, two college professors and a Marine Corps general recently returned from Vietnam.

The viewer who sat through the hearings—and began to feel guilty for the committee and the secretary at the end of a gruelling day under bright lights—had a chance to react to evidences of deep concern and dissatisfaction shown by the committee members.

The 18 members of the committee asked questions ranging from the size of Southern allied and insurgent forces and the broad military strategy of the war to such matters as corruption in South Vietnam. They even pressed upon him suggestions such as using script instead of money to better control the currency situation.

But the major concern seemed to be about reports of escalation of the war and means of opening channels for negotiations.

The questioning, while occasionally sharp and blunt, generally had a sober, civilized tone.

Recommended tonight: New Hampshire primary returns, NBC and CBS, 11:30-12, EST; ABC, 11:30-11:45.

Joan Baez To Lecture

TORONTO (CP) — Joan Baez, U.S. folk singer and pacifist, will deliver a lecture here Sunday at a rally in a hall rather than a school auditorium where she was originally supposed to appear.

A committee, the Friends of Joan Baez, arranged for her to lecture at Metropolitan United Church after the Toronto board of education budged on its application to have her use the auditorium at Central Technical School.

The board Monday night finally approved the application—too late—for the auditorium after delaying a decision.

Miss Baez, who recently was jailed for her part in anti-war demonstrations in the U.S., is expected to lecture on her involvement in the Vietnam war protest.

Mobile Command Paralyzed By Hercules Is Contention

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (CP) — The big Hercules aircraft of Canada's Mobile Command can transport soldiers anywhere in the world, admits a staunch defender of aircraft carriers, "but all they can take with them is a rifle and a roll of toilet paper."

Mobile Command is the most immobile force in toe world," he says.

Kennedy talked to reporters during Exercise Maplespring 68, held off the Caribbean island of Puerto Rico in February.

In the latest defence department study on anti-submarine warfare, he announced, "the carrier came out on top as the most economical means of providing the most effective power in a limited space."

"We found this funny mechanical airdrome that will float where you want it to Hawaii even though it's an expensive system. There are 1,-600 men tied up in this barge."

The 20,000-ton Bonaventure steamed about 30 miles off this sunny old city while Kennedy talked in an air-conditioned briefing room. Around the 11-year-old Bonny, fresh from an $11,000,000 refit at Lauson, Que., Canadian surface ships, submarines and aircraft conducted intensive drills in the blue Caribbean.

The manoeuvres were fundamental training in almost perfect climatic conditions, marked by the roar of aircraft engines, the thump of destroyer deck guns and plumes of water pumped skyward by the impact of exploding rockets.

Exercise Maplespring, involving major components of Canada's naval and air forces, was designed to refresh the fighting servicemen in the co-operative tasks of the country's armed forces in the field of anti-submarine warfare.

But in this, as in any other military exercise, individual services and jobs came first and good-natured rivalry flourished.

Submariners jokingly called the Bonaventure "the bird farm" and claimed a submerged sub was a force unto itself by weapon against other submarines than any aircraft or surface vessel.

Destroyer crews were convinced the marriage of their long-endurance craft with high-speed helicopters that fluttered to and from a pitching flight deck were the true protection against an underwater enemy.

"It can't really get to grips with the submarine," he says, "because it hasn't the local capability that we have."

The Argus may well find the sub, he admits, but then "up thunders the carrier for the kill."

Restricted to ground bases, Argus aircraft "have to come 1,200 miles."

"But we can move 1,000 miles from shore," says Kennedy. "We have one thing that they haven't got and that's flexibility."

Bonaventure, the only carrier in the Canadian navy and due to be phased out of service in 1975, carries 12 twin-engine Tracker aircraft and six Sea King helicopters. The ship and planes were equipped with the latest in anti-submarine detection and destruction equipment.

Her recent refit crammed the Bonny, small by modern carrier standards, with technological gear. Increased demands for space in already short supply have placed a premium on comfortable living quarters for crew members.

Only a few spots in the ship are air conditioned and while the Bonny steams in tropical waters, work shifts in the broiling heat of her engine rooms have to be cut to a maximum of two hours. And despite attempts during refit to make quarters more habitable, one leading seamen's mess—cramped with bunks, a table and refrigerator—was 85 degrees on a "cool" afternoon.

Nevertheless, the "old girl" of the Atlantic fleet remains a vital part of Canada's Maritime Command and the loyalties of men who serve or who have served aboard her seldom fade.

The "ship-types" who have landed on her angled flight deck or felt the mulish kick of her steam catapult, the appeal of the Bonnie is summed up in the chorus of a somewhat irreverent song:

Oh, give me Bonaventure,
Way out on the Gulf Stream in blue.
For she's always at sea,
The "flatheads" they don't have a clue.

U. S. Senate Gives Okay To Expanded Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has received a Senate-passed civil rights bill and an appeal from President Johnson to enact the measure that includes landmark open-housing and anti-riot provisions.

House leaders met Monday night, a few hours after the Senate passed the bill 71 to 20, to map plans for getting the measure through to the president. All 17 Southern Democrats voted against it.

The House originally passed the administration bill as a measure concerned only with providing federal protection to Negroes and civil rights workers.

But after seven weeks of Senate debate, the new version provides:

—A ban on discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing except owner-occupied single-family homes sold without the aid of a broker, or portions of dwellings sheltering up to four families provided the owner retains residence. This would mean about 80 per cent of the country's housing would be covered by 1970.

—Federal law against interference with Negroes and others in the exercise of specified rights, including voting, jury service and use of public accommodations.

—A federal law against crossing a state line and committing other acts to organize or aid in a riot and against involvement in the use or manufacture of guns and explosives for use in a riot.

Johnson hailed the Senate vote and said:

"I believe the members of the House—having once said that every family has the right to the kind of shelter it desires and can afford; having once said that Americans should be protected in the exercise of their basic rights; and having often expressed their will to curb violence in our cities—will reaffirm their support for the policies contained in this measure."

The House must accept the Senate changes or seek a conference to reach a compromise version. The House rules could delay action altogether.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (Dem. N.Y.) of the House judiciary committee said he would request unanimous consent to accept the Senate amendments but it did not appear the House would go along with that.

His next move would be to request the rules committee to approve a resolution calling for acceptance of the Senate amendments.

We Have Pet Peeves in Words

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Odd how different word usages irritate different people; and while we like to think we are defending "correctness" in language, in most cases we are just expressing a prejudice that is nearly indefensible.

Two usages I find most irritating, are "the two are" and "that sort of a man." I would always say "this type of car" and "that sort of man," adding one word to the first phrase, and deleting one from the other.

Although a sound argument could be made that my usage is itself more "correct," it isn't all that important — or, at least, the other usage jars me beyond its petty significance.

One reader in Florida is annoyed when he sees a block capital letter "T" with a dot over it. He also resents the increasingly frequent use of "pre" in such words as "preprinied," "pre-planned" and "pre-taped." He wants to know "what is the difference between 'printing' and 'preprinting'? And I have no answer for him.

Yet another reader in Oregon goes wild over the promiscuous use of the word "pretty," and sends me a list of news clippings that range through "pretty much," "pretty soon," "pretty ridiculous," "pretty good," "pretty steamed up," "pretty chilling," and many more. The word "pretty" in itself, he writes, "has almost ceased to have any meaning."

A man in Pennsylvania relishes the fine overuling "the former" and "the latter." "I always hate this sloppy habit in a writer," he scolds, "because it forces us poor readers to go back to see which is the 'former' and which is the 'latter.' " I agree, and promise to watch it.

A woman in Georgia gets frightfully upset by little_misquotations, like "Gild the lily" for "paint the lily," or "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing" for "a little learning is a dangerous thing." I think the most common misrelation is "Pride goeth before a fall," followed by "in the sweat of my brow," both from the Bible.

Unnecessary apostrophe's rile a reader in British Columbia, who sends in a sign in a grocery shop: "Potatoe's 10 pounds, 39 cents." I saw an even better one in a restaurant lately "Closed on Thursday's." (And, please, friends, don't write in insisting on my unnecessary apostrophe in the second word of this paragraph; it's my little joke.)

A clergyman's wife in Michigan gets fit to be tied (whatever that means) when the word "reverend" is used as a title, and not as an adjective which it is. A preacher is not a "reverend" the way a physician is a "doctor"; he is "The Reverend So-and-So," the way the sons of Viscounts and Barons are called "The Honorable —" in England. And, of course it's a silly to call him "reverend" it is address them as "Honorable."

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reports "shrinkage and long improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

Ask your doctor to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Warsaw Students Fight Militia for 7 Hours

WARSAW (CP) — The debris of rioting littered Warsaw streets today after students and Polish militia clashed for seven hours Monday in the worst riots since 1957.

In the third outbreak of disorder in four days, thousands of young demonstrators sacked a culture ministry building in central Warsaw Monday night, smashing windows and wielding broken furniture as weapons to battle militiamen.

The headquarters of the Polish Communist party was one target of the demonstrators who fought running battles with police on downtown streets.

Party workers watched from windows as the students hurled rocks, sticks and bottles at police ringing the building and shouted "Gestapo!", "Democracy!" "Freedom!" and "Constitution."

Police finally drove the demonstrators—estimated at 10,000 —away with tear gas, rubber truncheons and a water cannon.

By nightfall, a nervous calm prevailed.

The Polish news agency PAP said the militia seized about 300 persons Monday.

It claimed an identity check revealed that only about 30 of those held were students. The remainder were sent the agency described as "hooligan elements, persons without steady employment, and numerous arrivals from localities in the vicinity of Warsaw."

It said 27 militiamen, eight volunteer auxiliary police and about 15 social activists were injured in the clashes.

Similar trouble Friday and Saturday left 58 persons injured.

The unrest began with the government's closing in January of a 19th century classic Polish play about the Czarist oppression of Poland. About 200 students demonstrated then and two later were expelled from Warsaw University.

In protest against the expulsions and then against police actions, students staged violent demonstrations Friday and Saturday and continued their campaign Monday. They have demanded reinstatement of the expelled students, release of arrested demonstrators and an end to "false information" about them in government-controlled news media.

Government partisans now are blaming the unrest on the Jews, taking their cue from the government's anti-Israeli policy in the wake of the June war.

At a party rally at a big automobile plant near Warsaw, workers carried signs condemning the demonstrations and one read "Clean the Zionists out of the party."

Union Jack Hauled Down on Island in Indian Ocean

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (AP) — The Union Jack came down on the British island of Mauritius today and another small nation was born, free but poor and rent by feuds.

British Housing Minister Anthony Greenwood stood in for Princess Alexandra as the royal representative at the last minute because of the threat of violence between Moslems, who support independence, and Creoles opposed to it.

Mauritius, the Indian Ocean island where the flightless dodo bird became extinct 250 years ago, is "too poor and too small for full independence" says Opposition Leader Gaetan Duval, political leader of the Creole mulattoes.

Few Creoles saluted the new flag or paid much attention to the 21-gun salute. Duval estimates unemployment on the island at 20 to 25 per cent in a population of nearly 800,000 squeezed into just 720 square miles. The island's economy is entirely dependent on the sugar crop. Each year about 2,500 of its citizens emigrate to Australia.

A British Army spokesman said five unoccupied houses were burned today in various parts of Port Louis. About 250 dwellings have been destroyed by fire since violence broke out in January. That brought in a contingent of British troops, of which 200 remain. At least 30 persons have died in feuding since January and scores are missing.

The current wave of violence results from long simmering racial friction between Creoles and Moslems and began with clashes between prostitution protection gangs.

The Commonwealth office announced in London that the two governments have signed a six-year mutual defence and assistance pact. It provides for consultations in case Mauritian security is threatened.

Bonus From Poverty

Nigeria's Scant Resources Make It Eager to Talk Peace

LAGOS (AP) — Nigeria's shrinking economy appears to be hindering the federal military government's ability to fight all-out war against Biafra's secessionists.

Despite a steady but slow advance into secessionist territory in the former Eastern Nigeria, the central government has been talking about negotiations.

Edwin O. Ogbu, the country's representative at the United Nations, has said the federal government is willing to deal with Lt.-Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the man who declared Biafra independent May 30. At one time, the central government demanded the secessionists topple Ojukwu.

"We must earn foreign exchange," said Dr. Clement Isong, governor of Nigeria's Central Bank and leader of the struggle to avoid devaluing the Nigerian pound, pegged at $2.80 U.S. and $3 Canadian.

"We use these international exchange currencies to buy what we need from the world. Our ability to earn foreign exchange has been drastically reduced.

As of mid-February, the Central Bank held $98,000,000 in foreign exchange. A year ago the figure was $182,000,000. Cost of fighting the war and buying military equipment has cut the total.

Chances of replenishing the reserve are dim. The petroleum, industry produced at a rate of 30,000 barrels a day in January, corresponding 5.3 per cent of production in the pre-war month of April, 1967.

Nigeria's cocoa crop is expected to bring in $154,000,000 in foreign exchange on 220,000 tons of beans, down 50,000 tons from last season. The peanut crop from the North, usually good for about $112,000,000 annually, has been hit by slow sales and falling prices.

Dr. Isong said he had several avenues open to bolstering the economy. He could draw hard currency from Nigeria's share in the International Monetary Fund which has risen to $100,000,000 from $53,000,000. But drawings from the IMF, he explained, give the fund greater control over the borrowing country's economy; the Nigerians are resisting handing their economy over to international agencies.

Businesses are finding trade in Nigeria more expensive. Foreign exporters demand cash on delivery instead of 30 to 90-day terms. Dr. Isong claimed foreigners owing money in Nigerian pounds are trying to force a devaluation to reduce their debts.

Trudeau Is Still Convinced France Behind Gabon Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Justice Minister Trudeau said Monday night he is still convinced France engineered a move by Gabon to invite Quebec to attend an international French-language education conference.

"Gabon," the 46-year-old Liberal leadership candidate told a hastily-called press conference, "has no interest in dividing Canada" nor any interest in meddling in "our problems, since I am quite sure it would not appreciate our getting involved in Gabonese affairs."

The federal government suspended diplomatic relations with the African nation after it bypassed Ottawa in inviting Quebec Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal to the conference Feb. 5-10 in the Gabonese capital of Libreville.

Mr. Trudeau spoke to reporters after meeting with delegates from eight ridings across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal, who plan to attend next month's Liberal leadership convention.

"France has its own foreign policy which we are not trying to determine for them, so they shouldn't try to determine ours," Mr. Trudeau said.

The justice minister said that for the last year France has been trying to "orientate its thinking" against Canada's national institutions.

Landslide Hits Congo Village

KINSHASA, The Congo (Reuters) — A landslide swept away a village in Kivu province, Eastern Congo, and it was feared all 200 inhabitants were killed, the Congolese news agency reported today.

The agency said the disaster occurred Sunday night on Mandjwi Hill, near the Kivu provincial capital of Bukavu, more than 1,000 miles east of here.

Today was declared a day of national mourning in The Congo because of the disaster.

Free Trade Advocated By Kierans for Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eric Kierans, the only major Liberal leadership candidate who is not a cabinet minister, said in Saint John, N.B., Monday that Canada should become a free-trade nation.

Speaking at a news conference, the former Quebec cabinet minister said the Canadian economy will not measure up to its full potential until the government moves to a free trade policy.

"It's too much to expect we can achieve unilateral trade in the forseeable future but we should explore the possibility of an industrial free trade area between Canada, Britain and the United States."

Trade Minister Winters told a press conference in Ottawa he still hopes to leave the cabinet before the last stages of the leadership campaign.

He said there are "indications" that Parliament may complete its business by the end of the week and when it does, he will ask Prime Minister Pearson for his release.

Mr. Winters has already handed in his resignation, to be accepted at Mr. Pearson's convenience, to allow himself more elbow room in the campaign leading up to the April 4-6 convention in Ottawa.

In Montreal, at a business man's association luncheon in his riding of Longueuil, Postmaster General Cote said he will "strongly" support the candidacy of Trade Minister Winters for the leadership.

Mr. Cote said he will actively campaign for the trade minister on the grounds that Canada needs "a man at this stage who has the confidence of the people and the financial circles."

McCarthy Rocks Johnson By New Hampshire Vote

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire Democrats returned a startling split decision today, giving President Johnson a narrow, empty victory in the first U.S. presidential primary — while awarding rebellious Eugene J. McCarthy 42 per cent of the ballots and apparently 20 nominating votes at the party's national convention.

Richard M. Nixon won the overwhelming Republican vote he sought in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination.

But the drama was in the Democratic story.

The near-final count had Johnson leading McCarthy by less than 4,000 votes. The president's promoters had forecast a 3-to-1 victory — and even that prediction was toned down from earlier odds of 10 to 1.

The contest for delegates appeared to be reversing the verdict of the presidential preference poll. The poll is binding on no one.

In the separate contest for Democratic delegates, candidates pledged to vote for McCarthy's nomination were leading for 20 of the 24 national convention seats at issue.

Congress Denied A Voice

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk has refused to promise the Senate foreign relations committee that Congress will be given a role in future Vietnam war policy decisions.

Winding up 10½ hours of testimony before the committee, Rusk said only: "If more troops are needed, we will, as we have done in the past, consult with appropriate members of Congress."

That fell far short of demands by Chairman J. W. Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) and a majority of the other committee members that Congress be brought into any future escalation discussions at an early stage.

Storm Causes Hydro Failures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Power failures, delayed air and bus transportation and a rash of minor traffic accidents plagued southern Ontario residents Tuesday as high winds piled at least 10 inches of snow into drifts along major highways from Windsor to Kingston.

At least one traffic fatality was attributed to the storm which caused near zero visibility and slippery roads.

Ontario Taxes Up

Tobacco Firms Amazed at Tax

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Ontario budget unveiled in the legislature Tuesday by Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton has met with disapproval by spokesmen in the tobacco and transportation industries.

Spokesmen for the tobacco industry expressed surprise and disappointment at the imposition of an additional tax of four cents on the retail price of a pack of 20 cigarettes.

"I'm astonished that such a high tax is put on tobacco which already is overtaxed," said Antonio Toledo, president of Benson and Hedges (Canada) Ltd.

John M. Keith, president of Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd., said he is astounded at the "extreme jump" in the tax on cigarettes.

"A preliminary estimate is that this tax will cost Ontario smokers an additional $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 a year," he said in a statement released in Montreal.

"Since Ontario produces the bulk of leaf tobacco in Canada, the impact on farmers of the province may be severe," he added.

Spokesmen for the Toronto Transit Commission and the Ontario Motor League were unhappy that the tax on gasoline and diesel fuel will be increased by two cents a gallon.

Ralph Day, chairman of the TTC, said the increase will cost the Metropolitan Toronto Transit System $300,000 annually.

T. O. Goodman, general manager of the Automotive Transport Association, said:

"We are absolutely shocked. The Smith report on taxation said the transport owners were already paying their share. There is no justification for increases whatever."

Tobacco and transportation industry spokesmen were not the only ones critical of the budget.

F. H. Howard, president of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, charged that the government has understated its budget by $500,000,000.

The chamber is particularly concerned that the budget forecasts not only the greatest deficit in our provincial history but that this deficit is in fact understated by $500,000,000 representedby advances from the Canada Pension Plan, which must ultimately be repaid out of future tax dollars," he said.

The chamber represents 50,000 businessmen and some 240 community boards of trade and chambers of commerce.

Hospitals Abused --Potter

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Dr. R. T. Potter, member of the Ontario Legislature for Quinte riding said today that he was a bit disappointed in the budget brought down yesterday by provincial treasurer Charles MacNaughton.

"I hoped that there might have been more help for the people who really need it," he said.

Dr. Potter said he was disappointed that widows' and mothers' allowances had not been increased and that there was no relief in hospitalization costs or more provision for nursing homes.

At the same time, however, he was glad that there was to be more money available for education.

He was particularly disappointed that hospital services costs were to be increased.

But he said people had been abusing hospitalization and were going to hospitals when they didn't really need hospital attention.

"The doctors are as much to blame as anyone," he said.

"People will just have to learn than they can't get something for nothing and the mon-

These Taxes Now in Effect

Cigarettes up four cents for package of 20.

Gasoline up two cents a gallon.

Race tracks tax up to seven per cent from six.

Car licence fees up $5-$10.

Big Levies Mostly Unchanged

TORONTO (CP) — Higher consumer taxes and increased charges for the use of many government services were announced Tuesday by Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton in his budget speech to the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. MacNaughton made no changes in levies on four of the province's five principal revenue sources—income taxes, retail sales taxes, corporation taxes and succession duties.

The budget means that a married man with children, who drives a car, smokes, and belongs to the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan will pay at least $125 more this year to the provincial government in tax-s, fees and premiums.

Hospital Levy Rises in July

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario citizens started paying more today to refuel motor vehicles and planes, smoke and play the horses as a result of tax changes announced in the legislature Tuesday by Treasurer Charles MacNaughton.

On July 1, they will pay more for provincial hospital and medical coverage, and $5 to $10 more to license a car on Dec. 1. Owners of trucks weighing up to three tons face a $10 increase when their plates expire next March 31. Car registration costs now are $15 for a four-cylinder vehicle, $20 for six cylinders and $25 for eight cylinders.

No date was set for a number of other changes, including introduction of a $3 resident angling licence and increases in resident hunting licences.

In presenting his budget for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969, Mr. MacNaughton raised by one cent a gallon the provincial tax on aviation fuel and by two cents the tax on a gallon of gasoline and diesel fuel.

The tax on cigarettes jumped four cents for a pack of 20 while the tax on part-mutuel betting at race tracks rose to seven from six per cent of the take.

A pack of 20 cigarettes now sells for 46 cents in most of Ontario. A gallon of regular gasoline sells for between 45 and 49 cents in major centres. Premium gasoline retails for as high as 53 cents a gallon. Prices are higher in Northern Ontario.

Minister after Mr. MacNaughton presented his second budget since being appointed treasurer in November 1965, the legislature gave first reading to four bills formalizing the increases that went into effect today.

There is no chance of the bills being defeated in the 117-seat house that holds 69 Conservatives, 28 Liberals and 20 New Democrats.

Mr. MacNaughton said in forecasting record government spending of $2,780,000,000—up $489,000,000 from 1967-68—that big tax changes were necessary to keep the provincial deficit at $252,000,000.

They would add an estimated $100,000,000 to provincial coffers in the next fiscal year while increases in hospital and medical care premiums would raise them "to levels that reflect the true cost of operating these plans."

The new monthly rate for the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan will be $5.90 for a single person, $11.80 for married couples and $14.75 for families.

Current rates are $3, $10 and $12.50 respectively.

The Ontario hospital care insurance plan rates will be $2.50 for single persons and $11 for married couples with or without families, up from $3.25 and $6.50.

Average Man Hit Hardest

TORONTO (CP) — Leaders of the two opposition parties in the Ontario legislature said Tuesday night tax changes announced in the provincial budget hit hardest at the average man.

"The gasoline tax and the new licence fees will hit the commuter who, in the absence of adequate public transit facilities, is still forced to use his car whether he wishes to or not," said Liberal Leader Robert Nixon.

Donald MacDonald, New Democratic Party Leader, said the budget proposes to raise more money from the gasoline tax, "paid daily by the average motorists," than it does from all corporations.

It contributes to, rather than relieves, the high cost of living "through tobacco and gas hikes, through higher medical insurance premiums, through higher car registration fees."

Five Municipalities Agree To Pipe Lake Ontario Water

The Ontario Water Resources Commission proposal to pump water from Lake Ontario to supply domestic requirements in the Belleville and Trenton area is stalled because of high costs.

But top 2e Prod County five municipalities have wound up a three - day meeting with the OWRC by agreeing unanimously to a proposal for an integrated water and sewage works in that rapidly growing area.

The scheme which will cost an estimated $28 million in the first 20 - year period, will supply the area with treated water from Lake Ontario and carry sewage through trunk sewers to treatment facilities also located on the lake.

Involved are the towns of Brampton, Mississauga, Port Credit and Streetsville and the township of Chinucuscouy.

Initially rates of 31 cents per 1,000 gallons will be paid by the municipalities for the first 1,500 million gallons of treated water used each year and 21.5 cents for each 1,000 gallons over this amount.

For sewage treatment a rate of 29 cents per 1,000 gallons will be charged with the exception of Mississauga which will pay 23 cents.

The OWRC proposal for the Quinte district was to supply treated Lake Ontario water to Belleville, Trenton, and parts of Sidney, Thurlow and Ameliasburg townships.

However, due to the high costs involved (an estimated $15 million) the proposal has been shelved. Projected costs for the scheme would have doubled the rate for domestic users in Belleville. And only recently the OWRC informed the city that it would be unable to further reduce costs to the city.

Bid to Halt Expansion Of High School Fails

PICTON — An eleventh-hour lone stand against expansion of Prince Edward County Collegiate Institute has failed in county council here.

The bid to halt extension of the county's only high school was launched by Picton Reeve Bernard Hepburn.

The reeve's one-man stand was matched by the result. He was the only councillor to vote against a bylaw raising $480,000 — the county's share of building costs.

Reeve Hepburn hinged his argument on the controversial amalgamation of provincial school boards, which next year will include populous Ameliasburg Township, now served by Belleville high schools.

"With Ameliasburg part of the new Prince Edward area, a new secondary school outside the Picton area might be necessary," he said.

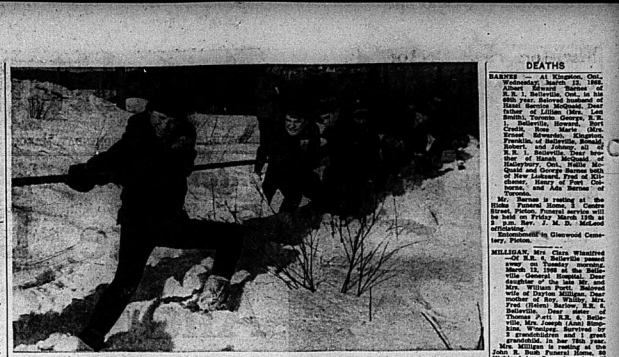
"I think county council should wait to see what happens after the new county school board takes over," cautioned Reeve Hepburn.

A councillor protested the Picton project already was underway.

"If we stopped the project now we could be in a lawsuit with the consractor," he said.

Reeve Hepburn retorted no debentures were issued by the county.

"The (school) board shouldn't have gone ahead as far and as fast as they did," he argued.



"We can't stop them," interjected Wellier Reeve Gordon Lloyd. "We can only slow them down."

Ameliasburg Reeve George Cunningham sought to have the bylaw amended to exclude his township.

"We're not members of the Prince Edward District High School Board," he objected.

He said he and Deputy Reeve Laird Adams would abstain from voting on the measure.

Both councillors left the chamber when a recorded vote was called, leaving Reeve Hepburn to cast two opposing votes

Township Roads Under Review

AMELIASBURG — Ameliasburg Township council expected at last night's regular monthly council meeting failed to show up on account of the continuing heavy snowfall and drifting conditions on the windswept roads into the village.

In the matter of township roads council spent considerable time discussing forthcoming maintenance undertakings and costs pertaining to suggested improvements.

Township clerk William Nightingale was instructed to call for tenders for the crushing and application of 15,000 cubic yards of gravel. At the same time council acknowledged notice John Hubicki, a private engineer from Cobourg, was drawing up plans for the construction of a new bridge on the sideroad in the fourth concession between lots 90 and 91.

Council also acknowledged an engineer from the Ontario department of highways would accompany the road committee on a tour of inspection of township roads this coming Tuesday. Council's road expenditure program for the current year is forward a request to the federal veterinarian, Dr. J. F. McCorquodale, about the possibility of holding an immunization clinic for pets of township residents.

Council re-appointed Gordon Waterhouse inspector under the warble fly control act. His duties are to call on all cattle owners in the township and where they have evidence of infested animals implement control measures as part of a free service provided by the Ontario department of agriculture.

Six Vehicles Involved in Two Mishaps

TWEED (Special) — Two separate accidents in the Tweed area involving a total of six vehicles resulted in more than $1,800 property damage during yesterday's storm which dumped approximately six inches of snow in the district.

Heaviest property damage resulted from a two - car accident on No. 37 highway about a mile south of the Snow Road, when vehicles driven by Mrs. Pearl Countryman of Hungerford township and Rene Edward Lecuyer of Ottawa were in collision.

Mrs. Countryman's late model station wagon was said to have skidded into the path of the southbound Lecuyer vehicle. Damage to the two vehicles amounted to $1,100.

In Tweed four vehicles, two trucks and two parked autos were damaged in an accident near Victoria and Bridge.

A truck was reported to have been backing out of a lot onto the street when it was struck by the second truck. The trucks then skidded into the two parked cars.

ey had to come from somewhere," he said.

"They must realize that everything is costing more money but before subsidies are handed out to everyone, the government will have to take a good close look to see where they are most needed."

Dr. Potter hoped that with the next budget there would be help for hospitalization and for nursing homes.

In view of the government's immediate need for additional tax money, the Quinte member had no quarrel with the increased bite on smokers and motorists.

They had to get the money somewhere and tobacco and gasoline was as good a place as any," he said.

Rush to Gold Becomes Faster

LONDON (AP) — The gold rush grew toward a stampede in European markets today amid an unconfirmed report from Zurich that the United States is shouldering Italy's share of bullion for the international gold pool. This report is without foundation," said the Italian treasury.

Forty tons of gold were snapped up in the London market at the opening price fixing, more than double Tuesday's level at the same period. This could mean a day's total of close to 100 tons and a return to last December's crisis level.

APPEAL FOR TREE

YORK, England (AP) — Engineers doing emergency repairs on York Minster, Britain's biggest Gothic cathedral, are appealing for a tree—a big one. The tree, which must be English oak and measure at least 48 feet long by 18 inches around, is needed to replace one of the 550-year-old beams in the roof of the minster's central tower, devastated by death watch beetles.

Driver Uninjured in Mishap

BRIGHTON — A single car accident Tuesday afternoon caused $800 damage to a local man's 1963 model car.

Provincial police said Charles McGregor of Brighton reported the accident in which the car he was driving flipped over on highway 2 near the York Road School.

Mr. McGregor was uninjured in the mishap which occurred at the peak of yesterday's heavy snowfall.

District Council for Scouts Covers Wide Range of Subjects

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville District Council held Monday in St. Thomas' Hall covered a wide range of subjects for the advancement of Scouting in this area.

Reports were given of the Boy Scout Week activities by Hugh Beach, concerning Scouters Get-together and public relations by Public Relations Officer. A report on the "Every Family Bulletin" sent out showed all reports were in favor of continuing this publication at intervals. Report of Belleville United Services Annual meeting was given by Harry Occomore who attended with Cecil Heard and John Wiberdink.

Plans were further discussed for the Guide - Scout Church Parade to be held on May 26th. Arrangements are being made for use of the Belleville Arena and for various bands to be present. It is expected that about 800 will be in attendance. Rev. C. E. Savage, O. C. Own and Guide Leaders are on committee.

John Wieberdink, treasurer and chairman of the Cuboree committee received the that plans are being made to hold the Cuboree at the Fairgrounds, if available. Messrs. Cruikshank, Welch, Terry and B. Thompson were named to the committee.

The District Commissioner, Bud Bateman, in his report stated that the Workshop at Kingston attended by Asst. Stan Terry, Arnold Welch and himself brought out the essentials of the new Boy Scout Program to become effective with September, 1968. In training five Scouters were registered for Wood Badge and nine for Part 1. Necessity for setting up a "Venturer Workshop" was stressed to promote the Venturer program, boys 14 to 17. A film "Scouts 68" will be available and shown on April 26-27-28.

The District Commissioner also announced that the Belleville Scouters Club would again be reorganized for the purpose of exchange of ideas, helping each other and meeting the other personnel to promote better understanding and cooperation within the scouting district.

Mrs. H. S. Thompson and Mrs. Bud Bateman reported the Ladies' Auxiliaries. Mrs. Gadd asked for assistance in locating names of parents of Scouts and Cubs, while Mrs. Thompson asked for more stamps for "Scouting With Canada's Indians".

President Lew Andrews reported that he had set up a Silver Lifesaving test at the request of a number of persons. Mike Allore will participate in the testing of boys during the next two weeks. Assistance was also asked for help with the swimming at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday mornings.

Groups reporting were the 9th (St. Margaret's) who are having two films "Water Safety" and "Dog Training" through the courtesy of the R.C.M.P.

Mr. Bryant of the 18th (Ontario School for the Deaf) had three boys who would like to attend the 1st Ontario Jamboree and this had already been approved by Provincial headquarters. This makes a total of 19 Scouts from Belleville whose expenses will be partially paid to the Jamboree.

1st Cannifton - Corbyville Group through Mr. McMurter were reorganizing their Group Committee in line with the present set up in other committees.

A budget committee for the Belleville United Services was named comprising John Wiberdink, H. Bankier and J. A. Glover to set up a budget for 1968-1969.

Don Weskett, chairman Badge Committee, announced that the 1st course had been completed and eight boys had passed successfully. Refund of the registration fee will be made by the council.

The treasurer's report for the past month showed the council in a good financial condition, with all accounts paid.

Ministers Hear Doctor Discuss Use of Hypnosis

Churchgoers don't need to worry about being hypnotized by their ministers but members of the ministerial association learned some things about hypnotism at their meeting yesterday. Since graduating from Western University Medical School, London, Ont., Dr. George A. Pearce has joined the more than 10,000 physicians and dentists who have received professional training in use of hypnosis technique.

The word 'hypnosis' is derived from 'Hypno' the Greek word for the god of sleep. But whereas in sleep there is dissolution of concentration, in hypnosis there is an increase of concentration.

Hypnosis is a form of around concentration or selective attention. The person who hears little of the preacher's sermon, in time of acute trouble may listen to the kind words of a friend with deep concentration.

In some respects prayer may be likened to hypnosis, when a person closes his eyes it is to concentrate better on ideas.

Some people are more susceptible to hypnosis than others.

In 1958 the American Medical Association and the British Medical Association both recognized that hypnosis by trained personnel had its place in medical practice. Hypnosis has moved from the stage to find a place in the dentist's office, the operating room, and the delivery room in the maternity ward in the hospital. Indeed, it is used in some degree every day, Dr. Pearce said.

It's Snowing Out

Sliding down a ramp incline didn't altogether disrupt service for this refreshment truck during the height of yesterday's snowstorm. The truck almost becomes a cropper as it slid into a parked car but despite the slant the driver still continued to deliver coffee.

Heavy Drifting Follows Snow

The hazard was caused by winds gusting up to 35 miles an hour, whipping through the area's freshest snow layer.

Up to five inches blanketed the region last night after a daylong snowfall that clogged sidewalks and sharply reduced visibility on main highways.

High winds compounded driving problems after nightfall.

Provincial and municipal police reported a spate of minor accidents during the storm. There were no personal injuries.

Forecasts warn of continuing windy today, with clearing and sunny skies tomorrow. A low of 10 is predicted tonight for the Belleville-Trenton area.

Some Misunderstandings

No 'Educational Crisis' Kells Tells Kiwanians

Lawrence A. Kells, Superintendent of Public Schools, told the Belleville Kiwanis Club yesterday at their weekly luncheon meeting of the "utter nonsense" of some reports of "the so-called 'educational crisis' in Ontario."

"If you have been depending upon our paper and its reporting for a fair and competent handling of the county educational unit, I still have a few things that will be news to you."

Mr. Kells explained that what "many people refer to as new, unheralded, untried, I have watched unfolding for nearly half a century."

"Let me make a few quick references to just a few misunderstandings, and let me suggest that neither a psychologist nor an editorial writer that refers to Ottawa as the seat of authority for Ontario education, is in much of a position to argue about my answers."

Of the complaint that children will have to go much farther to school, he argued, "nothing in the County School Unit suggests children travelling farther."

"In point of fact the county school board should be able and will be able to provide that many children will go shorter distances."

Mr. Kells described the idea of "administrative bureaucrats will seize control" and "whole school buildings will contain just one school grade" as "utter nonsense."

"In rural Ontario a whole school building may be just one classroom, or two classrooms and, as temporary measures, some township boards are continuing to make use of such buildings."

He described the idea that local municipalities will lose control of their schools and "they will be controlled by hordes of highly paid irresponsible officials as "eyewash".

"The only educational authorities in Ontario that now control the real destiny of local education are those boards that manage relatively large and populous districts."

Mr. Kells explained as well, that when the new boards take office Jan. 1, 1969 "no teacher, principal or child will be in any different classroom because of the fact."

He discounted the belief that larger districts and integration were sudden moves.

"At the Minister's (of education) announcement two years ago the meeting did not disagree with him; rather supported him and asked for two years to prepare. We have had it."

Drive-in Undertaker

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — An Atlanta undertaker has adapted the drive-in window approach for busy persons who want to drive by and view a deceased friend.

Hirschel Thornton is having five windows in a row built as an extension of his funeral home. Each window is six feet long and will contain a body in its coffin. The display will face a driveway at the side of the home located on a busy street.

Thornton said a surprising number of persons like to view a body in the late hours—midnight and 1 a.m. —for reasons of their own.

Each window will contain a name plaque and each will have wall-to-wall carpeting and drapes.

Prime Minister Forced to Cancel Date

TRENTON — The overseeing tax measures and other House of Commons commitments forced Prime Minister Lester Pearson to cancel a brief stopover in the area today.

The Prime Minister was to have touched down at CFB Trenton at 10:45 a.m. this morning and motor through east Trenton en route to a Peterborough engagement.

There, Mr. Pearson was scheduled to officiate at the opening of a day care centre named in his honor.

Spokesmen from the Prime Minister's office say Mr. Pearson will keep his Peterborough date via Trenton March 28.

Construction Sidelights

The opening of tenders in connection with Belleville's controversial arena - community centre project is not likely to placate critics of its cost.

Lowest tender opened at Monday night's meeting of Council amounted to more than a million dollars, some $300,000 more than the most recent estimate.

This is not an uncommon experience. The Ottawa Civic Centre, originally a $7 million project, finished up costing considerably more.

Strange too are the situations encountered on such a major job, as Richard Zeidler of the construction company pointed out to Belleville Rotarians the other day. Designed originally by a Vancouver architect, apparently with Pacific coast weather in mind, the centre was completely re-designed.

As Mr. Zeidler explained, "Ottawa is now classed as a sub-Arctic region." And well it might. Travel due north from the nation's capital and one is soon beyond the bounds of the familiar urban world, amid terrain that has changed little since far back in time, where the cold winds blow.

What other considerations are taken into account in building such a facility as the civic centre? Well here is one. The Ottawa area has a larger age group from 22 to 44 than most other major Canadian cities — and, a preponderance of women.

In Ottawa there are 100 women to every 93 males, compared with a national average of 102 males to every 100 females.

How this startling piece of information was applied to the economics of the civic centre we cannot say. However, for those who are mathematically-minded the stadium area seats 15,000. A question then, just for the fun of it. How many Ottawans of each sex, based on the above ratio, will the stadium hold?

We had never thought of Ottawa as sub-Arctic, though it does get chilly. However, the city is the seat of government and where the jobs are. Perhaps the tulips from the royal house of The Netherlands bloom in spring. This is Ottawa — a city with an atmosphere all its own.

Senator Kenedy

Senator Robert Kennedy is trying to be all things to all men these days.

If he can't, as he contends, running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. presidency, he is embracing any cause he can lay his hands on, from ending the war in Vietnam to the plight of Spanish American farm workers in California.

While the brother of the late president spoke on the nomination theme — in a pre-recorded interview in the United States with the BBC — he was actually in Delano, Calif., where he had flown by chartered aircraft from Los Angeles, to be with the farm workers.

What he told the workers reveals something of the troubles of minority groups and transient workers in the United States. The farm labor organizer Cesar Chaves had ended a 25-day fast with a Roman Catholic mass celebrated at an altar set up on a flat-bed truck.

Kennedy, in his address to the group, sounded not so much like a co-religionist of the workers as a Latin American Marxist as he said, "I congratulate all of you who are locked with Cesar in the struggle for justice for the farm worker and the struggle for justice for Spanish-speaking Americans."

He is a busy man all right, the senator from New York state via Boston, but he remains something of an enigma. Whither Robert Kennedy? Or his brother Ted for that matter? Who can say for sure?

Young Drivers

Why do young men pay twice as much for car insurance? This question has been posed and answered by the All Canada Insurance Federation.

The information has been given in an advertisement in this newspaper and it is worth repeating. They pay more insurance because they twice as many accidents as other drivers. Added to that, their accident costs are much higher.

The federation statement continues in part, "Even though younger men pay a lot more for insurance, they have the same opportunities as other drivers to reduce their own insurance costs.

One is claim-free year can bring a 15 per cent reduction. Three accident-free years and the savings are substantial. Those who pass approved driver training courses can obtain a further 10 per cent reduction.

"If more younger men take advantage of these dividends by driving safely," says the federation, "the cost will be lower for everyone."

Drivers — it is up to you!

Walter Gordon Quits Liberal Cabinet for Second Time

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Walter Gordon has always borne the cross of the reformer with a shrug and a smile. That was his relaxed approach again Thursday with reporters after he quit the Liberal cabinet for the second time.

The casual leave taking was in sharp contrast to the tumult that has marked the brief political career of the slim, grey-haired chartered accountant with the brittle voice.

A late-comer to politics, Mr. Gordon, now 62, became a force in the Liberal party in the late 50s after his national reputation was made as the chairman of the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects.

He took time out from his Toronto management consultants firm to work, behind-the-scenes as a party policy-maker. He helped rebuild the battered party, ousted nationally in 1957, and finally won a seat (Toronto Davenport) in his first try in the 1962 federal election.

The following year, with Mr. Gordon still in a key role, the party rebounded to power. And for the unremitting economic nationalist, it meant triumph and disaster.

His old friend, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, made him finance minister and his theories were put to the test with unfortunate political results. He had to backtrack on important sections of his first budget including a tax to halt foreign takeovers of Canadian firms.

The quiet man with the tweedy, academic look and upper-class upbringing survived the barrage in Parliament when few were willing to bet on his chances. His later budgets were more orthodox, even though Mr. Gordon himself had not changed.

He was (and still is) fearful of vast U.S. investment in Canada, which he believes poses a serious threat to Canadian independence. He proposed other devices to reverse the trend, but the tide was against him.

A corporation to channel Canadian savings into the purchase of equity to save Canadian business from U.S. control was his inspiration. But it is still not a fact of life.

Before he could see these and other projects through, the gentlemanly military school graduate made the mistake of advising Prime Minister Pearson to call the 1965 election.

Mr. Gordon wanted to give the minority government a majority of Commons seats to give it firmer control. The election was called, but another Liberal minority government resulted and Mr. Gordon got the blame for giving bad advice.

That's the way Mr. Gordon, who had shown the party's campaign chairman, plays the game. He accepts responsibility for his decisions, good or bad.

In private life, Mr. Gordon slipped into the chairmanship of Canadian Corporate Management, a firm of which he was president for 20 years. But in a little more than a year he was back in the cabinet again.

This time, his impact was more limited. But he stayed around until a special report came out on foreign investment. He had supervised the special study. Its recommendations were in line with his views.

That done, the unlikely reformer stepped down as president of the privy council, a grab-bag post of little real importance.

The party he had come back to showed little keenness as a whole for his leftist views and his fear of U.S. investment. He said as much when he left. But casually, with a mild grin. It was time to go. Besides his damaged neck vertebrae were bothering him.

March the Prankster

Ottawa Journal

March is an unpredictable prankster. It cannot seem to make up its mind. It may come in like a lion or it may be amiable with warm breezes and blue skies. But a philosophical countryman refuses to be perturbed; he knows that the vernal change is at hand.

It isn't logical to expect a visitor to surrender suddenly. A suitable introduction to spring requires just so much time. High snow banks must melt. Water drip from icicles: a flow of maple sap needs crisp, starlit nights and melting days. It takes a little time for the red hue to deepen in the twigs of swamp maples.

The introduction comes unevenly, but each day makes it more certain. March is a prankster but it always tells the truth.

"Canadian Mosaic" Would Include All Ethnic Groups

Letter to the Montreal Gazette

There is in the process of formation, a broad movement by different Ethnic groups to crystallize a broad national concept — one which will bring together all Canadians, including even the English and French. "The Canadian Mosaic Fact".

The Mosaic concept, acknowledged by Canadian statesmen since Laurier first enunciated it, is now being played down. Although this Mosaic pattern is most strongly entrenched in Western Canada, it is also present in larger urban centres and in all northern regions of Canada. The mixed populations in frontier towns are the true founding races of a New Canada. Care should be taken 'not to impose upon them ideas borrowed from other regions where people and conditions are different.

The oft-used argument in support of outright assimilation to either English or French is based on the assumption that these immigrants welcome assimilation as the only course open to them. This is not true. The Mosaic Concept of cultural equality was first expressed in 1897 by Sir Wilfred Laurier, who invited immigration from Europe on that basis. Subsequent development and growth of a rich cultural mosaic is evidence of the soundness of this concept.

There is growing support for the view that choice of language in Canada should be the result of free choice rather than compulsion or statutory support. Although such compulsion did play a part in the past, it was rendered tolerable by the presence of a more service and less knowledgeable populace.

Today the Western population is more aware of opportunities for free development, and it will develop means of attaining this.

It would be most disastrous for the people of Canada if the presently proposed Bilingual and Bicultural measures were not drastically modified to suit the needs of all Canadians.

Feminine Viewpoint
Trudeau Has What It Takes

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

After reading the latest Ottawa Offbeat, I cannot resist the temptation to rise to Richard Jackson's bait.

Robert Winters is indeed a 'gorgeous hunk of candidate', handsome, healthy, safe, solid and coherent.

I am amazed, however, that Mr. Jackson has the audacity to dismiss Pierre Elliott Trudeau as a mirage. Mr. Trudeau is no male Galatea created by the Press or the 'Swing Set'. The instinctive and intuitive recognition of Mr. Trudeau's qualities becomes more justifiable as the weeks fly and there is no doubt that, in spite of Mr. Winters' entry into the race ,there will be no change of heart by the majority of Mr. Trudeau's supporters.

Strangely enough, I entirely disagree with the sop which Mr. Jackson throws regarding Mr. Trudeau's good looks. If the columnist will take another look, he will find that Mr. Trudeau is really quite ugly and in appearance, something of an anachronism. I have always felt that he has stepped from the pages of Jane Austen or Oscar Wilde rather than Carnaby Street or Saville Row.

Judging by my own household, it is not necessary to be a female of even a child to realize that the principles, ideas and ideals which Mr. Trudeau would bring to the leadership are the only ones which can meet our country's dire need.

I am convinced that as an opponent, both 'Bobs' will find him formidable — in either language.

Student's Praise for Ski Course

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like, through your newspaper, to express my thanks to the Belleville recreation committee and the Oak Hills ski club for sponsoring the free ski instruction and transportation which the students of Belleville and the surrounding area have enjoyed.

The instructors, I am sure, have given a lot of time to this project, and we are grateful, especially myself, for now I know at least how to fall down without breaking my neck! We appreciate the planning that went into this project.

More Than Half Population Will Be Under 25 by 1970
Yet Births Are Declining

Peterborough Examiner

The new population 'boom' which was long forecast simply is not materializing. Instead birth-rates keep dropping, year after year. The present Canadian rate is the smallest this century and when compared to the over-all population it is much lower than was ever forecast during the peak years of the 'baby boom' following the Second World War. Canada's projected population for 1980 is 25 million; an increase of 5 million over today's estimated population. This growth is significantly less than during the 1950s and is well below the average for the period 1900-65. It is nevertheless high in relation to both recent growth in virtually all other industrially advanced countries.

The downward trend in the birth-rate is closely associated with increasing industrialization and urbanization, along with far-reaching social changes in many other complex factors. Primary amongst the latter factors has been the increased use of birth control devices, associated with a general desire for a higher standard of living. Furthermore, the drop in births is not restricted to the well off and educated, as it was during the depression, but among the poor too. The philosophies of getting married but delaying child-bearing and having smaller families to combat the soaring costs of child-rearing from pre - natal care to university graduation are also becoming widespread.

As a result of the drop in birth rate the age structure of Canada will undergo a marked change. While more than half of the country's population will be under 23 by 1970, this will decline with the drop in birth-rate. The first effects of this have already been felt with the decline in enrolment in the early grades of elementary schools while the universities are having difficulties finding enough space. This latter situation will tall off too.

The net result is that the planning of hospitals, universities, governments and others for the years ahead will have to undergo revision. The slower rise in population will mean that the growth of the economy will have to rely on a higher standard of living rather than an increase in consumers. While there is growing pressure to create new jobs for the present manpower population — this is one of the biggest challenges facing the Canadian economy — it will be relieved more it has been thoroughly absorbed.

The rapid expansion of the Canadian labor force in the next decade could further significant ly affect the growth of the population. The necessity to find about 250,000 new jobs each year will require steady economic growth otherwise, with rising unemployment, there will be enough necessity, a decrease in (which presently offsets the drop in the birth-rate) and al ready high economic pressures, a further drop in the birth-rate.

The end result of the present decline in the Canadian birth rate may be a levelling off of the Canadian population rather than the ever expanding population as expected when apply ing Malthus' theories on population growth.

Today In History

March 13, 1968 . . .

The first revolution against the Weimar republic began 50 years ago today — in 1920 — when Wolfgang Kapp and some troops occupied Berlin and overthrown officials, including the president fled, but a general strike was called that was enough to end the revolution in a few days. Kapp fled to Sweden, but was later arrested in Germany and died in prison in 1922. The Weimar republic was set up in Germany after the Treaty of Versailles was signed.

1884—Jean Arthur, actress, and twelve died at Pozahontas, Va., in a mine accident.

1781—First Battle of Tifty years ago today—in 1918—Germans gained control of the Ukraine by capturing Odessa; British troops made a successful raid against German strong point near Polygon Wood; German Zeppelins attacked Harlingen, a northeast English port.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Russia was reported seeking Italy's friendship by offering peace negotiations; Finland consid ered a defensive pact with Norway and Sweden; Finland and Russia signed a peace treaty giving Russia the Karelian isthmus, including Viipuri and a military base on the Hanko peninsula together with parts of north and northeast Finland.

Dalton Camp Irks Fellow PC Members

Hamilton Spectator

John Diefenbaker has publicly called for Dalton Camp's resignation as president of the Conservative party on the grounds that he is interfering in policy matters and harming caucus solidarity. "He speaks practically every hour on the hour and expresses views as though he were speaking for the . . party," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

While Mr. Diefenbaker's criticism of Mr. Camp won't prove effective on account of their membership in a mutual-dislike society, it is nevertheless well founded.

Mr. Camp is known across Canada not only as the president of the Conservatives but as the man who fashioned the campaign that made Robert Stanfield leader of the party. It is impossible for him to speak as a private citizen, in other words. The result is that everything he says is interpreted, in the minds of many, as official Conservative policy, or, at the very least, as Stanfield policy.

If Mr. Camp's pronouncements on such matters as Quebec (he supports the two-nation theory) do not reflect Conservative policy, he should stop making them. If they do reflect official policy, it is his duty to support them as often as possible.

Mr. Camp is head of the Conservative party, Mr. Stanfield is. It is Mr. Stanfield who must provide the leadership who must inevitably decide just what his party's policies are. Mr. Camp, as Mr. Diefenbaker says, does give the impression that he and he alone knows what those policies are or should be.

Prospectors Being Hindered by Tough Securities Regulations

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Recent regulations aimed at controlling the crooks in the speculative securities market are throttling the legitimate operators, the men who go out to look for new mines in Canada were told Tuesday night.

Delegates to the 36th annual meeting of the Prospectors and Developers Association were told that legitimate junior mining and petroleum companies need their own stock exchange to raise capital for their operations.

Coming in for special criticism during a panel discussion of the problems of financing junior companies were the Ontario Securities Commission, the Toronto Stock Exchange and Quebec authorities.

The OSC and the TSE have led the way during the last three years in imposing tougher regulations on speculative companies seeking public financing, following a royal commission into Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd. in 1964.

Shares of Windfall rose to $5.60 a share from 56 cents on rumors of a copper discovery in Northern Ontario, then collapsed after almost a month of speculation when the company said it had found no worthwhile deposits.

Lack of regulations was blamed in part for the speculation.

Strongest attack on new controls came from geologist Murray Watts, who for more than 30 years has pioneered mineral exploration in northern Canada and in the last year has spearheaded renewed interest in prospects in the Coppermine area of the Northwest Territories.

He said bureaucratic interference from securities commissions and the Toronto exchange is killing the development of new mines by small companies, although it passes itself off "under the guise of upgrading the so-called securities business".

He admitted the success of the industry in building a multi-million-dollar mine from nothing had attracted undesirable people, but added:

"To penalize the industry for its very success seems to be the ultimate in cocksmatic bureaucratic imbecility."

He won applause from the 1,000 delegates when he described a bureaucracy as an "unwieldy administrative system deficient in initiative and flexibility" and added that means "the Ontario Securities Commission, the Toronto Stock Exchange, with the Ontario government sitting at the top."

But, he added, greater extremes now occur in Quebec "which only a short while ago gave us so much leadership in mineral development."

"Today it is in a sad state. Township after township in northern and western Quebec now is vacated of mining claims, where once there was a thriving industry."

J. J. Rankin, president of Frobex Ltd. and a senior official of several other mining companies, said the association should take the lead in establishing an exchange where junior mining issues could be financed and traded.

He said recent regulations imposed by the OSC and the TSE have been more destructive than constructive and added:

"Laws and regulations have been initiated for the express purpose of putting the promoter and the junior company out of business, but the industry and the financial community are the biggest losers."

Other speakers criticized regulations covering specified periods of time in which money must be spent for exploration and other purposes as an improper infringement of management decisions.

John Kimber, chairman of the Toronto exchange and former chairman of the OSC, declined comment on the statements, but added that he saw little benefit in a proposed second exchange if there were no effective regulations to protect investors.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Gold prices were mixed in light midmorning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today, continuing a slowdown in the group's unusual activity since prices began to soar two weeks ago.

The slowdown took place despite reports from Europe that the devaluation-scare buying rush on gold bullion was turning into a virtual stampede.

The gold scarapege inched up 23 to 2240.40 as most of the interest in Canadian gold mine stocks continued to originate in the United States where investors are forbidden to hold gold bullion — prime safeguard against devaluation.

Dome advanced 2¼ to 80, La Luz ½ to 15½ and Sigma 30 cents to 7.75. Campbell Red Lake fell 1¼ to 36¼, Giant Yellowknife ½ to 12¾ and Dickenson 10 cents to 4.75.

Prices in other sections of the market also were mixed. United Keno Hill Mines advanced 80 cents to 8.50, Denison Mines ¾ to 67½, CPR ¾ to 51¼ and Noranda ½ to 47¼.

Hudson's Bay Oil declined ¾ to 35¾, Inco ½ to 114¼ and Toronto-Dominion Bank ¾ to 13½.

On index, industrials were off .04 to 149.31 and western oils .63 to 175.18. Base metals gained .61 to 100.95.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 605,905 shares compared with 620,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The gold index closed at 227.67, up 4.19 points.

Trading was also quiet in other sections of the market. Industrials and base metals posted some gains and oils were down.

On index, industrials edged up .26 to 149.35 and base metals .38 to 100.34. Oils fell 2.31 to 175.83.

Volume totalled 2,209,000 shares compared with 2,150,000 Monday. Declines outnumbered advances 229 to 196.

Housing Starts Increase

The number of housing starts in 1967 totalled 164,123, as compared with 134,474 in 1966. This was an increase of 22 per cent over 1966. In 1967, starts rose to a peak in the late spring and early summer, but declined in each month after June. The Graph shows total annual starts with inset monthly breakdown for the last two years. Uniroyal Gets Loan For Lindsay

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Development Corp. has approved a $135,900 interest-free "forgiveable" loan to Uniroyal (1966) Ltd. of Lindsay for expansion of manufacturing facilities.

Economics and Development Minister Stanley Randall said Tuesday the loan will help the firm increase its tire cord production by 30 per cent and add 24 new workers. The company will install new machinery, costing $460,270, in a 9,500-square-foot area now being used for storage purposes.

The additional cord to be produced by the new manufacturing facilities will be used to supply the Uniroyal tire division in Kitchener, which imports tire cord from United States.

Mr. Randall said the loan, granted under Ontario's Equalization of Industrial Opportunity Program, was an important factor in the company's decision to carry out immediate expansion of manufacturing facilities in Lindsay.

Professional Boat-rockers' Aim Is to Assist Industry

HAMILTON (CP) — The men behind Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd.'s new product development program describe themselves as professional boat-rockers.

Behind their levity is the message that industry needs men who are not satisfied with the way things are done and who have the imagination to do something about it.

R. Ross Craig, Dofasco's executive vice-president, commercial, the man on whose doorstep the new product will be laid, agrees.

"The trouble with product development is that it's difficult to figure payback," he says.

"It's not cut and dried the way most of our operations are. . . . A company may not see the full benefit or profit from a new product for several years." Dofasco's efforts now are directed toward developing products for use in the construction and passenger transportation fields.

"More and more, however," says Mr. Craig, "we'll be concentrating our attention on flat-rolled area, particularly in construction.

"Research to improve quality goes on all the time. Take tin plate, for example. It's now two-thirds the thickness it used to be and twice as hard."

So far, says Robert Varah, Mr. Craig's assistant, product development has done little for sales.

"Research," he notes, "benefits all steel-making companies but that works both ways. For us, at least, it's an investment in the future."

Canada's growing housing market is one area of concern.

"We don't aim to build a steel house but to fulfil the needs better than any other material," says Mr. Varah.

"We need to learn more about it as a building product, about building codes and restrictions —whether they're viable or just a hangover from the past.

"The problem is acceptance and filling the product into the current structure, a case of evolution, not revolution. People would balk at a dome house made of steel."

Housing, says R. Nes Dobson, general manager of Dofasco's steel casting division, is the last mass market without mass production.

Howard Bexon, a development engineer working with Mr. Dobson, predicts that in 10 years all houses will be factory built.

"This is going to be a big thing for steel because components parts made of steel can be manufactured with a absolute precision—an advantage some other materials do not possess. I think we can look for steel to become a big contender."

Steel married to other materials offers enormous potential in the construction market, says Mr. Bexon.

"We're also developing new uses for steel siding, for products which we may innovate but never make. Of course," he adds, "we benefit from any new use for steel."

Dofasco's research team also has been working on new coatings and ways of producing new, higher strength steels.

But they still are eyeing Canada's northland and its challenges of transportation and housing.

Senior Citizen Sends 'Prayer for Older Folks'

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: So much is being said and written these days about senior citizens, but a lot of it is slanted toward what can be done to help them. Too little is being written about what they can do to help themselves. Since I am a member of that age group and realize that we need to be reminded about certain things from time to time, I am asking you to print the enclosed "Prayer For Older Folks."

It contains a great deal that is valuable I ran across it several weeks ago and am sorry I do not know the name of the author.

Lord, thou knowest that I am growing older.

Keep me from becoming too talkative, and particularly keep me from falling into the tiresome habit of expressing an opinion on every subject.

Release me from the craving to straighten out everybody's affairs.

Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details. Give me wings to get to the point.

Give me grace, dear Lord, to listen to others describe their aches and pains. Help me to endure the boredom with patience and to keep my lips sealed. For my own aches and pains are increasing in number and intensity and the pleasure of discussing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by.

Teach me the glorious lesson that, occasionally, I might be mistaken.

Keep my reasonably sweet; I do not wish to be a saint (saints are so hard to live with) but a sour old woman is the crowning work of the devil.

Make me helpful, but not moody; but not pushy; independent, yet able to accept with graciousness favors that others wish to bestow on me.

Free me of the notion that simply because I have lived a long time and I am wiser than those who have not lived so long.

If I do not approve of some of the changes that have taken place in recent years, give me the wisdom to keep my mouth shut.

Lord knows that when the end comes I would like to have a friend or two left. — SENIOR C.

DEAR SENIOR: Thanks for a beautiful prayer. There is something of value in it for any age.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are probably fed up on letters of this type, but will you print just one more clobber for wives who can't seem to forgive and forget?

What has the cheated wife lost besides 15 minutes — or 24 hours of his time? Most men, especially chasers, don't equate sex with love. Their marriage and children and home life will be affected only if the wife maintains a punitive or hurt attitude.

My husband is an alcoholic who has been dry for six years. The first 11 years of our marriage were a nightmare. It wasn't easy to forget the lost weekends, the police calls, the creditors and the damage to our children.

But I was able to understand, thank God, that he did what he was driven to do at the time. Besides, I were no halo either. So, get off your pedestal and welcome him home, woman, before you find yourself with real problems to forget. — ILLINI.

DEAR ILLINI: Well, said. Thank you.

Corned Beef for St. Patrick's Day

By MARY MOORE

Do not start counting years on both fingers and toes twice and then adding on some, but truth to tell, I have been writing this column for forty years come March 17th, 1968.

That column was an assignment from the business manager of The Edmonton Journal, the late F. J. Giffen. He asked me to give them some tested recipes for St. Patrick's Day. I jumped to that challenge and gave seventeen - all green. I blush pink now to think of it.

So today, while this is a column in anticipation of St. Patrick's Day green is out! Irish Corned Beef is in and you have time to make your purchase.

CORNED BEEF DINNER

Buy 2½ to 3-pound piece corned beef - flat brisket point or rolled brisket in transparent package. Barely cover with boiling water and simmer 4½ hours turning once. NOTE: If in pliofilm bag, prick bag at 3 or 4 places—it will probably split. Drain. Transfer to hot platter. If desired serve with Mustard Hollandaise, Cauliflower or Broccoli tips and Baked Pepper Squash.

BAKED PEPPER SQUASH

Wash and cut squash into the number of wedges you need. Use large squash for six, medium squash for four. Scrape out ilied portion. Puncture flesh with sharp two-tined fork at about 5 places. Fill each section with 2 teaspoons brown sugar and butter. Sprinkle with salt and nutmeg. Arrange on shallow pan, add ½ cup water, cover with foil and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 1½ hours. Add more butter to squash sections just before serving.

(to be served with corned beef)

MUSTARD HOLLANDAISE

Into double boiler over steaming but not boiling water put ½ cup cold butter and 2 egg yolks and stir constantly until blended. Now slowly stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon water and 2 teaspoons French mustard. As soon as blended remove from heat and double boiler and serve in warmed small sauce pitcher.

NOTE: If desired Baked Stuffed Potato Halves may be substituted for the squash.

If any corned beef is left-over, for another meal make — Corned Beef Hash: Grind and measure 1¼ cups cooked (or canned) corned beef. Add ½ small onion, ground, 1¼ cups hot mashed unseasoned potatoes, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in large heavy frying pan. Turn in hash mixture and smooth top. Pour over ½ cup 10 percent cream. Cook over medium heat until bottom is crisp and gold. Fold over like omelette. Serve on warmed plates. Top each serving with perfectly poached egg.

Drop in Hemlines Is Predicted

PARIS (Reuters) — French fashion designers are preparing to drop the hemline before the end of the year, judging by the trend in the Paris spring collections.

The great traditionalists — Chanel, Molyneux and Pierre Balmain — showed skirts just below the knees and a few other designers dropped to mid-calf length in an occasional coat.

The hemline for the coming season in Paris is still definitely short but the way is being paved for a gradual drop in the autumn.

Softness from the 1930s, in an updated mood, was the motif of the collections. Paris was captivated by the Bonnie and Clyde look from the movie starring Faye Dunaway.

The limp, loose fit, the slouchy walk, the belted waistline above pleated and flared skirts and the French accent on feminine clutter that completely outmodes the stark, architecturally - constructed school of fashion — this is the new Paris look and feeling in female attire.

Supple clothes that define the body focus attention on the new silhouettes. The long, torso-sweater dresses, the cardigan jackets and the romantic clinging style for late-day wear recall the long-lost boudoir-type glamour of the pre-war film stars.

Contemporary adaptations of the '30s retain the ultra-short hemline ranging from one to three inches above the knees, epitomized at Dior with abbreviated box-pleated skirts and pale off-white stockings.

Lanvin and Ungaro make a fetish of the shirt dress, styled like a man's shirt and pleated-skirt ensemble made of soft silk crepe.

St. Laurent showed his long tubular jackets teamed with geometric, printed silk dresses with soft bow necklines and box-pleated skirts swinging out from the hipline.

The white collar girl again recalled the '20s. Every fashion house featured trim little navy blue dresses accented with glazed white linen or organdy collars worked in bib, yoke, or dicky effects.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

RIVER VALLEY — River Valley Women's Institute sponsored a potluck supper and program at the IOOF Hall, Stirling, with the historical group in charge.

Mrs. Roy Tucker and Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave selections. Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh led a sing-song. The Myers children sang and Rhoda gave a baton number.

Daughter: "You told me I could pick out my own spring coat!"

Mother: "I didn't realize you would pick such an expensive one. And that color won't go with anything you have."

Mother: "I think you are old enough to shop for your own spring coat — but remember you'll be wearing it with these dresses. We can't afford to pay more than $25 this year."

Happy Husband Gives His Opinion of Married Life

Dear Doris: I'm not sure what Happy Loved Wife was trying to prove, but I would like to offer the following:

I regard my wife as a very special person. For one reason, she has put up with me for quite a long time. Besides that, she is thoughtfull and kind. She can always think of something good to say about a person whom others are knocking.

I would rather be married to my wife than to any woman I know. Of course there are times when we don't completely agree, but we have always been able to come up with a conclusion that is most satisfactory to both.

I have done my share of bathing children, changing diapers, and all the rest of the household tasks. I've lost plenty of sleep sitting up with sick children. In my opinion, any man who won't help out at home has not yet reached manhood. Being a parent involves much more than fathering children. This is possible for a moron.

I can imagine some woman reading this to her husband and he replying that I must indeed be sick in the head. This may or may not be true. Henpecked? Not by a long shot, I believe that marriage is a 50-50 proposition.—Thank ful for What I've Got

Dear Thankful: You've got heaven on earth, that's what. Well, Happy Loved Wife?

Dear Doris: I think I can answer "Curious" about stags and showers.

In 1953 I was visiting Germany and was taken to several showers. With each gift we b ught, we were given a "reading". Each one went up to the bride-to-be, gave her the gift and read out the reading causing real fun, which was translated to me in English.

By doing this all entertainment was provided, with dancing after. The bridegroom and friends came in for that part after they had had a stag party. I'll always remember them.

In 1918 when I came to Canada I noticed that the German families where we lived did this and then it was handed down to the — shall I say — Canadian families, but without the readings. So I feel sure it originated in Germany — Memories.

Dear Memories: A fine idea — and just one of many delightful customs which have come to us from the "o u l d land".

Dear Doris: I've read your column about wedding costs. I was very surprised I'm a dressmaker, and am making a gown for a young girl. She told me she has to pay for all her expenses for the wedding. Don't you believe the bride should pay at least a small amount? I do.

The weddings I've stood for, all the gowns were rented by the bride, and at her expense. Hairdo, shoes, purse and gloves are expense enough. My prices aren't high, and it's still costing the bridesmaid $30 for her material and the making of it.

If it is the case that the bridesmaid has to pay for all, then it is really going to cost her a lot, for she has another wedding to stand for in two months. — Discouraged Exbridesmaid.

Dear Discouraged: Where money is no object, a bride does at times pay for all gowns of attendants; but this is no longer the expected thing. Sorry. A girl does need to unsertand this when she accepts an invitation to be bridesmaid.

What's troubling you? Putting it on paper, Doris is the first step towards solving your problem.

Aloutette Club Enjoys Skating Party

About 80 members and friends, some from Ottawa and Montreal, and the French Aloutte Club of Belleville and region gathered at the CFB arena in Trenton to enjoy skating, last Sturday night.

Games of broom ball were organized. For the women, coach Don Clement's rfilm put on a good fight against coach Paul Menard's whereas referee Bernard Gagnier had a hard time to keep eye on the fast moving ball. It was not possible to estrblish the right score but every one had a good time.

The man's game provided lively and strong competition. Referee Cecile Bedard had to call a few penalties. Coaches Dick Bissonnette and his opponent, from Montreal, did a fine job with their players.

Prizes for the performance went to Mrs. Perreault, from Ottawa, and Mr. Lemire for the men, after a difficult choice by the judges.

Following these games, entertainment was provided at the CFB Social Club with music and dancing. The music by a young group, "The Mysticks Beat," children of Sgt. Richard, was much appreciated by the group.

Dance prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert, door prize to Mrs. Azelis Berube, from Montreal, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Conde Berube, in Belleville. Lunch, prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamel with the help of Mrs. T. Forand, Jacqueline Gauthier, Cecile Bedard and Marlette Germain, was much appreciated as a good time of fellowship was enjoyed.

Travelogue Enjoyed by Senior Citizens

The Senior Citizens Club of Belleville met recently at the Recreation Centre, Pinnacle Street at which time a large number of members were present.

An interesting travelogue was viewed including beautiful scenes of Jasper Park right across the Dominion to tourist attractions in New Brunswick. These were shown by CN passenger sales representatives Milan Doracka, James Ingram and Michael Lemire.

At the conclusion of a most enjoyable evening Mrs. Milne, Mrs. Jackson and committee served refreshments.

Ontario Economy to Improve But Still Run Below Capacity

TORONTO (CP) — Treasurer Charles MacNaughton predicts Ontario's economic performance will improve in 1968 while operating below full potential for the third straight year.

He told the legislature Tuesday the province faces the same economic problems as in 1967.

"Because of the weakness in investment and construction, the Ontario economy will still be operating far below its potential level," Mr. MacNaughton said in his budget speech.

"Over-all productivity will be lower than we would like and unemployment may well be higher as a result of a greater growth in the labor force than in the level of employment."

The province still has to cope with the inflation of costs and prices "which is threatening to erode our competitive position in world markets."

"The challenge for policy in 1968, therefore, is to restore productivity, to reduce price pressures, and to increase over-all growth and employment in the economy."

He said the key to the problem lies "in the critical balance between the private and public sectors of the economy."

"This delicate relationship explains why it is too simple, for example, to assume that the introduction of a national medicare program, at this time, would be merely a transfer of expenditures by individuals from the private to the public sector."

Most governments in Canada are operating on deficits, he said, and relying on the capital market for borrowing.

"This pressure has helped to drive up interest rates and to reduce credit available to the private sector for investment in productive activity or basic social requirements such as housing.

"To raise taxes to finance major programs such as medicare leaves no alternative but to increase borrowing for other purposes."

Ontario has said it will not join the federal medical care scheme for at least a year after its July 1 starting date.

Mr. MacNaughton met the economic problems by presenting a budget he described as "moderately expansionary."

Total expenditures and investments will exceed total revenues by $252,000,000 "to produce a net stimulus to over-all demand."

"This positive fiscal stance will help maintain steady growth in production and employment in Ontario and will bring our economy closer to its full potential performance."

He said his budget also emphasizes "long-run growth programs," such as education, to increase the productivity and efficiency of the economy.

By allocating more money for housing, he said he hoped to stimulate the construction industry.

The government delayed $43,500,000 in public works projects in an attempt to clear the way for an extension of private investment, particularly in housing.

"To the extent that this is not so, and if unemployment becomes more serious, then we have a shelf of capital projects ready to inject into the economy," the treasurer said.

"In sum we have constructed our budget to promote steady growth and to meet the major problems facing our economy in 1968."

Mr. MacNaughton said 1967 was a year of "solid economic achievement for Ontario but not a year of maximum growth."

The gross provincial product —the total value of all goods and services produced—rose by 7.8 per cent to reach $24,000,000,000.

Some 3.7 per cent of the increase was real growth with the remaining 4.1 per cent attributed to price increases.

Mr. MacNaughton predicted an increase of seven per cent in the GPP this year made up of a more favorable four-per-cent increase in real growth and three per cent in price increases.

Hospital, Medical Premiums to Show True Cost

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's hospital and medical insurance premiums will be raised July 1 "to levels that reflect the true cost of operating these plans," Treasurer Charles MacNaughton told the legislature Tuesday.

The new monthly rate for the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan will be $5.90 for single persons, $11.80 for married couples and $14.75 for families compared with $5, $10 and $12.50, respectively.

The Ontario Hospital Care Insurance Plan rates will be $3.50 for single persons and $11 for married couples and families compared with $3.25 and $6.50, respectively.

"These new premium levels will remain in effect for a period of at least two years," Mr. MacNaughton said in presenting his budget for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969.

He forecast the government would spend $78,000,000 to support the hospital plan and $37,000,000 to subsidize OMSIP.

When the medical services plan went into effect in July, 1966, the government estimated the subsidy would total $33,800,000 for the first nine months of operation. However, the actual expenditure was $8,338,000.

Then in the current fiscal year it estimated the subsidy would total $45,500,000 but Mr. MacNaughton's most recent estimate puts the total at $25,000,000. His estimate for the 1968-69 fiscal year is $12,000,000 higher.

The subsidy forecast for the hospital plan in the new fiscal year is $12,000,000 lower than the $90,000,000 set aside for this purpose in the current fiscal year.

"Our hospital and medical insurance plans continue to make heavy claims on provincial funds," Mr. MacNaughton said. "Costs in these areas of health services have been rising rapidly."

He said the total cost of operating the hospital insurance plan in 1967-68 exceeded $500,000,000, up more than 20 per cent from the previous year.

"Costs of OMSIP have also risen substantially, both because of a higher Ontario Medical Association fee structure and because of steadily expanding enrolment."

As announced in the throne speech opening the 1968 session of the legislature, the government plans to expand hospital benefits to include ambulance services and OMSIP benefits to cover optometric examination.

"These additional benefits, plus steadily mounting costs, will boost next year's expenditures for the hospital plan to about $628,000,000 while the cost of operating OMSIP is estimated to rise to $129,000,000 in 1968-69, excluding approximately $18,000,000 for recipients of social assistance.

"With cost increases of this magnitude in store for next year, we cannot contemplate maintaining premiums at their present levels."

He estimated total health department expenditures will come to $290,454,000 in the new fiscal year, an increase of $37,712,000 over 1967-68.

A substantial portion of the increase went to health sciences education and research.

Mr. MacNaughton said the government plans to increase grants for the construction of teaching hospitals and for schools to teach hospital personnel.

"We are again raising the amount of bursary funds available to medical and dental students and other health personnel."

In addition, expenditures on mental health will be increased by $13,500,000 for a total of $117,000,000.

Horse Bettors Will Pay Extra Cent Per Dollar

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton announced in the budget speech Tuesday that the Ontario government will take an extra cent out of every dollar wagered at racetracks in the province this year.

He also announced, however, that the government will rebate about $1,800,000 to help improve purses for horsemen. The Ontario Jockey Club had asked for $5,000,000.

The increase means the provincial bite out of the wagered dollar will be increased to seven from six per cent. The tracks now get nine per cent and the federal government one-half per cent.

'Radical Changes' In Taxes Necessary

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton of Ontario said Tuesday "radical" changes in federal-provincial tax arrangements are required to head off "a taxation catastrophe."

In a strongly-worded statement on federal-provincial fiscal arrangements contained in the provincial budget, Mr. MacNaughton said the federal government can well rebate to the provinces up to 60 per cent of personal income tax and 33 per cent of the corporation tax while still retaining fiscal control.

The demands from three levels of government all on the same taxpayer will not end until there is total tax-sharing reform, he said.

"We regard some solution to this issue to be among the nation's top priorities."

The alternative is "fiscal discord, a taxation catastrophe and competition between governments for programs, three conditions which are totally unacceptable to our people."

Municipalities Will Get Extra $168 Million From Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — It will cost the Ontario government $168,300,000 to provide a basic shelter grant and pay the full cost of administering justice in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969, says Treasurer Charles MacNaughton.

"This very large commitment to local governments accounts for 39 per cent of the total increase in our budgetary spending in 1968-69," he said Tuesday in presenting his second budget to the legislature.

The provincial government relieved municipalities of their justice expenditures and promised home owners and tenants a shelter grant averaging about $50 a year starting last Jan. 1

The moves were recommended last year by the Ontario committee on taxation headed by chartered accountant Lancelot Smith of Toronto.

"This new policy will mean greater efficiency in the administration of justice and provides further assistance to the municipal taxpayer," Mr. MacNaughton said.

He said it would cost the province about $18,500,000 to operate municipal jails and courts and $150,000,000 to provide the shelter grant.

Mr. MacNaughton told a news conference the problem of how to make sure tenants receive the grant "will be resolved in a very short period of time."

"In the next two or three weeks our means of doing this will have to be made known to municipalities."

In his budget speech, Mr. MacNaughton said the government continues to be "impressed by the severe financial straitjacket on local government with its implication of a rapidly rising property tax burden. . . ."

The Smith report would "prove invaluable in our future efforts to improve our tax structure when combined with the federal-provincial negotiations which must take place later this year."

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters said Tuesday his organization will press for an upgrading of resources management in Ontario because of the government's announced increases in hunting and fishing fees.

Dr. Donald Longmore of Sudbury said he was surprised by the extent of fee increases."

The government announced in its budget in the legislature Tuesday that small game hunting licences for residents of Ontario will be raised to $5 from $1 a year.

Over Billion to Be Spent on Schools

TORONTO (CP) — Spending on education by the Ontario government will increase by $201,000,000 to more than $1,100,000,000, Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said Tuesday.

Tabling the province's 1968-69 budget in the legislature, Mr. MacNaughton said education accounts for 41 per cent of the planned increase of $489,000,000 in the government's spending program.

Grants to school boards will be increased $65,000,000 to $543,000,000. Grants towards vocational school construction will be increased $48,000,000 to $112,000,000.

Ontario universities will receive an increase in operating grants of $40,000,000 for a total of $209,000,000.

Mr. MacNaughton said that in addition the province is budgeting for some $250,000,000 in loans and advances to universities, the new community colleges, Ryerson Polytechnical Institute and local school boards to meet requirements for new classrooms.

"This is made possible by Canada Pension Plan funds and avoids the uneconomical and expensive system which would be entailed if our school boards and educational institutions had to arrange their own capital financing."

He said the province also plans to increase its share of capital financing of approved university construction to 95 from 85 per cent of total cost.

Mr. MacNaughton said education was given the highest priority in the budget-making.

"Education is our principal tool for increasing the productive capacity of the economy, for creating a better society and for providing the opportunity to every citizen to develop to his fullest potential."

He said past efforts have been aimed at accommodating enrolment pressure at the elementary level but now "we must cope with burgeoning student populations at the secondary and post-secondary levels."

University enrolment will continue to grow by 10,000 students a year, he said. This fall enrolment in the new community colleges is expected to exceed 30,000.

Opposition Blasts Plan for Prices and Wages Review Board

OTTAWA (CP) — The government trotted out its proposed prices and wages review board for Commons inspection Tuesday only to have the opposition judge it unfit "and a complete hoax."

Prime Minister Pearson entered the debate on Finance Minister Sharp's latest tax bill —to levy a three-per-cent surtax on corporation and personal income taxes—to outline the new board's role.

The opposition heard him out, then responded with blistering criticism of the board and the tax proposals generally. The Commons was to continue with second-reading debate on the bill today.

Mr. Pearson said the proposed board would move quickly in an attempt to curb inflationary moves by business and labor.

The agency will:

—Analyse the nature and probable effect of "major decisions affecting prices, incomes and costs" and where necessary subject them to public review and criticism;

—Discuss price and cost problems with representatives of management, labor and consumers "in order to clarify the issues involved and insure that, before major decisions are reached, all concerned are aware of these issues and that the public interest is taken into account."

The agency's precise terms of reference, Mr. Pearson said, will be determined after consultations with interested parties including the provincial governments, leading elements in the labor movement and industry and professional associations.

It was important the agency be established quickly and this could be done under the Enquiries Act.

"If—and when—in the light of experience, an agency with greater powers and authority is required, then government can submit legislation in Parliament for that purpose."

Richard A. Bell (Carleton), a former Conservative immigration minister, termed Mr. Pearson's proposal "a tangled and belated compromise between expediency and necessity."

The prime minister did not say what teeth the proposed agency would have, he said.

Dave Lewis (NDP—York South) accused Mr. Pearson of "spending an awfully long time on a silly, elementary exposition of orthodox economic nonsense," then revealing something he did not define.

The prime minister's statement "literally means nothing at all and tell us nothing about what he will do about prices, wages, incomes or anything else."

Mr. Pearson said that an immediate step to deal with price stability in Canada will be creation of an ad hoc cabinet committee made up of ministers with responsibilities in such matters.

He had sent letters to all premiers expressing the government's concern about the problem "and our ideas as to how we should proceed to deal with it." Early federal-provincial meetings to discuss details of co-operation on the topic were proposed.

Inside the House, Mr. Bell said the program "will in fact feed the fires of inflation." Consumers would end up paying the corporation surtax as well as that on personal income tax.

Creditiste Leader Caouette said neither Mr. Bell nor Mr. Lewis had offered a plausible solution to Canada's problems. The Creditistes would vote against the tax bill.

Bank of Canada Head Pleased with Adjustment After Boom

OTTAWA (CP) — The governor of the Bank of Canada expressed some satisfaction Tuesday about Canada's adjustment from the 1967-68 economic boom, but he repeated his warning that the country must make a better attack on inflationary pressures.

Louis Rasminsky said in his annual report there are a few hopeful signs the country is beginning to arrest the price increases that marked the economy last year.

Yet wages and salaries continue to increase at "very high rates," frustrating a return to price stability and a "more vigorous rate of expansion of the economy on a not-inflationary basis."

In phrases echoing those of Finance Minister Sharp, the central bank governor said direct fiscal and monetary policies will not be enough to meet the problem of excessive price increases.

He urged governments to press powerful groups in the economy to restrain their demands for increased incomes.

It appeared to be another call for the kind of wage-price guidelines promised by coincidence Tuesday in a speech Prime Minister Pearson delivered to the Commons about an hour after Mr. Rasminsky's report was formally tabled in the House.

Mr. Pearson outlined the program that a government wage-price review agency will follow in submitting major decisions of business and labor to analysis and public discussion.

The Rasminsky report offered reassurances that price increases have been lower during the 1960s in Canada than in other major industrial countries with the exception of the United States.

But Canada must do better. It is a matter of "greatest importance" to taper off the increases in costs and prices.

Major wage settlements in 1967 continued to provide for annual increases of at least eight per cent—far ahead of gains in output, and therefore inflationary.

Happily, said the report, other countries also face inflation and Canada has not lost its competitive position in world trade.

In fact, there was an extraordinary improvement last year in the deficit on current transaction with other countries. The current-account deficit as announced last week dropped to $425,000,000 from $1,140,000,000 in 1966.

The report said this deficit represented only two per cent of the total output of goods and services in the economy, compared with about 4½ per cent when conditions were similar in the mid-1950s.

But unless inflation subsides, Canada faces the prospect of pricing itself out of world markets. A better attack on inflation could protect or improve Canada's competitive position, said the report.

Travel Questions, Answers

BY THE ONTARIO MOTOR LEAGUE

QUESTION: Could you please tell me, as a Canadian citizen, how much am I allowed to bring back to Canada after 24 hours visiting in the U.S.A.? Also, can a TV small television set be brought back?

ANSWER: The following are the current border regulations: Entering the United States and Returning to Canada: Canadian citizens entering the United States may take with them free of duty merchandise to the value of $10 as gifts, excluding alcoholic products. Also allowed for personal use 200 cigarettes or 50 cigars or three pounds of tobacco or proportionate amounts of each, and a quart of alcoholic beverages (liquor, wine or beer). Persons planning to remain in the United States for at least 72 hours, provided they have not claimed this exemption within the preceding six months, may bring in gifts for other persons to a total value of $100. One gallon (128 ounces) of alcoholic beverages and 100 cigars may be included within this gift exemption.

Those who have been in the United States 48 hours or more, provided they have not claimed this exemption during the preceding four months or the overseas exemption during the year, may import into Canada goods up to $25 in value duty free. Included in this includes any article which can be claimed on the tourist exemption. Other specific limitations are 50 cigars, 200 cigarettes, two pounds of tobacco and 40 ounces of alcoholic beverages.

Tobacco products may not be claimed by persons under 16, nor alcoholic beverages by persons under 21.

Modern Facilities to Serve Hallowell

Governor Rowe to Open New $900,000 School at Bloomfield

PICTON (Staff) — Keeping pace with modern education methods and facilities is the seven of Prince Edward County Central Schools. Pinecrest Memorial Elementary School. The new school built at a cost of $900,000 serves the Township of Hallowell and the village of Bloomfield where it is located. The plans for the new school were initiated by the township school board and the first classes began in the modern structure in September of last year.

The name of the school, "Pinecrest Memorial" was derived from the many pines used in the unique three dimensional landscaping surrounding the school. The word memorial, an integral part of the school name, was used as it was felt the school is a memorial to all school trustees, all educators, and all former institutions of learning which have served the Hallowell Township school area since the time of early settlement. The new school replaces 13 Hallowell Twsp. schools which were closed June 1967.

Over and above the 22 classrooms contained in the school there are two kindergartens, an industrial arts room, a science room, a home economics room, a general purpose room, an art room, a library, a staff room, and shower and change rooms. A double gymnasium is also a feature of the school. At present the school accommodates 698 pupils enrolled and the school provides industrial arts, and home economics instruction for grades seven and eight pupils, from Athol, North Marysburgh, and Sophiasburgh Central Schools. Bus transportation is provided for all pupils of the area.

Friday night, March 15th the school will have its official opening ceremonies with the Hon. Earl Rowe, Lieutenant-Governor of Ont., PC, LLD, DSC, SOC, cutting the ribbon. Mr. Rowe the principal guest speaker for the evening will be introduced by Norris Whitney, M.L.A. for Prince Edward-Lennox. Following the ceremonies the school will be open for a tour and refreshments will be served. The new school will also be opened for public inspection from 1 to 3 p.m. on Saturday.

Cut outs, cut outs, that's what we do at kindergarten . . . and it's fun. Pinecrest teacher Linda Doxsee instructs children in the proper use of scissors in one of the new school's two kindergarten classrooms.

"You Mean Through There?"

Beth Alexander, 9, puts five-year-old Brenda Bauer through her rehearsal paces for this Saturday's ice carnival at Community Gardens. In all, some 100 young skaters will participate.

Ice Show Set

By MAURICE SWITZER

TRENTON — More than 100 local youngsters will "figure" an this weekend's annual ice carnival in the Community Gardens.

Trenton's Figure Skating Club will stage the Saturday performances of the annual ice show this year on an "Adventures in Wonderland" theme.

Participants include the 118 club members, aged four to 17, and club professional Doreen Lister of Toronto. Miss Deborah Street of Orillia will also be performing as a guest skater.

Tickets for this Saturday's 2:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. full-costume performances are available at the Community Gardens or from a skating club member.

SPORTSLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Sports Editor

Man's inhumanity to man has been proven in many cases.

But events have proved, too, that there's a touch of the Good Samaritan in all of us — at least, the most of us.

Sympathy is one of the brightest gems in the crown of emotion.

It often reveals itself in a tangible manner.

Physical injury, reduction of circumstances caused by the whims of fickle fate, feel the flames of sympathy and the urge to extend a helping hand.

Take the case of Minnie Menard who lost the sight of an eye while playing hockey.

Accidental injury in sport comes, so to speak, like the traditional bolt from the blue. It strikes swiftly, suddenly. It is no respecter of persons, places or times.

In the Menard case the sympathetic reaction of friend and fan (I don't think Minnie has any enemies) was almost as instantaneous as the cruel accidental blow that struck him down.

They lost no time. Mo-Hawks coach Floyd Crawford and team captain Lionel Boily went into action. Quickly they laid the groundwork for a benefit game for their stricken team-mate.

They decided to invite former members of the Belleville McFarlands world champions, and those of the Whitby Dunlops, 1958 world champions to play a game in Memorial Arena March 22.

Quickly tickets and posters advertising "Minnie Menard Night" were printed and sent to all visiting districts and National and minor hockey leagues' teams.

The word got around. The early response was gratifying. It was a natural reaction. Especially has it been so since the day a great man stopped on a lonely road to succor a fellow human being lying in a ditch nearly beset with wounds, came to the forefront.

Many have purchased tickets for the big night. A number of the tickets went to non-hockey-minded fans who have never seen a game.

One stopped Mr. Crawford on the street saying "I do not know anything about hockey or Mr. Menard — but here's a cheque for $25. I hope it will help."

It will, sir. There is no doubt about that.

The donation of $100 by the Montreal Canadiens Hockey Club is indicative of the sports camaraderie that lies dormant in athletes until circumstances warrant its tangible response.

It was also evident in the fine gesture of the Detroit Red Wings via Gordie Howe in forwarding a cheque for $25.00.

Although it is doubtful they know Minnie personally, sympathy surged quickly in the hearts of the Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, both players and the front office.

It didn't take the player personnel long to act. They "passed the hat" so to speak and the fedora yielded one hundred dollars fresh from the wallet.

Not to be outdone the Americans management matched the fine gift with the result the "Menard Fund" has been enriched by a cheque for $200.

Player-wise the response has been magnificent. The greater majority of the 1959 champion McFarlands will be here. Resident ex-members naturally will line up, as will the players of the 1967-68 edition of the senior "A" Mo-Hawks. A number of ex-Whitby Dunlops will be here.

As I noted in another column, there will be an aura of reunion, and reminiscence in the arena the night of March 22nd.

But that is anti-climactic. The real reason they will be here will be, it is hoped, seated in the building watching in a flood of nostalgia, hockey "friend and foe "hashing" each other, bound by the common bond of sympathy and desire to help one of their kind struck down by a cruel trick of fate.

Tie Kings 2-2 — Nine Games Left

Wings Stand On Cellar Threshold!

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The prospect of finishing last in the Nation' l Hockey League's Eastern Division loomed desperately closer for Detroit Red Wings.

Only once before in 32 years have the Wings finished last and Tuesday night's 3-2 tie with Los Angeles Kings left them on the brink of elimination from this year's division playoffs.

Detroit had just nine games left in the 74-game schedule and trail fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks by 18 points. Their only hope of escaping the cellar is to overtake Toronto Maple Leafs, whom they trail by six points.

The Leafs have a game in hand on the floundering Wings and they haven't finished last since 1958, the year before the Wings gained that dubious honor.

Toronto, however appears headed out of the playoff pictures for the first time since the 1958 tumble, the year before Punch Imlach became general manager-coach.

Another also-ran on the NHL scene, Oakland Seals last in the Western Division, were reported Tuesday headed for Vancouver next season if a deal could be worked out between the owners and Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. A decision on the possible franchise switch is expected this week.

Although NHL president Clarence Campbell disclaims any knowledge of the pending deal, spokesmen for both prin 'pals say negotiations have been brewing for several months.

One big hitch is Labatt's insistence that the franchise must move to Vancouver. That decision requires consent of nine of the 11 other NHL clubs, whose governors meet March 19.

Detroit's Gordie Howe scored No. 33 of the season Tuesday while Peter Stemkowski got the other Wing goal. Doug Robinson opened scoring in the game for Los Angeles and Ed Joyal, the Kings' leading scorer with 22 goals, tied it in the third period.

A heavy schedule is planned for tonight with Toronto at St. Louis against the Blues, Boston Bruins in New York to play the Rangers, Detroit at Oakland, Pittsburgh Penguins in Chicago and Philadelphia Flyers in Minnesota against the North Stars.

The Flyers, who hold a one-point lead on the Kings in the western standings, still are looking hard for a home since the Philadelphia Spectrum was closed two weeks ago for repairs and inspection.

Their Thursday game with Los Angeles, originally scheduled for the Philadelphia, then switched to Quebec City's Coliseum for Friday now is rescheduled for Thursday, but will in Quebec City. Their Sunday game against the Leafs also is to be played at Quebec.

The only other Thursday game has New York in Montreal to take on the Canadiens, Eastern Division leaders by six points over the Rangers. Oakland is in St. Louis Friday.

Junior 'A' Playoffs

Favorites Win Openers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The favorites won two opening quarter-final playoff games Tuesday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Montreal Junior Canadiens edged St. Catharines Black Hawks 9-8 in Montreal while Niagara Falls Flyers clipped Peterborough Petes 5-3.

The teams resume play Thursday at Peterborough and Friday at St. Catharines.

Canadiens were trailing 7-1, Catharines by four goals when they staged a comeback in the third period before 6,000 fans.

The line of Rejean Houle, Gilbert Perreault and Marc Tardiff sparked Montreal, with Houle and Perreault each notching two goals. Michel Jacques and Andre Gaudette also had two each, while Ralph Stewart scored one.

Aces Pull Into Tie For Second

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces pulled into a tie for second place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League as they downed first-place Rochester Americans 9-4 Tuesday night before 4,369 fans.

The Aces now have 67 points, equalling Cleveland in the loser total, and are four points behind the Americans.

Jim Johnson and Jean-Guy Gendron each scored twice for the Aces, who also got goals from Terry Ball, Keith Wright, Rosaire Paiement, Simon Nolet and Larry McKillop.

Twins Trip Yankees

The "Lip" Flips; The Umps Dumps!

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can start the baseball season anytime now. Leo Durocher is ready.

Durocher's lip, jaw and other vocal equipment were in top form Tuesday and they earned him an early exit as his Chicago Cubs absorbed a 12-2 pounding from San Francisco Giants in an exhibition game at Scottsdale, Ariz.

In other games, New York Mets edged Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, Minnesota Twins tripped New York Yankees 8-5, Chicago White Sox ripped Boston Red Sox 10-5, Pittsburgh Pirates routed Detroit Tigers 14-5, and Philadelphia Phillies blanked St. Louis Cardinals 9-0 in a game halted by rain after five innings.

Also Cincinnati Reds nipped Houston Astros 6-7, Washington Senators dropped Atlanta Braves 7-2, Oakland Athletics clipped Baltimore Orioles 6-5 and California Angels shaded Cleveland Indians 4-3.

Durocher took on umpire Mel Steiner in the bottom of the fourth inning after the Giants had embarrassed 20-game winner Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., with six straight hits and five runs in the top half of the inning.

After the argument, three baseballs were thrown onto the field from the Cubs dugout — two in Steiner's direction and one third inflicting a photographer on the field.

The Giants collected 21 hits, 19 of them singles, against five Cub pitchers.

The Mets got only two hits against Los Angeles, but three errors, two of them by new shortstop Bob Versalles, beat the Dodgers.

Ron Clark's bases-loaded double in the seventh inning brought Minnesota from behind and helped the Twins beat the Yankees. Joe Pepitone homered for New York and rookie Pat Kelly co-starred for Minnesota.

The White Sox battered Boston pitchers for 18 hits as catcher Duane Josephson in four runs and Rocky Colavito smashed Chicago's first spring home run. George Scott tagged a pair and Gene Oliver had one for the Red Sox.

Pittsburgh rushed 11 runs across against Detroit's Pat Dobson and Joe Sparma in the third inning and coasted past the Pirates.

Suspended Zeidel Charges Anti-Semitism

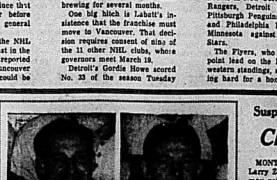
MONTREAL (CP) — The Larry Zeidel-Eddie Shack affair may not end for the Philadelphia Flyers' defenceman and Boston Bruins forward with the imposition of fines and suspensions.

Last Saturday, National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell suspended Zeidel for four games and Shack for three as a result of a stick-swinging duel in Toronto last Thursday night.

The two also were assessed $200 apiece for their bouting, which ended with both players retiring to the Maple Leaf Gardens clinic for stitch work on their heads.

Campbell said Tuesday he is attempting to get an authentic claim that the former had precipitated by anti-Semitic remarks hurled at Zeidel by Boston players.



"I must first ascertain that these remarks were made by Shack," Campbell said.

Zeidel, the only Jewish player in the NHL, and his wife, Marie, said in published statements that the Boston bench had been riding the defenceman because of his religion.

However, both exonerated Shack of this charge.

Campbell said if the charge is true, it is the same problem French-speaking members of Montreal Canadiens faced for many years in league arenas.

"I think this type of baiting is contemptible and there is no place in the game for it," Campbell said.

Brewery Makes Bid To Transfer Seals Franchise To Vancouver

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For a team that can't win hockey games, can't draw fans, is reported in debt up to $700,000 and is being used for 1000 nuns, Oakland Seals are mighty popular.

The extent of interest in the National Hockey League club became clear Tuesday when at least two, and possibly three groups, expressed a desire to purchase the club.

A spokesman for Labatt Breweries announced Tuesday negotiations for purchase and transfer of the franchise to Vancouver are in progress.

A second group is headed by Calgary millionaire sportsman Max Bell and Vancouver industrialist Frank McMahon, is reported to be negotiating with Frank Tatum, secretary and director of the Seals.

The third interested party is Charles O. Finley, owner of Oakland Athletics of the American League. The baseball magnate, also dickering with Tatum, said Tuesday his main concern is to keep the Seals in Oakland.

Tatum said Tuesday that Labatt's would assume control of the Seals in exchange for paying off the club's debt to the NHL.

"Labatt's will provide us with funds to meet our commitment on the date it is due, May 15. We owe the league several hundred thousand dollars, but not nearly as much as the published figure of $700,000."

He also said the Labatt's offer is completely contingent on the franchise being moved to Vancouver.

"Labatt's have let us know in spades that the brewery is in no way interested in operating a hockey club in northern California. They want control and operation to repose in Canada."

Sale or transfer of a franchise requires approval of nine of the other 11 NHL clubs. Indications are that this could be tough to obtain.

A meeting of NHL governors is set for March 19, at which time a vote would probably be taken should the negotiations have been completely successfully by one of the competing groups.

In Montreal Tuesday, NHL president Clarence Campbell said he had no first-hand knowledge of the reported negotiations, but that he has known for some time "something is in the works."

The Seals, in their first season in the NHL's six-team expansion Western division, have been a flop at the gate and fared even worse on the ice.

In 32 home games, they've drawn just 182,723 fans—an average of about 5,650 a game—and have won just 15 of 67 games.

Earlier this year Campbell what he said were $700,000 in commitments to the league. Fortier, manager Rudy Pilous is suing the Seals for $100,000 he claims is owed him for breaching a three-year contract.

Vancouver has been bidding for an NHL franchise for some time, losing out in their original application when the six new league teams were formed, and early this year moving back into the thick of speculation following a visit to Vancouver by Barry Van Gerbig, 29-year-old principal owner of the Seals.

What About Montreal?

Leafs; "No Beer, Whisky Promotion"

TORONTO (CP) — Chances of Oakland's National Hockey League cranchise moving to Vancouver took a decided dip Tuesday night when Toronto Maple Leafs executives joined the opposition.

Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. announced Tuesday in Vancouver that they were negotiating takeover of the toronto franchise and shifting it to Vancouver.

This was confirmed in Oakland by Frank Tatum, club secretary and director, who said the brewery would be acquiring the franchise by absorbing the club's debt to the NHL, reported to be $700,000.

He also said that the transfer to Vancouver was a key part of the negotiations and that the only thing that now would prevent the transfer would be a vote against the move by governors of the 11 other league teams.

Acceptance by nine of the 11, scheduled to meet March 19, is necessary for approval of either a franchise sale or move.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Los Angeles Kings, said he was opposed to the move and Sidney Solomon III of St. Louis Blues said he would go along with whatever the league decided although "I'd like to see the team stay where it is."

Harold Ballard, executive vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens, which owns the Leafs, earlier was quoted as saying he would keep an open mind on the proposed deal and "see what the league says before passing an opinion."

But Tuesday night he apparently decided not to wait for a league consensus and came out strongly against the proposition.

"I don't want to see hockey used by beer or whisky people.

"I don't think the game should be used to promote either beverage, and the only reason Labatt's is interested in a hockey franchise in Vancouver is to peddle their product."

Hornets Defeat Aces 7-2

GALT (CP) — Joe Hogan scored three goals as Galt Hornets won 7-2 over Kingston Aces Tuesday night in the first game of the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior semi-finals.

The Quinte Hockey League semi-final playoffs came to a close in one series as Stinson Construction edged Belvedere Hotel, 3-1. But the Aluminum Stars forced an eighth game in their series with Doug Grant Realty with a 2-0 victory over the Realtors last night.

For Stinson Construction, Garry Genereaux and Don Bishop were the goal-scorers. Leroy McBrian, Ross Syer, Ons and Ed Manion picked up assists. Bill Vesterfeit scored the Belvedere goal, assisted by Junior Day.

Stinson takes the series with three victories to one, and three ties.

In the other series, Aluminum got goals from Don Moore and Al Buttan en route to their victory.

The Stars and the Realtors now have three victories apiece, with one tie. Thursday night they meet to break the deadlock, at 9:00 p.m.

Smith Fuels Meet Strong Barrie Club

Smith Fuels peewees questing the 1967-68 OMHA championship run into a tough test over the weekend.

They tangle with the Barrie youngsters in a two-of-three playdowns series, the first game slated for Barrie on Saturday, the second here on Sunday starting 2:30.

Fuel officials say the Barrie team will likely be the club to beat.

"Get by them and the rest won't be so hard," they say.

The teams are not strangers. They clashed when they were in the novice series and the Fuels edged them 3-2.

It is assumed the majority of the Barrie players have risen with the ranks.

The Fuels have 14 of the original novice team on their peewee club.

Pari-Mutuel Clerks Get Their Raise

NEW YORK (AP) — The strike of parimutuel clerks at Yonkers Raceway was settled Tuesday night and harness racing will resume at the nearby track tonight.

The Yonkers track was to have opened a 70-night meeting March 4. The strike made idle 2,000 other track employees and cost the state an estimated total of $1,600,000 in taxes.

The strikers, members of Local 32-E, Building Service Employees Union, had demanded a $5-a-night increase over three years in their wages of $30 to $32 a night.

An agreement on a three-year contract provides a $1-a-night increase in the first year and an unspecified productivity bonus in the third year.

Saskatchewan Unbeaten After Fourth Round

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Three provincial rinks in the Canadian mixed curling championship are sitting on the edge of second place, waiting for Larry McGrath of Kindersley, Sask., to blow his cool.

McGrath, undefeated after the fourth round Tuesday, is defending mixed champion. The 28-year-old farmer, curling with the same rink, won nine of 10 games last year.

The three rinks tied for second hope McGrath will lose one while they maintain their one-loss records to force a playoff Saturday.

With 3-1 records after the fourth round were Edward Stechinsky of Edmonton, Bill Tetley's Northern Ontario rink from Port Arthur and Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown.

Fifth spot in the 11-team round-robin event was shared by Quebec's Earl Carson of Canadian Forces Base Bagotville who had the fourth bye, and Peter Connell of Arnprior, Ont.

Three rinks had 1-2 records after playing only three games —Nova Scotia's Cliff Robertson of Halifax, Vern Becker of Kimberley, B.C., and Frank Stent of St. John's, Nfld.

In last spot, with no wins in four starts, are Manitoba's Jim Hodgson of Roland and Fred Fraser of Moncton, N.B.

In the fifth round, at 9:00 a.m. CST today, Ontario vs New Brunswick, Saskatchewan vs Manitoba, Alberta vs Prince Edward Island, Quebec vs Newfoundland and Northern Ontario vs British Columbia, New Brunswick had the bye.

In round six at 1:30 p.m., Ontario vs British Columbia, Saskatchewan vs Prince Edward Island, Manitoba vs New Brunswick, Alberta vs Newfoundland and Quebec vs Nova Scotia, Northern Ontario got the bye.

Saskatchewan started Tuesday walloping Quebec 16-7, then doubled B.C. 10-2 in a game that lasted only eight ends.

Alberta and Northern Ontario came from behind and forced their fourth-round games into extra ends to win.

Alberta had to score a three-ender in the ninth to tie Nova Scotia 6-6 then stole two in the extra end for an 8-6 victory.

Northern Ontario got two in the 10th and stole two in the extra end to down Manitoba 8-7.

P.E.I. was tied with Newfoundland 9-9 after the ninth. MacDonald whisked his first shot through the house, forcing Stent to draw for one with his last rock. MacDonald slammed out the Newfoundland shot, counted two and won 11-9.

With The Trotters

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Gladstone's Adios, a 6-to-1 choice, captured the feature mile pace at Windsor Raceway Tuesday night, returning $15.60, $5.80 and $2.80.

The daily double paid $37.50.

In the fifth, Pam's Valentine beat Cosey Way to the wire and the pair returned a $44.20 quinella.

A crowd of 1,981 braved the elements to see Roaring Water, owned by Che H and B. Stable of London, Ont., win the fourth, a conditioned trot for $800. Bill Harvey drove the winner, who paid $10 for the 2:18 1-5 effort.

Earlier, in the claiming trot for $700 that went as the first race, Something Extra, owned and driven by Jacques Vanderpool of St. Boniface, Man., got home on top in 2:17 3-5. He paid $12.85 for the victory.

NEW YORK (AP) — Get Gettin, owned by John L. Smallman of London, Ont., won the featured Dunboyne Purse at Aqueduct Tuesday, triumphing by 1¼ lengths in the six-furlong dash that went in 1:10 3-5.

Get Gettin defeated odds-on favorite, Hobeau Farm's Canal and returned $11.60, $4.00 and $2.40. Canal paid $2.60 and $2.10, and Grace Born, third, was $2.60 to show.

Bob Barlow Nudging AL Leader

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Barlow of Rochester Americans is within seven points of the American Hockey League scoring leader, Andre Lacroix of Quebec Aces.

Lacroix, who was called up by the National Hockey League Philadelphia Flyers, still holds the top position with 41 goals and 46 assists for 87 points. But Barlow has placed himself within easy reach of the top with a total of 37-43 for 80 points.

Quebec's Simon Nolet is third with 78 points while Jim Paterson of Cleveland Barons and Mike Nykoluk of Hershey Bears are tied for fourth with 74.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pts.
Lacroix, Quebec	41	46	87
Barlow, Rochester	37	43	80
Nolet, Quebec	32	46	78
Paterson, Clev.	24	50	74

Gulls Stop Portland

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Third-place San Diego Gulls aspired a 5-1 Western Hockey League victory Tuesday night over Portland, breaking San Diego's six-game losing streak and ending the Buckaroos' five-game unbeaten string.

Now in Belleville AMX

American Motors new sports car that has already set 106 new speed and endurance records!

"What'll she do?"... That's what the AMX group at American Motors set out to discover on February 4th at a 5-mile circular track in Texas. They had built a brand new kind of North American sports car and they were out to road-test it the hard way...on the track against the clock!

A team of drivers headed by Craig Breedlove, holder of the world's land speed record, drove the AMX nonstop and flat out for the next 24 hours at an average speed of 140 miles an hour! They covered 3,378.178 miles at lap speeds as high as 175 miles per hour! In the process they set 8 international, 16 national, 66 American closed car, 14 American and 2 national unlimited records! All the records and times were certified by USAC (United States Auto Club) and by FIA (Federation Internationale de l'Automobile) the international record-sanctioning body.

The cars used for the record runs were certified as stock by USAC inspectors and were prepared by Craig Breedlove's "Spirt of America" crew and Traco Engineering of Los Angeles in conjunction with American Motors engineers.

What's this new AMX got to make it such a stormer? In a word: guts. The men who built AMX are enthusiasts, so they created a sports car that combines the best of both worlds: European-style handling and feel with American-style acceleration and reliability. And they built it with most of the things you want as standard equipment; 290 CID V-8 engine, 4-speed synchro, dual exhausts, tach, E-70 wide profile fiberglass belted tires, heavy duty suspension, reclining bucket seats, broadloom and gobs of luggage room. Options include the new 390 V-8 that'll turn 0 to 60 in 6.5 seconds, 3-speed console-mounted automatic, power disc brakes, quick-ratio power steering, and an extra heavy duty suspension. Just ask for the "go" package and you'll get the works...including the big, bold rally stripes.

How much for the whole deal? Five big ones? Six? No. In stock trim the new AMX lists at $3939.00*! Not surprising, after all, we're the same people who beat the pony cars at their own game with the Javelin, cut the price on our compact American, and give away air conditioning on the full-size Ambassador.

AMX is on display right now at American Motors dealers...but you'd better go see real fast. This is a limited production job...seriously; we're even numbering them, right on the instrument panel...so order now!

Craig Breedlove talks about the AMX:

"We had less than 6 weeks for actual preparation of the cars. The normal time to prepare cars for record runs like these is about 6 months."

"Driving the AMX was really like a dream."

"In fact, I'd never driven a car quite like it."

"The steering and roll-resistance were excellent, and it ran and felt just about perfect."

"As a matter of fact we were probably running somewhat heavier than stock because we were using a 37-gallon fuel-cell type gas tank."

Abolish Police Villages Says Stirling Reeve

GODERICH, Ont. (CP) — Police villages should be abolished and their administration should revert to the townships in which they are located, officials of six area counties were told Tuesday.

Reeve Donald Rodgers of Stirling made the statement at a workshop sponsored by the Association of Ontario Counties. He was agreeing with a similar statement in a blueprint for local government reorganization, adopted by the association Oct. 25. The workshop's purpose was to discuss the blueprint.

Mr. Rodgers' call for abolition of the police villages met no opposition among the 180 delegates who attended from Huron, Bruce, Grey, Wellington, Perth and Middlesex counties.

Mr. Rodgers also recommended that boundaries of both counties and their municipalities be reviewed every 10 years by the minister of municipal affairs. He said individual counties or municipalities should also have the right to request such reviews between 10-year intervals when necessary.

Warden Theodore Isley of Waterloo County supported the association's stand on regional government. He said every field of jurisdiction which could best be handled on a regional basis should be turned over to the regional authorities, with no other criteria used.

He felt situations might vary from county to county and jurisdictional fields which were obviously best handled on a regional basis in one county might best be handled on a municipal basis elsewhere.

Kahn Tineta Horn Arrested; Charged With Assault at Newspaper

MONTREAL (CP) — Kahn-Tineta Horn, outspoken Indian model, was arrested by RCMP officers Tuesday night as she got off a train from Toronto.

Miss Horn was detained overnight on a charge of assault causing bodily harm after a warrant was sworn out following a visit to a Toronto newspaper Tuesday.

She was whisked away from the station over the protests of her lawyer, B. L. Campbell. Miss Horn told reporters as she left that she "had nothing to say."

After being allowed to see his client at police headquarters, Mr. Campbell said Miss Horn would likely be returned to Toronto today to face arraignment on the charge.

Miss Horn was in Toronto to speak to the Canadian Club before visiting the newspaper.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I was looking at our wedding pictures last night . . . you wouldn't believe them."

Scientists Debate UFO Existence

MONTREAL (CP) — A panel of scientists squared off Tuesday over different theories about flying saucers. It took a visual expert to bring them down to earth.

Professor Roy M. Pritchard of McMaster University said so many factors such as emotion, expectation and experience affect what man perceived that a healthy mistrust of eyewitnesses evidence must be aimed at.

Dr. Pritchard, a physicist and psychologist, argued that only intense scientific study can solve the riddle of unidentified flying objects.

Possible explanations of UFOs varied from the "visitors-from-space" theory to a well-documented but explained atmospheric phenomenon.

The theories were debated by a panel of UFOs conducted by the Canadian Aeronautics and Space Institute.

Expressing a preference for the idea that UFOs are extra-terrestrial visitors was Dr. James E. McDonald, senior physicist at the University of Arizona Institute of Atmosphere Physics.

Hill chief opponent was P. J. Klass, an electrical engineer, an editor of Aviation Week magazine and author of a new book, UFOs Identified, which seeks to explain many flying saucer sightings as a freak electrical phenomenon recorded in scientific literature but never explained.

Sandwiched between the two was Dr. Peter Millman, chief of upper atmosphere research at National Research Council, who pleaded for a full scientific study.

World War Two
Hitler's War Directives 1939-1945 - By H. R. Trevor-Roper.

Throughout the war Hitler issued a series of directives controlling the strategy of the German Armed Forces and in many cases giving detailed instruction about the way it was to be put into practice. This book provides a unique insight both into Hitler's own view of the war and also into the astonishing personal control which he exercised over the German war effort.

The Last Battle, - By Cornelius Ryan.

The Last Battle is the story of three weeks in April, 1945 in which the city of Berlin, gutted, smoldering, terrorized, was yet still miraculously alive. It was to be the last obstacle of triumphant allies, the last defense for the Germans - and already, to those who could see the pattern of the future, the preordained source of a new world conflict.

THEIR FINEST HOUR - By R. Churchill.

The second volume of Sir Winston Churchill's History of the Second World War. In it this great Englishman is writing of those days when his country was undergoing her crisis of defeat, the glory of her supreme resistance, and the triumph of her returning might.

Kellys - By Alan Moorehead.

This is a new, revised, and lavishly illustrated edition of the book first published in 1945. It gives an intensely dramatic and personal view of the Allied Landing in Sicily and the progress of their armies up through Italy. Mr. Moorehead was with the fighting soldiers at all times and his eye - witness account of D - Day, the liberation of Paris and Brussels, the tragedy of Arnhem is authentic and memorable.

H.M.S. Ulysses, by Alistair MacLean.

This is the story of a ship in time of war. It is fiction but the charactery are memorable and typical of the Navy, unforgettable in their living and their dying from the admiral down to the ship's boy.

The White Cliffs, by Alice Duer Miller.

England during the war. She died in 1942. Here is the one widely heard voice to come from the poets of the world during the war. In this book of poetry her words about England, its faults and its virtues, have a wide appeal. Her poetry makes understandable to us all what England's white cliffs of Dover mean as a symbol to the civilized world.

Eagle Day, by Richard Collier,

The story of the Battle of Britain, August 6 - September 15, 1940, a month's attack and a month's desperate British defence preceded Eagle Days and another month of mounting endeavor was to follow before Goering and the Luftwaffe conceded defeat and the Battle of Britain was won — one of the most decisive as well as gallant battles in the war.

The Snow Goose, by Paul Gallico.

They tell the story of the Snow Goose in London, in Dover, in the Channel ports —wherever there are men gathered who saw the mighty bird soar calm and unafraid, through the leaden death and blanketing smoke of Dunkirk. A charming tale, wild and simply told by Paul Gallico with his superb narrative skill and tenderness of vision.

Hunting The Bismarck, by C. S. Forester.

One of the most dramatic sea stories of all time; the death of Hitler's proudest, deadliest battleship.

With Prejudice, by Lord Tedder, Marshal of the Royal Air Force.

Lord Tedder did not suffer fools gladly or in silence. But such was his integrity and his ability, that his position was rarely challenged. His vision, his mind, his methods were as flexible as the power he wielded. His comments in this book on generals and air marshals, whose heritage was limited to what their eyes could see, are most explosive. Lord Tedder ranks high indeed among British commanders of the Second World War.

Is Paris Burning?, by Larry Collins and D. Lapierre.

Few days in history have witnessed an emotional outpouring as overwhelming as that which accompanied the liberation of Paris. Yet few men then realized the miracle that had occurred: how narrowly all Paris had escaped being reduced to rubble and ashes. The whole story is told in Is Paris Burning?

Colditz, by P. R. Reid.

The men imprisoned at Colditz were termed the "bad boys," all of whom had escaped at least once from a P.O.W. camp and had been recaptured. The seemingly impregnable fortress of Colditz built on a cliff edge, moated, wired, and floodlit with more guards than prisoners, was the German answer. Yet there was ever three hundred escape attempts at Colditz in the four and a half years of its war history.

Stock Fraud Case

Magistrate Claims Bribe Offered

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto magistrate testified Tuesday a telephone caller told him last October that $5,000 was available if he would "do something" for a man charged in a $100,000,000 stock fraud case over which the magistrate was presiding.

Magistrate David Coon identified the caller as Walter Francis Choma, 41, of Toronto.

Choma is charged with offering a sum of money to Magistrate Coon with intent to affect his disposition of the hearing of Joseph Williams, 56, a Toronto lawyer involved with three other Toronto men in the fraud case.

Magistrate Coon testified that at the time he received the telephone call at his home he was presiding over the preliminary hearing of Williams, stock promoter Myer Rush, 43, former Toronto alderman Robert Colucci, 49, and Manny Bristone, 49.

The four were charged in the stock promotion of Darven Exploration Co. Ltd. and British Overseas Mutual Fund Corp.

Non-capital Murder

North Bay Man Acquitted in Shooting

NORTH BAY (CP) — An all-male jury Tuesday acquitted Nicholas Medwid, 41, of North Bay in the shooting death last Sept. 2 of James Albert Read, 40, of Thornhill, Ont.

The jury took three hours to reach a verdict on the non-capital murder charge.

Mr. Justice Maurice N. Lalcourciere said: "It's an eminently proper verdict and I certainly couldn't disagree with it."

Helen Bellaire, the Medwids' housekeeper; told the court that Mr. Read and Mrs. Medwid had come to the Medwid home at about 11 p.m. Sept. 1. She said both were "staggering from alcohol."

She said that Medwid arrived later, obtained a .351-calibre Winchester automatic rifle from the living room and went into the kitchen.

Miss Bellaire said she fled from the house in fright, but heard a gunshot as she was leaving.

Cpl. Ronald Kendrick of the North Bay detachment of the provincial police told the court that Medwid held off police from about 2 a.m. until 8 a.m.

When I entered," the officer testified, "I said: 'that's quite a mess you have there, Nick'" Medwid replied: "Ya . . . they'll hang me or give me life. I don't want that, I'll kill myself."

He said that Medwid later surrendered.

Strictly Personal

Majority Problems Worst

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I was having coffee in a restaurant," said the lady, "and because I was in a hurry I sat at the counter. Four men were sitting across from me—quite ordinary types, conventionally dressed, perhaps salesmen.

"In came two couples and sat down at a booth. The young women were quite unremarkable in every way — just the kind you see every day. The men with them were unexceptional in their attire, but one of them wore his hair a trifle longer than most men do, and the other quite a bit longer.

"The two couples were chatting away quietly and amiably, bothering no one and attracting no attention. Then I saw one of the four men across the way nudge another and look over toward the two couples. Soon all four men were looking at them and whispering.

"The men got up to leave, and two of them went over to the coat rack, which was close by the booth in which the two couples were sitting. They put on their coats slowly and deliberately, standing right in front of the longish-haired men, laughing at them and pointing them out to their two friends across the room. Then they shook their heads in obvious disgust, and stomped out.

"You know," she went on, "it really made me feel quite sick. The two couples weren't doing a thing, weren't even hippily dressed, weren't trying to attract attention, as some do. And, in our neighborhood especially, most of the boys in school—up through high school and college—wear their hair longer than the ordinary. Nobody pays any attention to it.

"But there was something so ugly about the calculated reaction of these men, something so mean and provincial and full of hate for no real reason, that it turned my stomach. It was an act of aggression — although not actually physical — without the slightest provocation. And, in a way, it was crueler than a blow struck in anger or passion.

"This is what frightens me in our country today, more than the riots or demonstrations by under-privileged, by the poor or desperate. What frightens me is the — what shall I call it? — the thickishness of ordinary people, the resentment of differences, the ignorance of other ways of life, the unthinking reaction and resistance to change, no matter how harmless or how necessary.

"Our country can handle its minority problems; it's the majority problem that troubles me — the almost hysterical need to make everybody conform to the pattern of the majority. This is the biggest threat democracy faces. And I saw that naked threat in the eyes of those four men."

Provincial Government

University Grants Up $40,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario department of university affairs announced Tuesday that grants for provincially-assisted universities will total $320,300,000 in 1968-69, an increase of $40,000,000 or 23 per cent over the 1967-68 figure.

Next year's funds include $181,000,000 for operating grants. The remaining amount has been allocated for special grants to:

1. Brock University, St. Catharines; Trent University, Peterborough; Lakehead University, Port Arthur; Laurentian University, Sudbury and York University, Toronto, to provide for "emergent" costs.

2. Laurentian and University of Ottawa to meet the costs of conducting programs in two languages.

3. University of Toronto for expansion of graduate and post-graduate programs in dentistry and its faculty of medicine, and to provide for development of Erindale and Scarborough colleges.

4. University of Western Ontario, London, for the new school of information and library sciences and further development of the school of dentistry.

5. Laurentian University of restablishment of a school of nursing.

6. Lakehead University to assist a proposed field station and which can serve as a resource for all universities in Ontario.

7. McMaster University, Hamilton and Ottawa for development of health sciences.

8. University of Guelph for its veterinary medicine program.

and for meeting additional costs of operating a three semester program.

10. University of Windsor for development of its faculty of law.

A special grant of $4,500,000 was made to allow for provision of computer equipment for provincially-assisted universities and to provide for development of regional computer centres.

Student assistance grants have been raised to $32,000,000 from the $18,912,000 provided in the 1967-68 budget.

MPP Debates Insurance

TORONTO (CP) — Fred Burr (NDP — Sandwich-Riverside) called in the legislature Tuesday night for creation of a "no-fault, auto-static payment, litigation-free" auto insurance plan.

"The present method hasn't worked, doesn't work, can't work and never will work to the satisfaction of the motorists of Ontario," he said during the budget debate.

Mr. Burr said private insurance plans discriminate against young drivers.

"I propose a system under which all new and inexperienced drivers, whether 16 or 20, will pay an extra premium—possibly a double premium, perhaps for one year.

"At the end of this initial period if the driver shows himself to be a good, safe driver, let him then pay the same rate as every other good, safe driver."

Education Costs Could Bankrupt Province: Davis

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis Tuesday predicted increasing education costs, combined with other government expenses could almost bankrupt Ontario within five years.

"I am not saying this will happen within that period, but it would not be long after," Mr. Davis said in an interview outside the legislature. He said his prediction was based on combined total government spending.

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that we shall have to find some alternative method of financing," he said.

The minister's department estimates that roughly 70 cents out of every tax dollar is spent on education, adding together costs from primary schooling to adult education.

MPP Wants Single Official Language

TORONTO (CP) — A bilingual member of the Ontario legislature said Tuesday Canada should have only one official language.

Ron Knight (L—Port Arthur) said any move toward giving French special status in Ontario will increase divisions in the province's population.

Mr. Knight, who told the House he has both French- and English-speaking Canadians among his ancestors, said experiments with bilingualism in Belgium have almost split the European nation.

He said personal surveys of public opinion in his riding and the Toronto area show the majority of the public do not favor giving French special status.

Television's News Departments Had Busy Day and Night

NEW YORK (AP)—It was a busy day and night for television's news departments with two major stories breaking Tuesday that were right down the networks' alleys.

There was State Secretary Dern Rusk and the Senate foreign relations committee in another long session discussing Vietnam. That, of course, was a scheduled event in a predetermined spot in which it was possible to set up lights and cameras.

And then there was the presidential preference primary in New Hampshire—more difficult coverage but one which the networks have long since learned to handle with skill and smoothness.

NBC, once again, was alone in providing live coverage of what President Johnson whimsically and The Dean Rusk Show, for the second day in a row was willing to drop its regular commercially scheduled game shows and soap operas to do so.

A network spokesman reported late in the day that its research department, using an outside audience survey, estimated that some 35,000,000 persons had seen all or some part of the live coverage during the two days—and that's a lot of housewives.

CBS devoted half of an hour program to a report and analysis of the New Hampshire voting and the strong showings by Senator Eugene J. McCarthy and Richard M. Nixon, and the rest to a report and some highlights from the Washington hearing.

All through the evening of both days programming, news wireworks ran bulletin headlines across the screen.

Employment Improves

NAPANEE—In mid-February the employment situation in the Napanee Canada Manpower Centre was far from bright but had improved slightly by the end of the month. On February 29 there were 622 males and 233 females seeking full-time employment and 16 males serviced by the Napanee Centre.

Because of reorganization this area has been enlarged, and now takes in all of the northern part of Lennox and Addington and also two areas from the neighboring counties. Ernestown township is excluded in this county, and Kennebec township in Frontenac, and the town of Deseronto and all of Tyendinaga township in Hastings county are included.

The high unemployment in February is partly explained by this fact that the Napanee Centre is available to these areas. In addition there was a large layoff from a local industry, and also extreme cold weather called a halt to much construction work, particularly in the north.

The picture is now brighter. With the advent of spring numerous construction projects are scheduled for early starts in this area and in neighboring communities. Highway construction in the north can be resumed, the new Federal building in Napanee will absorb some workers, and men are being called back by the local industry. Restaurants are making plans for the summer activity.

Numerous vacancies exist, mostly for skilled workers, in many parts of Ontario.

The Napanee Canada Manpower Centre announces that whether you are seeking employment or are seeking workers, a friendly and courteous service is available to discuss you needs at 174 Robinson street, telephone 354-3367.

Suffer Injuries

Cary Grant in Accident

NEW YORK (AP) — Cary Grant was cut about the face and his woman companion and their chauffeur both suffered fractured Tuesday night when their limousine collided with a truck in Queens.

Police said the 64-year-old actor also complained of chest pains after the accident which occurred on the Long Island Expressway en route to Kennedy airport.

Grant's companion, Gratia von Furstenberg, 23, social director at Delmonico's Hotel, suffered fractures of the right leg and collar bone. The chauffeur, Troy Lindahl, 33, had a broken leg.

All three were admitted at St. John's Queens Hospital.

Robert S. Taplinger, a public relations man at whose East Side apartment Grant had been a guest on and off for five months, said the actor had been on his way to catch a flight to California.

Police said the car was struck head-on by a tractor-trailer that jumped the divider after being hit from behind by another truck. The impact knocked Grant forward into the partition between chauffeur and passengers.

The veteran Hollywood actor is estranged from his second wife, Dyan Cannon, 30, whom he married in 1965. They have a daughter, Jennifer, 2.

Atomic Cocktail Sophisticated Therapy

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I noticed a letter from Mrs. W. C. about the "atomic cocktail." What exactly is it? — J. B.

Dear Doctor: Please advise the amount of iodine in the atomic cocktail. I have a goiter and thought it might help. — C. W.

Dear Doctor: I have the same problem Mrs. W. C. wrote about — my legs swelling. But it seems these drugpists don't know anything about it. — Mrs. L. J.

Evidently some misunderstanding need clearing up.

The atomic cocktail, so-called, is a solution containing the isotope of iodine — that is, iodine which has been treated to become radioactive.

The amount is varied, depending on the needs of the patient being treated, and is calculated very carefully. In other words, this is not a drug store remedy for people to try on themselves. It must be administered by physicians with specialized training in its use.

For cases requiring it, it is useful indeed. Since the thyroid gland needs a trace of iodine to function properly, this tricky carries iodine to the gland. If the iodine happens to be radioactive — radioactive. it also is carried to the thyroid. The radio - activity then can be used as a means of reducing the activity of a gland if it is overactive.

The atomic cocktail also has other uses: The radioactivity, although relatively faint, can be accurately measured by suitable instruments, and it thus is possible to measure the "iodine uptake," or the rate at which the thyroid collects iodine. This can be very important in diagnosing thyroid conditions.

Mrs. L. J. and other readers with the same idea should keep in mind that there are multiple reasons for swelling of the legs, so there is absolutely no point to jumping to the conclusion that because one case was helped by the atomic cocktail, that that would be the right treatment in other cases. It could be exactly the wrong treatment if the swelling was due to some other cause.

The atomic cocktail is a most valuable discovery, and has been used with beneficial results in many thousands of patients, but it is a sophisticated therapy which can be used only by experts possessing specialized training and equipment.

Incidentally, since radioactivity is involved, there was speculation as to whether it might tend to induce leukemia, which under some conditions can be more prevalent because of radiation effects.

It was good news earlier this year when Drs. George E. Thomas and Eugene L. Saenger, of the University of Cincinnati, announced that they had studied the records of 36,000 patients scattered through 26 medical centres, and found that there was absolutely no difference in the prevalence of leukemia among patients who have had the atomic cocktail and those who had not.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is inguinal hernia? Is it the same thing? I knew it was a hernia, but what does the rest mean? — C. B.

Herniorrhaphy is surgical repair of a hernia, or rupture. Inguinal means that it is a hernia in the groin rather than elsewhere.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is on a low calcium diet because of kidney stones. Does any product made with nonfat dry milk or calcium propionate added to retard spoilage have a high calcium count or is it safe for him to eat such a product? — Mrs. D. P.

Non-fat dry milk has a high calcium content. The calcium propionate is also a calcium salt. Both should be avoided in your husband's case.

Mrs. Ross Dickie read the address and presented the guests of honor with a hamper of gifts from the 80 guests present. The evening was spent in playing cards and croquinole.

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves, if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried the plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Churchill Rocket Range Boss Runs Hard to Remain on Top

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — The range has top billing in the scientific world and Jim Brandy is trying to keep it there.

He's the general superintendent of the Churchill Research Range, a multi-million-dollar research plant that each year attracts hundreds of scientists to the rocky shore of Hudson Bay.

Dr. Brandy, 46-year-old Winnipeg native, had an impressive base from which to build, assuming the post as chief executive when the National Research Council took over from the United States Air Force in 1966.

Since then, he has added, expanded and altered the facilities that were worth more than $12,000,000 two years ago.

"If you don't keep updating the facilities here, you're going backward," he says in explaining what happens to the $4,500,000 annual budget that is put up jointly by NRC and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration of the United States.

What he did with last year's budget included:

—Updating and consolidating the telemetry facilities for recording data fed back by rockets and bringing the radar tracking system together under one roof;

—Renting two new airplanes—a Jet Ranger helicopter and a Centennial 100 fixed-wing unit—with plans to purchase.

He says the range now has everything the scientist needs in his quest for knowledge about the aurora borealis but "only by working like hell can we keep it that way."

His efforts at the University of Manitoba and the Suffield, Alta., experimental station won him a Defence Research Board scholarship for post-graduate study in 1949. It permitted him to earn a doctorate in physical chemistry and prepared him for what is turning out to be a career at Fort Churchill, 610 miles north of Winnipeg.

Working with the Defence Research Board, he was stationed here in 1952 to study problems related to arctic warfare. Quite incidentally, the stint introduced him to the puzzle of the aurora borealis.

Four years later he was transferred to Ottawa where he worked as a DRB "professional spy," a period of his career that remains a closed book.

Churchill called again in 1960—"I've called it home ever since"—when Dr. Brandy became officer-in-charge of the DRB northern laboratory, a post he held for six years. At the same time, he advanced his personal research into the aurora because "the opportunity was there and, in the government service, opportunities don't come too often."

That was the same reaction the stocky, dark-haired scientist had when he was offered the job as range superintendent—it presented an opportunity.

It also presented challenges, one being the frustrating necessity to plan only 12 months ahead because he isn't sure how big a budget he'll have in the future.

"You get squeezed with a fixed budget, you can't get enough money to take on big projects."

And, while the budget remains the same, the work volume increases.

"We had about 50 major rocket shots here last year and we expect about 75 this year," he says, adding that as the sounding rockets become more sophisticated the support equipment must also become more sophisticated.

He's renting a computer this year, for example, to take over the mathematical calculations that so far have been done manually.

Meanwhile, more and more scientists apply to use the range because of its support facilities and its strategic location.

It lies in the heart of the aurora belt, near the terminal point of the earth's magnetic field, and on the fringe of the breeding ground of most of North America's weather patterns.

Gold Sales Rocket To Nightmare Level

Layman's Guide To Gold Crisis

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Busines Editor

What's behind the great gold rush?

In over-simplified terms, it means that a lot of people have lost confidence in the value of paper money. Instead of having dollars or pounds in their wallets, they want gold in the apartments or bank vaults.

These people, the speculators who are buying all the gold they can afford, are betting that gold soon will be worth more than paper money—in other words, that the paper money will be devalued.

Since the end of the Second World War, almost all international trade has been paid for—again in over - simplified terms —in terms of United States dollars. Value of other currencies has been set in terms of the dollar.

Back of the U.S. dollar was that country's guarantee to give gold on demand to any country holding dollars at the rate of one ounce of gold for $35.

For years, however, no country was especially anxious to amass gold—U.S. dollars were accepted as just as good.

Why, then, the sudden loss of confidence in the value of the U.S. dollar and the demand for gold, the basic measure of exchange since history began?

There are several reasons, including the loss in value of the British pound and its psychological effects which made people wonder if other currencies were sound.

Basically, however, it relates to the fact that for several years now the U.S. has been spending more money in other countries than it has been receiving from them—an adverse balance of payments. Lately this problem has grown to vast proportions because of the huge

Money Marts Fear Anarchy

LONDON (CP) — Europe's gold panic skyrocketed to nightmare level today threatening complete monetary anarchy.

London, Paris, Zurich, and even the normally small Frankfurt market reported levels of sales dealers had never dreamed possible.

Paris, with normal sales of two to three tons, had more than 40 tons—more than twice Wednesday's record high of 16 tons.

London dealers expected sales today to top 200 tons.

Dealers and both bullion and foreign exchange markets reported a complete collapse of confidence in paper-money.

The pattern of sales in all markets showed the buyers were snatching up gold, silver and platinum in any sizes of ingots or coins.

This was an indication that even the grocer on the corner was switching his savings into something he considered safer and more solid than paper money.

"Only firm action by the United States to reduce its foreign payments deficit can now restore public confidence," one market observer commented.

Other sources expected either a complete breakdown of the seven-nation gold pool or official curtailment of sales. London dealers were frantically attempting to calm the panic and were making buyers pay higher and higher prices for the metal.

Similar situations were occurring in the London metal markets.

In Paris, 35 tons of one-kilo (2.5-pound) ingots and 800 of the 12.5-kilo (27.5-pound) bars were sold, along with 50,000 gold napoleon coins.

The Bank of France was hard-pressed to fill the demands.

In Paris also, dealers were demanding a premium of up to 70 cents an ounce.

Frankfurt bankers met the "wildest ever" rush for gold with unprecedented demand for bullion, gold certificates and coins.

War, Trade, Taxes, Speculation All Factors in Raid on Gold

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncertainty, rumors, Vietnam, taxes, balance of payments, budget deficits and the hope of quick profits add up to the sharpest raid on the U.S. gold supply in history.

The drain from the heavy speculative buying, which has hit Europe in waves since British devaluation of the pound last November, far outshadows the intensity of even the heavy French purchases of several years ago.

U.S. officials, who have repeatedly said the Johnson administration will continue to honor its pledge to buy and sell gold at $35 an ounce, foresee further shock waves until the international money system is reformed.

That reform is under way in attempts by the United States and Britain to end deficits in their balance of payments and a new agreement among Western nations to create new international money not tied to gold, when and if the need arises.

U.S. officials call absurd the belief that the price of gold might be changed.

A key element in the administration's program to plug the gold drain is the proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate incomes taxes. The extra revenues would cut the $20,000,000,000 U.S. budget deficit. But Congress refuses to enact it.

Also pending before Congress is an administration proposal to lift the 25 per cent gold cover off U.S. currency, a move that would free gold now committed to reserves—and show U.S. determination to withstand the speculative attack aimed at forcing up the metal's price.

Some officials have said an escalation of troop strength in Vietnam could prompt Congress to raise taxes—but the prospect of a bigger war only feeds the fears of foreign gold buyers.

The currency gold crisis differs dramatically from the heavy gold losses of the past. This time the gold isn't going into private hands through the London gold market.

The United States reimburses the Bank of England for 59 per cent of the gold sold on the London market as part of a seven-country pool, whose stated aim is to keep the price at $35 an ounce.

The U.S. has had an international spending deficit in 17 of the last 18 years and this outflow represented a potential and actual drain on U.S. gold because of the dollars accruing to foreign governments that they can convert their dollars into gold at $35 an ounce.

The U.S. gold picture for 1967 was promising until the British monetary devaluation on Nov. 18. The loss of gold through November was $270,000,000 and more than half of this represented sales to U.S. companies for industrial and artistic use.

In December, however, the treasury sent $771,200,000 in gold to the Bank of England to cover the first two gold-buying sprees and only this week made another $450,000,000 worth immediately available for use abroad. Much of this will be used to cover speculative sales through London in the third and still-continuing gold rush.

Gold for Opportunists

Kennedy Poised At Race's Brink

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy has stepped to the brink of presidential candidacy and a key aide says he'll make his decision in a week.

Kennedy huddled with political advisers in New York Wednesday night after saying in Washington he is reassessing whether to run against President Johnson.

A close aide said Kennedy will make his decision by March 22, deadline for entering the May 28 Oregon primary.

Kennedy said the major obstacle to his candidacy had been a fear of deeply dividing the Democratic party if he was suspected of personal ambition or personal animosity toward Johnson.

But McCarthy's strong showing in New Hampshire removed the personal element, Kennedy said, and "indicated a good deal of concern in the Democratic party about the direction our country is going."

Jobless Number Increases

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in February rose to 482,000, up 18,000 from January, and represented 6.4 per cent of the labor force, highest level since March of 1964.

A joint report by the manpower department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed the number at work increased slightly during the month, but not enough to offset the continued rapid rise in the national labor force.

The February unemployment figure was 86,000 higher than the same month of last year. During the year the labor force grew by 213,000 to 7,328,000 while the number of jobs available rose by only 127,000 to 7,107,000.

U.S. Has Refused To Give Up Banks

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. state department has rejected an Ontario request for the extradition of Hal C. Banks, 59-year-old former head of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada.

A note to that effect was given to the Canadian embassy here Wednesday, a state department spokesman said today.

Specific reasons for the rejection by State Secretary Dean Rusk were not immediately available.

Ontario's bid to return Banks was headed by Belleville Crown Attorney John Pringle.

Senators May Not Free Gold

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — A Senate filibuster today threatened efforts by President Johnson to free U.S. gold reserves and halt mounting gold speculation throughout the world.

Colorado Republicans Peter Dominick and Gordon Allott, both critical of government action to do this, said Wednesday a vote should be delayed until the senate could hold an "extended discussion" of the matter.

But Senator Charles Percy (Rep. Ill.), warned that time was running out to protect the soundness of the dollar and halt the speculation.

"We are facing a critical situation," he told the Senate.

Before the Senate was a bill previously passed by the House of Representatives that would free all the U.S. $11,400,000,000 gold stock to meet demands of foreign central banks.

Under present law, $10,400,000,000 of the U.S. stock is "frozen" to provide 25 per cent gold backing for circulating currency.

Credit Line Established For Canada

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Export-Import Bank approved Wednesday a $500,000,000 line of credit to help Canada maintain its trade with the United States.

Bank President Harold E. Linder described the credit as a standby which can be used if needed by Canada.

The creit is designed to supplement Canada's foreign exchange resources in addition to the $400,000,000 in credits being made available by the central banks of West Germany and Italy and the Bank for International Settlements in Switzerland.

Canada also has available a $500,000,000 balance under a $750,000,000 line of credits with the federal reserve system.

Kv Distributes Arms To Catholic Parishes

SAIGON (AP) — Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky called on the Vietnamese people today to liberate North Vietnam from communism and reunify the country.

In a speech to Roman Catholic villagers 15 miles north of Saigon, Ky said the government would give weapons to anyone who could hold one if they were anti-Communists.

The vice-president presented arms for self-defence to several Roman Catholic parishes in Bien Hoa province.

Wednesday, the government announced that a March-to-the-North army of volunteer guerrillas will be formed to invade North Vietnam.

A government spokesman said the army was being organized by members of the vice-president's office, and Ky told reporters today he will accompany it if and when it marches north.

Canadian Dollar Steady

NEW YORK (CP) — Trading in the Canadian dollar here has been heavy, but no heavier than that in any other paper currency, a foreign exchange trader said today.

He said that the current gold rush in Europe has not hit the Canadian dollar, as shown by the fact that it has held fairly steadily above 92 cents in terms of American funds.

It opened today at 92 3-64 cents American, down 1-32 from Wednesday's close.

Pressure by Russia Annoys Castro

HAVANA (Reuters) — Premier Fidel Castro Wednesday night virtually accused Russia of putting economic pressure on Cuba and threatened to seize American planes forced here by hijackers in future.

He also admitted in a televised address that there is "discontent and anxiety" in the country over food rationing.

Castro did not mention the Soviet Union by name but left a clear impression that he feels the Russians are not doing more to help Cuba overcome economic difficulties because of ideological differences between the two countries.

Castro spoke on the steps of Havana University at a mass rally commemorating the 11th anniversary of an abortive attack by students on former dictator Fulgencio Batista's palace.

Cuba said Cuba had no reason to return American planes such as a National Airlines DC-8 with 85 persons aboard which was hijacked by three Cubans Tuesday on a flight from Tampa to Miami and forced to land at Havana.

"We took payment for fuel and airport dues and let the plane go," he said. But he threatened to impound further American planes in retaliation for Cuban ships and planes held in the United States.

It was the second U.S. airliner to be hijacked and flown to Cuba within the last three weeks and the seventh hijacking since August.

Better Education Promised

Education Minister Outlines New Bill

Education minister William Davis said last night he was pleased with the enthusiastic response Hastings County was giving the government's program to reorganize school boards into county wide units.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Hastings County Conservative Association in Stirling, he claimed the program would provide quality education for those areas of the province with lesser standards.

"While adopting county boundaries there is nothing to prevent students from attending schools in other counties," he said.

In the Quinte area students in both Ameliasburg and Desoronto will attend schools in Hastings and Lennox and Addington Counties.

Mr. Davis said the legislation for the new program would be introduced in the house in two or three days. "There will be nothing in the bill that will stop decentralization of administration by the county boards," he said.

He claimed the return to the public from investments in education runs between 14 and 18 per cent. "This is why education is the largest single public investment."

"A large proportion of our students are moving from rural to urban areas once they've received their education. Therefore we must have an equal program for the rural students so we can bring the rural and urban areas together."

"Under the new system, trustees, for the first time in many years will be elected democratically," he said. "If we believe in democracy then trustees must be elected and fiscally responsible to the people."

He also suggested the county boards would have a responsibility and obligation to spell out education costs on the tax bill.

"Most areas need a broader tax base and the new program will provide the base," he said. "I also believe teachers will find the move beneficial."

"The reason this program was ever produced was for the good of the student. They will be the beneficiary of the system. It's the government's responsibility to educate the children and we're making a real effort."

"What we do in education will determine the standard of living in the future."

During a question and answer period Mr. Davis was asked why schools weren't operating on a two or three shift basis?

"We're considering this along with economies which might be effected by operating twelve months a year and we're also looking for other ways to utilize the schools," he replied.

He also said elections for the new school boards will be held next fall but the mechanics have yet to be determined.

The meeting was also attended by Quinte MPP Dr. Dick Potter and Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins. Association president Ken Smith chaired the meeting.

Education the Topic

Education Minister William Davis was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Hastings County Progressive Conservative Association meeting in Stirling last night. Here he chats with Mrs. C. Sills prior to the meeting.

Loyalist College to Turn Sod For $700,000 Building on Site

A $700,000 sod-turning ceremony is scheduled within three weeks, launching Loyalist College as truly independent education entity.

The event will signal the construction start to temporary quarters on the Loyalist campus site, near Belleville's western outskirts.

Enlistment of a contractor for erection of the building — a revolutionary construction concept — was announced today by Loyalist board chairman Rev. H. J. Maloney, Bancroft parish priest.

The contract has been awarded to Dalton Construction and Engineering of Toronto.

"They've agreed to use as much, local labor as possible," said Father Maloney.

"And we're hoping to turn the sod in two or three weeks time.

The chairman announced the contract price was $706,-475. When plans for the building were originally confirmed earlier this year, the estimated cost was $500,000.

The building is scheduled for completion by fall — when Loyalist plans to move from temporary quarters at Centennial Secondary School.

"The structure has been described as a new departure in school construction.

Entire building sections will be bolted together in a project which, college president J. K. Bradford has said, will "break new ground for school buildings."

The unique concept also has caught the eye of provincial authorities, Father Maloney noted.

He said the Department of Education was impressed with the design.

Higher enrolment at Centennial and increased registration at the college makes new quarters mandatory.

By next September, Loyalist expects to enter its second year of operation with a student force more than tripled to 500.

As yet, there is no indication when plans for the permanent campus on the Sidney township site will be completed.

Leisure Time in Automated Society Outlined by Speaker

What to do with leisure time in an automated society?

This, according to Ed. J. Buckley, co-ordinator for the Quinte area adult re-training program, is causing more and more concern as technological advances move the world toward full automation.

Speaking to the monthly meeting of the area welfare workers committee, Mr. Buckley pointed to the change as the world moved from an agricultural to an industrial oriented society.

Now with automation writing still another chapter, Mr. Buckley said there was growing concern about what people were to do about the increased volume of leisure time they have at their disposal.

"Already," he said, "many people are bored about the prospects of one long week-end."

But thinking is changing with respect to what formerly has been a work oriented society and today many people are taking courses to learn how they can more profitably spend their leisure time.

Evidence of this, Mr. Buckley said, was that close to 30 per cent of people attending night classes are doing studies orientated toward hobbies or recreation.

Flinton Oratorical Winners Named

FLINTON — Mary Jane Steeves of Northumberland County, will represent zone nine in the elementary schools' public speaking finals in Toronto next Monday, March 18.

Mary Jane, 13-year-old enthusiastic speaker chose the topic "What's In A Name?" She won handily over the other 11 contestants.

Linda Sutton of Leeds County placed second, and Gwen Brodaky of Prince Edward County was in third place.

Each contestant received certificates for record and books, and the winner, in addition, received the large Hydro trophy to hold for one year, a small replica for her own, and a copy of The World Book Dictionary in two volumes.

The judges were Kenneth Weller of Bowmanville, Eric Barr of Oshawa and Garnet Holmes of Ajax. Entertainment was provided by the Flinton Public School choirs.

The contest was held in the public school in Flinton with the auditorium packed with about 120 people. There was considerable criticism at such a distant place being selected for this important event. It was felt that too many people had to travel too far to reach it. A second criticism concerned the size of the auditorium, as most of the contestants had been trained in a larger auditorium and were handicapped because of the small room.

It was the opinion of many that some more central site, such as Belleville, would have been wiser, since zone nine is comprised of the counties of Peterborough, Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, and Leeds and Grenville.

Work crews today neared the end of a two-month project clearing Belleville of giant elms plagued by Dutch elm disease. One of the last to go was 100-foot-high specimen, estimated a century old, at Catherine and Cedar streets. By tonight, 375 trees marked for disposal will have gone forever from the city's scenic, historic background.

375 Elm Trees Cut

By tonight, Belleville's background will be short 375 elm trees.

That's the number of shady old giants which will have fallen to the lumberman's chainsaw in the fight against a relentless little bug.

The parasite is the uncontrollable carrier of Dutch Elm disease which, in three decades has changed the face of many a North American community.

The inexorable march of the epidemic, since its fugitive migration from Europe in the 1930s, has killed off thousands of elms — once a standard symbol of small - town America.

This year, Belleville launched a city - wide program to remove diseased and dying elms from public and private property.

The operation began Jan. 15. Today, the contractor, Mc-Innys - Maimo Construction was on the last limbs of the contract.

Working to remove a 100-year-old, 100-foot-high grand old specimen at Cedar and Catherine Streets, Gord McInnys noted only four more elms were left for removal.

"We should be finished by tonight," he estimated.

The past week has been programmed for the removal of the largest elms noted in the contract.

Scattered at various points around town, they have had to be gingerly manoeuvred around overhead wires by mobile crane.

The elms then are trucked to the city dump — where several acres have been converted into a graveyard for the mammoths.

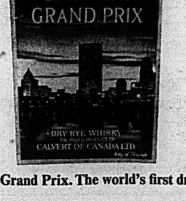
CALVERT OF CANADA LTD., MONTREAL • TORONTO • VANCOUVER

How Calvert found a new way to make rye incredibly smooth.



The name of the rye is Grand Prix. We made it incredibly smooth by making it dry.

And we made it dry by discovering a new way to make rye without any cloying sweetness.

This makes Grand Prix a full-bodied rye so smooth you can actually sip it straight. And like it.

Nobody ever made a rye as smooth as Grand Prix before because nobody ever knew how. It took Calvert ten years to do it, and naturally our Master Blender is pretty proud of it.

But try it yourself. In ten seconds you'll know why he's so proud.

Where to Get Water Big Question

Members of the Public Utilities Commission may eventually contract water on the brain from trying to decide how to provide more water for the city.

From the lake or the bay was again the big question facing the commissioners at yesterday's meeting.

There are many considerations to be made before the commission makes a decision. Although the commission decides the source of action they feel should be taken, the decision inevitably lies with council who must approve the debenture for any major project.

This would be especially true in the case of bringing water from Lake Ontario as it would be the municipality, not the commission, which would have to enter into an agreement with the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Water now costs 33 cents per 1,000 gallons — if the need for more water was satisfied by piping it from Lake Ontario the cost would jump to 75 cents per 1,000. At the same time, however, the water would be much better flavored and the problem would be solved for a long time to come.

Another alternative facing the commission is to extend the present pipeline into the lime getting water from the bay. This would entail an expenditure of $1,800,000 and would solve the problem at least for five to 10 years.

Even if the water is continued to be brought from the bay, E. L. Burnham, manager of the PUC stated yesterday that the price is going to go up around 50 cents per 1,000 gallons and the flavor will not improve.

All commission members agree that the best place to get the water would be from Lake Ontario, not only for reasons of water purity but also because the problem would be solved for a long time. The question facing the commission is whether Belleville can afford it.

Acting mayor Douglas Doyle asked of the commission "if we build an extension (to the present system) will it be obsolete in three or four years?"

The mayor feels that the commission should "take the large view of city expansion." Mr. Burnham, on the other hand stated that "we need the water now and the only way to get it is by expansion."

The commission's chairman, John Deacon, said that to expand the present facilities to solve Belleville's problem will not prove that expensive in the long run, even if in five or 10 years the switch to Lake Ontario is necessitated.

PUC Chairman Favors Taking Water From Bay

"The most pressing problem that the Public Utilities commission of Belleville will face in the water problem," said John Deacon, chairman of the PUC yesterday. Mr. Deacon was speaking before a meeting of the Belleville and District Real Estate Board.

The chairman said that "we have to make up our mind in a very short while in order to provide the volume and pressure needed to meet the demand in two or three years.

Two plans are feasible to the PUC in order to provide the water: (1) extend the present plant facilities and (2) get the water from Lake Ontario.

"We have no alternative but to get the water from the bay . . . if in years it deteriorates and we have to go to Lake Ontario we will just have to rearrange our investment here."

When asked why he favored getting the poorly flavored bay water over water from Lake Ontario the chairman pointed out that if water was piped in from the lake the cost to the taxpayer would double.

"I would be surprised if they wanted to spend that kind of money to get water with a more neutral flavor," he stated.

Even with the present situation Mr. Deacon forecasts a cost increase. "With the increased costs of plant upkeep and the extension what alternative do we have but to pass on the costs," he asked.

Since there have been no statements from last year yet and the program for 1968 has not been set Mr. Deacon was not able to say whether an increase would come this year.

A Grim Budget

Ontario taxpayers have been hit hard by Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton's budget.

The budget means a married man who has children and a car, is a smoker and belongs to the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan, will have to pay at least $125 more this year in increased taxes, fees and premiums.

The increases will net the provincial government an additional $105 million in a budget that nevertheless will produce a record deficit of $252 million.

Financial demands in such major spheres as education, aid to municipalities, health and housing, account for 90 per cent of the expenditure increase. Quite obviously the government is becoming more and more committed in all these areas. Funds have to be found to pay for the services, but inevitably it may be asked if there is not too much extravagance?

Mr. MacNaughton denied the budget was inflationary. At the same time he was not clear as to how he intended to finance the record deficit — $90 million more than 1967.

He even admitted his department had a difficult time creating a budget to meet the province's many commitments. "Rising costs and prices, rising interest rates and tighter capital market conditions along with slower growth and higher unemployment," he said, "create a complex of conditions which almost defy rational policy making. The key is to be found in the critical balance between the private and the public sectors. .

What Mr. MacNaughton is really trying to say is the province is committed to more projects than it can handle at the present time. And that in time of need it is the taxpayer, as ever, who must shoulder the burden, whether he likes it or not, or even whether he is able or not.

It is a familiar story — only this time it is harsher than usual. In Ottawa the situation is no better. Prime Minister Pearson wants yet another federal-provincial meeting to discuss rising prices and wages. Virtual of rising costs of government in all areas apparently has no ceiling.

Sweden and the U. S.

The people of Sweden do not know how lucky they are. They have not fought a war for 150 years and they enjoy one of the highest standards of living in the world.

Yet the Swedes are pictured as a bored, unhappy people. They are looked after by the State from cradle to grave, but somehow life for them seems to lack challenge. As a result, the Swedes have such social problems as alcoholism, suicide and moral laxity to a degree that is perhaps more than average.

The fact that Sweden has not been involved in war or racial trouble — as a nation they are one of the most homogenous of the world's peoples — has made the Swedes rather self-righteous. They even have been critical of United States involvement in Viet Nam and of the treatment of Negroes in the U.S. Currently, relations between the two countries are strained because of Sweden's open door policy for U.S. army deserters.

For all that, Sweden would seem the last country one would expect to establish close ties with China and communist North Vietnam. Yet that has happened.

It has been demanding an end to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and recognition of the Viet Cong guerrillas' political arm. Last year it withdrew its mission from South Vietnam and moved toward closer contacts with North Vietnam through China.

A couple of years ago Sweden welcomed a military mission from China — to what purpose has never been completely satisfactorily. Unless it is that Russia is too close to Sweden for comfort. Because of the proximity of Russia, Sweden maintains one of the most formidable military defence systems in Europe, including something like 1,000 jet fighters in hangars hewn from rock. Much of this preparedness may have been negated when a Swedish military officer was arrested two or three years ago and accused of spying for the Soviets. This too could account for Sweden's friendly posture toward China.

As far as its relations with the U.S. are concerned, Sweden could be the loser in the long run if it continues with its anti-American stand. This would be regrettable, having regard to Sweden's traditional ties with the United States.

Absenteeism May Be Liberals' Terminal Illness

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Look at it any way you want . . . listen to all the alibis and explanations . . . and you can come to only one conclusion . . . that what derailed and almost wrecked Prime Minister Pearson's minority government on that 84-82 vote killing Finance Minister Sharp's initial income tax bill was a broken promise.

A promise the prime minister himself made back in mid-1963 and has shrugged off through his five crisis - torn years since.

You find the prime minister's apparently long - forgotten pledge on page 3736 of Hansard of the first session of the twenty - sixth Parliament.

It reads:

"We have to face the fact that members of the House of Commons, to all intents and purposes NOW have a full - time occupation . . ."

The operative word is "NOW."

For the "occupation" of members of the House of Commons right then was changing, radically, from an admittedly under - paid hobby-of-sorts leisured gentlemen to a relatively well or even highly - paid year-round working job for professionals.

It was then the afternoon of July 29, in the opening year of Lester Pearson's administration, and he was urging the Commons, at his personal invitation, to vote themselves an 80 percent raise in parliamentary pay.

He was speaking in support of Bill C-91, increasing an MP's salary and tax-free allowance by $6,000, from $10,000 to $18,000 plus generous open-ended expenses.

And that is where the "now" came in.

For "now," as the prime minister told the Commons, there was a "full-time occupation."

But was he "just talking," or did he mean it?

It was for real, and to make it crystal clear to all concerned — the MPs and the taxpayers alike — he pledged himself at a press conference, very shortly after, "to find some way, and make it really work," of curing the chronic parliamentary disease of absenteeism.

A full-time occupation, he emphasized, "demands full - time attendance to it" . . . at least for important House votes.

But try as he might have, he was unable to find "some way" of doing it.

So nothing was done.

Did he really try? He has not said.

While from time to time there were whispers out of the Liberal caucus that he tore strips off absentee MPs, he gave no public evidence of concern about Parliament's non-attendance to the day-to-day Commons job. And the "Tuesday-to-Thursday Club" continued in flourish to the pitiful point where absenteeism became such a sick national joke that even touring school students were laughing.

Could he it is no more than poetic justice that perhaps the one to suffer most from his broken promise has been the prime minister himself.

He is ending his regime as he began it, amid crisis, his personal prestige diminished and the very credibilitiy of his government demolished by defeat-through-absenteeism of the income tax measure.

Five years ago when his ill act but doubled parliamentary pay, the prime minister was all too well aware that the performance of the House of Commons was under serious public question, even criticism.

But an 80 percent payroll increase was to change all that, for in urging quick passage of Bill C-91, he said: "I think it will certainly be agreed there is a real need, in these difficult days in our parliamentary institutions when their effectiveness is questioned on so many sides, to attract men and women of ability to public life.

"This resolution (for the $8,000 plus expenses increase) will help in that regard and will make it possible for these men and women to accept and discharge the tremendous responsibilities placed upon members of Parliament today."

"In this way we will be making the House of Commons more effective, and in making the House of Commons more effective we will be making it possible for ourselves as MPs to do more and to do it more effectively for the people of Canada."

Four days later, after passing the bill by a 200 to 10 vote, they recessed for two months from their job which the prime minister had just finished telling the public — indignant over the near-doubling of the payroll — was "now a full-time occupation."

Seems everybody was listening except some of the honorable members, especially MPs on the government side of the Commons who have been absenteeism to have the administration's all-important tax bill junk-piled.

The price of a promise—when broken — seems to come high indeed.

Age of Realism

Ottawa Journal

"I have confidence in the free human, this creature God made in His own image."

Thus the testimony of Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, in address to a Dominion Chalmers United Church luncheon meeting on Thursday.

His topic was the impact of mass media communications in a Christian society.

Today it is reasonable to ask where mass communications are leading us. The pronouncements of men like Marshall McLuhan, the Toronto pundit— "The media is the message"— may not be clearly understood but they add to the feeling of unease about communications of the electronic age. Are they to blame for the changes and bewilderment that haunt modern society?

Stewart heads a board with authority over broadcasting in Canada and if there have to be checks on actions of the mass communications of the electronic age he will be involved. He is dealing, in his daily duty, not with the abstraction that mass communications may be harmful but with actual evidence of their methods and influence.

Is he alarmed? Surprisingly enough, not much

He challenged the theory that mass communications are alone responsible for the ferment in modern society represented by developments such as separatist movements in Quebec, the increased use of drugs, the new morality.

He accepted that there was new involvement in real events — some day someone watching television would see a father or son shot down like an animal.

People now saw the councils of the nation in action, observed the experiences of drug addicts and alcoholics, were made aware of the problems of the handicapped and the suffering of the poor. The watchers were disturbed, Stewart said; they participated in real events.

Stewart would not scare Canadians the truth they may see or hear in the electronic age. But he insisted there is a duty to see that the truth is being given.

"We must keep continuous surveillance to be sure we're not being fed a line," he said.

Tax Money Flees as Socreds In BC Look After Their Own

Vancouver Sun

There are extravagances in the Social Credit provincial government for which satisfactory explanations have yet to be made.

Top salaries for top-rank public servants doing a first class job are beyond question.

But there are public servants whose cost-benefit ratio is questionable.

Such is the case of the septuagenarian former agriculture minister, Newton F. Steacy, capturing in B.C. House, San Francisco. Mr. Steacy's salary is to be boosted by more than 25 per cent from $10,920 to $14,000. In addition the ambassador extraordinary is to receive $7,940 "representational allowance" to pay for cocktails and things, plus $4,500 in travel expenses.

Equally spectacular is the reward to the tenant of B.C. House London, a defeated recreation minister, whose salary is to soar from $13,100 to $17,500. He has an even more glittering social circle, therefore a representational allowance of $14,800 plus travel expenses of $4,000.

Why and for what benefit? The taxpayers have every right to answers. But none were given when Opposition members asked about Mr. Steacy's emoluments in the legislature. Mr. Westwood, they were told, was a victim of the "unbelievable" increase in the British cost of living. Unbelievable is right. Can anyone seriously believe that it will cost Mr. Westwood 50 per cent more to live in London this year — the amount of his pay boost plus the effect of devaluation?

These two are not the only beneficiaries of Social Credit. The patronage roster is well known.

The government, however, seems not to care. How could it, when the minister in charge of our London and California offices himself boasts that he "saved" the taxpayers $40 by travelling from Victoria to Delhi via the rest of the world? (He didn't tell what public benefits he brought back with him.)

These flagrant examples of government extravagance, at a time it is urging hard-working, stay-at-home civil servants to watch the pennies, make a mockery of Premier Bennett's plea for restraint by employers and employees in 1968.

Big Powers Wary Despite Measure of Accord

By ROD CURRIE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

At the United Nations headquarters in New York there is an axiom that the world body moves effectively only when the big powers are in agreement. A perhaps not-too-original twist to this article of faith is that the U.S. and Soviet Union agree only where there is something in it for them.

Thus, beyond all the glow generated by those who hailed last week's proposed nuclear nonproliferation agreement as a mark of easing East-West tensions despite the Vietnam war, there arise some intriguing and pertinent questions.

The gist of the new agreement out of Geneva, to be presented to the UN this month for deliberation, is that the U.S., Russia and Britain have promised UN Security Council action to safeguard non-nuclear countries which sign the treaty and thus deny themselves nuclear weapons.

For a start, two nuclear powers—Communist China and France—have made it clear they will not sign.

Among the non-nuclear but "nuclear capable" nations, India in particular has serious doubts about the effectiveness —if not the sincerity—of the tri-party pledge.

The Indians, bordering hostile China, and others, are well aware of the Security Council's tendency to procrastinate, and in time of nuclear attack there would be no leeway for lengthy deliberation. And what of the veto power of the five permanent council members—the U.S., Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China — to could turn thumbs down on UN retaliation?

Ironically, in this instance, India is surrounded by its own foreign policy. Nonalignment has labored increasingly to thaw the cold war and now is caught in this product of sudden East-West accord.

Also, she long advocated UN membership for Communist China, with the strong possibility that she would replace Nationalist China on the Security Council.

Seeking to allay such fears, advocates of the treaty point to article 51 of the Charter, the mutual self-defence clause under which both the U.S. and Soviet Union could act militarily against any armed attack pending Security Council action.

Skeptics take little comfort from this, however, given the prospect of changing alliances and attitudes in the years ahead. As for Washington's pledge of 1994 of U.S. assistance to any non-nuclear country faced with nuclear attack, they point out that administrations change, and policies with them.

The argument of India, and others, is that the treaty is incomplete and thus dangerous—that it should require existing nuclear powers to halt weapons production and cut back their nuclear stockpiles as a real step toward disarmament.

But such a step appears far in the future. For now, the U.S. and Soviet Union have co-operated just enough to satisfy their needs—a warning to Communist China of the dangers of nuclear blackmail or attack. They still do not trust each other, or China, sufficiently to throw away their own nuclear weapons.

Still, "his first major show of accord since the partial test-ban treaty, that could pave the way for genuine, gradual disarmament, is an important step and many feel it would be a calamity if further delays were caused by the misgivings of nuclear-capable countries.

Business Spotlight

Crows Nest Industries to Move Into West Coast Timber Field

FERNIE, B.C. (CP) — Crows Nest Industries Ltd., which recently bowed out of the coal industry, has launched a "crash program" the company hopes will make it a major competitor in the British Columbia timber industry.

The giant Kaiser Steel Corp. of California recently purchased CNI's 250,000 acres of coal property in the Crowsnest Pass area for more than $34,000,000 in cash and Kaiser shares.

The U.S. company in turn signed a $600,000,000 contract with a Japanese steel industry consortium for export of 45-000,000 tons of coking coal to Japan during a 15-year period starting in 1970.

Now that CNI, incorporated in 1897, is out of the coal business executives will unveil a plan to enter the timber industry at the company's annual meeting April 30.

"Our plan of action now is to diversify as much as possible," said CNI President W. R. Prentice.

CNI has extensive forest holdings in the Fernie area—about 97 per cent of the sustained growth timber in the district.

In recent years, the company has been concentrating on acquisition of plant facilities and forest rights in its diversification efforts. CNI produced 68-613,000 board feet of rough and dressed lumber in 1966, the last year for which complete figures are available.

The Fernie company operates three sawmills in the southeastern corner of B.C. Initial plans, pending approval by the annual meeting, call for construction of a $7,000,000 to $8,000,000 sawmill and plywood operation at Elko, west of Fernie.

Forest products accounted for 45 per cent of CNI's total annual sales in 1966, but the percentage did not improve substantially last year.

"We've just had to sit that on the side, our problems were so immense in putting this Kaiser deal together," Mr. Prentice said. "Maximum utilization of our forest resources is now our immediate sphere of interest and we're going after it with a crash program."

CNI's oil and gas operations also remained a minor part of its business last year, but the company now will take advantage "of any opportunities arising that we can move into."

Mr. Prentice said the company is also "most interested" in developing its non-metallic mineral claims.

"We have a large number of phosphate claims, though developing these may be a long-term rather than a short-term project," he said.

Mr. Prentice said there is also a possibility that CNI might get back into the coal business at some future date.

"If you've read the Kaiser agreement you'll see they will return us per cent of the coal acreage to us in the next five to eight years," he said.

Approximately 65 per cent of CNI's shares are held by Americans.

Money Markets Fear Anarchy

raised the prospect of nearly 400 tons of gold, worth nearly $450,000,000, being withdrawn in one day from the world trading circuit into the hands of private speculators and hoarders.

In the London exchange market the pound sterling plunged to its lowest value in recorded history.

Dealers said nobody wanted to hold sterling and they described the situation as a shambles.

Britons, forbidden by law like Americans to own gold, sent the price of gold mining shares up 10 shillings and more within a few minutes of the opening of the stock market.

Heavy demand for silver drove the price of the metal up 12.5 cents to a record high of $2.50 an ounce.

Gold sales in Zurich were described as a stampede.

Sources close to the Swiss National Bank said reports reaching them on the gold market situation were serious.

"But in the circumstances it is not up to the Swiss authorities to make any statement," the sources said.

Paris traders said today's session in the gold market, located downstairs from the Paris stock market trading floor, was "one of the longest and most hectic in history."

Shouting traders jammed around the trading ring as prices were rung on an electronic board. The session, usually over in a half hour, was extended almost to an hour.

The Bank of France representative, off to one side of the ring, was almost overwhelmed by the demand. It is he who supplies the gold, drawn from the London pool, and usually keeps it coming fast enough to hold the price only slightly above the $35-an-ounce price at which it is officially pegged by the U.S. Treasury in the $35.80, up from $35.59 Wednesday.

London dealers added a full five cents to the price fixed at the opening and still sales were "absolutely fantastic," one said.

More than 50 tons were sold at the daily fixing, when the price was set just under the ceiling at $35.1875. U.S. dollars were selling at $35.25 U.S., however.

The pound opened at $2.38125 U.S., quickly dropped to $2.3910 and then went to its lowest level since 1949.

Exchange dealers said the market was a shambles with no demand for sterling.

Both the pound and the U.S. dollar were down in Frankfurt. In Paris, the dollar was fairly steady but the pound lost 170 points, dropping to 11.7800 francs.

More than 15 tons of gold, a record, was sold in Paris Wednesday, and orders by midmorning indicated an even greater demand today.

London dealers said it seemed likely March would beat the combined records of the two panic gold rushes which followed devaluation of the pound in November.

In the November and December scrambles, the U.S. and its six fellow members of the International gold pool lost about $1,500,000,000 in gold from their official reserves.

In Tokyo, the Japanese stock market declined sharply on increased selling.

The market average was down 17.06 points to 1 318.01, with losses wiping out most of the gains made in a recent recovery.

Dealers said fears that the U.S. might raise its bank rate particularly affected the market, since dealers were afraid that U.S. increase might reduce Japanese exports and disturb Japan's balance-of-payments position. Japan holds more than $2,000,000,000 in U.S. funds.

Hong Kong joined the gold rush today, with more business done in the first hour on the Chinese gold and silver exchange than in a normal full day.

In Johannesburg, South Africa, there was heavy demand for gold stocks and gains at one stage ranged to 80 cents.

Economists, meanwhile, sounded a warning that the panic rush into gold will soon be showing its effects in curtailed trade and reduced industrial expansion.

As more and more of the general public converts its savings into sterile gold, there is less and less money available for investment in industry.

Some observers believed this could hit France, which already has a tight money market, especially hard.

The consensus among dealers in Zurich was that events were slowly building up for a showdown on the gold-dollar relationship, the cornerstone of the present world monetary system.

The idea of creating two dollar rates was a popular ground in Swiss banking circles.

One, the so-called "commodity dollar" for trade purposes, would still be convertible into gold at $35 an ounce. The other, the "financial" dollar, would be left free to find its own level against gold.

Almost Unchanged

The consumer price index was almost unchanged in February as it rose to 152.7 from 152.6 in January. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said cheaper prices for food and transportation offset increases in housing and clothing. The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 4.5 per cent (CP Newsmap)

Gold Crisis Explained In Layman's Language

drains in the U.S. financing the Vietnam war.

No country can keep on spending more than it gets indefinitely, since sooner or later its money will not be accepted as being as valuable as it used to be.

Speculators now are betting the U.S. is in, or getting close to, this position.

As a result, they are switching their paper money to gold.

If the U.S. does have to devalue its currency, all other currencies now measured in terms of the U.S. dollar, including Canada's, would be affected.

Another problem is that the U.S. does not have unlimited gold holdings to give other countries in exchange for its dollars. It now has less than $15-000,000,000 worth of gold, but $10,400,000,000 of this still is tied to backing the domestic dollars. President Johnson is seeking to have this backing lifted by the U.S. congress and free those holdings to meet international demand. This would not affect the domestic value of the U.S. dollar.

Speculators also are figuring that the U.S. soon will have to demand more of its dollars in return for an ounce of gold—in other words, the price of gold will rise.

What happens if the U.S. does devalue its dollar or raise the price of gold?

Many economists fear it would mean currency chaos, since all non-Communist currencies would be affected.

If international trade were seriously affected, and most economists agree this would be inevitable, it almost certainly would mean a serious depression.

One alternative — which the U.S. now is trying — is to restore confidence in its currency. In essence, however, there is little the U.S. can do immediately short of assuring people it will do all it can to maintain the level of its dollars and hope speculators will believe it.

Another choice, and one that has been receiving increasingly serious study, is to create a new international backing for the currencies of countries involved in international trading.

The backing basically would assess the value of a country's currency in terms of its ability to produce and trade goods and services instead of relating to gold.

If such a backing is created, and many economists say it has to come sooner or later, it would mean gold would revert to being just another metal — useful in industry, but no longer capable of threatening established international trade payments.

Johnson's Men Alter Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's political advisers, genuinely concerned that Senator Eugene J. McCarthy may beat the president in Wisconsin's April 2 presidential primary, are plotting a major overhaul in strategy.

An informed source says they will junk two tactics which they believe backfired against Johnson in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary, where McCarthy captured an impressive 42 per cent of the vote.

One of these, the well-placed informant said, is the message that "Hanoi is watching" for an anti-Johnson turnout that might signify U.S. disunity over the war. The other is the use of pledge cards for votes with a copy "sent to the president."

Johnson's advisers do not share the president's public expression of indifference to the New Hampshire results.

"New Hampshire simply isn't something you can brush off lightly," the source said. "We have serious problems."

In the three weeks remaining before the Wisconsin test—where the president will be on the ballot—his strategists' plan is to pin down the Minnesota senator on specific alternatives to Johnson's Vietnam war policy.

McCarthy's opposition to the war has been the basis for his steadily mounting campaign to thwart the Democratic nomination from the president.

As for Senator Robert F. Kennedy, of the possibility of running against Johnson, the source said, "That really has us guessing."

A Kennedy candidacy, he said, "could change a lot of things."

"We might suddenly find ourselves with a fighting president on our hands."

Suddenly McCarthy Has Lots of Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Supporters of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy report his strong showing in the New Hampshire presidential primary has produced a surge of volunteers and some contributions. And most say Senator Robert F. Kennedy's "reassessment" has not changed their plans.

McCarthy told reporters Wednesday he thought it was "fine" for Kennedy to get into the race, but that it would have no effect on his own plans. The Minnesota Democrat then went to Wisconsin to join the young volunteers working for him in that state's primary scheduled April 2.

Chairman Marvin Madeson of the McCarthy-for-President organization in St. Louis said:

"We're going all the way with McCarthy. Kennedy is in the position of hanging on McCarthy's coattails, but he stands less of a chance of being elected than McCarthy."

Harry Beardsley of Concerned Democrats in Iowa said:

"We realize there are a lot of Kennedy supporters working for McCarthy . . .

"On the other hand, it is not impossible that one of Kennedy's reassessment alternatives will be to put his support behind McCarthy."

One hundred leaders of Reform and Independent Democrats organized a Coalition for a Democratic Alternative in Brooklyn to support McCarthy. His New York headquarters reported an unprecedented stream of contributions.

"We have received $13,000 in two days," said co-director Sarah Kovner.

Some apparent bitterness against Kennedy was voiced.

Harold Ickes, co-chairman and son of Franklin D. Roosevelt's interior secretary, said: "Kennedy gave very good reasons for reconsidering, but they were valid six months ago."

In Wisconsin, McCarthy's campaign director, Jay G. Sykes, predicted for the first time, "we're going to carry the state" in the primary.

Hoosiers for a Democratic Alternative said in Indianapolis the New Hampshire results brought them a surge of volunteers. C. Harvey Lord of the group said: "We have been getting all kinds of spontaneous offers of help."

John Carney, McCarthy's campaign co-ordinator in Illinois, said he would welcome Kennedy's entrance into the race.

"The more the merrier," he told reporters. "It's a tremendous job to challenge an incumbent president. . . . If Senator Kennedy should decide to support McCarthy it would add a great deal to our campaign, particularly if the support included strong organizations which have supported the Kennedy family such as Mayor Daley's in Chicago."

Miami lawyer Allan Milledge of the Florida Conference of Concerned Democrats said membership had swollen from 300 to more than 2,000 in recent days.

Rev. Joseph Duffey, Connecticut chairman for McCarthy, said Kennedy's statement had "no noticeable effect at this time."

"We have a winner in McCarthy and would greatly welcome Mr. Kennedy's support."

At a McCarthy rally in Seattle, Representative George Brown (Dem. Calif.), said: "I would welcome Robert Kennedy. I think he would make a very good vice-presidential candidate."

TO CONVERT GAS

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists plan to introduce bacteria into mines in an attempt to convert explosive methane gas into carbon dioxide and water. Tass, the Soviet news agency, says specialists "intend to contaminate the air supplied into mines through ventilators with antimethane micro-organisms."

Nice and easy.

It's nice work, making a whisky that tastes as easy as 5 Star. But it's no easy job.

It means selecting very special whiskies from our five distilleries across Canada. (Only Seagram's has five, by the way). Then blending and re-blending them to get 5 Star's easy taste.

Is the taste worth all the trouble? Very easy for you to find out.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I'm sorry I'm so late, dear. I hope you weren't worried."

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate

"What's Your Problem ?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

What can you do when your property is taken by eminent domain and the offer is insufficient? This problem literally has been faced by hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of property owners.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: As a new bridegroom, assisted by my still-blushing bride, we built our home with our own hands in 1924. Over the years, we added several pieces of land and made many changes and improvements in our home. The exact amount spent in 44 years is $28,811.11. I have kept receipts to account for every penny.

The school board is now forcing us to sell them our home for $25,000. We want all of our money back. How do we get it? We will be awaiting your reply. — Mr. T. B.

ANSWER: The amount of money the school board will pay for your property is based upon fair market value, and not its cost to you. Apparently their appraiser thinks the $25,000 is fair.

Since you are unhappy with the offer, I recommend that you engage an attorney to either negotiate or sue for a better settlement.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I was recently married for the third time. The charming woman has such a high estimate of me that I was presented with a $25,000 cheque following the ceremony. I didn't force her. It was her own idea.

I wanted to use part of the money to pay off the mortgage on the property my first wife gave me. The bank refuses to take my money. I suspect the bank president doesn't like me. Why, I don't know. Is it legal for a bank to refuse to accept my money? — Mr. T. G.

ANSWER: The writer is sure the bank official has a very intense dislike for you. Frankly, I'm sure it's hate. Perhaps it's because you took the $25,000 stipend without too much ceremony.

The proof: He is sacrificing money for principle.

In today's market with its high mortgage interest rates banks encourage prepayment. The newer mortgages carry higher interest rates.

Apparently, your mortgage has no prepayment clause. Therefore, as per mortgage contract, the bank is insisting you continue to make payments each month for the time remaining.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: You're always boasting real estate is an excellent investment. Allow me to tell you of one which is not.

Six years ago, I bought 1,000 shares of a certain real estate investment trust. The price has since dropped almost 60 per cent. What has happened to my real estate? — B.C.K., MD.

ANSWER: You bought shares of stock rather than real estate. Stock prices fluctuate often in response to extraneous factors rather than the basic value of the commodity in which the company deals.

This has happened to real estate trusts. The public has not developed solid confidence in them, stockbrokers are not urging them on customers, and their image is not bright.

Frankly, some real estate investment trusts have not received the best management and in a few it seems insiders have taken undue advantage. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that in general, real estate prices have been rising, while real estate investment trust shares have been falling.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My mother recently gave me the old family piano. It's a beautiful piece of furniture, but the piano keys are almost yellow. It reminds me of dirty teeth. How do I clean these musical dentures? — Mrs. S.

ANSWER: If the yellowing results from age, there is no known process that will lighten them. All I can recommend is to keep the piano keys exposed to light. This will check further yellowing.

If age is not the cause, the yellow stains can usually be removed by 1. wiping with alcohol; 2. wiping with peroxide or 3. rubbing with powdered chalk.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

CHRIST CHURCH PARISH GUILD

The regular monthly meeting of Christ Church Parish Guild was held on Tuesday afternoon with a good attendance.

President, Mrs. D. G. Livingston was in charge of the business portion of the meeting. Reports were given by the secretary, treasurer, and conveners. For the cent-a-meal project, Mrs. Boyd reported $40 collected in the month; for the kitchen, Mrs. Yesterfelt reported that new cups would be ordered and new kettles had been purchased.

The Guild will cater for the annual meeting luncheon of the A.C.W. in May; to a busload of senior citizens from Toronto in June, and to a wedding reception in May. A cheque will be forwarded to the Anglican World Mission from the Guild.

Mrs. Ridley Wallbridge was appointed as the Anglican Church Women's representative for the group.

Members of the executive of the Afternoon Branch of the A.C.W. were guests of the Guild and attended a joint executive meeting to discuss and make plans for the forthcoming "Royal Doulton China Show" in April. The planning committee will consist of Mrs. Lewis Watson, Mrs. Fred Lanier, Mrs. Leslie Lennox and Mrs. Ron Godden. Mrs. D. G. Livingston will be in charge of tickets and refreshments will be under the direction of Mrs. Ridley Wallbridge and Mrs. Claude Tucker. Mrs. F. A. Beeby will look after publicity. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Guild and the Afternoon Branch and will also be available at Sirouds China Shop on Front Street.

Following the business portion, members busied themselves with sewing, cutting-out and other preparations for a forthcoming tea and sale. In April the Guild will be guests of Mrs. Horace Wright, West Moira Street and the meeting will also be a workshop.

Tea was served by the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. A. W. Jordan and Mrs. T. W. Day.

The Experts Say

Patient Not Himself While Sick

TORONTO (CP) — Having someone home sick for a few days is a nuisance to everyone, probably most of all the person who is sick.

Margaret Manley of St. John Ambulance says it's a help to remember the patient is not going to be himself. He'll be irritable and easily bored and there should be some allowance made.

Mrs. Manley is provincial nursing officer for St. John Ambulance and teaches their home nursing courses.

She says there are a number of other small things to do that add up to an easier time for patient and nurse.

"You should think about how to help yourself. If you're not healthy, you can't look after the one who is ill."

You can save steps by organizing a tray or a hostess cart to take meals or treatment supplies to your patient in one trip.

If you must bathe your patient or move him in bed, it will be easier on you if you bend from the hips and knees and keep your back upright. Then the strain goes on your leg muscles, not on your back.

If a doctor is attending your patient, consider that you are working under him. Don't let his rules get broken. Do help him if he wants you to by keeping a record of or at least an eye on the patient's progress.

"If a special diet is involved, be sure you know what it consists of.

"Make any mealtime as attractive as possible. If you're ill your appetite is usually on the fritz. Serve colorful meals, not fish with potatoes with cauliflower. Have clean cutlery, stick a rose on the tray. Food may be more appealing in small servings, a heaping tray could put a patient off."

Serve simple food, Mrs. Manley says, and don't fuss if it isn't all eaten. You can always serve more later.

"Remember to wash your hands before and after you give the patient his food or a bath, or you may transmit infection."

You can cut the work in a bed bath, as you can in making a bed, if you do all one side first, then all the other, instead of running around the bed several times.

You should remember that washing is a personal thing. Mrs. Manley says it takes skill and practice to do it for someone else.

A patient should have a room to himself if possible. It should have sunlight and quiet and should be kept aired.

The bed should be firm, flat and smooth. The patient's pyjamas or nightgown should be changed every day.

The most comfortable way to prop a patient up is to make an A-frame of pillows. Lean two, standing against one another, and put a third one across the bottom to form a triangle. This supports the head and neck and small of the back.

Mrs. Manley says the St. John Ambulance teaches home nursing courses in every province but Prince Edward Island. There are 16 hours of lessons for a small fee. She says 40,000 people took them in Ontario last year.

Ann Landers

Nosy Neighbor Irritates Young Bride

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The woman who lives next door has a long nose which she loves to stick in other people's business. I have disliked this woman ever since I was a little girl.

ANN LANDERS

I have been married now for over a year and am about eight weeks pregnant. Every time Mrs. Long Nose sees me she pats my stomach and says, "Anything in the oven yet!" She makes me so mad I'd like to belt her in the mouth. Yesterday when she pulled that "oven bit" I managed, miraculously, to keep my temper and say sweetly . . . "No, nothing . . . s' s' s' "

Soon I will have to tell people I am expecting but I want to do it in my own way, and not be backed into a corner by a nosy neighbor.

How can I avoid answering a direct question? — BURNED.

DEAR B. You are under no obligation to answer personal questions. Simply evade the question by saying, "When I am ready to make an announcement, you'll know." Then change the subject.

s' s' s'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in a nursing home and there are some wonderful old folks out there. The Christmas holidays are the happiest time of the year because plants and flowers and gifts and cards and visitors come pouring in. Everyone is in a good mood. The ailing seem to perk up and we have fewer patients confined to their beds at Christmas than any other time.

But the holiday spirit soon wears off and this is what I am writing about. Why don't children whose parents are in nursing homes give a moment's thought to these folks during the other eleven months of the year? If it weren't for Christmas and Mother's Day it's as if nobody knows they are alive.

One frail little woman who has three sons and a daughter living within 40 miles of here has been re-reading the same two letters since last August. The whole family flies in on Christmas Day and then she doesn't see or hear from anyone until her birthday — seven months later. I feel so sorry for this sweet old woman that I have asked my own children to visit her.

If I see this letter in print I will feel better. Thank you. — CHICAGO.

DEAR CHI: So will I, and here it is. Guilty sons and daughters might feel worse, however, but if they get the message, that's all right with me.

s' s' s'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever we go to a party my wife has the idea I should spend the whole evening entertaining her. If I should walk off for five minutes to talk to someone she gets a hurt expression on her face. Then she is upset the remainder of the night and nobody has a good time.

When we got home last evening she gave me a long lecture on how it looks to other people when a man ignores his own wife and plays up to younger women. Ha ha ha ha . . . Finally I walked into the other room and started to read the paper. She came in after me, grabbed the paper out of my hand and shouted, "You deserve a wife like Ann Landers."

What do you think she meant by that? — FEET OF CLAY.

DEAR FEET: Under the circumstances I don't think her remark was much of a compliment to either of us. But I'll forgive her if you will.

Fond Memories of Childhood Poems

Dear Doris: Your wonderful column can be likened to a visit with many people.

With regard to "Calling for the Author", I'm enclosing a copy of the poem referred to. I feel our young people have been deprived of a great joy as so little poetry is included in the present school books.

Some time ago we were fortunate to buy a house in which were many old school books. What a wonderful day both mother and children had reading these! Even today our older two (in their 30's) will come out with "Remember that silly one about the Jumbleses, or "The Windmill!" Rhyme has a way of sticking when other forms tend to be forgotten. — One of Your Readers

Dear One: Isn't it the truth! I still remember "Somebody's Mother" and "The Arab and His Steed" with a stab of emotion.

When we don't read such little gems, or have them read to us, in childhood, it may take half a lifetime before we discover the way poetic writing can ring bells for us. (Especially the boys, who are prone to consider verse as sissy stuff.)

Dear Doris: I am 15 years old and my parents don't want me to go to my brother's in a neighboring province. They own a store and they claim they need me to help.

Last year my brother wanted me to come there for about a week. I could stay with a married couple who are good friends of his. I had saved up money for the bus fare and got 'im all ready with clothes. My brother even offered the bus fare, but my parents said no. "She is too much of a help here. What would we do without her?"

I know they easily could as my father's always complaining that I don't do enough work around. They couldn't even spare a week out of the two months' holidays I have.

This year I've got the same chance but again my parents insist they need my help too much. I don't get any allowance for helping around the house and working at home Saturday mornings, plus working from one to six o'clock at the store. — Fed Up.

Dear Fed Up: How do they spare you to even attend school? I'd say you need a break, and so do they.

I'm wondering whether they shrink from letting you take such a long trip alone, and use the work as an excuse. You aren't quite adult yet, and you are precious to them.

Try suggesting that: (1) your fare be met by your brother, or (2) they break away too, and make it a family trip. Such things have been done, even by storekeepers.

Our Puritan ancestors have much to answer for, in the way many of us still insist on keeping our noses to the grindstone.

Dear Doris: I said I would take on a little Friendly Visiting, and now the committee has given me an old man to visit, who is hard of hearing. I hate to refuse, but I am anxious now about how to talk to him, and what to talk about. — Volunteer Visitor.

Dear Volunteer: Don't say no without giving it a try.

The Canadian Hearing Society has some ideas about this:

(1) Avoid sitting with the light behind you. He needs to see your face clearly.

(2) Speak naturally and not too quickly

(3) If he is lipreading, give him time. It takes effort to lipread.

(4) If he is using a hearing aid, don't shout. Speak at a distance of five feet, in a normal voice.

(5) Have a pencil and pad handy. A little written conversation may help things along.

To which I would add: Treat him like a person. Discover and discuss his interests. Don't gossip. Be an optimist. Be prompt. Be reliable.

Has Doris helped you with a problem? Write and tell her so!

OUTSIZE ROAST TURKEY

(serves 50)

One 30-pound oven-ready turkey (35 pounds before being dressed)

Rice Stuffing:

one 24-oz. package minute rice

¾ cup butter

1 cup chopped onion

1 cup chopped celery

1 cup chopped green pepper

½ pound mushrooms (optional)

2 tablespoons soy sauce

½ teaspoon sage

½ teaspoon tocent

Make Stuffing by cooking minute rice exactly as directed on 24-oz package. (This provides sufficient stuffing, lightly packed, for both body and neck cavities.)

Melt butter in large kettle and gently saute onion, celery and green pepper and mushrooms, if used, until limp. Add soy sauce, sage and accent, then add the fluffy cooked rice and gently mix. Stuff into oven - ready 30 - pound turkey packing lightly. Skewer body cavity shut. Neck skin is simply tucked well under to enclose neck stuffing. Tie wings and legs to body. Dry the skin with a towel. Rub all upper surfaces with soft butter and sprinkle sparingly with salt and pepper. Cover loosely with large tent of wide foil leaving ends open. Roast overnight at 200 deg. Fahr. starting about midnight. At about 1 p.m. of next day (12 hours later) increase heat to 250 deg. Fahr. and roast 3½ hours longer or until legs move easily in joints. (See note below.) The bird was rich gold and tender and juicy. Enough juice had collected in the pan for gravy. We removed all fat from pan liquid to make gravy with the cooked chopped giblets and their liquid.

Be sure your carver has a sharp carving knife and a strong arm and carving experience to slice this ostrich bird for a crowd of fifty people. NOTE: Adjust starting time to suit your schedule. If dinner is to be at 6 p.m., turn heat up to 225 deg. Fahr. (after 12 hours at 200 deg. Fahr.) for 4½ hours.

Central Committee Suggested

Better Liaison Between Students--School Board Possible

By STEVE BISHOP

Last week's rise in milk prices and city secondary schools and the ensuing crisis, brought about suggestions for a better liaison between the Board of Education and the students, through the various Student Councils.

Among the measures suggested was the formation of a central committee of Student Councils, and the investing of a board member with the responsibility of keeping in touch with the councils on matters directly pertaining to the students.

The Student Council presidents split on the issue. Two came out in favor of a better liaison, while two were not certain it is necessary.

Henry Kafka, Student Council president at Quinte, favors the idea. "As it is, we cannot get to the centre of these things. Many times they get lost without anything happening."

It was he who suggested the idea of a Board member whose function would be keeping in touch with the councils.

"That way, there would always be someone available in case something should arise. And we could voice our views to the board itself."

Ann McDougall, Centennial's Council president, was also in favor of the idea of better communication between board and students. "It seems reasonable that they should tell us a little more."

Terry Cretney, at Moira, voiced the opinion that the principal was the link between students and school board.

Bob Reid, at BCI said that in reference to last week's milk problem the student council had set up a committee with Beaver Foods to prevent any further problems with the new cafeteria setup.

He said that closer contact with the board would be helpful, but that a permanent liaison was hardly worthwhile.

"Not that much comes up in board meetings that is of direct interest to the students."

The principals felt that a direct liaison between the board and the students would be difficult to arrange, and perhaps not necessary.

John Hayman, of Quinte, said that he felt the principal was the one who should look after student problems and commute student opinions to the board. But he did see advantages in closer co-operation all around.

"The mechanics might be rather difficult to work out, but anything to bring about smoother operation would be welcomed."

W. J. Musgrove, of Centennial, pointed out that students do have the right to present an issue directly to the board. He felt that the cafeteria problem was simply lost in the chain of command.

He also stated that the principals themselves no longer attended board meetings, since only a minority of the business related directly to their schools. Thus the students might find a direct liaison impractical.

While he was generally in favor of a central committee, Mr. Musgrove was not certain of the necessity of a board member responsible to the councils. "The members of the board give up a great deal of their time already, and there is a limit to what you can ask of them."

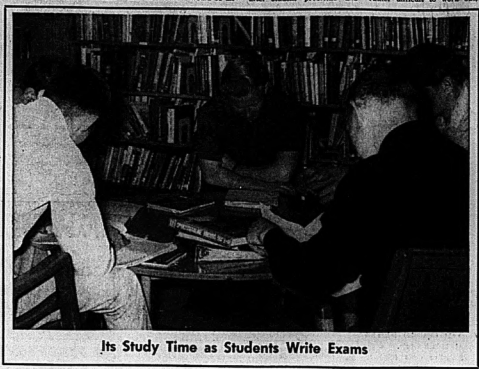
Linton D. Read, of Moira, pointed out that such a liaison was unheard of in Ontario. North York, he said, has a superintendant of Student Services, but he is a board employee, not a board member.

Mr. Read stated that the main consideration in such a question is the division of duties. "By definition, the board of education is concerned with general policy. It is up to the administration to execute this policy at the schools." Thus student problems come under the duties of the administration.

While the board is concerned with what's best for the students," Mr. Read added, "specific problems should be dealt with by the schools themselves."

William MacKay, of BCI, stated that there was a member of the Board in charge of student welfare, although he is not in contact with the Student Councils. He doubted, however, the need for direct liaison.

"The milk problem at BCI was a three-or-four way communication problem," he said. "The board had already approved the prices with the food service."



Mr. MacKay also pointed out the difference between policy and execution. And he was not sure that other crises would arise which the students could present to the board.

As for a central committee of student councils, Mr. MacKay stated that, while Centennial had and the winter carnival had been successful, there was difficulty in co-ordinating efforts, and the length of time taken to make decisions could present a problem in a permanent committee.

Clarke Receptive To New Ideas

Bay of Quinte High School Board chairman James Clarke said this morning he was willing to listen to any proposal by the students.

"If representatives on behalf of all student councils decided to approach us with a proposal we'd be glad to discuss it."

Its Study Time as Students Write Exams

Board Rectifies Cafeteria Problem

The problem over an increase in the price of milk at secondary school cafeterias has been rectified.

High School Board chairman James Clarke said today that effective March 25 the price of milk will be ten cents per eight ounce carton.

Previously the students were paying seven cents for seven ounces but the price was increased to twelve cents for ten ounces when Beaver Foods took over cafeteria operation last week.

The move was protested by the students and board chairman Clarke met with the catering firm to negotiate the new price and size of carton.

A committee consisting of two teachers and two students has also been set up to look after future catering problems.

About 200 students from Belleville Collegiate signed a petition protesting the move.

Dance Slated

School Exams Almost Over

By STEPHEN HUNTER

THE HALLS are quiet; the joyful voices of students happily enjoying their classes are gone from Moira and only sombre, tired and weary faces remain.

The exams are almost over, though, and the relief after is not out of reach. It's like having a pain in your stomach: after it's over, you feel better than you did before you had the pain.

The Student Council of Moira has arranged for those suffering from the pangs of cramming, a dance on Friday night, March 15. The featured group, the Sands of Time, are a terrific band and are becoming very popular. Best of all, they're local talent.

SO COME out and support your school council, your group and, if need be, yourself. That's Friday night, tomorrow eve. Price of admission: $1 a head. Dress: shirt and tie for the girls and blouse and skirt for the guys, or something like that. Student council cards are necessary.

That doesn't really mean you need them, it's just to make you feel they're useful.

I hope the support of the dance is good. It would be nice to have a first-rate dance at lower prices every other week, and it's possible. Quinte has good response to their school dance; so maybe it's a comeback. At any rate, hope to see you there.

AT MOIRA this week a collection was taken to help finance Wayne Morris' trip to Edmonton for the Dominion wrestling finals. Some $100 was collected from staff and students. The cost is $400: the government pays $200 and the Students Council has donated $50.

The letterman's club has also made a donation and this, combined with the other $100 will help substantially. On behalf of the staff and students of Moira, best of luck Wayne: we Trojans are behind you all the way.

ANOTHER upcoming event is the basketball game between the teachers of Moira and the No-Stars from CKWS in Kingston. I'll let you know more about that in two weeks. Next week my pen takes a rest along with the rest of my school equipment.

OH, I ALMOST forgot: don't forget to remember the hockey game between the boys of Grade 12 Science, Trades and Technology and the men of 512 Arts and Sciences. The game is slated for Friday March 15 at 1 p.m. It should be a fun game.

I leave you with these words: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." They have to pass you sooner or later.

Moira Student Wrestles In Edmonton Games

Wrestling is over in the area for the year, but for Wayne Morris of Moira, the big meet is yet to come. That's the Canadian open championships in Edmonton this week, and victory means an Olympic trial.

Wayne, who finished third in the 123-lb. class at the provincial high school championships at Centennial two weeks ago, travelled to Broadview YMCA in Toronto to compete in the Ontario open championships.

Wayne wrestled in the 123-lb. class, and won four of his five matches to finish second. His only loss was a decision to Ted Fordham, a former Moira wrestling star and Canadian finalist who is at the University of Guelph now.

Among the opponents Wayne defeated was John Barry of Winston Churchill Collegiate in Scarborough, who outpointed him in the semi-finals of the meet at Centennial, and went on to win the 123-lb. title.

After the victory over Barry, Wayne said, "I feel better than when I won all-Ontario." That was in 1967, at the high school finals in Niagara.

Now the arduous months of training under Coach Dave Bell pay off with the trip to Edmonton. Just qualifying for the finals is a great achievement in itself.

They sang at the Coffee House in Trenton, Feb. 23 and were very successful.

They will also be participating in our assembly some time after the Easter holidays.

Bantam Playoffs

Nicholson Defeats Whitby

SPORTS MADE the news at Nicholson last week when the NCC Junior and Bantam teams played host to teams from Bowmanville, Albert College, Peterborough, and Whitby in a life and death struggle for the Cosa championships.

Nicholson's bantam team defeated Whitby in the playoffs with a score of 44-31. After winning the game, they showed their gratitude to their coach Mr. Duggan by giving him the traditional dunk under the shower. The Junior team also played well but they lost to Bowmanville by a slim margin of six points, partly because the odds were against them — one of the players on the opposing team was six foot seven.

Another event that made sporting news last week was the awarding of the Stewart Malloy memorial trophy to the most valuable football player. This year's recipient was Peter Fleming, a grade 13 student who excels not only in football but in hockey as well.

THE VARIETY SHOW held recently at Nicholson proved to be so successful that now another one is being organized. The highlights of the show included — several piano selections given in turn by Peter Grey, Anne and Mary Skerl, and Messrs. Tracey; a vocal selection by NCCs Perry Como Michael Reed, a can-can number by "Sam's girls" and a folk song number by Sandra Windsor, Barbara Barrett, Michael Trusiach, Paul Muldoon and Jim Fahey.

And of course, there was that original, fun-filled version of "The Highwayman" excellently performed by a group of grade nine students.

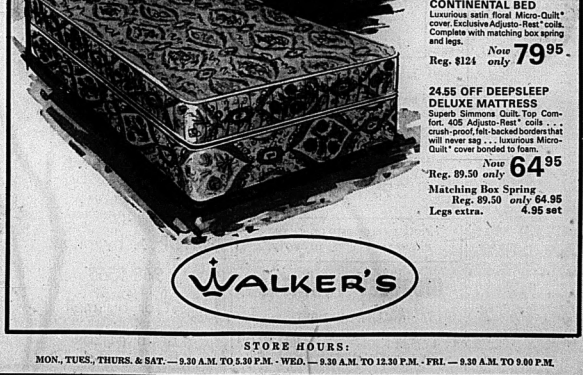
WHILE THE STUDENTS in grade 13 are slaving away with homework and classes, the students from grades nine to 12 are "enjoying a rest"; they are writing exams. A philosophy often heard quoted by the more happy-go-lucky students is—"Fail now, avoid the June rush."

Loyalist Activity Week

By PATRICIA ANNE BRIDGE

WHILE MOST of the high school students are busy writing exams, Loyalist students are planning an activity week, March 25-31. Loyalist is sponsoring "Society Week".

EVENTS: Monday—Assembly 9:30; Tuesday — Scavenger hunt — 7 p.m.; Wednesday — Splash party at the Tops Motel — 7 p.m.; Thursday — Volleyball game (Girls vs Boys) — noon; Friday — Basketball game (Boys vs. Girls) — noon; Saturday — Dance featuring the "Bedtime Story" — 8:30 p.m.; Sunday — Car Rally 10:30 a.m.



The dance, Saturday March 30 is to be held in Centennial School gym beginning at 8:30. Everyone is welcome to attend. Price is only $1 per person.

ANOTHER EVENT may take place during Society Week. It has been suggested that our student council president, Larry Mason is doning his purple wet suit and attempting to "shoot the rapids" of the mighty Moira river. He will challenge anyone!

Congratulations to our Loyalist athletes — the girls. Alice Canons, Sharon Smith and Peggy Lafferty were top scorers in three volleyball games held in Trenton last week. They proved their value by helping the team to win the best two out of three games.

ON THE other side, the boys lost a very close basketball game to Sir Sanford College, Peterborough. The score was 43-38. They must have been pretty good because Sir Sanford invited them to another game in Peterborough during the winter holiday.

Canadian Catholic Bishops Form Peace and Growth Body

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Roman Catholic bishops announced Wednesday the formation of the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace, to subsidize specific social and economic development projects in selected regions of the world.

A national fund will be set up for this purpose, the bishops said in a pastoral letter to clergy in the country's 62 dioceses. The letter was released by the general secretariat of the church in Ottawa.

Canadian foreign aid efforts, "though praiseworthy in some respects," have never been enough, the bishops said. "We have regarded this problem with far too much indifference."

Some Canadians were even opposed to foreign aid.

In choosing projects to assist, the new Catholic aid organization would pay no attention to "the religious belief or ideologies of the people to whom aid is given."

Only three things will matter in deciding whether to help a given project, the pastoral letter states: Its merit, its place on a list of priorities, its human and social effectiveness.

The letter gives no indication of what areas of the world might be selected.

But it recalls "the inspiring action" of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, who left his post as archbishop of Montreal in December to work among lepers in equatorial Africa. Cardinal Leger was last reported to be in Yaounde, Cameroon, after visiting Senegal and Dahomey.

The Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace is to be a "lay organization drawing its membership from responsible citizens in every part of Canada."

Ontario Deer Herds Being Fed

TORONTO (CP) — Rene Brunelle, minister of lands and forests, asked angry petitioners Wednesday to give his department a little more time to solve the problem of Ontario's dwindling deer herds.

He told them the department last year embarked on a program of establishing deer feeding areas and the acreage would co doubled this year.

Farmer Says His Alarm At Pollution Ignored

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP) — A 65-year-old Port Maitland, Ont., farmer criticized the Ontario government Wednesday for not helping farmers who were worried about unusual crop damage.

Anton Karl, 65, said it was the government's lack of action that led to publicity about air pollution in the Dunnville area.

A provincial committee of inquiry, headed by Dr. G. Edward Hall, is investigating allegations that fluoride emissions from the Electric Reduction Co. of Canada Ltd. fertilizer plant at Port Maitland were poisoning humans, livestock and crops in the Dunnville area.

Mr. Karl told the hearing he was unable to get government officials to come to his farm in 1965.

Mr. Karl described a meeting he had one Sunday after church service with James Allen, former Ontario treasurer and member of the legislature for Haldimand-Norfolk. He said he told Mr. Allan about his crop failures and his inability to get anyone interested in them.

Mr. Karl said the following week government officials came to his farm, but he was never told the results of samples they took.

"I felt that since they knew something was wrong, the department of health should have taken us under their wing and acted as a sort of watchdog," Mr. Karl said.

"The industry co-operated—I don't blame them. If the government officials and departments had co-operated that way all this publicity wouldn't have occurred."

Hearings of the inquiry ended Wednesday and will resume March 20 in Toronto.

Michigan Pollution Is Fought

CHICAGO (AP) — A multi-million-dollar plan to curb pollution of Lake Michigan has been completed by representatives of four states and the U.S. federal government.

The proposal completed this week includes steps to reduce pollution from cities, factories, milling dredges, boats and even from fish. It is expected to cost hundreds of millions of dollars in city, state and federal funds.

"The great thing here is the unanimity of the states and the federal government," said the chairman, Murray Stein, chief enforcement officer of the federal water pollution control administration. States involved are Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Conference recommendations must go to Interior Secretary Stewart Udall for consideration.

The first proposal is to reduce the amount of oxygen-decreasing phosphates in municipal and industrial wastes discharged into the lake.

Pinch Hitting

By Garry Alexander

Staff Sportswriter

As much as I love hockey, the steady diet of fertilizer spread out over the TV networks during this 1967-68 season has driven me up a wall.

I have vowed to do one of two things: Tune the playing in to the end of it out — or give in to my better half and watch the Saturday-night movie.

The communication industry itself admits that changes are being made in just about every major sport since the popularity explosion of the boob-tube.

Major league baseball games are longer; timeouts in football, hockey and basketball are determined by sponsors and directors instead of by coaches and referees; golf matches and even some courses themselves are designed to suit TV; now the industry hopes to change the system of scoring in tennis in order some viewer might refuse to buy the sponsors' brand of beer if he can't understand "love."

I can understand some of it but it seems reasonable to think that TV coverage of any sport should improve with time rather than slide, in the opposite direction.

The only answer this year appears to be that those in charge of hockey assume ALL fans are complete idiots, have no knowledge of the game or range in age from five months to five years.

It is possible in Belleville, with cablevue, to watch between two and four NHL telecasts per week, including a choice of two games some Saturday nights.

Confined to barracks this winter, this agent hasn't missed many telecasts. And to put it bluntly, I am sick up to my ears of TV's treatment of the sport.

It's got to the point where I watch the commercials and rush to the icebox during the show to snatch that cold one.

(Ed. Note. What's that? Rush to the icebox?)

Why, because the game comes from Toronto or Montreal, do the telecasters feel that a nationwide audience is rooting all out for the home club?

Why should we, the people who buy the sponsors products and thus give him the money to put the game on TV, be subjected to a long line of ex-Montreal players such as Jacques Plante or their Toronto counterparts telling how "great our boys looked tonight?"

If there is any edge in play at all for the home club, either Foster Hewitt in Toronto or one of the former Habs in Montreal picks three Leafs or three Canadiens as the game's "stars" — and often follow up with a couple more "honorable mentions."

We watch while a hometown goalie makes a routine save. The announcer tells us "what a tremendous stop." On the return trush, however, we are told that the visiting goalie "stopped that one although he appeared to lose sight of the puck" or "no and so best the goalie cleanly but hit the post when he tried to pick the corner."

Viewers were subjected to a steady stream of how "great Frank is playing" and were never once informed of a bad play by the big winger after he returned from his hospital stay earlier this year.

You see, it had been pointed out that Mahovlich's breakdown might have been because of criticism — so naturally we must not say that the guy had a bad night, even if he lost the puck for two opposing goals and missed the empty net on a breakaway.

And baseball fans used to laugh at guys like Mel Allen for being "homers."

The Canadian TV stations also feel it is necessary to give instructions between periods, simple "how to do it" instructions which bore the average hockey fan to death. Sure, they might help a few youngsters, but very few we believe. The bulk of the audience is adult and male and most of the stuff they "show the kids," the youngsters already know.

It is even worse on the U.S. telecasts, where we are told time and again that "the clubs are playing four aside" every time a man from each team is penalized. I guess they don't count the goalies at all.

In one Sunday game, we not only had to listen to these "experts" tell us about icing and offsides but the cameras were on the announcers while a penalty shot was stopped on the ice. About two minutes after play resumed, someone tipped off an announcer. Guess he thought they had just stopped the game for a mid-period goalie practice.

Two announcers gave two different players credit for the same goal — not once each but several times — but even this was better than watching a couple of players tell "how to shoot a puck" or some other such instruction that those who want to know learned at the age of ten.

Oh well, at least the commercials are interesting.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, whose attempts in the past to quit smoking were futile, said Wednesday he hasn't smoked a cigarette since the Masters golf tournament 11 months ago. Palmer said he doesn't have any plans to quit playing golf, however.

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Laperriere, Montreal Canadiens' lanky defenseman, will be in the lineup when the club meets New York Rangers here tonight. He had been listed as doubtful because of a slight shoulder separation he received in Canadiens' 6-2 win over the Kings in Los Angeles March 5.

Leafs Tie — Bruins Dump Rangers

Hawks, Blues Dash Toronto Hopes!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The patient lived but the doctor died Wednesday night as Toronto Maple Leafs tried a last-ditch operation to save a playoff berth in the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League.

Paul Henderson scored twice with 26 seconds left to play to give the Leafs a 3-3 tie with St. Louis Blues, but as far as manager-coach Punch Imlach is concerned it's all over for Toronto but the shouting.

The tie gives the Leafs 64 points and nine games to play in a desperate bid to overtake Chicago Black Hawks for the fourth and last playoff position.

But the Hawks hammered another nail into the Leaf coffin Wednesday night by downing Pittsburgh Penguins 4-3. Chicago now has 77 points and a 13 point lead on Toronto with seven games to play.

Thus any combination of three Chicago victories or Toronto losses will eliminate the Leafs for the first time since 1958.

In other games Wednesday night, Boston Bruins moved into a second-place tie with New York by downing the Rangers 2-1. Philadelphia Flyers edged Minnesota North Stars 4-3 and Detroit Red Wings defeated Oakland Seals 4-2 in a battle of East-West cellar-dwellers.

Jim Roberts scored two goals for the Blues and Dickie Moore got the other as Imlach pulled goaltender Bruce Gamble in the last minute of play. Brian Conacher and Murray Oliver both scored earlier for the Leafs to set the stage for Henderson's tying marker.

The Black Hawks built an early 3-0 lead over the Penguins, but had to hang on for their 4-3 victory.

Pit Martin, Eric Nesterenko and Pat Stapleton put the Hawks ahead, but George Konik came back for the Penguins. Then Bobby Hull rammed in his 43rd of the season for Chicago to give the Hawks a 4-1 lead. Gene Ubriaco came back with two goals for the Penguins in the third period.

Ed Westfall gave the Bruins a 1-0 lead midway through the second period before Jim Neilson tied it with a 45-foot slapshot past Boston netminder Gerry Cheevers 7½ minutes later.

In Minnesota, Philadelphia extended its first-place lead in the Western Division to three points with the victory over Minnesota in a penalty-filled game.

Referee John Ashley called 18 penalties totalling 61 minutes, and three players were injured.

The Flyers took a 4-0 lead on goals by Leon Rochefort, Bill Sutherland, Gary Dornhoefer and Ed Hoekstra before Dave Balon and Jean Paul Parise replied for Minnesota.

Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent had a shutout going until 7:30 of the second period when he was hit by a puck. He suffered a bruise below his right eye and was replaced by Doug Favell.

Sandy Fitzpatrick of the North Stars suffered a six-stitch cut on his upper lip and Milan Marcetta of Minnesota was hit in the mouth by a loose puck during the final period.

Detroit, meanwhile, gave up two first-period goals before countering with four in the final session for the victory.

The Seals, who have lost their last five games, grabbed an early lead on goals by Larry Popein and Ted Hampson but Detroit came back with marks from Bruce MacGregor, Kent Douglas, Alex Delvecchio and Pete Mahovlich.

The results left Montreal Canadiens in first place in the East with 84 points, followed by New York and Boston with 78 each, Chicago 77, Toronto 64 and Detroit 59.

Philadelphia has 66 points for first place in the West while Los Angeles Kings are second with 63. St. Louis Blues have 62, Minnesota 61, Pittsburgh 56 and Oakland 44.

NHL Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Hull rammed in his 43rd goal of the season for Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night, but team-mate Stan Mikita retained a straight-hold on first place in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Mikita was held scoreless in Chicago's 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh Penguins but his 38 goals and 41 assists still give him a four-point edge on Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins and Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers.

Esposito picked up an assist and now has 31 goals and 44 assists for 75 points while Ratelle has 30 goals and 45 assists.

Red Gilbert of New York holds fourth place with 74 points while Hull has 73.

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings picked up a goal and an assist in his club's 4-2 win over Oakland to bring his season points total to 65.

Palmer Visions Wonder Golf For The Future

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, whose blasting power and magnetic personality helped build the pro golf tour into a multi-million dollar operation, says he thinks tournament crowds in the future will be so huge that spectators will be assigned seats.

"I think we eventually will see a golf tournament set up like a baseball or football game, where the spectators buy assigned seats," Palmer said before starting his bid today in the Citrus Open golf tournament.

Palmer has won $853,777 in official prize money playing golf and harvested many times that much in the businesses built from his game.

"I believe that courses will be built so at least every other green is around the clubhouse, and players will go out and back instead of going way 'around like we do now," Palmer said.

The 38-year-old king of the fairways said he plans to keep playing golf—although on a trimmed-down schedule—for years, "because I'm very interested in seeing what happens in golf in the next four or five years."

Palmer said that changes probably will include some sort of an international tour, and a return to match play in at least one of the major U.S. meets.

Palmer's play and his personality have been credited with helping to boost the pro tour to its current status.

Pro golfers will shoot for purses totalling $5,250,000 this year, compared with $930,500 when Palmer started on the pro tour in 1955.

Palmer has won but one of eight tournaments this year, but his play in having to date this $115,000 tournament has put him among the list of the favorites for the Citrus Open crown. He was the leading pro in the recent preliminary Wednesday with a 66, and he shot a 65 in a round at Puerto Rico Tuesday.

Palmer is just one of several contenders for the $25,000 Citrus title being defended by Julius Boros, Toronto's George Knudson, winner of the Tulsa and Phoenix Opens, Jack Nicklaus, still looking for his first victory of the year, and South African Gary Player also are in the flashy field.

Unknowns Hit Hard

Citrus League; Rookie Bats Potent

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sal Bando is making it hard for Oakland Athletics to send him to Vancouver. And Bob Schellenberg is making it hard for Philadelphia Phillies to keep him in oblivion.

Bando smacked two homers in Oakland's 4-3 victory over New York Yankees in their exhibition baseball game Wednesday. That makes four homers for the young third baseman in two games.

Bando hit only nine homers all last year in 116 games with the Athletics' Vancouver farm club. In 41 contests with the big league club he went homeless.

Schellenberg's story is something else again. His grand-slam homer Wednesday was the big blow in the Phillies' 8-0 triumph over Houston. It was his second time at bat during the spring, his second homer and raised his RBI total to seven.

In his first time up Sunday, Schellenberg, who isn't even on the Phillies' roster, hit a three-run homer.

In other games Wednesday, Cleveland Indians edged San Francisco Giants 6-5, Chicago Cubs took California Angels 5-4, St. Louis Cardinals beat Detroit Tigers 6-2, Washington Senators nudged Minnesota Twins 5-4 and Los Angeles Dodgers outlasted New York Mets 3-2.

Also, Chicago White Sox blanked Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0, Baltimore Orioles beat Atlanta Braves 2-1 and Cincinnati Reds beat Boston Red Sox 5-3 in 10 innings.

Bando drove in all the Athletics' runs with a three-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot in the eighth.

Woody Fryman, who allowed two hits in four innings, Larry Colton, who gave up no hits in three innings, and Jeff James combined for the shutout for the Phillies.

Cleveland caught the Giants in a hurry on Duke Sims' grand-slam homer in the eighth and won in the ninth on a double and a pair of sacrifices.

Adolfo Phillips, who had three hits for the Cubs, came up with a single in the 10th that drove in the winning run. Ted Savage had four hits for Chicago.

Hunters Federation

Ask Season On Doves

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Wednesday asked the Ontario government to allow a hunting season for mourning doves.

The federation made the request to the legislature's committee on natural resources.

Ted Yates, secretary-treasurer of the federation, said the dove is one of the most difficult of migratory birds to shoot in flight.

He said there has been a ban in Ontario on killing the doves "only for sentimental reasons and not as part of good game management."

Dr. C. H. Clarke, chief of the fish and wildlife branch of the department of lands and forests, said he could see no biological reason why the dove season could not be initiated by the government. He said 49,000,000 doves were killed in the United States last year.

Philly Favors Frazier

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletic Commission recognized Philadelphian Joe Frazier as the world heavyweight boxing champion Wednesday.

Frazier's recent victory in New York over Buster Mathis gave him world championship status in New York, Massachusetts, Illinois and Maine.

However, as a member of the World Boxing Association, the Pennsylvania commission refused until now to acknowledge Frazier's claim.

The decision of the three-man commission means Frazier will be allowed to box in so-called title fights in Pennsylvania.

Fred Stickle Stars In Midgets Win

Elks Hawks defeated the Bruins 4-2; Canadiens stopped Rangers by the same score and Red Wings defeated Leafs 3-0 in BMHA midget games here last night.

No scores were handed in on the Wings Leafs game only that Paul Muldoon got the shutout for the Wings.

Fred Stickle starred for the Canadiens with three goals John Treacy getting the other. A. Haymes and G. Garland counted for the Rangers.

R. Mitchell, S. Buckles, B. Marshall and T. Pope scored for the Hawks. A. Clark and R. Anderson getting the Bruins goals.

MONTREAL (CP) — Dave Copp, hockey and football coach at McGill University for the last 19 years, will move to the University of Toronto Sept. 1. He will be assistant director of inter-mural sports; assistant coach of the Toronto Varsity Blues of the Ontario-Athletic Association football team, and lecture at the university's school of physical education.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Jamaica will not send a team to the Olympic Games in Mexico this year, Prime Minister Hugh Shearer told Parliament Wednesday. The House expressed unanimous approval of the decision.

A Breather For Brooks

MIAMI (AP) — Baltimore Orioles finally have decided they can get along without Brooks Robinson—about one day a month.

Robinson, Baltimore's apparently tireless third base marvel, will get an occasional breather — if he wants one—this season after eight straight years of iron man service with the Orioles.

"Brooks has played an average of 157 games a season for eight years," said manager Hank Bauer. "That's meant a lot of pressure for him."

Bauer expects Don Buford, the all-around handyman acquired in a winter trade with Chicago White Sox, to fill in at third base, where Brooks has nailed eight consecutive Golden Gloves awards while compiling a solid .280 lifetime batting mark.

Bids Rolling In For Oakland Seals Franchise

MONTREAL (CP) — While at least two bidders for the troubled Oakland Seals National Hockey League franchise have made their bids public, offers of a confidential nature continue to flow into the office of league president Clarence Campbell.

Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. announced Tuesday it has bid for the ailing franchise with an eye to moving the club to Vancouver. At the same time it was reported a group of Vancouver businessmen, owners of Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, were interested in making a similar move.

Then baseball magnate Charles O. Finley, owner of Oakland Athletics of the American Baseball League, announced he was interested, but would maintain the club in its current location.

Campbell said Wednesday another group has approached Bruce Norris, Detroit Red Wings president, with a firm offer.

The NHL president said he now holds an additional three offers—two from groups in the United States and one in Canada—to take over the franchise.

He said he could not identify the groups bidding, but described the three as "all solid people."

The Seals, sagging at the box offices and on the ice in their first year of operation, must come up with $700,000 they owe the NHL by May 15 or lose the franchise. The Seals won only 15 of their first 68 games, losing 36 and tying 14 en route to missing a playoff spot. Attendance averaged 5,000 during that period.

Campbell said the league governors will hear a report on the Oakland situation at a meeting in New York Tuesday.

Finley is reported to have offered the Seals the money to pay their debt to the NHL in the form of a loan, with an option to buy the club.

Another offer has been made by Mel Swig, former owner of the Seals when they operated from San Francisco's Cow Palace as members of the Western League. Swig is reported to have the backing of several San Francisco businessmen in his bid.

Campbell said that no matter what the outcome is, the NHL can take no action in taking over the club before the May 15 deadline has passed.

Fielder Sparks Totem Win

SEATTLE (CP) — Veteran Guyle Fielder scored twice and assisted on two other goals in leading Seattle Totems to a 6-3 victory over Phoenix Roadrunners in the only Western Hockey League game played Wednesday.

Larry Hale, Ray Larose, Bob Courcy and Bill Dineen also tallied Seattle goals as the Totems moved to within four points of first place Portland Buckaroos. Del Topoll, with two, and Tom McVie were the Phoenix marksmen.

Fielder's second goal came midway through the second period and snapped a 2-2 tie. Seattle added three more goals in the third period before McVie completed the Roadrunner scoring.

Three-Year Track, Field

Legion Plans Program

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion Wednesday announced a three-year track and field program to cost an estimated $296,350.

At a news conference, the Legion said it plans to hold three national clinics for coaches and six for promising athletes.

It will spend $121,350 of Legion funds on the program and hopes for a federal government grant of $175,000.

Geoffrey Dyson, director of the Legion's sports training plan for the last five years, will supervise the clinics this summer and next winter.

Former coach of British Olympic teams in 1952, 1956 and 1960, Dyson is leaving for London, England, next month to become athletic director at Winchester College. He will continue to advise the Legion on its program.

The Legion estimated 50,000 youngsters received the benefits of the training received by about 4,500 coaches over the five-year period. Total cost of the program was $1,000,000.

Denies Quit Rumor

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Bert Olmstead is ready to quit as coach and general manager of Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League.

The newspaper says Olmstead has a one-year verbal agreement with Oakland president Barry van Gerbig. It says he offered to quit several weeks ago and predicts he will not be with the club next season.

In Oakland, Calif. Ryan, a spokesman for the Seals, said of the report:

"That's the first we've heard of it. We have no other comment other than that we just don't know."

Aces Whip Americans, Grab Second

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces took over second place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League Wednesday night, defeating division-leading Rochester Americans 7-3 before 4,010 fans.

The Aces now have 69 points, two behind the Americans and two ahead of Cleveland Barons.

Simon Nolet led the winners with two goals and Jim Johnson, Rodaire Paiement, Keith Wright, Larry McKillop and Richard Sarrazin scored one each.

Minor Hockey

A scoreless tie featured the BMHA tyke league play last night, Flyers and Wings tallying to score. Derek Shane for Flyers and Mike MacDonald for Wings had the shutouts.

Leafs blanked the Barons 3-0, Burkholder, McKinney and Strachan scoring for the winners. Bobby Hedge had the shutout.

Penguins and Mo-Hawks battled to a 3-3 tie, Plans with two and B. Slavin scoring for Penguins. R. Richardson getting all three Mo-Hawk goals.

B. Doornbos, Hawks' goalie, shut out the Rangers 2-0, team-mates T. Moon and D. Bennett doing the scoring.

The Seals turned back the Bruins 4-2, Mark Crawford standing out with all four Seals' goals. D. Archer and T. Lynch scored for the Bruins.

The Kings edged the Canadiens 2-1, A. Horwood getting both goals for the winners and John Murphy counting for the Canadiens.

Foresees Signing Battles

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Celtics' general manager Red Auerbach says he foresees a signing war between the National and American basketball associations this spring.

"I don't see how a signing war can be avoided. There wasn't one a year ago because the ABA hadn't played a game," he said Wednesday.

Tweed Stops Havelock 6-2

TWEED (Special) — Tweed captured the first game of the OMHA peewee Eastern Ontario playoffs defeating Havelock 6-2 in the first game of the best-of-three series.

The second game is slated for tonight in Havelock.

The Tweed youngsters won the league championship defeating Wellington in two straight games by scores of 4-3 and 4-2.

Barry Rivers was the hero of the Havelock win scoring three of the six goals and assisting with two others. Also scoring were Lynn Dillabough, Randy Wilson and Jim Gaylord.

Dillabough; Murphy had assists.

John Pollock scored both Havelock goals, Robert Tandy getting two assists and Robert Jones one.

Herd on Saskatchewan's heels is Edward Stochniwy of Edmonton whose only loss in six games was to McGrath in the second round. Stochniwy remained in sole possession of second place after edging Newfoundland 8-5 in the closest match of the sixth round.

Alberta, a first-year entry in the competitions, stole three in the third and picked up two in the sixth for first place and a step closer to the championship he won last year with the same rink.

Asked if the unbeaten record built up any pressure, McGrath said:

"Nope. I'm just going to keep curling game by game."

MacDonald, meanwhile, was more direct. He said: "I think it's possible," when asked if McGrath could keep rolling to a perfect 10-0 record.

Northern Ontario's Bill Tetley of Port Arthur, a second-place finisher in the 1966 mixed, had the bye in the sixth round and had a 4-1 record going into today's seventh round.

Quebec's Earl Carson of Bayonville had a 3-2 record after the sixth round. In his sixth-round game against Cliff Robertson of Halifax, Carson blanked the fourth end to keep last rock and row for four in the fifth. He went on to win 10-4.

MacDonald, who skipped the 1967 inland entry in the men's national championship at Hull, Que., has a 3-3 record.

Vern Becker of Kimberley, B.C., Sinni and Robertson all have two wins and three losses, while Ontario's Peter Connell of Arnprior is two and four.

Fred Fraser of Moncton N.B., moved into the winning category by slamming winless Jim Hodgson of Roland, Man., 13-4. Fraser stole four in the second, four in the sixth and the game was over.

In the seventh round, at noon CST (1 p.m. EST) today, it was Ontario against Newfoundland, Saskatchewan versus New Brunswick, Manitoba playing Quebec, Alberta versus British Columbia and Northern Ontario against Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island had the bye.

In the seventh-British Columbia game, Connell was down 2-1 when he blanked the fifth end to keep last rock in the sixth.

His last shot was light and raised a Becker rock into the house. Becker counted three and won 8-1 in eight ends.

...and White Militants in New Jersey Busy Buying Guns

Spina said through a spokesman he deplores the fact that any group is arming.

Reports by national and state commissions on civil disorders "did nothing but increase the bitterness and anger of the white militants and therefore caused a greater schism between the races," Spina said.

Wright, a 36-year-old unemployed engineer, said last July's riots proved to Newark's Negroes "that we need to be armed just to protect ourselves."

He claimed most Negroes aren't armed, but that the white community is engaged in an arms race.

Imperiale, 37, who runs a karate school in an Italian section a few miles north of Wright's locale, said he doesn't advocate or condone unnecessary violence.

"I am not telling you to go out and do what the radicals are doing and burn and shoot, but I'm telling you this, that if the law is not permitted to openly arrest these people, if the law cannot control it because the mayor will not make them, then it is time for us, under the constitution, to defend ourselves to the limit," he said.

Authorities have made no public comment on the activities of the rival groups. Nor do they offer any explanations for records which show that the number of handgun permits issued in Newark and its suburbs rose from 750 in 1966 to 522 in 1967.

Statewide, the number of pistol permits under New Jersey's two-year-old gun control law rose from 3,115 in 1966 to 5,254 in 1967.

For all their differences, the two groups follow similar tactics. Each points, for opposite reasons, to Mayor Hugh Addonizio and the police department as causes for their discontent.

Each group sends patrols out onto city streets.

Wright's Black Community Patrols roam nightly, armed, he says, with "pencil and camera and tape recorder." Their purpose, he says, is "to assure the community of some safety against police brutality and other things that happen around the city."

Imperiale's men also patrol nightly in cars they call "jungle cruisers." Their stated object: To keep the streets safe for women.

Imperiale trains his followers at a secret rifle range in South Jersey. He also claims to have an armored car for use in case of another riot.

Hellyer Expects to Get Help Of Several Cabinet Ministers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Paul Hellyer says he expects the support of several cabinet ministers in his bid to become national leader of the Liberal party at the April 4-6 Ottawa convention.

The transport minister said in an interview at Stratford, Ont., Wednesday that announcement of support should come from several cabinet ministers in the next few days.

He was commenting on the announcement earlier in the day by Defence Minister Leo Cadieux that he would support Mr. Hellyer. Mr. Hellyer, 44, said that whatever the outcome of the leadership race he will stay in public life "if the new leader wants me." But he would like to retire in his early 50s to teach economics and political science.

Party duties summoned all cabinet ministers to Ottawa Wednesday, including the eight seeking the Liberal leadership, when the Commons voted approval of the government's surtax bill.

But, along with Mr. Hellyer, some candidates managed to get in some campaigning. Justice Minister Trudeau talked with Moncton, N.B., area delegates by long-distance telephone after poor weather prevented his aircraft from landing there.

Meanwhile, word from Ottawa was that 2,317 of the 2,475 voting delegates who will attend the convention have been named, along with 744 of the 792 alternates.

At Barrie, Ont., Wednesday night External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told delegates that the greatest problem to face Canada's next prime minister is that of separatism.

He said that the next prime minister must lead Canada away from the two-nation concept.

Two candidates toured parts of Northern Ontario Wednesday, with northern topics the big subject.

Consumer Affairs Minister Turner said at North Bay that the federal government should give special tax incentives to those living in the resource areas of the Canadian North.

A five-point plan to solve the country's economic problems was outlined at Sudbury by Eric Kierans, who earlier toured Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay.

In an address to the Sudbury and District Chambers of Commerce, he advocated a northern development corridor from Labrador to the Mackenzie River delta; bringing in foreign capital; monetary policy; an industrial free trade association among Canada, the United States and Britain, expanding to include the West Indies and countries of the European Economic Community; and development of international corporations.

Mr. Kierans envisaged a northern corridor ranging in width from 100 to 300 miles, devoted to the development of resources. It would need a railway to service this development and cities with controlled climate similar to those pioneered in Scandinavian countries.

Tourist Industry Expansion Blocked

CORNWALL (CP) — The expansion of the Canadian tourist industry is being frustrated by the current economic policy of the federal government, Conservative Leader Stanfield said Wednesday night.

Inflation hurts the operations of tourist facilities and high interest rates make it difficult for the industry to finance new accommodation, he said.

Mr. Stanfield addressed the Seaway Valley Travel Council.

Mass Planned For Martyrs

WAUBAUSHENE, Ont. (CP) — A Presbyterian minister Saturday will join a Roman Catholic priest in a special mass honoring North American Catholic martyrs.

The mass, to be held at the spot where it is believed two of the martyrs died 319 years ago, will be celebrated in English by Rev. M. J. Hawkins, S.J., who has spent most of his life as a clergy with the Indians of Ontario.

The homily will be delivered by Rev. Charles Carter of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church at nearby Victoria Harbour.

It is believed to be the first time a Protestant clergyman has participated in a mass in this Georgian Bay area.

1968 "Timmy", Kevin Lahn, tested his new artificial leg today by kicking off the month-long Easter Seal Campaign. The Ontario Society for Crippled Children in association with 231 Easter Seal service clubs much reach a $1,400,000. goal if all 16,000 crippled children are to be helped this year.

Today marks the opening of the twenty-second annual Easter Seal Campaign in Ontario and for 16,000 crippled youngsters, this means that one day, many will walk unaided without a fear of obstacles or barriers in their paths.

Yes . . . you can do a wonderful thing today like helping some crippled child, possibly living right in your own community or even closer — like next door.

The summer is not too far off, which means a camping experience for 1,200 crippled kiddies who will attend all five camps owned & operated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. Aside from fresh air and sunshine, two of the most important benefits of health-giving vacation, there are the recreation programs which hold many therapeutic values for infirm little bodies. Baseball, swimming, tennis and shuffleboard assisted with a little fishing and the home cooked meals make the Easter Seal Services program in your community all worthwhile.

When Easter Seals arrive at your home remember to use them on letters and parcels to remind others and equally important, return the convenient pink envelopes so the local Easter Seal service club can continue the important work of helping crippled children.

This year's campaign objective is $1,400,000., so let's all donate generously and top this goal for the very first time.

Third Try for Tax Bill

Liberals Survive Jeers and First Reading

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservatives joined the Liberals on Wednesday to vote approval in principle for a three-per-cent federal surtax on personal and corporate income taxes.

Other MPs laughed or jeered as A. B. Patterson (Fraser Valley), Robert Thompson (Red Deer) and Robert Lebor (Cariboo) rose to vote with the government on Finance Minister Sharp's third attempt this winter to get a tax bill through the House.

Nearly a month ago, Social Credit united with the opposition to defeat the first bill, which imposed a five per cent surtax on personal income taxes, 84 to 82.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ordered a second bill withdrawn earlier this week and repetitive clauses deleted.

The amended bill faced its first Commons test Wednesday and survived a close 136-to-116 vote on second reading.

The three Social Credit MPs and Independent J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivieres) voted for it with 122 Liberals.

Liberal Ralph Cowan (York-Humber) joined — 26 Conservatives, 20 NDP members, two Creditistes and Gordon Churchill (Ind. PC—Winnipeg South Centre) in voting against the bill.

Standings in the 265-seat House: Liberal 130; Conservative 94; NDP 22; Creditiste 8; Social Credit 4; Independent 2; Independent Conservative 1; Vacant 4.

Division bells rang for nearly half an hour and there were few empty seats in the House when the doors were closed.

Conservative House Leader Michael Starr at once asked Prime Minister Pearson to declare whether this would be a vote of confidence.

The government had maintained, against strong opposition pressure, that the tax bill defeat Feb. 19 wasn't a vote of non-confidence as well.

Mr. Pearson didn't rise to reply to the odd something which was drowned out in a roar of Conservative shouts just before the vote began.

The four clauses of the tax bill now must undergo detailed study before the bill reaches third reading, the final Commons stage before passage and the one at which the Feb. 19 bill was defeated and thrown out.

Conservatives and New Democrats have branded the increased taxes as both inflationary, in that they will increase pressure on wages and prices, and deflationary, in that money will be withdrawn from the economy.

Ed Schreyer (NDP—Springfield) said Mr. Sharp has misjudged the inflation situation, with the result that it is more serious now in Canada than in the U.S.

R. W. Herridge (NDP —Kootenay West) said a "comfortable capitalism" has been developed which imposes new but more effective forms of control.

Despite prosperity, capitalism continued to "institutionalize injustice and corrupt the potentialities of human beings."

Government policy should aim at stopping the war in Vietnam, cutting wasteful defence spending and using the bank of Canada for social capital.

Opposition Leader Stanfield said he feels Finance Minister Sharp is relying on unemployment and restraint on the economy to solve his problems.

He refuse to accept that as a civilized way to proceed," Mr. Stanfield said.

It would take years for slow-growth regions like the Atlantic provinces to recover from the effects of present federal policy, the former Nova Scotia premier said.

There was every indication that Mr. Sharp felt "substantial unemployment" was necessary to meet existing problems. "To me, this is an unacceptable solution."

Mr. Stanfield said fiscal responsibility could be shown by balancing the budget and reducing demands on the money market.

He suggested the government could raise the revenue it needs simply by deferring the payment of a refundable corporation tax. The surtaxes then would not be needed.

At Queen's Park

Let's Try to Be Canadian, Member Pleads

TORONTO (CP)—A New Democratic Party member told the Ontario legislature in his maiden speech Wednesday that Canada should stop following in the footsteps of the United States and try to be Canadian.

"It appears to me that we have a choice," said Mac Makarchuk, NDP member for Brantford. "Either we are going to be a younger carbon copy of the sick society that is developing to the south of us, or are we as Canadians going to develop our own good society?"

Violence and viciousness had become a way of life in the United States.

"It is a society that can murder its civil rights workers and its president and allow the murderers to go free. It is a society that can barbecue a child in Vietnam and solemnly say: "It is done to protect our democratic way of life."

He said if Canadians do not begin protecting their independence, "we too eventually can become a party to that grisly barbecue."

In other business in the legislature:

—Attorney-General Arthur Wishart termed an attack by Russell Horsburgh as "scurrilous." Mr. Horsburgh, a former United Church minister acquitted in January of contributing to juvenile delinquency after serving 107 days of a one-year term, suggested Tuesday that Mr. Wishart and the department had ignored affidavits from witnesses changing the story given at his first trial. Mr. Wishart, in a lengthy speech, denied the charges, saying the affidavits were refused by the courts, not the department.

—Rene Brunelle, minister of lands and forests, announced the government needs more time to solve the problem of Ontario's dwindling deer herds. His reply to a petition presented by the Ontario Game Preservation Committee was that the department is attempting to double the deer herd during the province compared to 1967. The committee said the problem could be partly solved by raising the bounty on wolves to $75 or $100 from $25, and hiring more qualified conservation officers.

—Provincial Secretary Robert Welch said cocktail lounges in the province may serve draft beer if they wish. Replying to George Ben (L-Toronto Humber), Mr. Welch said permission for lounges to sell draft beer as well as bottled beer was granted in a regulation passed by the Liquor Licence Board Feb. 22.

Books of Poems Selling Well

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The best-selling poet in the U.S. is a tatty-haired jack-of-all-musical-trades named Rod McKuen.

"In fact," says McKuen, "they say I'm the best-selling poet since Byron."

His first book of poems, Stanyan Street and Other Sorrows, has sold 250,000 copies, and the second, Listen to the Warm 200,000. Each is selling at the rate of 5,000 a week.

His poems are mostly in the forest of verse, although some have rhyme and a dogged kind of metre.

They are mostly along the same lines—simple laments for lost loves and distant cities, told in the spare style of Japanese haiku.

"I'm in the business of communication, and my poems are communicating to the younger generation," he says.

That's because I'm talking to people in a language they understand; they don't need a dictionary to dig what I'm saying."

For 15 years, Rod McKuen had been telling it like it is, but until recently not many seemed to be listening.

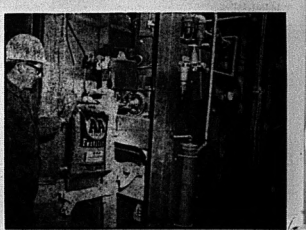
Cubs, Scouts Attend Church Parade



NAPANEE — The Second Napanee Scouts and Cubs paraded to Grace United Church Sunday evening, and took an active part in the service. Cub Brian Loffman read the responsive Psalm and the lesson was read by Scout Jim Eadie. Ushers were four Scouts: Don Hart, Rick Steinman, Paul Wartmen, and Bob Murphy. The color party was made up of Scouts Paul Wright and Jon McConnell, and Cub Donald Longmuir.

The Second Napanee Scouts and Cubs are sponsored by Grace Church. Both are active under enthusiastic leaders, Scoutmaster Stewart McConnell, and Cub leaders, Mrs. Wayne (Edna) Longmuir as Akela, and Mrs. William (Emily) Herachuk as Bakoo. Interest among the boys is high.

The highlight of the service was the presentation of the Religion and Life Awards to an unusually large number of boys. This award is difficult to obtain ,and is one of the most important for them. Receiving the award were Cubs Tom Eadie, Cameron Eadie, Jamie Hutchison, Hal Kaufeld, Wayne Martin, and Joey Ramsey. Scouts receiving the Religion and Life award were: George Eadie, Jim Eadie, Dwane French, Don Hart, Bob Murphy, Rick Steinman, and Jim Thacker. A disappointing number of parents attended the event.

Wilson's Labor Party Begins Period of Testing at Polls

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson's embattled Labor party began a period of testing today in the first of eight by-elections. Its prospects were no good.

Labor held six of the eight seats vacated by death or resignation but stands a chance of losing five. The opposition Conservatives won the other two in 1966 and are expected to keep them.

The vote today was in London's South Kensington district, a solid Conservative constituency of small-apartment dwellers and businessmen. The Tories won there in 1964 with 64 per cent of the vote. The question today was how much would the margin increase as a result of the growing displeasure with the government.

Even if Labor loses seven of the byelections, Wilson's majority in the 630-member House of Commons would be a decisive 68. But public opinion as reflected in the election results could affect government policies.

The next four byelections come March 29 and will be influenced by next Tuesday's budget. It is expected to be tough, reflecting Wilson's austerity program to put the economy back on its feet. Higher taxes and tighter credit are forecast.

Polling dates have not been set for the last three byelections, but they are expected in April.

Cannot Protect Borrowers From Themselves

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Government can protect the buyer from hidden borrowing charges but not from himself, Leslie Rowntree, Ontario's minister of financial and commercial affairs, told 200 delegates to a provincially-sponsored consumer protection conference.

He said easy credit, sophisticated selling methods and a glittering choice of products have created a growing level of desire in buyers.

His department was set up less than two years ago to help protect consumers, and the conference is designed to acquaint the public with the protections available.

'Reductionism' Most Perilous

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Of all the sins in the modern world, the most false and dangerous "ism" is "reductionism" — as the biologist reduces man to just a biological entity, as the Marxist reduces him to just an economic symbol, as the behaviorist psychologist reduces him to just a stimulus-and-response creature; and many more all failing to grasp man in his multi-dimensional and interrelated functions, thus distorting more than they describe the actual processes of human life.

The law is the only profession in which its richest members achieve success not by practising it but by neglecting it for peripheral business enterprises.

How can we acquire wise, calm and honorable leaders, when the man who refuses to engage in excitable rhetoric, who refuses to make cheap appeals for easy applause, who refuses to exploit even the emotional bias of his own followers, doesn't stand a chance of getting elected?

• • •

On the same subject, whenever I hear an over-simplified speech, in which ringing phrases conceal fuzzy thoughts, I am reminded of Whitehead's fine injunction: "Nobody has a right to speak more clearly than he thinks."

• • •

One should feel sorry for somebody who has not had a serious setback, for the older we are when misfortune first overtakes us, the harder it is to maintain our balance; one must recall that it was the affluent who leaped out of windows during the Depression, not the destitute.

• • •

Bashfulness is thought by its possessors to be a kind of virtuous modesty; but in most cases it is nothing more than the fear that others may not think as well of us as we believe we deserve.

• • •

A truly charming woman is not one who can merely make a bore feel interesting or a fool clever in her presence; any woman with a little practice can do that; rather, she is one who can make a smart man totally oblivious of her basic dumbness, which is the ultimate conquest.

When we are utterly convinced we are about to do something from the best of motives — then is the time to pause and ask whether we are about to commit some flagrant injustice.

The difference between work and a vocation is that, given the proper incentives, a man will work to the limit of his capabilities; but without any incentive at all, a man will labor at his vocation beyond the limit of his normal capacities.

London Gold Market Is Closed For Day

Canada Halts Sales of Gold

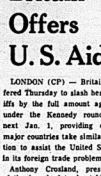
OTTAWA (CP) — Canada reacted quickly Thursday to extraordinary monetary developments in London and Washington.

Gold sales by bankers and brokers were ordered suspended today across the country after Britain announced a temporary shutdown of its gold market.

The U.S. federal reserve board increased its discount rate to five per cent from 4½ per cent and within four hours the Bank of Canada followed suit, pushing its lending rate to 7½ per cent from seven.

The U.S. rate was the highest since the market crash of 1929. The Canadian rate was already at a record high, and today's bump is the third in four months.

Finance Minister Sharp said the moves were a logical and precautionary reaction pending a meeting of London gold pool members to be held in Washington Saturday.



Canada will not be affected "any more than any other country" by Thursday's developments, he said.

The Canadian dollar has been buttressed as far as possible against such developments by a series of credit arrangements in the last few weeks, Mr. Sharp said.

The new bank rate was struck because lack of action might have been misinterpreted, he said.

The rate is what the central bank charges for its rare loans to chartered banks. It is a signal of the level of interest rates

Action Taken At U.S. Request

LONDON (CP) — The gold stampede was halted today by the closing of the big London and Johannesburg exchanges, but a mad scramble took place in smaller markets and Paris.

The Paris free gold market opened for business as usual and dealers reported heavy demand despite soaring prices.

Closing of the big bullion exchanges caused uncertainty, wide fluctuations in prices and heavy pressure on the dollar in Europe and the Far East.

Bankers and dealers in several centres predicted the United States now would be forced to raise the price of gold above the 34-year-old rate of $35 an ounce.

One Brussels dealer reported he received inquiries from potential buyers offering $45 an ounce.

The London bullion market, as well as the foreign currency exchange and the banks, closed today at the request of the U.S. government to allow breathing space for counter-measures.

Johannesburg followed London's lead and the South African Reserve Bank suspended foreign currency dealings.

The U.S. dollar slumped in Frankfurt and Zurich, and the German and Swiss central banks stepped in to support it. In Zurich no gold was available after the recent buying spree.

A hectic session was predicted on the Paris exchange, a free market open to speculators and not tied to London.

London's announcement that it was closing its exchanges today caught markets in the Far East already in session.

In Hong Kong, gold prices fluctuated wildly and confusion reigned, but trading was less

The historic cannon atop Trenton's Mount Pellon was the spot chosen for a 30-degree sunbath by Penny Pallidwr of 9 Wilson Crescent in Trenton. Needless to say, the pretty miss was back in warmer garb before you could say "cheese."

Britain Offers U.S. Aid

LONDON (CP) — Britain offered Thursday to slash her tariffs by the full amount agreed under the Kennedy round by next Jan. 1, providing other major countries take similar action to assist the United States in its foreign trade problems.

Anthony Crosland, president of the board of trade, told the House of Commons this British proposal to accelerate introduction of the mass of tariff reductions agreed under Geneva bargaining is offered on condition that the U.S. does not impose trade restrictions of its own and implements its own stage-by-stage tariff cuts by 1972.

Gold Mining Not Profitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid the splurge of European buying that is making dangerous inroads into the U.S. gold supply the question is often asked: Why doesn't the United States simply mine more gold?

A major answer-surprising to outsiders—is that digging for the precious metal isn't profitable.

The cost of mining has risen drastically while since 1934 the legal price of gold remained fixed at $35 an ounce.

Thousands of companies now have gone out of gold mining.

If Gold Price Rises...

Analysts Unsure Of Social Effects

TORONTO (CP) — The current scramble for gold behind has left financial analysts uncertain about what could actually trigger a revision of the gold price, and far from agreed over what the precise economic and social effects would be in Canada.

To damp down demand in Toronto, spokesmen for chartered banks and gold dealers are maintaining a cautious reercey over recent trading.

A financial observer in Toronto says Washington has three alternatives:

—Stand pat, which would leave the world monetary crisis unresolved.

—Raise the price at which the U.S. treasury will both buy and sell gold to $90 or $70 an ounce, which would devalue the dollar and create inflation in the U.S. and Canada.

—Dispense with convertibility and permit a free market in gold. This would also reduce the purchasing power of money, though the economic consequences have been less clearly defined.

In the last two cases, gold hoarders would profit, and all cash and fixed-interest savings would be devalued, though it is thought the Bank of Canada might step in to regulate a free market in gold by insisting chartered banks buy bullion only at the American price.

A bank spokesman said, however, that central banks cannot "control politicians on gold policy, and even if they could, economics is not an exact science and experts hold a wide range of opinions."

For this reason, he believed gold will not be held 'at $35 an ounce and Canadians will eventually have to face added inflation in a period when prices are already going up.

He said the quasi-devaluation of the Canadian dollar which now is effectively occurring in the face of rising prices would be greatly exaggerated in these circumstances.

Jury Wants Parents Charged If Child Dies of Curable Ill

NIPIGON, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury here has recommended that parents should be charged with negligence in cases where children die from a disease which has an acceptable cure.

The recommendation was made following an inquest Wednesday into the death of a six-year-old Beardmore, Ont. boy who died of diphtheria several days before he was expected to be immunized at school against the disease.

Allan Dulmage died Sept. 30, 1966 several weeks after starting school. The day of his death his immunization card was waiting for him to take to school, the inquest was told.

Demand Is Heavy

Gold Price Jumps By Fifth in Paris

PARIS (CP) — The Paris bullion market opened here today with demand for gold reported exceptionally heavy despite soaring prices.

Police controlled the crowd on the market floor as agitated buyers began bidding.

The price of gold leaped about 20 per cent before the market opened.

The one-kilo (2.2-pound) ingot, traded Thursday at $,700 francs ($1,140) was being offered today at 7,000 francs ($1,400).

The napoleon gold coin jumped from 55 francs to 57 at the first call.

The Paris gold market is a free market open to speculators and therefore not obliged to follow the example of the London exchange, which shut down for the day at the request of the U.S. government.

There was speculation here the turnover of ingots could treble Thursday's 35 to 40 tons as a result of business switching from London to Paris.

One leading Paris hotels said today they were refusing to accept dollar and sterling travellers' cheques while the current rash on gold and the international economic crisis continued.

A spokesman for the luxury George V Hotel said "it is just like the year before sterling devaluation last November."

"We have been advised by our bank not to accept any dollar or sterling travellers' cheques for the moment," he said.

One of the leading Paris money exchange offices closed at mid-day for two hours to catch up with demand.

Queues formed at all exchange offices as individual buyers placed orders for coins, bars and ingots.

In addition to the free gold market, French stock market and banks were open.

U.S. May Soon Cut Canadian Entries

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. will start limiting immigration from Canada and other Western-Hemisphere countries July 1 to 120,000 persons a year unless a counter-move picks up steam in Congress.

The ceiling will be imposed on a first-come, first-served basis unless changes are made. It was established in the 1965 revision of the U.S. immigration law.

A special commission on Western Hemisphere immigration recommended in January that the ceiling be postponed for a year. Nothing has happened since because Congress has its mind on other things.

Democratic senators Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Philip Hart of Michigan, with some other supporters, intend to try to get the ceiling postponed for a year as recommended.

Senator Kennedy heads a sub-committee on immigration which plans further study of the problem, hopefully in April.

Since Dec. 1, 1965, Canadians, like other immigrants, have had to prove that their arrival in the U.S. would not displace an American worker.

State department estimates released last year to the Kennedy subcommittee forecast that Canadian entries would be trimmed to 17,000 in 1968 under a ceiling compared with 35,363 visas issued in 1966 and 24,500 for the year ending June 30 last year.

McCarthy To Fight Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, convinced Senator Robert F. Kennedy plans to join the Democratic presidential race soon, is moving to head off the New Yorker in the remaining preference primaries.

McCarthy told a reporter he expected Kennedy to challenge him in Nebraska May 14, Oregon May 28 and California June 4.

50,000 Men Hunt Viet Cong

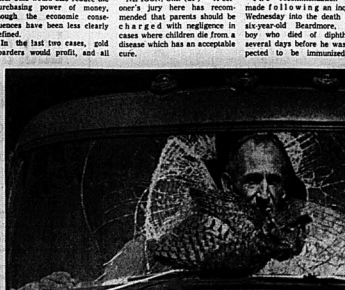
SAIGON (AP) — At least 50,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are sweeping between Saigon and the Cambodian border in the biggest operation of the Vietnam war, the U.S. command announced today.

Elements of six divisions and two special forces moved out Monday in a ambitious manoeuvre designed to regain the initiative seized by the Viet Cong with their countrywide assault Jan. 30.

The Southern allied force has killed 215 Viet Cong soldiers, seized 21 suspects and uncovered three huge arm caches, spokesmen said.

U.S. losses were reported as 11 killed and 94 wounded, while the South Vietnamese command said its troops had suffered light casualties.

The vast operation — named Quyet Thang, or Resolved to Win—is anchored in Saigon and extends in a semi-circle through five provinces north, west and south of the capital. Fifty battalions have been committed plus support troops and national police units.



It is the first significant operation by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, since Viet Cong forces invaded Saigon Jan. 31 and turned the city into a battlefield.

A second aim of the operation is to restore a sense of security and confidence among the shaken civilian population, officials said.

For the first time in the war, sections of Saigon were included in the battle plan of an allied offensive, search-and-destroy operation.

The force for the operation includes units of the U.S. 1st, 9th and 25th Infantry divisions, the South Vietnamese 5th and 25th Infantry divisions, forces of Vietnamese paratroops and marines, the Vietnamese ranger group, and national police units.

Viet Cong caches containing tons of ammunition and weapons were discovered 10, 12 and 24 miles northwest of Saigon.

Expenditure of $11,299,000 Proposed in 5-year Program

Belleville city council in a three-hour session yesterday approved an amount of of $11,299,000 in expenditures in capital works over the next five year period.

Included in the over-all total was an amount of $2,-198,000 in capital works for 1968.

The five-year works program if all carried out will boost the city's capital debt to just over $11,000,000 by the end of 1972 at which time it is estimated 16.9 mills will be required to meet annual debt requirements.

The present debenture debt of the city (as of December 1967) stands at $11,963,132 with another $2,683,546 worth of work approved but not debentured.

In the next five years an amount of approximately $5,270,000 in debentures, in cluding schools and public utilities, will be retired.

City manager J. R. Reynolds in presenting the five-year capital works budget said the city's ratio of debenture debt to taxable assessment reflects a gradual increase from 12.92 per cent this year to 15.97 per cent in 1972.

He said the city's financial position was sound and although the demand for improvements and services in the years ahead would strain the city's debt position, it is hoped the continuation of industrial and commercial assessment would provide the necessary funds to pay increasing debt charges and maintain the ratio of debt to taxable assessment at a minimum level of 20 per cent or less.

This year's taxable assessment is given at $110,590,000 which is expected to increase to $122,000,000 by 1972.

Included in this year's capital works program are two phases of the Dundas Street roadway and bridge program costing the city $238,000, a grade separation over the CN double tracks in the northeast end of the city at $200,000 and local improvements (roads and watermains) worth an estimated $127,800.

Trunk sanitary sewers for the north end city area will cost another $430,000; water and electric facilities expansion for the public utilities $645,100 and a new public school $250,000.

For the next five years an amount of $22,000 will be provided each year for bed replacement for the city transit commission.

Also for the next three years an amount of $100,000 will be provided each year for land purchase and development.

Next year phase three of the Dundas Street project will get underway at an estimated cost of $340,000 while also it is proposed to build the Sidney Street overpass at $220,000.

Local improvement work in 1968 includes an estimated $90,000 for reconstruction of Bridge Street West between Highland Ave. and Sidney Street, sanitary sewers in the northeast city area (College Street to Centre Street) and in Foster Ward.

Also storm sewers will be built in the northeast city area, along Moira Street West and on Sidney Street from Catherine to Moira.

Also utilities expansion will call for a total of $807,000.

Also in 1969 the city starts making provision for urban renewal with $100,000 being set aside for the city's share for a start on a long term and costly renewal scheme.

Mr. Reynolds said that the report on the urban renewal study was expected late this year.

Local improvements will cost another $400,000 plus in 1970 with storm sewers for the lower Parkdale area and northwest city area in cost $670,000. In the same year an amount of $895,000 is provided for water and electrical expansion.

In 1970 further urban renewal work is anticipated with $250,000 provided, and amount of $350,000 is provided for arena construction.

In 1971 local improvements will cost $1,000,000; trunk sanitary sewers $500,-000 and storm sewers $150,-000, and the utilities commission a further $783,000. In the same year a further $250,000 is proposed for continuation of urban renewal.

In the final year of the five year works program a total of $573,000 is provided for local improvements, $500,000 for trunk sanitary sewers, $600,-000 for storm sewers and $587,000 for the Utilities Commission.

The total in 1972 for capital works is $2,200,000 including $100,000 for a new library branch in the West End area.

The five year works program will be up for council ratification Monday following which it will go to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

At the conclusion of yesterday's capital works budget meeting, the city manager said consideration of the 1968 capital budget was still ahead of council.

He would not hazard a guess as to the mill rate which the 1968 current budget might call for, other than to say it would be "up".

Two items to be considered as the budget, by the way, are the purchase of a new fire pumper, and new business machines for the city treasurer's office.

Furniture Moved From Damaged House

$15,000 Damage in Fire

PICTON (Staff) — Quick work by members of the Wellington Fire Department prevented what might have been a serious fire in that village Thursday. Fire broke out about 2.30 in the afternoon in the two-storey frame residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stevens while Mrs. Stevens and her 15-year-old son Jimmie were in the house alone.

The fast action of firemen had the fire confined to the upstairs area and completely out in two hours. Much of the furniture and personal belongings of the family were removed from the burning building.

The Stevens' have five children all of whom were at school except Jimmie. Mr. Steyens is an employee of Ontario Department of Highways and operates a resort and fishing camp from his home located at the Eastern outskirts of Wellington village. The resort was the scene last summer of the headquarters of the fishing derby held during the village's "Old Home Week."

Fire Chief Jack Ogilvie told The Intelligencer the estimated cost of repairing damage to the house at $15,000. "The fire," he said, "was caused by a faulty fire place chimney," "it's a good thing too, he added, that there was little wind, any more and we would have had a bad time to bring this under control." Chief Ogilvie said he believed that building and contents were insured.

Council Rejects Motion

No Start on Arena Project This Year

Belleville's much talked of community centre at the Belleville Fairgrounds is not likely to be built at least until 1970.

This was the decision at city council last night when city fathers voted down a motion to include $400,000 in the 1968 capital works budget to allow a start to be made on the arena construction this year.

The amount was voted down by council when it was pointed out by City Manager J. R. Reynolds that if the arena was included in the 1968 capital works budget, the city's entire share of the million dollar structure would have to go in this year.

He said the entire share would be charged against the city's capital works quota for approval by the Ontario Municipal Board this year.

As a compromise Mr. Reynolds suggested that approximately $100,000 or one mill could be included in the tax levy for the next two or three years, the money to be set aside in a special fund for arena construction.

"I am not recommending this, but it would be legal," Mr. Reynolds said.

Then, he added, with two or three hundred thousand dollars in the kitty, a larger amount could be put in the capital works budget in a later year without the full cost of the construction being charged against the city's works quota in any one year.

The five-year works budget prepared by Mr. Reynolds made no mention of the arena construction until the year 1971 when an amount of $350,000 was included.

Alderman Kenneth Soden moved for $450,000 to be included in this year's works budget and a similar amount next year, but when the city manager pointed out the reasons why this could not be done, the motion was defeated.

Mr. Reynolds then suggested the possible compromise of levying ahead for the arena and the matter will undoubtedly be up for consideration when the current budget comes up for discussion.

Alderman Donald Williams pressed strongly for some provision to be made to ensure a construction start this year on the arena complex.

This was necessary, he claimed, if fairgrounds' accommodation lost through demolition of the Commodores and Manufacturers buildings was to be replaced.

He said the city had an obligation to the fair board and this board was looking to the city for replacement.

$300,000 for Development

Industrial Commission Assisted

An amount of $300,000 has been included in the city's proposed five-year capital works budget over the next three years for land purchase and development in Belleville.

Three $100,000 amounts, still to be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board, are included in the works budgets for the years 1968, 1969 and 1970.

And the $300,000 amount for land purchase and development is actually $50,000 more than had been asked for by the Belleville Industrial Commission.

At the same time the figure is double the $150,000 amount recommended by the city manager.

Prior to yesterday's capital works budget discussions, Fred B. Leacon, vice president of the Belleville Industrial Commission, pointed out that $200,000 for industrial land purchases had already been approved by the citizens as a result of a referendum in 1963.

Due to sales of industrial land Mr. Leacon said there is a large part of this $200,000 still unexpended.

He said the Industrial Commission regards this money as a form of revolving credit — the purchase of land reduces the fund, while sales to industry rebuilds the fund.

"We must always have an inventory of city owned industrial land, available for new industry and also to prevent inflated prices on privately-owned industrial land," said Mr. Deacon.

The commission vice president said council was aware of its guarantee to Allied Chemical and Pan Properties to provide adequate sewers by Dec. 1970 in the northeast industrial park.

"Serviced land is a prerequisite to the future industrial development of this area," he said.

The commission requested council to give favorable consideration to the inclusion of $150,000 in the 1968 works budget and a further $100,000 in 1969.

Public School Expenditure

Administration Building Deleted

Belleville city council yesterday voted to delete an amount of $300,000 from the city's proposed 1968 capital works budget requested to provide for construction of a new school administration building this year.

In voting to delete the amount, council moved to refer the matter to the county interim school organization committee.

Alderman Gerald Joyce moved the deletion of the $300,000 and referral of the matter to the county steering committee.

Council, however, did provide an amount of $225,000 in this year's capital works budget for construction of a new public school in the Hillcrest area.

Public school board officials, Inspector Macdonald Smith and business committee chairman Mrs. Miriam Graham, along with schools' superintendent Lawrence Kells, attended the pre-budget session of council in support of its request.

A school board brief presented to council proposed that council join with the board in a mutual approach to the Ontario Municipal Board to ask that the $300,000 amount be permitted in the 1968 capital budget but without charging it to the city.

It was pointed out that the benefits of the administration building would be for several municipalities and that no debenture payments would be due earlier than 1969.

The brief pointed out that if the construction of an administration building was dropped, the new county board would operate from several buildings until such time as plans for a new building were made.

At this was the case Belleville could very well lose several supervisory and executive persons of substantial income who would locate themselves in the immediate area of the temporary locations of other buildings now in use, the brief suggested.

Mrs. Graham, as chairman of the board business committee, said that the Belleville board was already cramped for space.

However, Acting Mayor Boyle noted that many other areas besides Belleville and Hastings would be in a similar predicament and little hope was held for OMB approval of the school board proposal.

Press Admitted

Council Votes Open Meeting On Capital Works Budget

Belleville city council broke with tradition yesterday to allow press and radio coverage of capital works budget discussions usually held behind closed doors.

A motion to bar the press was lost on a split 5.5 vote but with a different approach the decision might easily have gone the other way.

According to procedural rules if the motion had been to allow the press in, the same vote would have made the budget discussions a closed session.

Managerial personnel from both CJBQ and The Intelligencer were on hand to make request for an open meeting, but Alderman Enos David and Acting Mayor Boyle pointed out that budget discussions normally were held in private.

Acting Mayor Boyle admitted that there had been one exception (in 1966) but said with the proposed works budget for this year being somewhat higher than would be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board he felt the meeting should be closed.

He said if there were deletions or if the OMB failed to approve the budget some citizens might get the idea the city is in financial straits.

But other aldermen had the opposite view with Ald. Gerald Joyce favoring open meeting except where personnel matters and industrial commission information was concerned.

Alderman Paul Russell said he had received complaints about the number of closed sessions held by council.

"We are going to be discussing more than two million dollars and I favor an open meeting," he said.

Radio Station manager Frank Murray said CJBQ had always given assurances in the past that personalities and industrial information would not be broadcast.

He claimed it would be in the best interests of the people of Belleville for them to be made aware of the stand council members take on important matters.

The Intelligencer managing editor, Donald Soutter, said that in Belleville it seemed that council conducted more business behind closed doors than was the case in other municipalities.

"The people have the right to know the stand you take on the issues," he said.

In Kingston, Mr. Soutter said, all council committee meetings with the exception of personnel were open to the press.

Alderman Don Williams felt badly that council was being asked to make a decision on the request for an open meeting with the press and radio present.

"Then they are," he said, "debating with us whether or not the meeting should be open."

He said that council had a responsibility to the people — surely we can discuss anything among ourselves and let them know what it is."

He felt council should decide the request in private.

Radio manager Murray asked for a recorded vote on the request but this was denied on the grounds that the session was an "informal" meeting.

Alderman Williams interjected "Are we going to allow them (the press and radio) to dictate to us?"

When the vote was taken, Acting Mayor Boyle and Ald. Williams, Soden, Ellis and Jeffrey favored a closed meeting. Opposing the motion were Ald. Joyce, Orr, David, Russell and Keegan.

U.S. Primary

There is both irony and a touch of the macabre in the thought that not too far south of the 49th parallel, 100 miles or so from the Canadian border, possibly the fate of the whole world is being decided.

We refer to the process of U.S. presidential primary campaigning in the State of New Hampshire. Here Senator Eugene McCarthy received a surprising 42 per cent of the ballots for the Democratic nomination. President Johnson finished at the top but his lead over McCarthy of some 4,000 votes was far from the 3 to 1 victory that had been predicted for the president.

McCarthy, once feared and even hated as the man responsible for the "witch-hunting" campaign against communists in the United States, seems to have mellowed somewhat in his anti-communist stand. In New Hampshire he campaigned on a platform protesting U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Richard Nixon won the overwhelming vote he sought in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination. The former vice-president was defeated in the last presidential campaign by John F. Kennedy, but has become an influential voice again in U.S. politics. Nixon is a smooth talker and has any number of proposals for ending the war in Vietnam, but whether he would make a good president is open to debate.

If indeed it is being made in New England, so too is the element of the macabre present that we mentioned earlier.

We refer to the presence of inter-continental missile sites in the State of Vermont. They too are only a few miles from the Canadian border where Vermont touches Quebec. Of such these days is the stuff of history.

The Minority's Power

Progress in this world is effected by the minority — by the few. That is, by the people with ideas and motivation to put them before the public and ultimately to win acceptance for them.

Moreover, that is very largely the art of politics and of getting things done in business. Two examples are afforded by contemporary happenings.

Speaking of Quebec, Globe and Mail columnist Richard J. Needham says, "It remains my view ... based on several private visits to Quebec, on reading the Quebec press, and especially on talking to young Quebecers in their own language — that Quebec will go (Independent). Whether the majority of people in Quebec will vote for it, I don't know. They don't know either, nobody knows. What I do know is that there is in Quebec a minority which passionately wants to go, and that will be, as always in history, the deciding factor."

A parallel to this in Canada is to be found in Hamilton. Here, according to a Canadian Press report, the men behind Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd.'s new product development program describe themselves as professional boat-rockers.

"Behind their levity," the report goes on, "is the message that industry needs men who are not satisfied with the way things are done and who have the imagination to do something about it." In other words, a minority.

That is the way the world moves. Consider one example of this in action — in the sphere of housing. This, say plant executives, is the last mass market with mass production. The prediction is that in 10 years all houses will be factory built.

Passing Fancy

It had to happen — a movie called "Mary Jane," based of course on the current "in" fad of the shadowy world of drugs.

Yes, marijuana, for that is Mexican Spanish for the movie of the above name. The film is currently showing in St. Catharines and it stars Fabian and Diane McBain.

Marijuana — euphoria or crutch . . . Does "grass" have therapeutic value . . . Should we legalize "pot?" These are some of the newspaper headlines used to dramatize the advertisement for the film.

But marijuana, like so many other straws the immature grasp at in this frenetic age, is but a passing fancy. And life is bigger and

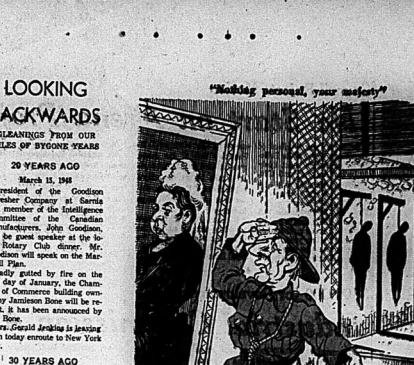
His Car Expired...But Who Needs Them Anyway?

Pat Wheeler in The Windsor Star

The old car had been in failing health for some time, and it showed somewhat appreciation on Sunday evening, after a faithful delivery to church, sunday school, pastoral calls, and weekday errands, by giving up the ghost.



The attendant mechanic was as kind as years of experience with such melancholy events can make a man. Even a specialist called in for consultation shook his head in sad confirmation. I was naturally upset and failed to discern whether the verdict was, in professional terms, a known rod or a throwed bead. But it was clear that the end had come.

So for a week, while shopping around, I have been without a car. And I have discovered a whole new world of freedom.

The bus is within two short blocks of home, and the center of the office. The schedules are adequate, and the service fast. One ride is free, regardless of delivered in some style to one's destination. The short walk can be very stiff at an exercise.

You meet a much better class of people on the bus, if only because you never meet anyone at all if you drive to work. Bus passengers seem a happy lot, perhaps because they're free from the nagging worries of car ownership and operation.

And the list of worries that you don't have is long and inspiring. No fear of not finding a parking spot, or of discovering the meter in the unlikely event that you do find a spot. No keys fear of misplacing or forgetting driver's licence, ownership certificate, or insurance certificate.

No chance of being stuck, thrown rods, running out of gas flat tires, rust, salt, moth, or the thousand and one other ailments to which the chrome is heir.

And over all, a glorious feeling of freedom, much like the feeling I had years ago when you discarded your shoes and went out the first warm Saturday.

Walking for a bus is no chore at all. Perhaps I've been lucky, but the wait has never been more than about five minutes, and the weather has been pleasant. That morning air that one used to enjoy for the 50 feet between door and car now is stretched out for two blocks, and there's nothing to do at the bus stop but stand and admire nature.

You won't last, of course. Already it's getting to be something of an agony to decide whether to walk all the way (two blocks) to the store or do without a smoke. And the well-known argument that you can take any number of taxis for what you save by not having a car just doesn't seem to work out. At any rate, I haven't taken any taxis yet.

Pretty soon, such are the forces of convention, I'll have a car again, and kid myself that I'm being terribly unconventional by having a small car. But for a week or two, I'm looking oughly enjoying life without a car. Just like the sturdy pioneers of

Sex Education Issue

Letter to
Kingston Whig-Standard

Most of us will basically agree with Mr. Bowering in his recent article when he advocated that sex education should be taught at home but surely this is being impossibly idealistic?

In many families the parents have had very little if any sex education themselves — and by that I don't mean just the cold clinical facts but the much broader aspects including that success in family living and all its ramifications. How and all can most of them impart this to their children in a meaningful way?

It can be done as evidenced by the successful program carried on for the last 20 years in a High School in Hayward, California. Isn't this whole area of success in family relationships too important (in any day and age but especially ours) to just hope to pick up by trial and error? Doesn't the ever-increasing public awareness of breakdown in interpersonal relationship as evidenced by increased mental ill health, juvenile delinquency and sociality unacceptable acting out, alcoholism, drug addiction, sexual experimentation, venereal disease, battered and neglected children, separation and divorce warrant more education to try and help prevent some of these tragedies? Those children whose parents have the knowledge and successful family living who show it by example and can impart in words what can't be shown, are indeed fortunate but they are in the minority and by no means all in any particular socio-economic group.

Divorce Legislation in U.K.

New Statesman

Opposition to Britain's new Divorce Bill will come from those who don't believe in divorce at all, plus a growing band of feminists who regard the bill as a passport to masculine promiscuity. Lady Summerskill has already denounced it as a "Casanova's charter".

The bill does not justify this hysteria. It contains numerous safeguards for reluctant divorcees. Before finalizing a divorce the court must consider all the circumstances, including age, health, earning capacity and financial resources of the parties, and it gives special attention to the position position of the woman. Should a divorce adversely affect a woman's pension rights after her husband's death, the court must ensure that every possible provision is made to mitigate such loss. A divorced wife will be further protected against financial hardship by the new duty of occupation of the matrimonial home under the Matrimonial Homes Act, which came into force on January 1. Under Clause 4 of the bill a decree may be refused if a petitioner has attempted to deceive the court about his finances or if the divorce would lead to severe financial hardship for either party or their children.

Finally, the bill underlines a growing dilemma for the state. Any society which encourages the divorced laws should take a greater responsibility in preventing the casualties of divorce from falling below a certain minimum standard of income. Current welfare provisions cannot fully guarantee this. As F. E. Mostyn wrote in the New Law Journal in November, 1950:

The real question, which has been masked by the penal provisions upon which maintenance is now based, is how far the burden of maintenance should be borne by the husband and how far by the state, when the husband is without means adequately to provide both for his former wife and her children as well as for himself and any second home he may have set up.

If the new bill indicates that maintenance must be decided on the basis of need rather than innocence or guilt, the state is a responsibility to meet this need where the individual cannot. Little can be done at this time of economic stringency, at least the public responsibility

Education Could Bankrupt Ontario Within Five Years

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

Significant contributory causes to increased taxation levels are pointed out in The Intelligencer of March 13, 1968.

On page 26 it is reported that "Education Minister Davis predicted increasing education costs combined with other government responsibilities could lead to bankrupt Ontario within five years." On the same page is is noted that "Grants for provincially assisted universities will total $309,300,000 in 1968-69, an increase of $100,000,000 or 23 per cent over the 1967-68 figure."

County-wide boards of education have been established to take effect on January 1, 1969, and so a feverish activity of consolidation is now in progress.

With this consolidation, costs tend to rise over the whole county, in addition to the highest amounts being paid. Thus, another factor has been added to increase these education costs and consequent taxation.

Larger units of administration, established on a sound basis, with sufficient pupils, properly organized, and put into operation in a step-by-step orderly manner have many benefits — if no additional costs can be borne without the danger of bankruptcy or near-bankruptcy.

It is difficult to see that the present rush to county units of education, in the current economic situation, with higher federal, provincial, and municipal taxes can be advantageous in the light of Education Minister Davis' predictions.

On page one of the same issue of The Intelligencer the headlines are: "Ontario Needs Up", "Smoke, Drive or Bet and it Costs More". Also on page one: "Average Man Hit Hardest."

Isn't it time to rush to slow down?

PAUL EDWIN FLEMING

Family Court Services

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

The Intelligencer of Wednesday February 28, carried a story in the "Letters to the Editor" relating to the Family Court. I have watched with interest subsequent issues, anticipating other comments. The fact that to date, there have been none indicates to me that the basic statements in the letter were true, and therefore unrefutable. If this were so, surely public able comment should have been forthcoming.

I do not think the writer was not directing criticism at the personnel of the Family Court, but rather at the method of such a state of affairs. It is not unreasonable to expect an office performing the functions it does to be staffed during normal working hours. Obviously, many of the persons seeking Family Court aid would not consider it prudent to bring to notice any lack of service or availability of court workers, in case of jeopardizing their need for assistance.

The one instance illustrated in the letter clearly shows a need for this office to be manned at all times. Nothing can be more discouraging or disheartening to desperate people in need of help, to be pushed from one agency to another in a series of fruitless visits that result only in frustration.

I am sure there are many aspects that the layman has no understanding of relating to the smooth operation of a Family Court office, but I am sure, that prime among them is a need for qualified and sympathetic personnel to be on hand to deal with the needs of those less fortunate than some of us.

I am not advocating any form of investigation as a result of "Disturbed's" letter. I do urge as immediate effort on part of those responsible for the running of the Family Court office be it Provincial or County, to try and arrange to always have someone on hand so that no unnecessary hardships are suffered by those in need of help.

INTERESTED

Support for Pierre Trudeau

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

As a Canadian citizen; a resident of Ontario and presently a student at Carleton University, the upcoming Liberal leadership convention interests me enormously.

Who would be my choice and why? In my opinion there is only one candidate out of the group who is wholly capable to govern Canada and he is Pierre Elliot Trudeau.

To begin with he is a philosopher in his own right, a philosopher uniting a blend of socialism born from a certain pragmatism, combination of which produces a man who is a realist. Believe me, I am not playing with words as I personally feel that these three characteristics are absolute prerequisites for someone who hopes to lead a country.

The only soft point that I find in Trudeau's program is the simple fact that he dares accept a challenge in the form of Canadian federalism. He could have (contened himself with a province which included only the province of Quebec, but he opted for a challenge involving the whole country. In doing so he offers, to every one, his own challenge. That is his way of trying to create a true federalism problem. He expects us to do something.

The other candidates, or at least most of the others, try to either sidestep the issue or, like they, all by themselves, in a short period of time, will be able to change Canada. They are afraid to accept Trudeau's challenge and they run and hide behind speeches. It is true that in the latter case we do hear some words but in Trudeau's case, we see the man.

If Gold Goes Up, Your $$ Goes Down But It's Worth as Much

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What happens to your paycheque if the price of gold is increased?

Will an automobile cost you more money?

There are some of the questions people ask when the talk and the rumors begin to rise in international gold situation.

Economists in interviews provided these answers to some of the most common questions:

Q—How would a man in the street be affected by an increase in the price of gold from the present official rate of $35 U.S. an ounce. The U.S. sets the price of gold, officially pegging it at that rate.

A—An increase would mean that the United States had devalued the dollar.

Since the U.S. dollar is the mainstay as a means of exchange in world trade there would be a rumbrowning effect, leading to other devaluation of world currencies.

At home, paycheques, bank accounts, the cost of domestic products, and real estate would show no change. The dollar would buy less gold but it would continue to purchase the same amount of goods—housing, cars—as it did prior to devaluation. However, imported goods might cost more.

Q—Would anyone benefit immediately from a gold price increase?

A—Hoarders and speculators would reap the immediate profits if they had bought gold for $35 an ounce and sold it, at say, $70. Some economists say doubling the price would end speculative attacks on the U.S. dollar since hoarders and speculators presumably would get rid of their gold at the higher price.

Q—Could there be detrimental effects?

A—Some economists foresee a breakdown in world trade and commerce, which has been pegged to gold being worth $35 an ounce. If world trade slumps, jobs would dwindle. Over the long run an inflationary trend would develop.

Q—Why is the price of gold held at $35 an ounce?

A—This is the price at which the United States has guaranteed since 1934 to buy and sell gold. It's the keystone of international finance.

Q—Why a price increase for gold?

A—Some argue a higher price for gold would restore confidence in the U.S. dollar. It would discourage hoarding and promote gold production, some say. Boosting the price requires U.S. congressional action.

Q—Where would a price increase in gold be felt first?

A—In the field of international trade and commerce, a field remote from many people.

Q—What can a person do to protect himself in these uncertain monetary times?

A—"Probably the best thing to do would be to sit still," said one economist.

Q—Would a U.S. tax increase halt the gold flow abroad?

A—It would tend to take the steam out of inflationary pressures. It would reduce purchasing power and dampen what economists call an inflationary psychology. A tax increase long has been recognized in other countries as a traditional, orthodox fiscal step by countries with balances of payments deficits.

Canada did just that. To fight inflation and make its own dollar more secure, the Canadian government imposed a three-per-cent surtax on personal and corporate incomes taxes. The tax bill is up for third reading in the Commons.

Q—What touched off the current gold stampede?

A—Britain's devaluation of the pound last Nov. 18. Hoarders see gold as a haven from paper currencies, especially in nations where devaluation has occurred in recent years.

Q—Who are these hoarders and speculators?

A—Their identities are cloaked in mystery. But likely the largest single hoard is in the rich Arab states. In other countries, such as India, gold is the traditional form of savings, even for dowries. In other European countries, wracked by war twice in the same generation, businessmen feel safer with some gold as a hedge.

Q—Why does the United States keep losing gold?

A—Since the Second World War, the United States has spent or sent abroad more dollars than foreigners have spent in the U.S., creating a balance-of-payments deficit. The deficit has caused gold to flow out of the country to pay debts to nations. An additional amount of gold is lost through the United States' 40 per cent share of gold, used in the seven-nation London gold pool, designed to stabilize the gold price at $35.

Q—How much gold does the United States now have?

A—The regular treasury gold stock is about $11,400,000,000, lowest since 1938.

Q—How much gold has the U.S. lost recently?

A—Since Britain devalued the pound last year, the gold stock has dropped $1,475,000,000.

Mr. Sharp said the seven active members of the gold pool—Britain, United States, Belgium, Italy, The Netherlands, Switzerland and West Germany—must decide whether the London market will open on the same basis of trade as previously.

The U.S. would have to decide whether it would continue to participate in selling gold into the London market.

"It was clearly impossible for demand to be satisfied at the level that existed for the past few days," Mr. Sharp told reporters after announcing Canada's measures in the Commons.

He described the developments abroad as "grave" and "dramatic." The Commons hurried through the final closure by-clause discussion of the government's tax bill to permit the finance minister to confer with his advisers.

Mr. Sharp had planned to return today to an active campaign for the Liberal leadership, after announcing March 4 that he would have to stick to his desk for some time.

His bill, replacing the legislation defeated Feb. 19, appeared sure of fast approval and be made plans to fly this morning to Vancouver to open a three-day western tour.

The peace of the night was:

—Punctuated by Washington decisions to increase the discount rate to five per cent from 4½ and free $28,600,000,000 in bullion to meet speculation. Canada raised its bank rate to 7½ per cent from seven.

—Shattered by a royal proclamation of an immediate bank holiday in Britain to let London gold market and stock exchange.

—Climaxed by a leak from Parliament that George Brown, controversial foreign secretary, had quit in a fuss over consultation in the gold crisis, only to change his mind and stay on.

South Africa, which produces 70 per cent of the Western world's gold production, announced a 50-million-pound foreign exchange. And the Johannesburg stock exchange closed today.

It was clear Thursday that the world was embroiled in its biggest money crisis since the 1929 Wall Street crash.

The day's turnover of gold built up in record-breaking levels in Britain, France, West Germany and Switzerland.

Wild estimates in London put the amount sold on the market at anything between 150 and 400 tons. There was no official figure.

The eyes were on the United States. Last weekend's declaration by central bankers meeting in Basel, Switzerland, that the price of gold would be maintained at $35 U.S an ounce had not been enough to dampen ardor for the yellow metal.

At midnight, European time, the U.S. acted by raising the discount rate to five per cent—the highest since 1929.

President Johnson intervened over the hot line link between the White House and 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Wilson's official residence. He asked Wilson to close the London bullion market.

The Queen's proclamation declaring a bank holiday will provide three days—until Monday —for the crisis to be faced first.

It also will give an invaluable breathing spell for Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins' vital budget due Tuesday.

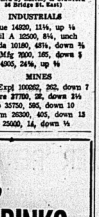
Its measures must restore confidence in the pound, the U.S. dollar's first line of defence.

Parliament, sitting late to debate a lengthy transport bill, was interrupted when a messenger strode into the chamber shortly after 3 a.m. to brief the House of Commons on the latest monetary situation.

As the house digested his news, rumor swept the lobbies that Foreign Secretary Brown had quit because he was not consulted over President Johnson's dramatic plea to Wilson.

Today, finance experts will catch up on the backlog of work built up over five days of intense crisis.

Saturday the International Monetary Fund conference in Washington will debate the situation.



Whatever initiative is taken, London sources agreed it must come from the United States. London will follow.

The U.S. treasury and the Federal Reserve Board scheduled a meeting for Saturday in Washington among the seven nations which feed gold in the London market in an attempt to maintain the price at $35 an ounce.

For the U.S., the five-per-cent discount rate is the highest since the days which preceded the 1929 stock market crash when the rate hit six per cent.

The upward move will mean higher interest rates in the economy generally and ultimately will filter through to loans on other consumer goods.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Tumbling per producers. Ioco advanced gold prices paced a declining Toronto stock market in active mid-morning trading today.

The erratic gold average, up four points within minutes after opening, slumped more than nine points or almost four per cent after the first hour of trading.

Dome mines headed the list down, plunging $14 points to $70¼ on sales of about 2,400 shares.

Campbell Red Lake dropped 2¼ to $41¼ in light activity and Giant - Yellowknife 1 to 12¼. Most smaller gold issues joined the decline.

However, Kerr Addison advanced ¼ to 17½, in an 18,000 share turnover.

Total declines outnumbered advances almost four to one as most industrials, oils and base metals suffered setbacks.

Only exception to the weakness was shown by the industrial mines group and silver and cop- ¼ points.

Belleville Meeting

Trustees to Discuss Salaries

Public school trustees from boards throughout Hastings and Prince Edward Counties meet in Belleville tonight to discuss teachers salaries for the 1963-64 school year.

About 100 board members are expected to be in attendance.

The teachers associations are negotiating salary scales with school boards at the present time. Last year agreements was reached with the public school board in Belleville on April 25.

The base rate of pay for teachers in the two counties are generally the same in all areas.

For instance standard one teachers in Belleville receive between $4,600 and $6,000. In Deseronto the scale is between $4,200 and $5,000, and in Consecon Hastings the year is between $4,200 and $5,900.

Prince Edward County is much the same with teachers in Hallowell receiving between $4,400 and $5,400 and Picton between $4,300 and $5,800.

Last year Belleville teachers received an average 5 per cent boost in pay. Standard 1 starting teachers' salaries jumped 23 per cent to $4,400 — an increase of $800 per year.

The top rate — standard four teachers with 13 years experience — was $8,700 per year. The salary increase averaged between $1,100 and $1,200 per teacher.

Quinte Curlers Unbeaten

A Quinte Curling Club rink of Wal Weymark, Bill Riley, Dr. J. F. McCorquodale with Ron Benn as skip are undefeated after three rounds for the Provincial title for intermediate curlers at Peterborough. Those eligible to play in the series must be in the 40-55 age group. There are sixteen rinks in the competition representing the 16 districts in the Province and they are playing a double knockout draw, which allows a rink to lose two games before dropping out. The finals will be played on Saturday evening.

On Thursday the local rink defeated Toronto Cricket Club 6-2 and in the evening beat Orillia 5-4. This morning the rink played Walkerton and won the game 7-5 with last rock by skip Benn. The Quinte rink was lying two coming home and the Walkerton skip took out shot rock - with his last stone but Benn made a perfect takeout to stay and count two with his last rock. The rink plays 4 rounds today and this afternoon at two will meet a rink from Dundas.

Curvy, Swervy Hair Styles Popular

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Curvy, swervy hair styles are in-the-scene for spring. That's the opinion of a group of beauticians we polled asking what were their favorite coifs. The results of the votes were — a casual flip won first place, a close-cropped little boy cut came in second, and a curly upsweep ran third. To duplicate these favored styles, use a no fuss set-and-comb formula. For example, actress Yvonne Craig needs only six rollers for this flip fashion. Two curlers are turned under at the crown, and four rollers wrapped up around end tips. The comb-out follows the setting patter, with a feathering of bangs completing the coiffure.

Another "turn-on" style is a shingle bob that is shampooed in 90 seconds, dried with a washcloth, and finger-sculptured, instead of roller set. The secret is the cut, with each layer of hair blending into the next, so it contours to the head. The style, introduced by Yvonne in the 20th TV series, "Batman," depends upon line, rather than curls for its visual impact. Slant bangs and cheek stands into a precision pattern, and the new Spanish influence is evident. Swirl bangs and wrap sideburns around ears, and the Italian flair is spotlighted.

The curly-top look can be adapted by girls with either long or short hair. The "longres" merely slick back strands into a shapely twist. Add ornaments and tips in a series of ringlets about the size of a silver dollar. Those with short hair comb back flat to neck, and concentrate on the round of curls at the crown. Again, there's a style tip for these ringlets. Back-comb near scalp to reinforce bounce-power of curl; then, shape loops so each has an air hole of space. This keeps curls looking tossed and casual, instead of thick and mated.

"TURN ON" HAIR STYLE — A no fuss set-and-comb formula is recommended for the new spring coiffures. Only six rollers are used by Yvonne Craig, of the "Batman" series, for this flip fashion.

P.S. Do you like curly or straight styles? Is hair long or short? You can have your pick of flattering coiffures in our kit's seven hair styles. These seven photo-illustrated coifs offer step-by-step instructions in how to set, and how to comb out for pro results. Brief Presented

TORONTO (CP) — A brief to the Ontario government asking a $2 hourly minimum wage for women in Ontario was presented Wednesday by the Congress of Canadian Women.

President Mrs. Murray of Toronto said in an interview the present minimum of $1 has been in effect about five years and an increase is overdue.

Mrs. Murray said more and more married women must work to supplement the family income because of the high cost of living.

"They are menacing those women who really have to work to support themselves," she said.

Young Swimmer Thrives on Work

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Like most great athletes, Angela Coughlan knows that the only way to be a world-class champion is through dedication and hard work.

And even as a 15-year-old, the 120-pound swimmer thrives on work.

"Her only big worry is that I am not working her hard enough," says coach Nick Thierry of Toronto. "She is absolutely dedicated."

Angela's daily schedule doesn't allow much time for the things that fill the life of an average teen-ager. It is a constant cycle of sleep, school, study and sleep again.

Her one consolation is that Thierry heralds her as the brightest swimming star to appear in Canada since Elaine Tanner of Vancouver and Winnipeg won her first race.

Less than a year ago, Miss Coughlan was an unknown member of the University Settlement Aquatic Club in Toronto. But Thierry had already told her astonished parents:

"She will be in world class in two years."

Miss Coughlan had been attending his classes regularly and Thierry saw the signs that she could absorb the punishment he handed out to his swimmers and come back for more.

"Once you see that, you add to the workload," said Thierry.

"The swimmer responds. Then you add to the load again. You soon get hooked on someone who can respond in the way she did and who works that hard. We established a good relationship and her development was rapid."

In addition to the gruelling hours of work in the pool, Angela also travels 120 miles daily between Burlington and Toronto for morning and evening sessions.

Angela was an unknown when she entered the Canadian national championships at Winnipeg last summer. She stunned Canadians when she defeated Elaine Tanner in the 200-metre freestyle event and added a second-place in the 400 and 800 metres events.

She went to the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg a month later and won a silver medal and three bronze medals.

Now, Miss Coughlan is rated seventh in the world among 800-metre swimmers behind six U.S. competitors.

She holds the Canadian native record of nine minutes, 48.6 seconds for the event.

"I have no idea what her potential is," says Thierry. "She's surprised us all so often already. But I know this, she is unique.

"She will do exactly as she is told—I think if I told her to swim under water for a half hour she'd do it without question."

Mayor Maggy Runs Everything

HERRICK, Ill. (AP)-The sign said, "Herrick—Pop. 440."

It might have added: "This is Mayor Maggy's territory."

"You shouldn't ever come to a town like this wearing a white collar," Mayor Maggy Conn told a visitor. "The people here are very suspicious. Last time someone dressed like you came through here was a federal man trying to bring in a town water system."

That was the advice of Mayor Maggy. It was also advice of the police chief, fire chief, water commissioner, sanitary engineer and the dog catcher. Because Maggy Conn, 72, holds all the titles.

The police chief has no policemen, the fire chief no fire truck and the town no hydrants. It was not until 1966 that the water commissioner got some water to commission and the sanitary engineer some facilities to engineer. But the dog catcher has never wanted for dogs.

Mayor Maggy Conn presides over town council meetings, sports a revolving light in her station wagon, carries a pistol, doles out the water, chases dogs, writes a column in the Herrick weekly and wears a wig.

A Republican in a town she describes as 95 per-cent Democratic, she won election in 1965 for a four-year term by a count of 106-to-6 and her name wasn't on the ballot.

"I'd have gotten even more votes if some of these old buzzards could write," she said.

Born in Herrick in 1895, she began winning amateur talent shows in St. Louis at the age of 17, and her career was begun.

"I never asked for an agent," she said. "They always came looking for me."

From 1922 to 1929, Maggy said, she worked nightclubs and small theatres in and around New York. But the long road trips ruined two marriages. She left the theatre, lived in Florida and California and returned to Herrick in 1962 to be with her ailing mother.

Mayor Maggy says she has made improvements in Herrick. She purchased the town garbage truck, for example. She likes to point out that when she took office Herrick had an annual budget of $400 a year. Last year, the budget was $4,000. Of course, Maggy's salary has to be deducted from that. It's $1 a month.

Mayor Maggy isn't old at 72. With makeup, she passes for 60; without it you'd figure in the 50s. At age 71, she danced and sang her old songs at a convention of reporters. She wore a mini-skirt and mesh nylons.

"It's mostly old people here," she added. "I figure there are exactly 50 widows and only eight widowers. You'd think it would be a wild leap year, but half of them can't walk let alone chase a man, and the other half wouldn't know what to do if they caught one."

Successful Living

Multiple Sclerosis Victim Stages Comeback

Dear Doris: About five years ago I was stricken with multiple sclerosis and was told the same thing as Wanting to Help. Now I was never to walk again. I was paralyzed from my hips down.

But through therapy and great assistance from the nurses I started back to learn to walk: first crawl, crutches, wheel chair, cane and plenty of determination. I am now back living a normal life, although it did take two years to get back on my feet.

DORIS CLARE

I have a full time job in a hospital, eight hours a day, five days a week, with plenty of walking. But I feel perfect as long as I stay out of the dampness as much as possible. I am told to slacken down. — Determination and Will Power.

P.S. If this letter can't help someone, forget it.

Dear Determination: Score for the whole medical team: doctors, therapists, nurses, social workers!

Our physical and mental and emotional selves are so closely linked up that the way we feel profoundly affects how we think and the way our body functions.

Dear Doris: Must the bride reply to any toasts? May her husband reply and include her sentiments? — Bride-to-Be.

Dear Bride-To-Be: Just as long as she replies to the clergyman's questions, with a meek "I do!", she can forever after hold her peace.

Dear Hubby speaks for both.

I'm sending you my page of "Wedding Toasts", to show who proposes what and who responds: and a general idea of content. (Available to other wedding planners for ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Dear Doris: I am 33 years old any my memory is very poor.

I can remember things that I did in my childhood, or something that happened years ago but if you ask me what I had for supper two days ago I can't remember.

I have a terrible time remembering names, too. What is wrong with me? — Worried

Dear Worried: I often forget what I had for dinner — even one day ago. And some of us practically burst a blood vessel trying to come up with a name we should know from long association. In time to call the owner by it. on a chance encounter.

Experts tell us remembering depends a good deal on how much attention we paid to the fact, or experience, in the first place. We can sit in on a university lecture, even take notes, and be unable to recall anything but vague impressions later; the reason being that our mind is divided.

Memories respond to training, and I can suggest books about this. But if you are drawing blanks all the time, better consult a doctor.

A Recipe for Beef and Kidney Pie

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have a new freezer and want to freeze meat pies. My British-born husband wants beef and kidney. (I can buy individual tin pie pans for 2 for 29 cents) Could you give a recipe for making beef and kidney pies I could freeze? — Enid O.

ANSWER: Your request is a good one.

BEEF AND KIDNEY PIE

(will freeze; may be made into individual pies)

1 lb. stewing beef
½ lb. kidney
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup onion, chopped
cold water

Remove fat from kidney and cut into half-inch pieces. Soak in cold water half hour. Drain and dry. With sharp knife remove all fat and gristle from beef and cut into ½" or ¾" cubes. In a saucepan combine both meats and add salt, pepper and onion. Add cold water to cover and simmer covered 2 hours. Drain broth into another saucepan. Stir together 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons corn starch and one-third cup cold water until smooth then stir in hot broth over heat until thick. Return meat to broth and cool.

Make your very finest plain pastry (3 cups flour, 1 cup shortening, one-third cup butter, 1½ teaspoons salt, about 6 tablespoons cold water) and line one 9" pie plate and two 3½" individual pie plates with it. Spoon in meat filling. Cover all with gashed top crusts and seal and crimp edges. Brush tops with glaze made by beating together 1 egg and 1 tablespoon water. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. 10 minutes then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. and bake until filling bubbles a little through gashes. Nine-inch pie requires about 40 minutes in all. Individual pies require about 30 minutes in all. They are ready to eat now and are lovely with chili sauce.

NOTES: 1) If you freeze these pies, freezerwrap in pans and freeze hard. Remove from pans and re-freezerwrap and store in freezer. 2) Obviously this beef and kidney pie recipe may be made up into individual pies; 3) To serve frozen pies return to pans, and reheat in oven at 300 deg. Fahr. until hot.

4) The little tin pans are a great convenience for cooks who have members in their families on irregular shifts or hours. They are a boon to doctors' wives.

Mother Discovers Son Is Taking Pep Pills

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One hears so much about drugs and pills and pot these days it is frightening. I'm writing about my 16-year-old college son. I respect his privacy. I don't snoop in his belongings and I don't ask too many questions. But I always go through his trouser pockets and turn them inside out before tossing them into the washer.

Yesterday I came across two little green and white capsules. I had no idea what they were so I asked him. He said, "Oh, those are for when I have to cram for an exam. They help me stay awake." I asked if he got them from a doctor and he laughed. "All the kids get these pills from students whose dads are doctors or mothers are nurses. Free samples, I guess."

When he saw I was concerned he assured me that the pills are harmless and said, "Don't worry!" I am worried, however, and am asking you to tell me what you know about these pills. — EASTERN MOM.

DEAR MOM: The green and white capsules could be one of a number of things and I hesitate to guess, but they sound like pep pills. This is one of the amphetamines (good balls) and they can wreck the central nervous system and cause convulsions if taken in excess. Tell your son to leave them alone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a stenographer who is employed by a firm of lawyers. Several months ago the firm paid the expenses involved in my becoming a notary public.

Everyone of my employers has, at one time or another, asked me to notarize signatures which were affixed to documents when I was not present. This always bothers me but I have been told "it's not important. It's only a technicality . . ."

Today the senior partner asked me to notarize his son's signature. The young man has been out of the city for several days and it would not have been possible for him to have signed it. His name was put on by someone else. It was only an automobile license application, but all the same I felt guilty.

I shall be unfavorable and I am becoming extremely uncomfortable about these occurrences. Any suggestions? — INDIANAPOLIS.

DEAR IN: Tell your bosses that from now on you refuse to notarize a document unless you are present at the signing. You may be canned, but a girl with such sterling character should have no trouble getting another job if her ability matches her integrity.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is a lovely woman, 66 years of age, and she has terminal cancer. She knows of her condition but she is cheerful and non-complaining. The doctors tell us she has six months at most and all we can do is keep her comfortable.

A neighbor who was always a gossip and a troublemaker has told several friends and relatives that mother has the kind of cancer that is contagious. For this reason she has had very few visitors. I've telephoned some of these people and tried to explain that this is untrue, but when fear takes over, logic flies out the window. Please say something on this subject. — GRIEVING DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: No physician with whom I have talked knows of a single case of cancer which resulted from contagion. A person who would not visit your mother for this reason displays abysmal ignorance.

Group to Visit Japan

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States has recruited the consumer-conscious wife to help it maintain and, if possible, expand the $1,100,000,000 slice of American farm trade with Japan and Formosa.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, in announcing the make-up of a 60-member trade delegation he will lead eastward, said some wives will go along to establish a "new dimension" of relations at the consumer level.

The mission, to include 20 state governors, members of Congress and others, will be the largest trade group ever sent by the U.S. to the Far East.

Freeman said it reflects growing recognition in the farm-product sector from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, Argentina, China and South Africa, and "we have no choice but to intensify our own sales efforts."

There has been some critical sniping about the size of the group as it time when the U.S. economy is heavily burdened and President Johnson has appealed for a two-year moratorium on non-essential travel outside the Western Hemisphere.

The distaff side, says the agriculture department, "will meet with consumer representatives, food editors and women's organization leaders, will appear on daytime home-and-family-television shows that are increasingly popular in Japan and will take part in the opening of American food promotion in some of Tokyo's largest department stores."

"They will travel in the mission's chartered plane without charge but will pay for their own meals, hotel expenses and other personal costs," says Freeman.

So much for any sniping about "junketeering" at government expense, a pastime that some members of Congress have turned into a science.

Japan and Formosa are vital outlets for U.S. farm exports because they pay cash, buy a lot and buy in steadily-rising volumes. Japan is the largest cash customer for farm items the U.S. has.

Commons Veers From Tax Bill to Debate Monetary Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — The impact of the international monetary crisis hit the Common Thursday night, overshadowing what had become a repetitive debate on a federal tax bill.

"I'm 6 and I remember another Thursday in 1929 as if it was yesterday morning," Ralph Cowan (L—York-Humber), said later, reflecting the mood of many MPs.

He was referring to Oct. 29, 1929, forever stamped as Black Thursday, the day the stock market crashed, spinning the world into economic depression.

The current crisis was expected to take centre stage in the House again today although the subject of business is to be third reading of the tax bill.

It passed committee stage Thursday night but its four clauses were hardly referred to as speakers debated the international situation and its mysteries.

Nevertheless, opposition to the three-per-cent surtax on personal and corporate income taxes was registered in a vote that went 110 to 84 for the new levy.

Voting for the clause were 109 Liberal and J. A. Mongrain (Ind.—Trois-Rivieres).

The two Social Credi MPs in the Commons abstained from the standing vote, while Conservatives, New Democrats and Creditistes opposed the taxes.

The bill is the grandchild of one defeated Feb. 19 on third reading. It would have imposed a five-per-cent surtax on personal income taxes only.

A second bill had to be withdrawn because some of its clauses were repetitive, violating a parliamentary rule that the same measure can't be dealt with twice in the same session.

Thus the Commons has been debating basically the same issue for about a month, off and on.

However, attention Thursday was fixed on the international situation rather than the tax clauses.

NDP Leader Douglas said people were watching the situation "like a mesmerized rabbit watching the snake getting closer and closer."

The problem was that supplies of major currencies to finance world trade were shrinking.

Mr. Douglas asked Finance Minister Sharp what the prospects were for a fast agreement by the International Monetary Fund, set up after the Second World War to prevent another depression similar to that of the 1930s, on a new unit of international exchange.

Mr. Sharp said finance ministers from major countries had been working at Rio de Janeiro last year on a new type of reserve unit.

A system of special drawing rights had been approved with the understanding it wouldn't be used except in case of need and that the U.S. would not use it to solve its balance-of-payments problem.

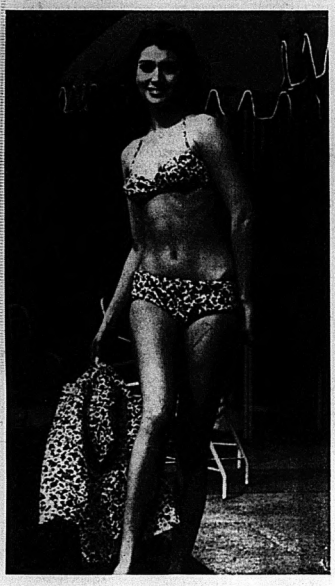
Canada had acted well in adopting new taxes to keep its finances in good order, he said. The U.S. was in trouble because it had not done this.

He said if the government were to take over the plant and operate it, the problems would be enormous because a new staff would have to be hired and trained.

Beyond that, the Crown corporation would be faced with trying to sell a high-priced product in competition with refineries which rely on low-cost cane sugar.

Mr. Stewart said it was obvious that the provincial sugar beet industry is "quite dependent on subsidization" in that federal subsidies last year accounted for 53 cents of every dollar earned by the sugar beet farmers.

Mr. Sharp defended the international financial system against Creditiste and Social Credit attack, saying it hilt made possible a period of prosperity unrivalled in history.



Canada's view now was that new kinds of international reserves should be brought into play and it was regretable discussions along these lines had not already resulted in international agreement.

There wouldn't be a crisis now if this agreement had been reached, Mr. Sharp said.

After David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) had stated his party's position against the new taxes, Mr. Sharp told the House of the developments and asked for rapid handling of the bill so he could discuss with officials Canada's reaction to the foreign moves.

When the vote was taken, the bill passed its committee stage, and Mr. Sharp was able to leave the chamber.

He returned just before adjournement to announce that he was asking banks and gold dealers in Canada not to sell gold today in line with the bank holiday in Britain, and also to tell MPs that the Bank of Canada had increased its bank rate to 7½ per cent from 7 per cent.

Ontario Won't Operate Sugar Beet Refinery

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister William Stewart Thursday told the legislature the government had decided against a "forceful take-over" of Ontario's only sugar beet refinery which closed Feb. 29.

He said if the government took over the operation of the Canada and Dominion Sugar Co. Ltd. plant in Chatham, "we would be assuming the operation of a plant that needs an estimated $1,000,000 worth of repairs . . ."

Under the terms of expropriation the government would also be expected to pay a fair market value for the facilities, estimated by the plant to be about $20,000,000.

Mr. Stewart said Tate and Lyle Co. of London, England, owners of the plant, have refused to sell, rent or lease the plant to anyone or resume operations under any circumstances.

The decision to close the plant was apparently part of an overall policy to consolidate operations and concentrate on processing cane sugar, he said.

"We object very strongly to the fact that even a boardroom decision, apparently influenced by the policy of the parent company in Britain, should deprive this province of an industry and a source of revenue and income for many Canadians."

The minister said federal officials have assured the province there is such a diversity of supply sources for cane sugar throughout the world that there is no concern about the adequacy of future supplies of raw sugar without a domestic industry.

He said the government feels a forceful take-over of the plant would be a "misuse of public funds and the establishment of a precedent that could see this government faced with the wholesale take-over of a multiplicity of industries and businesses which are rightfully the responsibility of private enterprise."

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon said he was "appalled at the chicken-hearted reaction of the government" to the company's closure decision.

He asked Mr. Stewart what provisions the government was making for farmers who had invested heavily in equipment for beet-growing.

The minister replied that the farmers had every opportunity of changing to other crops but agreed they would stand to make less money.

ARDA

PACING PROGRESS...

No Canadian should remain indifferent to the fact that there is, in this country, a program whose objective is to promote progress in disadvantaged rural areas.

ARDA is a joint Federal-Provincial program and its goals are to increase income and employment opportunities of rural people and increase the efficient use of rural lands.

In order to achieve these objectives, ARDA is using various means:

— In Ontario, for example, major emphasis is being directed to the farm enlargement program and to the counselling, training and mobility programs which are applicable to the entire rural population.

— The problem in Ontario resolves itself into the improved utilization of both human and natural resources. Our changing technology almost dictates that society will be increasingly urbanized. ARDA in Ontario can and is assisting in the many facets of relocating rural people in urban centers, while at the same time and wherever possible the land resources of the rural areas are being developed and brought into improved productivity to better serve the rural population.

In brief, social and economic development for rural people and optimum utilization of natural resources are the two concepts inspiring ARDA.

PROFESSOR MUSHMOUTH GOES TO SCHOOL

"Attention, kiddies, today's topic will be comedy in sport. You may select any subject from chesterfield rugby to tiddly-winks.

"First of all, Miss Jones will you adjust your mini-skirt Your appendectomy scar is showing.

"Mr. Smith will you kindly put on a T-shirt. Topless students are not permitted. Besides a couple of caterpillars just dropped out of your hirsute hra.

"Charlie Brown there's no point in advertising the fact you had an egg for breakfast. Please remove the evidence from your beard and the sideburns from your ears. You can bear better.

"Esther Klutzbaum, are you facing the teacher or the door .Part your hair near the chin, and remove the ends from your safety belt. This is a class-room, not a judging session for shepherd dogs.

"Willie MacTavish, uncross your legs. Your kilt is flirting with your umbilicus. This is not a fashion display for tartan shorts.

Michael O'Moriarty, remove that flagon of Irish Mist from you hip — and stop humming "Oh, How I'll Miss You on St. Patrick's Day."

"Geoffrey Fitzhugh Cholmondely, your silk turtle-neck and disney jacket is out of place in a classroom. Even Princess Meg's "Tony" knows better. And put away that treatise on "The Rhodents of Rhodesia."

"Maggay McGuire, your shoulder holster is painfully apparent. I don't care if your old man did survive the St. Valentine's Day massacre, we don't need any hot rods around here. Park your cannon with Mr. Harradan Miss Ursula Schlakelaitz. She's past ninety but still the quickest draw west of the Zwick's Island Pecos.

"Olive Lollimartini, will you please desist from taking those deep breaths. You're distracting the male students who expect mountaintop climbing by business on your blouse to flip-flu lid. You're busting the morale of the class.

"And you, Pedro El Toro, pay attention to the desk. I can't see the point in your quoting and requoting that cigaret commercial, "It up front that counts."

"Sing Food Hi, I don't care what your honorable ancestors and present next-of-kin think of the Russians. You must refrain from glorifing at Igor Whatsanisky and quoting the Duke of Wellington "Up and Atom, Boys."

"As for you, Igor, please put away that toy submarine. Your Korean class-mate Fun This is liable to commandeer it and rename it the "Pueblo."

"And I want your attention Sayonara Hiroshima. You must stop going around stamping "Made in Japan" on loose articles. It is bad enough as it is but when you stamped Moriarity's Irish stew. McTavish's bagpis and Lollimartini's ravioli, well, that's plain ridiculous.

"Abou Ben Akbar, I must request you to refrain from placing those pictures of Nasser on Esther Klitzbaum's desk. That's no way to get dates for Arabian Nights, you're just heading for a big sheik-up.

"And now, kiddies, that we're all set, let's get on with the classwork.

"I'm afraid we'll only have time for one question ,so here it is:

"What recently caused the loudest guffaw ever launched by fans of the National Hockey League clubs?

CHORUS: — "The statement by Smythe and Ballard of the Maple Leafs gilded front office cage. They turned down the Vancouver franchise bid because it's offering sponsor was a brewery and they didn't want "hockey to be used by whisky and beer just to sell the products."

"Whatiaeli has the sponsor of the Montreal Canadiens been selling all these years? Head Lodine? And didn't that Detroit offer of a million for Frank Mahovlich come after the fourth round of highballs?

"Who (hic) is hidding whom (hic)?

"That's all, kiddies. Class dismissed and don't forget to buy one or more tickets for the "Minnie Menard Night."

Third Zero In Row Eludes Gumper

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The game must go on, the only question is where.

This is the big problem confronting two of the National Hockey League's six expansion teams.

Oakland Seals, last in the NHL's expanded Western Division, would like to move to Vancouver, but they may have trouble at an NHL governors meeting in New York March 19.

Philadelphia Flyers would prefer remaining where they are, but they've been in political exile the last three weeks while city officials use the wind-damaged Spectrum to enhance their political futures.

Moving to Vancouver is the key to a tentative takeover of the financially-plagued Seals by Labatt, Breweries of Canada Ltd. announced Thursday, but both Los Angeles Kings and Toronto Maple Leafs spokesmen have displeasure at the change of venue.

Montreal Canadiens also aren't happy about the idea. Sidney Solomon III of St. Louis Blues says he'll go along with whatever is best for the league, but he'd rather see the franchise remain in the San Francisco-Oakland area.

That's four of the 12 league teams and all it needs is three to kill the move under NHL rules.

The Flyers, however, have an entirely different reason to move. They are division leaders with a popular Philadelphia following—but no home.

High winds put holes in the roof of the $12,000,000 building for the second time in two weeks March 1 and Philadelphia civic officials closed the place down for repairs and investigation.

The repairs have been completed, but the investigation into responsibility continues.

Thursday the Flyers settled for a scoreless tie with Los Angeles, their closest rivals in division standings, while Montreal Canadiens were asserting their first-place Eastern lead over New York Rangers 3-1.

The Rangers and Boston Bruins are tied in second place in the East, eight points behind the Canadiens.

The only game tonight has Oakland at St. Louis.

Heroes of the Philadelphia-St. Louis clash, played in Quebec City's Coliseum before a scant crowd of 4,116, were the goalies.

Bernie Parent handled 32 Los Angeles shots without fault for his fourth shutout of the season, Terry Sawchuk, equally brilliant, preserved his second shutout of the season with 20 saves.

In Montreal, Claude Provost, Jacques Lemaire and John Ferguson scored for the Canadiens.

Orland Kurtenbach's goal at 7:41 of the third period ruined Montreal goalie Lorne Worsley's bid for three consecutive shutouts and ended his scoreless streak at 195 minutes and 28 seconds.

While the Oakland purchase appears to rest now with the NHL governors, the Philadelphia problem is only getting worse for the Flyers, president Bill Putnam and the NHL.

Putnam said Thursday if the situation isn't resolved soon, the club will have to start looking for a permanent new home. He got support from NHL president Clarence Campbell.

Petes Defeat Flyers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Niagara Falls Flyers will be happy to return to the friendly confines of their own rink tonight—and who can blame them?

Peterborough Petes scored three times in the third period Thursday in Peterborough to down the Flyers 5-3 and even their best-of-seven, quarter-final series at one game each.

To make matters worse, Niagara Falls behind the Niagara Falls bench started a fight after the game and the Flyers were delayed in leaving the ice.

In the only other game Thursday, Hamilton Red Wings won the opener of their best-of-seven, quarter-final series by thumping London Nationals 7-1.

Labatt; "This One Is On The House"!

VANCOUVER (CP) — Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. announced Thursday it has bought a National Hockey League franchise for Vancouver, but it may be at least two months before anybody knows if the team will ever play here.

The board of governors of the NHL would have to approve the transfer of Oakland Seals to Vancouver, and league president Clarence Campbell has said no action can be taken before May 15.

That's the deadline the NHL imposed on the Seals to repay about $700,000 they borrowed to meet expenses.

The Labatt purchase of the Oakland franchise is conditional upon the league governors approving a transfer to Vancouver, said N. E. Hardy, Labatt's president.

This would require approval of at least nine of the 12 governors. Toronto and Los Angeles have said they are against the franchise shift.

Hardy said the Labatt-Vancouver application will be made to the governors "at a mutually suitable time." He said the application will not be made at a governors' meeting scheduled for Tuesday in New York.

Asked how much money was involved in the purchase of the Seals, Hardy said that initially it was "several hundreds of thousands" but eventually would be "several millions."

Basically, he said, the deal calls for Labatt to provide the Oakland club with the money to repay the loan to the NHL.

An earlier bid by Vancouver to place an NHL expansion club in the city's new $6,000,000 Pacific Coliseum was rejected.

Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League lease the 15,000-seat Coliseum, but do not hold exclusive hockey rights.

Hardy said the present Oakland owners would continue to be part of the club in Vancouver, and the businessmen who own the WHL Canucks would be invited to participate.

Strongest objection to the proposed Oakland-Vancouver shift has come from Stafford Smythe and Harold Ballard, directors of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Smythe, who offered several years ago to get an NHL franchise for Vancouver if the city donated land for an arena he would build, said the proposed deal "won't even get 10 per cent approval."

Ballard said: "I don't want to see hockey used by beer and whisky people."

Soviets Blast Brundage

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper today accused Avery Brundage, International Olympic Committee president, of being against underdeveloped countries and opposing "everything new and progressive in world sport."

In a lengthy bitter attack that challenged Brundage's personal integrity, the newspaper also accused him of being against Communist countries.

"You are proud of the fact that you profess to be non-political in sports. But we can say frankly that nobody believes it," said the article in Komsomolskaya Pravda, the newspaper of the Soviet Young Communist League.

"One could refer to many examples when your non-political attitude was clearly expressed against everything new and progressive in the world sport, against undeveloped countries and against Socialist (Communist) countries," the article said.

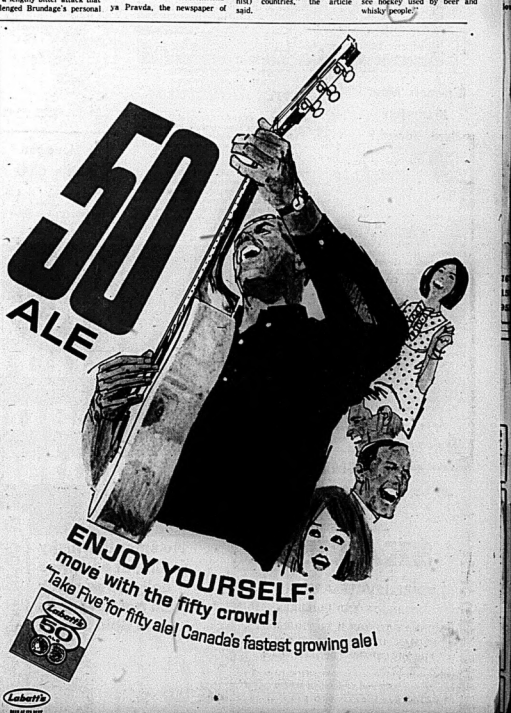
NHL Scoring

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert missed a golden opportunity Thursday to gain a step in the National Hockey League scoring race.

The New York Rangers high-scoring pair were shut out when Montreal Canadiens clipped their club 3-1 while Philadelphia Flyers and Los Angeles Kings were playing to a scoreless tie in Quebec City.



Ratelle, second in scoring behind Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks with 75 points on 30 goals and 45 assists, has been held off the scoresheet now for three straight games. Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins also has 75 points, on 31 goals and 44 assists. Gilbert, with 74 points on held without a point through the last four games.

Mikita has 79 points on 38 goals and 41 assists while team-mate Bobby Hull leads in goals with 43 to go with his 30 assists for 73 points and fifth place in the scoring race.

The 45 assists by Ratelle and Gilbert lead the league in that department.

Shack, Zeidel

Brawl Not Caused By Anti-Semitic Abuse

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, agreed Thursday with a statement by Edward Snider, chairman of the board of the Philadelphia Flyers, that a stick-swinging duel involving Flyer defenceman Larry Zeidel was not the result of anti-Semitic abuse by opposing team members.

The fight, between Zeidel and Eddie Shack of Boston Bruins, occurred March 7 in Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto during an NHL game between the two clubs. Both players were ejected from the game and fined $300 each with Campbell suspending Shack for three games and Zeidel for four.

Snider, who is Jewish, said that after an investigation of charges by Zeidel, 28, that he was the object of anti-Semitic remarks from Boston players on the bench, it was concluded that the fight was triggered by "rough, hard-hitting hockey play" and not by anti-Semitic comments.

However, the Canadian Jewish Congress Thursday called on Campbell to investigate fully the Zeidel charges.

Meanwhile, two fans who attended the game, Mary Patterson and Mike Meade, sent telegrams to the NHL president relating anti-Semitic remarks they said they overhead while sitting near the Boston bench.

Miss Patterson said in her telegram "the remarks were uncalled for and disgusting."

"When they were putting Zeidel off the ice, he was called over and over again '. . . Jewish . . .'"

She blamed the Boston players.

Meade said he was sitting with his wife in seats near the ice.

"After the fight, involving Zeidel, I heard one Boston player shout to him 'you Jewish . . . you Jewish . . .'"

In his telegram Meade named the player and the obscenities used.

Snider said that as far as he was concerned, the Zeidel-Shack case is closed.

"It appears that in the-heat of battle during an important game, Larry might have struck the first blow," Snider said.

"Shack had nothing to do with any vicious name-calling and reports of competitive baiting were blown far out of proportion," Snider added.

Shack himself said after the fight that it had been the renewal of an old feud between the two.

National Baseball Championship

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP) — The second national basketball championship to be held in Nova Scotia in a week opens here tonight with four teams competing for the Canadian senior men's title.

Quinte Basketball League

Teachers Win Championship

Led by their scoring ace Bruce Faulds, the Belleville Teachers captured the Quinte Basketball League championship from Cobourg in a hard-fought best-of-three finals series.

The series went the three-games limit, Teachers taking the first game 79-60, Cobourg the second by a 72-55 score with the Teachers wrapping up the title with a third-game 69-59 victory.

The champions led the league throughout the schedule finishing with a 9-3 record. They were chased to the wire by Cobourg with an 8-4 mark. Then came CFB, Trenton with 5-7 and the Belleville Lightfoots bringing up the rear with two wins and 10 defeats.

In the final tussle the Teachers took an early lead and never looked backwards.

Cobourg fought hard to cut the lead but the Teachers playing championship basketball drew ahead to take a 20 points lead at the end of the third quarter.

The losers staged a fourth-quarter rally cutting the Teachers margin down to ten points, but it was too little and too late.

Bruce Faulds paced the Teachers attack with 18 points with Bill Latchford hooping 17. Nelson Banting, playing his best game of the season, was good for 13 points.

The top scorer for Cobourg was A. Young who netted 15 points. Dennis Clarke accounted for an even dozen with Bill Scribe putting ten points.

Teachers turned the Belleville Lightfoots 136-119 in the two-games total-points semi-finals. At that the Lightfoots took one game by a single-point margin. Cobourg outscored CFB in their series.

The teams paid tribute to those who organized the league and conducted its operations in a highly successful season.

Nag Downs Stout, Grins Ready to Race

ASHBOURNE, Ireland (AP) — Arkle, Ireland's wonder horse, downed his pint of stout Thursday, flashed a toothy grin and announced by a twitch of his ears that all was well.

This was Arkle's way of celebrating renewed acquaintance with Pat Taaffe, a horse and jockey partnership which the Irish say is the greatest in racing history.

It was, furthermore, for both horse and rider the culmination of a long fight back from injury.

Novices Win Zone Title

Belleville's Novice club wrapped up the OMHA Zone 4 Group 5 championship last night with a 3-0 victory over Napanee.

Brent Babcock was in the Belleville nets to record the shutout. Eric Powell, Mike Meeker and Tony Meagher scored the Belleville goals. Eddie Grills and Larry Waite each picked up an assist.

The Belleville team took the best-of-seven series in two games straight, and now go on to the Napanee tournament on Saturday. The first opponent there will be Cobourg.

Two Rinks Roadblock Saskatchewan's Bid For Clean Sweep

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Two eastern rinks are all that lie between Saskatchewan and a perfect record in the Canadian mixed curling championship.

Defending champion Larry McGrath, a 28-year-old farmer from Kindersley, Sask., added his eighth straight victory when he took Northern Ontario's Bill Tetley of Port Arthur 8-5 in nine ends Thursday.

Tetley, who finished the 1968 mixed in second place, was considered the last rink in the 11-team round-robin competition likely to get Saskatchewan's number.

"There's no way," Tetley said after the game. "He's pretty deadly—it's going to be 10 and zip."

Newfoundland's Frank Sieni of St. John's was to play Saskatchewan in the ninth round at 12 noon CST, today. Nova Scotia plays him Saturday.

McGrath left Tetley with a straight draw for two in the eighth end of the game. It would have put Northern Ontario ahead 7-6, but Tetley blew his shot through the house and counted one.

In the ninth McGrath drew to the button. Tetley was light on his take out and McGrath drew the four foot to count two and take the game.

The loss left Northern Ontario and Edward Stochinsky of Edmonton tied in second spot with five wins and two losses. Vern Becker of Kimberley, B.C. has four wins in seven games and Peter Connell of Arnprior, Ont., has four in eight.

Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown, Earl Carson of Bagotville, Que., and Newfoundland have three wins and four losses. Cliff Robertson of Halifax is 2-5, Jim Hedgson of Roland, Man., is 2-6 and Fred Fraser of Moncton, N.B., has one win in seven starts.

Northern Ontario and Alberta were to battle for second place in the ninth round today. In other games, it was to be Ontario vs Quebec, Prince Edward Island vs British Columbia and New Brunswick vs Nova Scotia. Manitoba had the bye.

Jim Hodgson, a two-game winner Thursday after six losses, said: "We had real good games, we just didn't win them."

In the eighth-round game against Nova Scotia, Manitoba got three in the fifth end, stole three in the sixth, two in the seventh and won it 11-3 in eight ends.

"It was too easy, those poor fellows were just having a bad time," Hodgson said.

Earlier Hodgson defeated Quebec after blowing an 8-5 ninth-end lead. Manitoba was forced into an extra end and squeaked out a 9-8 first.

Ontario downed P.E.I. 10-8 in the eighth round after taking four in the second end and stealing three in the sixth.

Newfoundland downed New Brunswick 10-6; British Columbia had to fight for two in the 10th end to defeat Quebec 8-7.

In the seventh round it was B.C. over Alberta 10-9, Saskatchewan beat N.B. 8-4, Ontario over Newfoundland 10-5 and Northern Ontario over N.S. 6-3.

Aluminum Stars will go to the barrier against Stinson Construction for the Quinte Hockey League championship.

The Stars took 4-3 overtime thriller from Grant's Realty in the eighth game of the semi-final series last night in a battle that could have gone either way.

The Stars grabbed a goal-lead in the first period but Grants raced back to lead 2-1 at period end.

The Stars duplicated the feat in the second frame scoring twice against one to even the count.

Yaz Goes Hitless

Chisox Shift Spikes Bosox Big Gun

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As a triple crown winner, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston Red Sox can, expect a pretty good going over by American League rivals this year.

He got a hint of things to come early this week in an exhibition game against Chicago White Sox.

Chicago manager Eddie Stanky came up with a defense familiar to older fans—a shift designed by Lou Boudreau to stop Hall of Famer Ted Williams 20 years ago.

The White Sox stationed their second baseman deep and toward the right-field line, the shortstop moved 20 feet to the right of second and the third baseman shaded the vacated hole at short.

Like Williams, Yaz accepted the challenge—and went out three times.

The league's most valuable player—after batting .326 with 44 homers and 121 RBI in 1967 —is off to a slow exhibition start. But nobody is concerned.

Thursday the Red Sox broke a three-game losing streak with a 7-1 triumph over the White Sox. Yastrzemski had one hit, but the big blow was Rico Petrocelli's two-run single. Dick Ellsworth pitched effectively for five innings.

Glenn Beckert, Billy Williams and Lou Johnson each drove in a run in a Chicago sixth-inning rally and the Cubs beat California Angels 6-4.

Chico Salmon's single in the last of the ninth capped a struggle by Cleveland Indians, driving in the winning run in a 9-8 triumph over San Francisco Giants.

Jack Aker's low throw in the eighth inning let Aaron Pointer in with a run in Houston Astros 1-0 victory over Oakland Athletics. Willie Davis drove in runs with a double and a single as Los Angeles Dodgers beat Detroit Tigers 5-0.

Hank Aaron's two-run double was one of- 22 hits by Atlanta Braves and New York Yankees as the Braves won 7-3. St. Louis Cardinals beat Minnesota Twins 7-4. Lou Brock tripling in two runs.

Philadelphia Phillies won their third straight shutout game, 2-0 over New York Mets, behind the pitching of Larry Jackson, Gary Wagner and Bill Wilson.

Baltimore Orioles got five home runs and crushed Washington Senators 11-2. Pitcher Jim Palmer had two homers and Brooks Robinson, Frank Robinson and Elrod Hendricks each had one.

Nicklaus At Citrus

Blames Bad Driving For Mere 67!

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Challengers in the Citrus Open golf tournament may scoff, but Jack Nicklaus is having trouble with his driver.

"I'm not hooking or slicing, I'm just striking the ball off the wrong way," said Nicklaus. "I got a new driver before last week's Doral Open, and I haven't found out how to direct it yet."

Nicklaus still managed to take a share of the lead into today's second round after shooting a 67 to tie Miller Barber in Thursday's opener.

"My driving was very bad," Nicklaus said. "I hit the ball off trees and people and everything."

Nicklaus said he wasn't complaining, however, "because it is silly to say how bad I drove it and how many putts I missed and still come in with a 67."

The 28-year-old winner of more than 25 tournaments needed all the help he could get because Barber uncorked what he called "my finest round in a long, long time."

Barber tied Nicklaus' score and 41 other players broke par as the flashy field started scrambling for the $25,000 first prize payoff.

George Knudson of Toronto and Winnipeg, along with Arnold Palmer, was four strokes off the pace with an opening round 71.

The fast finish by Nicklaus and Barber before dusk broke open one of the biggest logjams of the year. Five players were deadlocked for the lead at 68 before they were bumped out.

Southpaw Bob Charles of New Zealand and Bruce Devlin of Australia used sharp putting to get four strokes off par and with little Deane Beman, Tom Weiskopf and surprising Don Massengale.

Centennial Umpires Hold Annual Meet

The Centennial Umpires' Association held its annual meeting this week and named its executive body for the approaching 1968 ball season.

Jack Belmont, of Trenton, is the president and Mike Whalen, Point Anne, is vice-president. Dennis Labarbe is the secretary - treasurer and Don Dalrymple, Belleville is executive at large.

Tom Hulme, Belleville, was nominated umpire-in-chief. He was unable to attend the meeting and his acceptance of the position is yet to be confirmed. Lloyd Lobb, Trenton, is assistant umpire-in-chief.

The next meeting of the association is scheduled for the Trenton Fire Hall, at 8 p.m., on April 16. New members have been invited.

It was confirmed at the meeting that an OASA - sponsored umpires' clinic, also open to all district managers, coaches and players, will be held at the Belleville Recreation Centre on Sunday, April 28.

Fishing Licences Not Needed in '68

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario fishing licences, announced in the budget speech last Tuesday, will not be required until next Jan. 1, Forestry Minister Rene Brunelle said Thursday.

He told the legislature's committee on natural resources legislation establishing the licences will not be completed until briefs from all interested organizations have been considered.

The committee heard complaints from several organizations about the 17-year age limit for the $3 residential licence, the size of the fee, failure to grant some exemptions and proposals for changes in non-resident licences.

Mr. Brunelle said his department wants the resident licence age limit to be 19 instead of 17, but hopes the change will be made.

He defended, however, the government proposal for a single residential licence instead of different kinds for individuals and groups.

The non-resident annual licence fee will be increased from the present $6.50, but a final figure has not been determined, Mr. Brunelle said.

He said it probably will be no less than $8.50 and may be higher.

Operators protested Mr. Brunelle's statement that the non-resident three-day fishing permit, sold at a cheaper rate, is to be eliminated.

Tourist operators in the Algonquin Park area also took exception to Mr. Brunelle's statement that the $3 resident licence would permit fishing in the park without an additional fee. No additional fee is charged those holding non-resident licences.

A special resident licence costing $3.25 now is required for park fishing.

Increases in gun and game licence fees will be effective in September.

Fishing and hunting cannot survive in Ontario as the population grows unless the programs are improved, Mr. Brunelle said.

It is government policy that revenue from licence fees and taxes go into general revenues, he said, and there is little chance the money raised from hunting and fishing licences will be reserved for conservation purposes.

Sunday School Lesson

God--'Out There' and 'In Here'

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

In 1963, Bishop J.A.T. Robinson of England dropped a bomb on the Christian world by publishing a controversial book entitled, "Honest to God." In this widely-discussed book, the Bishop complained that too many people think of God as Someone who is only "out there." That is, they think of God as being out in the universe somewhere, but do not see Him at work in human events, or as being related to what is now called the "nitty-gritty" of everyday living.

The answer to the "God out there" idea, is what the Bible teaches about God's Spirit, usually referred to as the Holy Spirit. The Bible does teach that God is "out there." (Psalm 139: 7-10) There is no place in the entire universe where a person can go and hide from God. But He is also "in here." By faith people can experience the intimate presence of God's Spirit in their everyday lives.

Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen says that belief in the Holy Spirit can be the most "exciting, enlarging, and enriching" element in a person's faith. In God, the Father, he says, we see manifested the ultimacy of God; in God, the Son, we see revealed the character of God; but in God, the Holy Spirit, we experience the intimacy of God.

This is something of what Christians mean when they talk about the Trinity. For many people this is a confusing idea. A Muslim said to some Christian friends who were talking about the Trinity, "Make up your mind. Do you believe in one God, or three?"

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 17: "The Promise of the Spirit," John 14.

Perhaps an analogy will help. Water exists in three forms: liquid, solid, and vapor. In each of its forms it does for us what it does not do in its other forms. As liquid it quenches our thirst, and cleans our body. As ice it helps to preserve our food. As steam it heats our houses. But it is all water.

So it is with God according to Christian faith. As the Father, He creates us. Through Christ, the Son, He reached out to redeem us. Through His Holy Spirit, He guides and sustains us. But it is all God.

Or put it another way, as God, the Father, He is "out there" in His universe. As God, the Son, He was "back there" in the life of Jesus, just as He was "back there" when He enabled the Israelites to escape from slavery in Egypt. As God, the Holy Spirit, He is "in here," in the hearts and lives of all who believe in Him.

Jesus promised the presence of God's Spirit. (John 14:16) The Greek word has been translated "Comforter" (KJV), "Counselor": (RSV), "Advocate" (NEB). It means literally, "One who is called alongside." So J. B. Phillips translates it "Someone else to stand beside you."

A person is never alone. If he has faith to perceive it, God's Spirit is always with him. This means being accompanied by an unseen Person. For God's Spirit is never referred to as "which" but always as "whom." (John 14:17) People must not think of God's Spirit as "It," but as "He." For the spirit of God feels as a person feels. Paul says God's spirit can be "grieved" by human misconduct. (Ephesians 4:30) He also says God's Spirit prays for us with "sighs too deep for words." (Romans 8:26 RSV) If a person thinks of God's Spirit as "It," he is tempted to ask, "How can I lay hold of, and use It?" But if he thinks of God's Spirit as "He," then his question becomes, "How can I relate myself to Him?" "How does He want to lay hold of and use me?"

God's Spirit reflects the Spirit of Christ. In fact, the New Testament says they are the same. There are two words in Greek that mean "another." One means "another of the same kind." The other means "another of a different kind." The first word is used in John 14:16 to express Jesus' meaning when He said "I will pray the Father, and He will give you another Counselor."(RSV) In other words, the same love the disciples saw in Jesus, people can now know through God's loving Spirit. As Jesus led the disciples, so God continues to lead those who trust Him by the indwelling presence of His Spirit. The promises Jesus made, God fulfills by the power of His Spirit. By His presence, He empowers people to live a Christian life in a hostile world.

Public School Board Members to Attend Meet

DESERONTO — Three members of the Deseronto Public School board will attend a meeting of public school trustees of Hastings and Prince Edward at Harry J. Clarke School, Belleville, tonight, where the question of teachers' salaries for next year will be discussed.

Deseronto has not yet come to an agreement with its teachers on this question.

Donald Reid, chairman of the Board, Mrs. Diane Sergeant, chairman of the management committee, and George Loess, a committee member, will find out what the thinking is of other boards on this question. Negotiations will be resumed later with the staff members.

Paul Anderson, area superintendent of schools, informed the board that the grant for 1963 is to be $97,000, approximately $7,000 up from last year.

The board decided to raise to $195 the monthly rental which it is paying St. Mark's Anglican church for the privilege of using its hall as a classroom. The rental agreed on was $150, but the adjustment was felt necessary because of the increased fuel bills to the church. John Glenn, church warden, had approached the board on the matter and it was investigating and had been asked to submit a stated figure at the March meeting.

Three merchants had been asked to submit tenders for school supplies, but none had been received, secretary-treasurer Mrs. Shirley Penrose reported. The board now feels free to purchase its supplies wherever they can be bought to the best advantage.

Looking ahead to the day when there will be only one board for each county, the Deseronto board instructed its secretary to write the area school superintendent regarding expenses for representatives attending meetings of committees planning the new set-up.

Principal Ronald Unns requested several items of equipment, but as approval for the addition has not yet been obtained from the Ontario municipal Board, most of his requests were shelved until the board is sure of the future of the school.

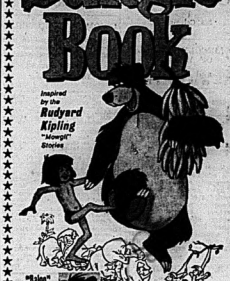
Reports Given At Red Cross Meeting

DESERONTO — At the February meeting of the Deseronto branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, the date for the next blood donor clinic was announced. Mrs. Don Dawson will head a committee which will canvass for donors for the clinic to be held in Napanee April 15. They assist in every possible way the day of the clinic, also.

Mrs. J. Kay Hood, the new chairman of the card committee, reported that she had already sent out 80 cards this year, including those for St. Valentine's Day.

Plans for the Red Cross entertainment for funds were completed, with a blitz planned for March 6. Because of the illness of Mrs. Michael Hogan, chairman of the campaign committee, Mrs. Gordon Walker volunteered to be co-chairman. It was found that she was needed as a canvasser.

This canvass took the form of a blitz, but, as the weather was bad, it was carried over into the rest of the week, and some returns are still not in. It is feared that the returns will be as high as last year, as the territory covered was larger in '67. The quota for the Deseronto branch, this year, not raised, although the provincial quota was raised five per cent.



At the meeting, Mrs. Mervin Sherman was appointed treasurer for the branch. Reports were received from all committees.

Mrs. Gordon Walker was hostess for the meeting, with 12 members present.

Cree Pupils Send Letters

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — There was great excitement in the Quinte Mohawk School Monday. The pupils had received replies from their Cree and Eskimo pen pals in Fort George, which is on the north-east shores of James Bay. All are pupils of an Anglican Church School. The excitement was doubled by the knowledge that there is a fair chance that their correspondents may possibly become their guests for four days in May.

All 27 Cree children and the orphaned Eskimo girl are in Grade three, and Miss Susan Runnels of Picton, their teacher, conceived the idea of having them visit this part of Canada. She contacted the Indian-Eskimo Association, which is now in progress of collecting the necessary funds for transportation. Business men and various organizations are contributing, and the prospect is bright that the project may be carried out. Meanwhile, all plans are merely tentative.

Plans for the visit to this Reserve are being made through Leslie Claus, a member of the Indian Eskimo Association, and of the staff of the Quinte Mohawk School. Once the plans are made final, the School Committee will arrange for billeting the 28 children and the three adults who will accompany them.

Some weeks ago letters were received from the Fort George children, and the Quinte Mohawk children selected those they wished to answer.

Mr. Claus states that although the native language is Cree, the English used in the letters is surprisingly good.

The children, if they come, will travel by air from Fort George to Timmins, and by train to Toronto, where a program is being arranged for them. They will come to this area by bus.

Seminar Held For Scouting

NAPANEE — "Bob" Casey is filled with enthusiasm for the Scout '63 program, which he and Scoutmaster Stewart McConnell studied over the weekend in a seminar at Barrisfield attended by 75 Scout leaders. Mr. Casey is the district commissioner for the Napanee Valley Scout District.

It is a completely new program for the boys between the ages of nine and eleven who are in the Scout movement. The emphasis of the movement has always been on citizenship, but it is even stronger in the new program. The boys are given more responsibility in making decisions, a point Mr. Casey feels which will make them of value to their community.

There is a whole new badge system under the new program. The last Queen's Scouts, as we know them now, will be those of '68. This district has six boys who are now working toward that honor.

To Your Good Health

It's Chemical in Pill Which Counts

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: One of our local doctors some time ago published an article in the paper saying that 5 grain aspirin was the strongest that could be obtained without a prescription, and that regardless of name or price, it was as effective as another, if not buffered.

One member of my family swears by . . . another says none is as good as . . . Another gets it from the 5¢ store when they are having a sale, and one even says the cheaper brands are put together with cotton. I admit that some dissolve more easily than others but no doubt that is immaterial.

Maybe you can straighten us out — or me. I think the difference is all in their heads. Anyway, I take . . . — P.E.

Your local doctor was perfectly right. Chemically, all 11 are acetyl-salicylic acid.

A five-grain tablet means that five grains of acetyl-salicylic acid have been included in the "binder" or inert material which forms the bulk of the tablet.

Federal food and drug regulations insist that if a tablet is called a 5-grain aspirin, it must contain exactly that — five grains of that drug.

True, some dissolve faster than others. True also that some are "buffered," with the purpose of making them less irritating to people whose stomachs are sensitive to aspirin.

Still other "headache pills" combine the aspirin — phenacetin, sodium salicylate, caffeine, sometimes other chemicals to change the total effect a bit.

I cannot conscientiously say that some of the variations in the binder used may not make some difference to some people. Maybe so. Or maybe it is mostly in their heads.

I've long since given up arguing with people about it. If they are addicted to a particular brand, whether because of real or imaginary superiority, that's the kind they might as well use.

They will anyway.

Dear Dr. Molner; I have ear trouble — it sounds like a dry fly all the time. It sure does get on my nerves. Will be watching the paper for your answers. — G. R.

Ear noises — dry fly noises, whistles, hisses, buzzes, any number of kinds — come from a variety of causes. Some can be corrected; some can't, so you may have to adopt some little tricks to keep them from annoying you too much. My suggestion is that you send for, and carefully read, my booklet, "Ear Noises, Their Causes and Cures." Send 10 cents in coin for printing and handling costs, and a self-addressed, stamped, envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun - Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for the booklet.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 18 and planning to get married but I've heard so many stories that I'm frightened. The one that scares me most is one about girls bleeding to death on their wedding night. I'm mostly older people who say this but I'm scared anyway. — Miss C. M.

Well, stop worrying about it. A small membrane called the hymen is broken (if it has not already been broken, often by a childhood accident, horseback riding, etc.) and there is a bit of bleeding. There are no large blood vessels near the hymen and "bleeding to death" is impossible. So forget the scare stories.

Dear Dr. Molner: What connection does the word achalasia have with hiatal hernia? — E. R.

Achalasia is loss of nerve function in the lower esophagus. Hiatal hernia is a rupture or enlargement of the diaphragm opening where the esophagus goes through to the stomach. The two conditions may exist in the same patient, but are not necessarily related. Either can occur without the other.

Lennox and Addington Holds Mill Rate to Last Year's Level

NAPANEE — Lennox and Addington County Council has held the mill rate to last year's level. At the same time it added a $20,000 working fund and a $31,000 provision for a home for the aged.

At the council's regular meeting Wednesday, members set the 1968 mill rate at six mills for general purpose and 8.5 for general purpose and 9.5 mills for roads.

Warden Ray Gaffney of Sheffield Township said the $20,000 working fund was taken out of a $48,000 surplus in the county's general account. The remaining $28,000 was not used to reduce the 1968 budget but will be added to the year's income.

Council members approved the $31,200 to provide for a county home for the aged, but no plans have been presented yet.

The county has also set aside $17,000 for administration of justice, an amount which covers operation of the county jail until the province reimburses the county.

A new budget provision is $6,500 for an ambulance subsidy. County members approved a finance report which recommended a 25 cent per person levy to be raised for ambulance services.

Three municipalities left the county roads system.

Amherst Island, Kaladar and Denbigh Townships have been granted primary interest on money borrowed by the road committee, although they have not been assessed for the committe's levy.

At Wednesday's meeting, councillors agreed to relieve the three municipalities of the interest payment.

Denbigh Reeve Gordon Platt said the two northern townships, Kaladar and Denbigh, "derive no benefit because there are no county roads" in their municipalities. He said it was "unfair" to ask the three townships to pay interest on money borrowed by the county roads committee.

OFF THE RECORD — BY ED REED

Rusk Says Banks Situation Is Not Covered by Treaty

NEW YORK (CP) — The U.S. government refused Thursday to extradite Hal C. Banks to Canada to face perjury charges and it was believed the former labor leader would be released here today after spending seven months in jail.

State Secretary Dean Rusk, in a ruling over-turning an earlier decision, said the "unique facts" in Banks's case were not covered in the extradition treaty between Canada and the United States.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said Thursday night Canada had requested the U.S. to reconsider the decision, but the Canadian move was rejected in Washington without comment.

Banks has been in House of Detention in Greenwich Village here since last August, after the province of Ontario began proceedings to have him returned to face charges that he perjured himself in giving testimony before a royal commission in 1963.

Banks' lawyer, Abram Chayes, said Tuesday the U.S. attorney's office here had been informed by telephone of Rusk's decision but that Banks apparently was being kept under detention until written confirmation reached New York.

J.S. Commissioner S. T. Abrams ruled after extradition hearings last fall that Banks, former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union, should be returned to Canada to face the perjury charges.

The province of Ontario alleged that Banks had given false testimony before the Norris royal commission in Great Lakes violence in 1963. The following year, Banks was convicted in Montreal of conspiracy in the 1957 beating of Captain Frank Walsh, a rival union leader.

Banks was sentenced to five years. He then appealed the charge but skipped to the U.S. before the case could be heard, forfeiting $25,000 bail.

In Toronto, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart of Ontario told reporters he doubts the province will appeal the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"My feeling is that we should call it a day," he said. "We have carried it to almost the ultimate, if not the ultimate, limit."

Strong No Long Victors

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

With the development of nuclear power, a new and exponential factor has entered modern warfare. The change is not merely one of size, but of quality. Will governments and publics, however, recognize this change in time to avoid acting on the old assumptions?

The oldest of old assumptions is that offence and defence are nearly equal, given approximately equal forces on each side. This is why the seige of Troy took 10 years; why even the two world wars of the 20th Century took four and more years each.

In the intervening three millennia between Troy and Tobruk, little had basically changed in the traditional equilibrium of warfare. For every new weapon, a new defence; thrust and parry, like a duel between swordsmen; and the stronger vanquished the weaker. Thus had it ever been.

This is the classical concept of warfare, but it no longer obtains. Nuclear power is an "exponential factor" because now no defence can hope to keep pace with the power of the strategic offence. Never before in history has this been true, to the utter frustration of statesmen and military leaders who are aware of the present state of affairs.

What this means, in deadly practical terms, is that we are far "stronger" than the Russians — we can kill each one of them 10 times over, while they can kill each of us only four times over. But since neither can effectively prevent this "overkill," the terms "stronger" and "weaker" are meaningless and misleading.

There is today no realistic sense in which a "ballistic defence system" can hope to protect cities from attack. But little fear-ridden military circles that such a system can be devised in the future. Thus, for the first time in history, offence has sharply outrun defence; and resistance is no longer possible — only retaliation.

We now face the final irony of nuclear power; it has made the nations possessing it so powerful that they are unable to use it, for there is no defence against its counter-use. The balance of warfare has been completely destroyed, and the future of the world is now controlled by accident, fear, or a technical error.

Thus, also, "winning" and "losing" have become meaningless terms as a global scale. In a rational society, this would lead to a strengthening of the UN and the creation of even more substantial peacemaking establishments. But we are not a rational society, and we keep brandishing the same old threats, oblivious that the new weapons we hold are pointed as our own addled heads.

Only Two Canadian Hospitals Prohibit Sale of Cigarettes

By KEN KELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With rare exceptions, the medical profession's stand that cigarette smoking is linked with lung and heart disease makes little impression in practice in Canadian hospitals.

Only two hospitals of scores surveyed across the country have banned sales of cigarettes on their premises. A third took this step many years ago on religious, not health, grounds.

Humber Memorial and Scarborough Centenary hospitals in Metropolitan Toronto are pioneers in banning cigarette sales on the premises for health reasons. But they go along with virtually every other major hospital across the land in permitting staff and patients to smoke.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that Ottawa General Hospital is considering a ban on in-hospital smoking and, possibly, on cigarette sales on the recommendation of the chief of the medical staff.

Increasingly strong condemnations of cigarette smoking have been made by the Canadian Medical Association and the major voluntary health associations concerned with respiratory, heart and cancer diseases.

Dr. C. W. I. Jeanes, executive secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, said in a recent statement that emphysema and lung cancer are increasing at a "desperate" rate.

What he meant was illustrated by a report last December to Health Minister Mac-Eachen. The federal health department recorded more than 3,400 deaths in 1966 from lung cancer, chronic bronchitis and emphysema, an increase of 400 over 1965.

Lung cancer killed 3,296 men and 548 women and emphysema 1,362 men and 207 women.

The death rates per 100,000 persons from these diseases more than doubled between 1950 and 1966 among men and nearly doubled among women.

Dr. Jeanes said the best way to combat the alarming rise is to stop personal air pollution—quit smoking.

The effectiveness of this step is illustrated by experience in Britain where many doctors stopped when the smoking-cancer death link was established. Comparing the periods 1954-57 and 1962-64, the doctors' lung-cancer death rate dropped 36 per cent while that of the male population as a whole climbed 25 per cent.

As professional worry about the cancer and emphysema death rate grows, the Canadian Hospital Association has arranged an experiment in several Nova Scotia hospitals to determine the effectiveness of anti-smoking education.

A bedside message is provided by the federal health department for patients in a number of Nova Scotia institutions. It suggests that a patient's stay in hospital, which breaks the normal pattern of daily life, may be a good chance to try to break the cigarette habit.

A serious deterrent for hospitals in banning cigarette sales is that many hospital outlets are run by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Sales revenue is considerable.

For example, when Toronto's Humber Memorial banned in-hospital sales effective Jan. 1, it sacrificed $2,000 a year that went to the hospital auxiliary.

As for smoking limitations or bans, a Windsor (Ont.) Hotel Dieu spokesman put it this way:

Smoking is like prohibition —you can issue all the rules and regulations but enforcing them might do more to endanger life than leaving it alone. Many persons would try smoking anyway and hiding cigarettes under blankets is a fire hazard.

The fire hazard is behind Kitchener-Waterloo (O n t.) Hospital's with its decision to supply smoking jackets for elderly patients in the chronic wing.

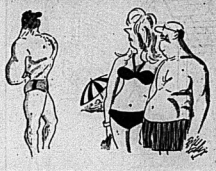
Even many institutions that specialize in treating lung disease ban peddler cigarette sales nor smoking.

Niagara Peninsula Sanatorium, Niagara Falls, Ont., permits both but couples this with such strong pressure that an estimated three-quarters of the patients quit smoking before discharge.

Little evidence is available of pressure from hospital medical staffs for sales or smoking bans, despite the collective stand of the profession on the habit.

"This action would have to come from the medical staff and they smoke so much themselves," says Sister Delia Clairmont, administrator of the St. Boniface, Man., General Hospital.

The Steinbach, Man., hospital, in the heart of a Mennonite district, has a 12-year-old ban on sales but lately has relaxed the ban on smoking to permit staff and patients to light up in designated areas.



Most of the hospital across the country have restrictions of one kind or another.

None permits smoking where oxygen is being used, a fire prevention measure. And patients with serious respiratory conditions are advised not to smoke, though enforcement is a problem in this as well as in restrictions on smoking in corridors.

DONATE SUPPLIES

Malaysians have donated $10,000 worth of medical supplies, more than $1,600 in cash and large quantities of clothing for Vietnamese refugees.

THE PICK OF Punch

Czech General Shoots Himself

PRAGUE (Reuters) — A shakeup in the Czechoslovak army, security forces and legal posts appeared inevitable today following the suicide of the deputy defence minister and allegations against the interior minister and attorney-general.

Maj.-Gen. Vladimir Janko shot himself Thursday as army intelligence officers investigated charges that part of the army tried to stage a putsch in January to back President Antonin Novotny, who now is under pressure to resign.

Janko's suicide apparently upset plans for a normal transition of power inside the top party council from pro-Novotny forces to those backing new party leader Alexander Dubcek and prompted speculation on action against other army officers under suspicion.

Interior Minister Josef Kudrna and Attorney-General Jan Bartunek came in for criticism from a parliamentary group in terms suggesting they faced demotion or even criminal charges for violation of socialist legality.

The National Assembly's presidium expressed dissatisfaction and disquiet with the methods of work for Kudrna, regarded as a Novotny supporter.

It also condemned Bartunka and asked the responsible authorities to "draw the necessary conclusion."

Kudrna was thought to have come under fire for the security slip-up which enabled the defection to the United States last month of Maj.-Gen. Jan Sejna, most powerful political figure in the defence ministry and close associate of Novotny.

Janko's suicide suggested, according to observers, that he was involved in issues more serious than just an association with Sejna.

The whole truth about the mobilization of an armored division near Prague in January to stage a show of force in favor of Novotny has not yet come to light.

But rumors have circulated ever since that pro-Soviet officers plotted to prevent Dubcek from replacing Novotny as party chief.

300 Sailors To Leave Navy

OTTAWA (CP) — About 300 sailors have signified their intention to leave the navy, ostensibly because of armed forces unification, a defence department spokesman said Thursday.

The figure was higher but some applications to quit the service have been withdrawn after "counselling" of the sailors by their commanding officers, the spokesman said.

He added that more applications may be withdrawn before the March 31 deadline. Total strength of the navy is about 18,100.

After armed forces unification became effective Feb. 1, servicemen were given two months in which to decide whether they wished to remain in the unified forces. Those who did not could retire without financial penalty.

Russian Bombers Pay Several Visits

OTTAWA (CP) — Russian bombers have been flying near North America's northern coasts but the defence department does not wish to list all the flights.

A department spokesman said Thursday there were at least seven such flights last month.

Informants indicated the flights are still going on and are being detected regularly by Canada-U.S. North American Defence Command radars.

The spokesman said the department is not necessarily listing all the flights and planes involved in case it would thereby tip the Soviet Union.

"The Russians might find a weak spot if we announced we had detected four planes when they actually had eight in the area," the spokesman said.

Three of the incidents occurred off the east coast of Canada Feb. 9, 15 and 20. The others were Feb. 12, 13, 16 and 17 off the Alaska Coast.

The Russian flights are believed to be long-range training missions although Defence Minister Cadieux said a Feb. 9 incident, reported earlier, was a U.S.S.R. test of the air defence system.

Separatists Rake Speaker

English Smug, Naive Yet Battle Not Lost: Johnson Adviser

MONTREAL (CP) — Smug, naive, resentful and apprehensive—these are the attitudes of English Canada to French-Canada, says the Quebec government constitutional adviser.

"... Ghosts which should have been laid long ago keep haunting some remote part of the country in direct ratio to their distance from Montreal westwards," Marcel Faribault said Friday night.

The lawyer-financier, Premier Daniel Johnson's adviser in the Union Nationale government since last fall, delivered a nonsense speech in English at Loyola College, opening a three-day examination of French-English relationships in Quebec.

Students from the University of Montreal, including separatists, then raked away at Mr. Faribault in fiery French, demanding a unilingual state and decrying his use of English.

Mr. Faribault, president of Trust General du Canada, advised the students to ponder the lesson of the present gold rush that is turning the financial world upside down.

Capital was extremely sensitive to unsettled conditions and any attack on English-language rights in Quebec would result in capital withdrawal.

"Don't cut off the nose to spite your face," said Mr. Faribault. "... They would leave with more than just themselves."

He handled in French an array of hostile questions while English-language students remained silent.

Replying to a final harangue from the floor, Mr. Faribault said he had been presenting his views on French-English relations for 50 years and rejects the idea of hopeless antagonism.

"Whatever you consider in your despair, I have seen the evidence of progress," he told his critics.

Mr. Faribault, who defends the concept of a particular status for Quebec in a new federalism, also worked in an oblique whack at President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Use of the term French-Canadians always seems to mystify other Canadians, he said. But it does not imply identification with France.

"Having chosen to remain in Canada after the British conquest, although being offered passage back to France, these people and their descendents have repudiated in advance any argument which would make Frenchmen out of us, whoever the speaker, even be he the president of the French republic."

Bankers Frantically Search To Halt Financial Panic

U.S. on Perilous Course: Kennedy

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy, 42, formally announced today his candidacy for president of the United States saying he will run not "to oppose any man, but to propose new policies."

"I run because I am convinced that this country is on a perilous course and because I have such strong feelings about what must be done that I am obliged to do all I can," Kennedy said.

The New York senator announced his challenge at a televised press conference in the caucus room of the old Senate office building where his late brother John launched his bid for the White House Jan. 2 1960. John was president from 1960 to 1963 when he was assassinated in Dallas, Tex.

The senator said he is running to "end the bloodshed" and to close the gaps in the U.S. between rich and poor, young and old. He said his aim was to make "America stand for hope."

"I do not lightly dismiss the dangers and difficulties of challenging an incumbent president. But there are not ordinary times and this is not an ordinary election.

"At stake is not simply the leadership of our party or even our country—it is our right to more leadership on this planet.

"I run because I want the Democratic party and the United States to stand for hope instead of despair.

"I run because it is now unmistakeably clear that we can change these disastrous policies only by changing the men who are now making them."

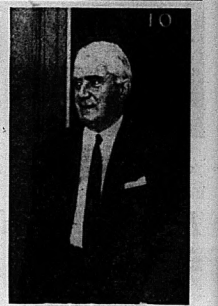
WASHINGTON (CP) — American and European banking chiefs meet here today to thrash out emergency measures to halt a gold stampede that has caused the world's biggest financial panic in 40 years.

Governors of seven major banking systems which make up the so-called "gold pool" will get together behind closed doors to work out possible new rules to restore faith in the U.S. dollar and other leading currencies.

They are currently pledged to keep the gold price stable at $35 an ounce, but there are widespread reports that they will meet the crisis by fixing a two-price rate.

This would mean the present $35 an ounce for government transactions and a fluctuating price for profit-hungry speculators and hoarders which would find its own market level.



With trading markets shut, bankers counted on a week-end breathing space for a major rethinking on gold policy.

The crisis was generally regarded as the most severe since the stock market collapse of 1929.

Officials hoped that by Monday they would announce emergency measures to halt the frenzied rush on European gold markets which endangered American reserves and sparked off serious fears that the dollar and other p per money might have to be devalued.

Senior executives of the British, West German, Swiss, Belgian, Dutch and Italian state banks arrived here within 24 hours of an urgent invitation from the U.S. The seven national banks are active members of the price-supporting gold pool.

U.S. officials kept strict silence on whatever plans Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin planned to put to his European colleagues, but there were reliable indications he would call for "fundamental reforms" in private gold trading.

Michael Stewart

Brown Quits In Split With Harold Wilson

LONDON (CP) — Widespread worry over a possible plunge into world economic disaster was intertwined today with speculation that fiery George Brown's resignation as foreign secretary may mean new trouble for an already hard-pressed Labor government.

It was believed unlikely that British foreign policy will change much under his successor, mild-mannered Michael Stewart, but the impact at home was sharp with opposition calling for the resignation of Prime Minister Wilson.

Brown and Stewart both defended the Labor government's support of U.S. policy in Vietnam, and both pushed Britain's application to join the European Common Market.

In his resignation letter to Wilson Friday, Brown said he had been troubled for some time by "the way this government is run and the manner in which we reach our decisions." The last straw for the 53-year-old minister, however, was not being consulted by Wilson in the decision to close the London gold market Friday at Washington's suggestion.

Why Wilson could not reach Brown on the gold crisis was a mystery.

About 2 a.m. e.d.t. Saturday Wilson saw his ministers, Brown excepted, and told them President Johnson had telephoned asking for the London gold market to be closed to gain breathing time for decisions.

Britons Try Hoarding Liquid Gold

LONDON (CP) — Drink seems about the only thing left for the ordinary chap dunned with talk of imminent financial disaster, so the wholesale booze supply has run dry.

Distillers Co., supplier of eight popular brands of scotch whisky and the two main gins, announced today that retailers have been cut off until next Wednesday because of "a totally unprecedented demand situation."

Britons have been speculating in scotch and gin at $5.85 to $7.25 a 26-ounce bottle as hectically as the big-money boys have been scrambling for gold at $35 or more an ounce. Their reasons are the same: Both expect the prices to go up.

The spirits spree is related, to the international money mess that has caused the gold panic. The British government is under pressure to help try to stabilize the money problem by exerting a deflationary squeeze in its annual budget Tuesday.

Higher taxes are the gloomy certainty and alcohol is widely expected to be in the exchequer's firing line, despite the fact that almost three-quarters of the price of whisky or gin is excise duty already.

The excise men placed a quota some time ago on the quantity of spirits wholesalers could release before budget day. Main stocks in the quota ran out this week, although most retailers are said to be as ready as possible for a weekend buying rush.

Ridiculous System Breaking Up: Paris

NEW YORK (AP) —The ridiculous monetary system is breaking up before our eyes," the foremost gold general in France's war on the dollar said in Paris as other European monetary managers flew to Washington for an emergency meeting today.

Jacques Leon Rueff is considered the monetary general behind the general, or the main influence on the gold policy of Charles de Gaulle.

Gouzenko Says He's In Debt

TORONTO (CP) — Igor Gouzenko, the Soviet cipher clerk who defected to Canada in 1945 and revealed a vast Soviet spy network in this country, says he is broke.

Mr. Gouzenko said money earned from his two books and income from occasional newspaper writings have long been exhausted and two trust funds established by friends are inadequate.

His story is told in a copyright story in The Telegram. The story says income from Gouzenko's trust funds, one a private 100-a-month fund and the other a government fund of unspecified size, averages $50 a month for each member of his family. Gouzenko refuses to say how many children he has for reasons of security.

Blaiberg: Walking Miracle Returns Home

BLAIBERG: JAUNTY AND HAPPY

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Retired dentist Philip Blaiberg went out into the world with his new heart today, 74 days after his historic transplant operation.

Blaiberg, 58, is the only survivor of the world's six heart transplant operations.

Shortly before his discharge, he had undergone a thorough medical examination by the transplant team which gave him a new heart, and was declared fit to leave the hospital.

His discharge came two days after his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, returned from a month-long tour of South and North America.

Blaiberg has the heart of a colored (mixed race) man, 24-year-old Clive Haupt, who died of brain damage after collapsing on a beach.

The dentist left the hospital and strode confidently into the bright sunshine at 11:35 a.m. (4:35 a.m. EST). He looked greatly changed from the dying man of more than two months ago.

"Thank you all very much for coming to welcome me," he told the crowd of onlookers and reporters crowded around the out-patients entrance in the bright sun.

"I'm very well indeed. I'm delighted to be going home and home is the main thing in my thoughts."

Twenty minutes later Blaiberg was walking back through the door of his apartment in suburban Wynberg. He was home in time for lunch.

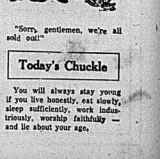
Nurses who tended the famous patient for 2½ months crowded around him as he left the hospital.

"Can I kiss you?" one asked.

"Certainly," he said—with enthusiasm. She did.

Blaiberg's discharge had been expected earlier than today, and shortly after his operation Barnard spoke in terms of only three weeks before the stockily built, bald headed man would be able to go home.

But as the predicted times for his discharge came and passed several times, his departure was put back and led to rumors that his condition was causing concern.



The way now is clear for Barnard to perform his next heart transplant, which he has said will be shortly.

The hospital's limited facilities for post - operative care have confined him to one transplant patient at a time.

But the surgeon, who became famous overnight for performing the world's first human heart transplant on Louis Washkansky Dec. 3, has said he has no specific patient in mind for his third heart transplant.

Blaiberg had his diseased and failing heart removed from his body Jan. 2, and replaced by the heart taken from Haupt's body.

Blaiberg had spent his entire 74 days since the operation in a stringently sterilized suite in Groote Schuur Hospital's outpatients block.

"Sorry, gentlemen, we're all sold out!"

Today's Chuckle

You will always stay young if you live honestly, eat slowly, sleep sufficiently, work industriously, worship faithfully — and lie about your age.

Night course at Quinte Secondary School stresses farm efficiency through 15 subjects. Above, instructor Roger Redner explains pump functions to Fred Stein, Tweed; Morris Morrison, Stirling and Eugene Tracey, Plainfield.

Back to School Days

Farmers Participate in Program

Agriculture in the Quinte district is losing an age-old symbol.

The figure behind the plow is out. The farmer behind the school desk is in.

At present, nearly 170 of them have readjusted 17 weeks of chore time to participate in an education program patterned to the future.

Some are discovering that future may be none too bright.

All are learning that farming is big business, an economic enterprise still in the throes of revolutionary change.

The course is part of the federal-provincial manpower program — once known as Program 5 — Quinte Secondary School.

Five night a week, the farmers trek to Belleville from the four Quinte counties to grapple with the brittle realities of modern economics.

For good reason the course is designated as "This business of farming." says its director, Lyle Vanclief.

"Agriculture has undergone a fantastic change in the past 10 years. What's happened has overshadowed change in other industry by a long shot.

"And everything points to it continuing this way," says Mr. Vanclief, a graduate of University of Guelph and co-operator with his father of a 325-acre cropland in Ameliasburg.

The modern mechanics of farming demand more than the ability to drive a tractor.

"The job the machines are doing is a precise job," emphasizes Mr. Vanclief.

But this is only partially the problem. Efficiency is the key factor.

Many farm operations are too small to be economically viable. The men working them must sometime reach a decision on either quitting or expanding.

This is the basic objective of the course: To relate efficiency to growth.

"We don't teach bigness. We teach efficiency," says the course director. "We don't all have the ability to manage big business — and farming today is big business."

For many, however, facing the facts can undoubtedly be a painful chore. Resistance to change has been a global feature of farming.

This despite the fact of an abundant availability of information and service.

No other sector of the economy has so much free advice and service at its disposal, says Mr. Vanclief. Yet one statistic shows 25 percent of Ontario's farmers produce 85 per cent of its food.

The conclusion is that the successful 25 per cent are using the information available to them, he adds.

The course itself feeds the farmer a rich information capsule.

The curriculum features 15 subjects, from accounting to crop production, pest control, mechanics and water systems. It's laced with lectures from experts on specialized topics.

A total of 65 different publications are distributed each student.

Adult education organizers are well-satisfied that the course will show results.

Started last year, it was the first extensive program of its kind in the province. Now, it has imitators in about six other Ontario centres.

Last year it drew more than 160 farmers from Hastings, Northumberland, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington counties.

This year, says adult education director E. J. Buckley, 100 farmers had to be turned away when the course quota was filled.

While taking the course, each farmer receives the mandatory man-power-retraining allowance: a nightly minimum $7 for single men, a maximum $15 for married men with families.

But the success must be gauged in results, and already there are indications that last year's initial venture made some hits in the farming community.

"The feedback on results has been exceptionally good," says Mr. Buckley. "People dealing with farmers — bank managers, suppliers, feed merchants and so on — indicate considerable enthusiasm on the part of their clients. They were approaching things in a more business like way."

One graduate of '67 was so enthusiastic about the results, recalls Mr. Vanclief, he was willing to sign a formal declaration that the course had boosted his income $4,000.

More than the curriculum is carefully planned. Teachers also are deliberately chosen.

Most of them are either successful farmers, or businessmen in related industry.

This way, the student readily identifies with his teachers and classroom resistance is painlessly broken down. It's a vital tactic.

"The biggest problem that the students have to face is that they must agree to a change in their out look on farming," says Mr. Vanclief.

"They formed a certain way for many years and — naturally — many of them would like to keep on in the same way. They found success, they arrived here that, if they are going to exist they have to make changes.

"If they don't they can't say they haven't been told."

Hitchhikers Hospitalized Following Accident

A hitchhike ended in hospital today for two young Toronto men when the car in which they were passengers rolled over near Brighton.

In Belleville General Hospital were Leonard Goldthorpe, 21, with a broken leg and Dana Shepherd, 17, suffering chest and other internal injuries.

Police said the two were picked up at Bowmanville earlier today by Harry Tordonato, 16, both of Buffalo.

The Americans, who escaped injury, were headed for Ottawa, the Torontonians for Brockville, when the car went out of control and rolled four times on the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway a mile east of the Marysville overpass.

The 1964 automobile was wrecked.

Belleville Council--More 'Closed Sessions' Than Counterparts

Belleville city council holds many more closed sessions than its counterparts in other Ontario centres of a similar size.

This is shown from reports received from newspapers in Peterborough, Kingston, Brantford, Kitchener-Waterloo and in St. Catharines.

The policy in the above centres is generally that all council and committee meetings are open to the press — with reservations regarding coverage on certain matters.

Matters on which there is no coverage include prospective land purchases and discussions involving personalities.

In Belleville this is not the case with council holding closed meetings prior to almost every regular council session. These closed sessions have lasted anywhere up to three hours.

The closed session problem with Belleville city council was forced into the open this week with requests from the Intelligencer and radio station CJBQ that Thursday's discussions on the capital works budget be made open to the press.

The motion for a closed session was defeated on a split 5-5 division of council members present.

And as it turned out there was nothing in the budget discussions which conceivably should have been kept from the public.

Reports from other Ontario centres regarding the "closed" session question read as follows:

Kingston — All council meetings and all committees except social welfare open to the press with agreement not to report on prospective land purchases and matters involving personalities.

Peterborough — Weekly council sessions, finance and board of works committee meetings open to the press. Press covers special meetings of the finance committee at which the mill rate is worked out, with reporters excluded only when committee of the whole goes into caucus — usually to discuss matters of land purchase and expropriation proceedings.

Brantford — All council meetings except those covering personnel discussions open to the press. Press uses care to use nothing that would tip council's hand in land matters.

Kitchener — All council and committee meetings open to public and press. Council only rarely holds caucus sessions to deal with personnel problems and land deals. On some occasions reporters attend closed sessions and receive okay to write stories on the proceedings.

St. Catharines with city administrator form of government — press attends all council or committee meetings. Press sits in on general committee meetings and on executive committee meetings but no stories written unless approved by committee. Occasionally general committee goes into camera on personnel matters and for union discussions.

Belleville Theatre Guild has called on a professional director to stage its Festival '68 production of Charley's Aunt. Imparting idea of pace demanded by classic farce, Peter Boretski (left) rehearses cast members Deedee Tobin, Colin Robbins and Sue Brickwood. Play is scheduled for April 17-18.

'Charley's Aunt' Coming to City

Belleville Theatre Guild has called on the services of a professional director for its Festival '68 production.

And for the festival, the Guild has turned to a comedy classic of theatre.

The director is Peter Boretski. The play is Charley's Aunt.

Mr. Boretski has directed and acted in London, New York and Toronto.

His list of credits include a series of productions for CBC's Festival.

While in Belleville to direct the Guild presentation, he also will take time out to direct several workshop programs in drama and voice.

In choosing Charley's Aunt, for its contribution to the city's annual arts festival, the Guild turned to a theatrical phenomenon.

The farce has been so celebrated since it first saw the footlights in the late 1890s, it has become a tradition unto itself.

Rehearsals now in progress under Mr. Boretski are geared to production deadlines of April 17-18 at Centennial Secondary School.

Three Intersections

New Traffic Lights Installed

This week's snowstorm and return to winter-like conditions has delayed completion of the city's three new traffic light installations — one at the corner of Coleman and Catherine Streets, and two in the East Hill area.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said yesterday that because of the bad weather the contractor had been given two weeks grace to complete the installation and the lights will not be in operation until early in April.

The lights at the corner of Coleman and Catherine Streets and at the corner of Victoria and Farley will go into operation on, Tuesday, April 2, and those at Bridge and Church Streets the following day.

The reason for the delay is that two of the installations — at Coleman and at Farley — the lights are semi-actuated and detector coils have to be buried in the pavement.

Mr. Purcell said dry pavement and warmer weather was necessary for proper installation of the roadbed coils.

The installation at Bridge and Church streets is a "fixed time" system and on completion will be synchonized with the three other traffic lights across the downtown area.

The timing will be changed to provide a slightly better east-west flow of traffic.

At the other two installations the lights can be changed either by pedestrians pressing a button or by traffic approaching from the intersecting streets — in the above cases Catherine Street and Farley Ave.

In other words the light will remain green for Coleman street and for Farley Ave. until a button is pushed by a pedestrian or a car approaches from the side street.

If the volume of traffic on the intersecting street becomes heavy the timing system automatically reverts to "fixed time."

All three installations have both primary and secondary traffic lights, both for the convenience of motorists and to guard against possible bulb failure in one of the systems.

The "primary" lights are extended over the street while the secondary lights are on the poles and positioned so they can be readily observed by left turning traffic. "Walk" lights are provided at all three installations.

The three installations represent an investment of $11,230 on the part of the city.

The installation at Coleman and Catherine cost $3,800; at Bridge and Church $4,950, and at Victoria and Farley $5,650.

Maple Sugar Season Set Back by Weather

As far as Belleville school children are concerned this year's syrup making season is not going to get underway until after the Easter holidays.

For this the kiddies can thank Old Man Weather, who this week set the Belleville area sap season back with a mid-march snowfall and return to winter-like conditions.

An official of the Moira River Conservation Authority said the visits of school children to their maple syrup demonstration project at the Collins farm at Moira will not get underway until March 25 — after the Easter holiday.

During the holiday period cub scouts and organized groups will visit the sugar bush with the general public invited for the weekends.

The season is expected to complete tapping his sugar bush early next week.

Gold Flurry

To laymen the vagaries of the stock market, of international currency and the impact of public and world opinion as reflected by the continuing run on gold are puzzling.

Even the economists disagree on cause and effect where fiscal policies are concerned. Does the current flurry of activity presage a crash, another depression? Is Vietnam going to escalate into a full-scale conflict involving China? Some are inclined to such views — and while no one knows for sure, because of the very diversity of opinion that exists, the public at large remains in a general state of uneasiness.

Amid all this uncertainty many regard the main anchor for the investor as gold. If a crash should occur then possession of gold is a form of insurance that could restore solvency when times improve. And yet purchase of it in such large quantities as now weakens the entire system of monetary transactions. Once purchased the gold is useless other than as insurance against bad times.

What do the experts say on this theme? According to one, leading British banker Sir George Bolton, the "legend of gold" is fundamentally irrelevent to the real picture of world trade and monetary power which is carried out entirely with paper money.

He said attention should be focused on the "growth, survival and expansion of the United States and British banking systems." These, he said, were the most extensive in the world.

Britain of course must take much of the blame for the current uncertainty. When the pound was devalued on November 18 the loss of gold throughout that month was to the value of $270 million.

All this activity focuses attention once again on the need to reform the international monetary system. This is actually under way in attempts by the United States and Britain to end deficits in their balance of payments, and in a new agreement among Western nations to create new international money not tied to gold, when and if the need arises.

Meanwhile Canada has been granted a $500 million line of credit by the U.S. Export-Import Bank to help it maintain its trade with the United States. A Washington report says the credit is designed to supplement Canada's foreign exchange resources.

The one big moral to be drawn is that United States wealth is paramount. Indeed, the steps it is now taking to halt speculative buying of gold is indicative of this. If the U.S. does not maintain fiscal stability economic depression is inevitable.

More Schooling

Schools being run on a shift basis? This is a possibility according to Ontario Education Minister William Davis.

Not only that, but schools may be operated the year round, Mr. Davis told Hastings County Conservatives at their annual meeting in Stirling recently.

The minister said economies could be effected by operating 12 months a year and his department was also looking for other ways to utilize the schools.

Never has there been such activity on the educational scene and these are significant new ideas that are being propounded. If the schools are to be run either on a shift basis or the year round more teachers will be needed. That in itself poses a problem as teachers do not grow on trees. Still it is an exciting prospect, in that it opens up additional prospects in the teaching profession for young Canadians.

Historic Sites

The preservation of historic sites and other tangible evidence of the country's past is the goal of The Ontario Heritage Foundation established last year.

It is in this province, perhaps more than any other, that Canadians have become more aware of their rich heritage. Upper Canada Village and Crysler Battlefield Park are examples of the preservation of historic places that have sparked this interest.

At a recent press conference Arthur Laing, the federal minister of Northern Development, and Ontario Minister of Tourism James Auld pledged co-operation between the two governments in this field. Mr. Laing said he hoped other provinces would establish such foundations.

Now that the country has embarked on its second century of nationhood its historic associations assume even greater significance. History is still in the making in Canada and it is organizations like the heritage foundation that help to keep it alive for future generations.

Ottawa Offbeat
Paul Martin's Conservatism Biggest Threat to PCs

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — . . . If wanting something so badly that you ache for it in every fibre of your being . . .

. . . If wanting it desperately through every single-minded adult year of your 64 . . .

. . . if striving for it with your eye never straying from the prize since you entered Parliament back in the Dirty Thirties . . .

. . . if now with this your last chance, you struggle infinitely harder for it than anyone else . . .

. . . if all these things, all adding up to a superlative in wishing-and-working will get it — so, then Paul Martin is the next Liberal leader and prime minister.

A man moulded in the cast of Mackenzie King, what sort of prime minister would he make?

A prime minister who, except perhaps for Robert Winters, the Conservatives would most fear.

For he would lead the Liberals back to a position at the Extreme Centre, straying not a fraction of a political inch either Left or Right.

This is the position of ultimate political security, anchored as it would be in the precise point of centre in the balance of public opinion.

Which is exactly why the Conservatives, save for Bob Winters, would rather see any one of the contenders than Paul Martin win the key to the prime minister's East Block suite.

In the Commons, Paul Martin, like the old master Mackenzie King, at whose knee he studied, would remain aloof from the daily skirmishing, and hold his fire for the big battles.

Then instinctively at the political psychological moment, all guns blazing, he would lead the troops . . . which is another good reason the Conservatives don't want Paul Martin as Liberal commander-in-chief.

What chance has he got?

Yesterday, today, tomorrow and on the day the delegates vote, possibly the best.

And one of the biggest things Paul Martin has going for him is the amused laughter of the Liberal "swingers" who chortle that "the poor old guy is just too too terribly old-fashioned, his kind of campaigning went out with button shoes and coats."

With great good humor, they regard his handshaking his way around the country as a joke.

If the "swingers" could stop laughing long enough to think, it might occur to them that the Old Maestro regards Canada's 265 voting constituencies as simply a proliferation of his own riding of Essex East.

And there ne has handshaken and personal messaged his way through 10 winning elections, with majorities as fat as 17,000 and new Dominion Chain of Command — and can call them all by name. Than any other federal politician in any party.

For each he has a handshake, and the "secret campaign weapon" of a whispered confidence.

Even better he has a fat file of brown leather loose-leaf binders, each with names, addresses, vital statistics, and other numbers, likes, dislikes and personal characteristics of party delegates and party wheeler-dealers in every one of the 265 federal constituencies.

So if the Old Maestro, in his supposedly comical, old-fashioned way, managed to make it up the corridors of power to the throne-room, startled Canadians across the land had better be prepared to start receiving short personal messages signed by Oom Paul, bearing the embossment of the prime minister.

It will simply be a matter of expanding the staff and filing system in the card index room.

At the brave bridge the shove is halted by firm ice, but the resistance of the bridge which, although badly twisted still stands. The water rose so rapidly that some people were rescued from houses and stores in boats. Two women who were marooned on a pile of snow were forced to climb a tree to escape the rushing water. Buildings along the banks were smashed and basements of stores were flooded to an unprecedented depth causing thousands of dollars of damage to merchandise.

Canadian Wines' Success

Letter to The Globe and Mail

Jack Roxborough, MP, put forward a reasonable suggestion to the House of Commons recently to promote Canadian products at home and abroad. The Canadian Wine Institute has long supported and promoted this proposal to the Government of Canada.

George Bain ridiculed this proposal in his column of March 8 (Foxed by the Grape). Mr. Bain is obviously out of touch with the times, and the developments in the Canadian wine industry. The products and industry he described belong to a past generation that bears no relation to the Canadian wine industry of today.

Mr. Bain cannot know that Canadians consumed 39,900,000 gallons of Canadian wine and 15,600,000 of foreign wine in the five years that ended March 31, 1967. He cannot know that Canadian wineries have invested millions of dollars in research and development that have resulted in fine new Canadian wines that are equal to most and superior to the majority of foreign wines.

He cannot know that Canadian vintners are no longer restricted to Labrusca varieties, but that they now grow excellent Canadian wines from Vinifera, Hybrid and Labrusca varieties. The Vinifera and Hybrid varieties were brought to Canada from every part of the wine-growing world. They were grown under glass, "proved" in the soil of Canada's vineyards, and the grapes carefully harvested to be transformed into fine wines. More than 30 years of painstaking effort have been devoted to this program.

Mr. Bain should confine his activities to his usual light - hearted comment about Parliament and our politicians rather than attempt to ridicule a Canadian industry that provides employment to many Canadians, makes a substantial contribution to Canada's economy, and also generates large sums of money in taxes to both federal and provincial governments.

Despite Formidable Deficit
Expo Was Well Worth It

Windsor Star

Opinion on whether Expo 67 was worthwhile will be divided, now that the total "deficit" of $295,000,000 has been revealed.

Those Canadians who visited the glittering world's fair at Montreal will tend to be sympathetic. Those who missed the great event may pay more attention to the costs. But even the hardest-headed must put the figures into perspective.

The "deficit" of $295,000,000 represents the total net cost which the taxpayers will have to meet through the federal, Quebec and Montreal governments. And it is a staggering total, even as the bill for the centrepiece of Canada's Centennial celebrations.

Against this total, however, must be placed other values which, though not so noticeable in total effect are a bill for $295,000,000—the legitimate offsets to the bill. Among these are the $490,000,000 increase in Canadian tourist revenue in 1967, and an estimated increase in tax revenues of $230,000,000.

Even more intangible was the effect on Canada itself. Expo was a strong force for Canadian unity. It brought English-speaking Canadians to Quebec in great numbers, and it taught mutual respect. The Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism has cost the taxpayer about $7,000,000, with no permanent and wide-spread results. And the boost to national unity was only a by-product of Expo.

Canada is now suffering from a sort of Centennial hangover. The celebration is over, and the day - to - day realities must be faced, many of them made more unpalatable by contrast with the Centennial year. But like Expo, the Centennial will undoubtedly prove to have been well worth its cost.

Spotlight on Used Cars

Letter to The Globe and Mail

R. J. Homewood's letter in your March 1 issue, headed Used Car Complaints, will have boosted the morale of every used car dealer who reads it, but will have raised many a laugh in the mechanics' rest-rooms. The mechanics know, as does Mr. Homewood, that for every complaint investigated by the supervisor of used car dealers, many, many more are never brought to light because the buyer does not know how to file a complaint, or just hates to admit he bought a lemon!

The situation now is comparable to that which existed in the time of the horse, when a horse would be dosed with arsenic before sale to make its coat glossy, and would be dead a month later.

Caveat Emptor still applies, and always will.

Arthur G. Heartfield,
North Bay.

Focus on Expropriation

Ottawa Journal

The McRuer commission recommendations for changes in the Ontario law related to expropriation are timely. In various areas of jurisdiction, there has been complaint from farmers and others on expropriation procedures.

"The power to expropriate land has been conferred in Ontario with reckless and unnecessary liberality without sufficient control over the exercise of that power," former Chief Justice McRuer said. In Ontario expropriation powers are conferred on 26 authorities, including school boards, power commissions, agricultural societies and conservation authorities.

Such groups do not always act responsibly or with due regard to the rights of the individual.

To provide better protection for the ordinary man, an Alberta MP, F. W. Fane (C—Vegreville) recently suggested that the onus of proving the right to expropriate property should be on the government concerned and the costs of appeal should be borne by government. Perhaps such a regulation would lead to endless appeal, but it has some merit.

An essential part of the McRuer revision in Ontario would be the establishment of a seven man lands tribunal to set prices for expropriated property.

Unquestionably expropriation is a power that governments must have; the interests of the state or community are paramount. But McRuer has exposed an area in which he feels human rights are not being properly safeguarded in Ontario.

British Likes and Dislikes

Christian Science Monitor

We've always wondered how the British view celebrities and suchlike. The London Sunday Times has had a poll taken, by Opinion Research Centre, on popular preferences. The findings move the Sunday Times to remark: "The gap between our public allegiances and our private convictions can be sizable."

It found as follows: For the "Most fascinating and exciting man of the 20th century," those polled placed the Duke of Edinburgh at the top.

Sir Winston Churchill and President Kennedy were tied for second place. Far down the line, Cary Grant placed ahead of Richard Burton.

For the "century's most glamorous woman," Elizabeth Taylor placed first, Queen Elizabeth second, Jackie Kennedy and Sophia Loren were tied for third.

You'd guess the answer to "most villainous person," Adolf Hitler. But surprisingly, next place was a tie between Stalin and President de Gaulle. All that Common Market door slamming, no doubt. Harold Wilson also placed!

Those polled were also asked "If you were not British," to which nation would you most like to belong?" The preferences: Australia first, the United States second, Canada and New Zealand tied for third. Most predictable, these Britons!

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

March 16, 1968 . . .

Hitler announced that Germany was returning to compulsory military conscription 23 years ago today — in 1935—with the aim of creating a peacetime army of 35 divisions. This constituted a violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

1908 — Florence Nightingale was given the freedom of the city of London.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—German artillery was active along the British front from LaBassee Canal to the Menin Road; the military was called out to take charge of the Nationalist quarter of Belfast after a disturbance in which a number of Sinn Feiners and policemen were injured.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—French naval sources reported the sinking of two German submarines; the British trawler Middlesbrough was sunk by a mine; RAF bombers made a night flight over Poland.

March 17, 1968 . . .

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—German artillery was active and the United States took over The Netherlands sector of the British and U.S. ports; British airmen dropped a ton of bombs on Nannheim, Germany; Flanders coast sector was taken over by British troops and German attacks were repulsed with heavy losses.

Gunmen Routed

Windsor Star

Presence of mind may not be found listed among the virtues but it has a practical value that most of us can enjoy, especially when it works in our favor.

One who can say "amen" to that lives in Cleveland, where he faced and won a set-to with would-be robbers the other day.

The fact he was able to outwind adroit he was not a man of means but the footpads ignored that probability and doubtless felt brave because they were armed. But when one of the gunmen motioned the cook toward the cash register he responded by bouncing a skillet off the fellow's head with such force the handle broke off.

The quick coup de grace he squirted them with a fire extinguisher. As the old textbook used to say, they sought safety in flight. What, if anything, they learned from that unhappy venture of theirs never may be discovered but before this incident is written off the cook should be commended with a new and appropriately engraved skillet.

Schism Feared In U.S. Church

NEW YORK (AP) — A prominent European theologian warns that there is a grave danger of schism in the Roman Catholic Church in the United States. However, his warning has caused scarcely a ripple among leading Catholic clergymen.

"If it means schism in the sense of its historical dimensions, that is, cutting right across the American church, then it's not in the cards," commented Bishop John J. Dougherty, president of Seton Hall University in South Orange, N.J.

"Overdrawn," said Rev. John Sheering of New York, editor of The Catholic World. "There's going to be trouble ahead, but I don't see any signs of schism."

The ominous assessment came from Rev. Edward Schillebeeckx, an influential Dutch theologian of the University of Nijmegen, following a two-month lecture tour of church institutions in the U.S.

"There's an awful misunderstanding between the U.S. bishops and the ordinary faithful," he said in the Dutch Catholic newspaper daily, De Tijd, on his return home. He called the American situation "alarming and I saw a danger of schism, saying:

"The bishops, with few exceptions, destroy all spontaneous life. They maintain absolute authority and hundreds of priests are sacked or are transferred against their will. Many priests dare not speak freely because they know they will be punished.

"In the next three years, probably 10,000 priests will leave their ministry in the United States. That is, one out of six priests will resign. The discontent among American priests and even laymen is indescribable."

Commented the Jesuit-edited Catholic weekly, America: "We suggest that Father Schillebeeckx was hotly pursued here in America by that terribly vocal minority of unhappy priests and laymen who pour their troubles into every new and available ear."

An unusual aspect of Father Schillebeeckx's estimate of U.S. church conditions was that it came from within the fold of Dutch Catholicism, in which new trends and activities have occasionally been questioned by the Vatican.

A Dominican, Father Schillebeeckx, 53, became widely known during the Vatican council of 1962-65 as the chief theological adviser to Dutch bishops and his books are heavy sellers in the U.S.

His recent tour, his third visit here, drew audiences in the thousands at Catholic campuses across the East and Midwest. His lectures defended variety in theological interpretation and emphasized the links between the sacred and secular.

Religious Growth In U. S. Slows Down

NEW YORK (AP)-Religious growth in the United States has sagged to its slowest pace in more than a quarter-century, the latest h e a d - c o u n t shows. It is falling behind the rise in the general population.

"The churches had better begin to run scared," says Rev. L a u r i e B. Whitman, a minister-sociologist and long-time keeper of statistics about the status of church life in the U.S.

In relation to the over-all population, church membership is shrinking slightly. Newly-issued f i g u r e s show that it registered a yearly gain of only .3 of one per cent while population grew 1.1 per cent.

This is the smallest percentage increase in church rolls since before the Second World War, Dr. Whitman said, adding that several other statistical indices also show a downturn.

"The over-all image suggests that the church really has to begin to think of itself as in danger," he said in an interview, assessing the new figures released by the National Council of Churches.

"We may be moving into a situation like that in Denmark, Sweden or England, where the formal rites—of birth, marriage and death—have become the major function of the church, with little relation to the life of the c u l t u r e."

At the same time, there were some positive signs, on the statistical yardstick. A recent public - opinion poll shows that church attendance rose in 1967 for the first time in 10 years.

On an average Sunday, 45 per cent of all adult Americans—51,000,000 of them—went to church.

The percentage had been down to 44 per cent in 1965 and 1966, after slowly declining from a 1949 peak of 49 per cent.

Also on the upturn side, enrolment in 142 seminaries, most of them Protestant but some Roman Catholic, increased last year by 927 to 24,817, the American Association of Theological Schools reports.

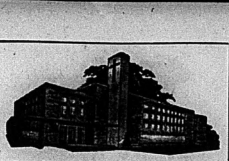
This constitutes a four-percent gain. It is the second successive year in which seminary enrolment has gone up, reversing a decline that began in the late 1950s, but which turned back up in 1960.

The 1968 Yearbook of American Churches shows total membership in Protestant, Orthodox, R o m a n Catholic and Jewish bodies at 125,-778,656.

This is a year's increase of 96,324 over the year before, but a fractional slip in the proportion of the population, down to 64.2 per cent from 64.3 per cent.

It is the second straight year that the relative size of the religious membership in the U.S. has gone down, from its high in the 1960 report of 64.4 per cent.

The percentage had gone steadily upward ever since the pre-war days of the Depression, when it faltered along around 47 per cent for many years. At the century's start, it was only 36 per cent.



Another current downturn is in the number of pupils enrolled in church and Sunday schools. This registered not just a relative—but an actual —decline in the 12 major U.S. religious bodies.

Second Glance

A SEAWARD ROUTE

(Conclusion)

"I hunger for the sea's edge, the limits of the land, where the old Atlantic is shouting on the sand." — from "A Wanderer's Song" by John Masefield.

"Oh, yes, we're in the land of the palms now," continues Betty Ann. She and her husband, Clay Waghorne, were sailing down the International Waterway to the Atlantic on their way to the West Indies in their 30-foot sailboat, "Yonder II" from Toronto. The Waghornes are members of the Belleville Yacht Club and Betty Ann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Page, of this city.

"We're at Beaufort, S.C., a nice little town, positively steeped in history. This is the first time we've really seen what northerners call "southern mansions." These are usually large, white, frame houses with black or green shutters and pillars, either round or square. We were pleasantly surprised at the upkeep of these homes. They are all immaculate and in excellent condition. All in all, we were very impressed with Beaufort, S.C."

Thunderbolt, we got some pictures of porpoises which we see just about every day now. We visited Savannah and toured the town squares, reading all the historical committee signs. We even noticed some roses and 'mums in the gardens. We had a nice walk along the Savannah river front and stopped to have a look at the old harbor lights overlooking the Savannah River. I think it is about 200 years old. In this part of the city the street lights are gas lanterns — old and quaint. Savannah boasts the oldest theatre still in use in the United States.

We got away just fine this morning. It is really warm today, about 73 degrees. It was so nice to be able to take our jackets off. There are no marinas along here for 60 miles, so that means anchoring tonight. We have put 1600 miles on our motor. . . "

Later today, we missed a channel buoy and we were almost sitting on a sandbar with the birds! The boat scraped bottom, but we got back into the channel quickly with no damage. . .We pulled into St. Simon Island this afternoon.

This morning we went to Jerkyll Island, about ten miles away.

The Jerkyll Island story is so fascinating. The island was bought 30 years ago by some American millionaires: Rockefeller, Crane, J. P. Morgan, Gould, etc., to be their private holiday retreat.

Each 'club' member built a 'cottage', 15-20 rooms with the same number of bathrooms! None has a kitchen or dining room: everyone ate at the Jerkyll Club House. The Crane cottage, 'Solterra' cost $500,000. The Club built golf courses (three), tennis courts (indoor and out), an outdoor pool at the club house and an indoor olympic size pool at the convention hall.

During World War II, American ships were being sunk about ten to 15 miles off the Georgia coast. When the American government realized that one sixth of the world's wealth and power was assembled on one small island, the inhabitants were advised to leave for their own safety.

The Jerkyll Island Club offered the island to the state of Georgia, lock, stock and barrel. The cottages are all empty now and completely furnished, just as though the occupants were away, for the afternoon. There is a very small church called "Faith Chapel" on the island. It has both Catholic and Baptist services every Sunday.

Since becoming state property several motels have been built, plus a shopping centre. Camping grounds and picnic areas have also been established. It has nine miles of ocean beach and seems the perfect place to spend a vacation."

Reluctantly, we leave the Waghornes, who upon spending the Christmas holidays on a sunny beach in Florida, are now crossing the open sea to the West Indies. We wish them bon voyage with the sincere hope that we may hear more of their remarkable adventures upon the Yonder II so vividly and interestingly described by Betty Ann, to whom we extend our thanks.

Reading While They Wait

Dorothy Fuller and Marilyn Scott, left, relieve the tedium of waiting at the hospital by reading magazines supplied in the waiting rooms by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. Mrs. F. A. Beeby, convener of this service, pauses in her once-a-week round to talk to them. The Auxiliary has a constant need for up-to-date magazines, especially those for men and children. Donors can leave magazines for the service at the Opportunity Shop at the Market Square.

WEDDING

BATES — BELL

MARMORA — The wedding was performed at Doniand's United Church, Toronto recently, when Myra Dianne Bell was united in marriage to John Frederick Bates. Rev. I. G. Perkins performed the ceremony.

She was given in marriage by her brother Mr. Terry Bell. Attendants were Mrs. Dennis Stembridge (nee Betty Cole formerly of Marmora) and Mr. James Somerton, Toronto.

The reception was held at the home of Mrs. Dennis Stembridge, 199 Roehampton Avenue, Toronto.

Church Groups

FULL GOSPEL WMC

FRANKFORD — The March meeting of Frankford Full Gospel Women's Missionary Council was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Gerald Curry.

Mrs. Ed Srome, president, opened the service and Mrs. Keith Helm led in prayer. Mrs. Eldon Sine spoke on service and conducted a Bible quiz on women in the New Testament.

Mrs. Annie Reilly closed the meeting with prayer. Hostesses were Mrs. Gerald Curry and Mrs. Reilly.

NEW STYLES IN BRITISH WOOLS — New style coats in British wools by Aquascutum of London have the model on left wearing an easy fitting and finely tailored garment with seaming detail. Double breasted, with half belt, it is shown here in a wool mixture coating available in a range of colors. Next is a tent coat, ideal for cold days, in a wool mixture tweed. It buttons to the neck and has four pocket flaps. The boldly checked coat, available in both a wool mixture and all-wool fabrics, can be worn with equal confidence in town or country. It has a full swirling back and stand-up collar. On the right, for town dress, a slim coat with inset sleeves and a collarless neckline. Sold as a two-piece outfit in an all-wool coating. It is worn over a slim sheath dress style paulette, which has a softly rolled collar.

Fashions Shown at Dessert Party

Spring arrived in Belleville last Wednesday as McIntosh Bros. Stores presented a Spring Fashion Happening at the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary annual St. Patrick's dessert and bridge party.

Commentator Sheila Nash stressed that despite efforts to push it back into the thirties or thrust it ahead into the seventies, the fashion look is time-locked on the year 1968.

A hint of the military is still evident with navy, gray, green, and blue, trimmed with white, leading the fashion parade.

Sheer nylons in navy, gray and brown are necessary accessories, along with classically designed scarfs and Bonnie berets.

Susan Brickwood struck up the band in a blue and white model cinched with a gigantic, brassy, buckled belt. Mrs. Margaret Doyle modelled a nickel gray ribbed herringbone ensemble with lace for bib and cuffs. The show stealer, Debbie Doyle, was beguiling in a Russian Cossack-influenced orlon knit. Warmly received was a "flower child," who thoughtfully handed out flowers as she passed among the tables.

Models were Miss Debbie Doyle, Mrs. Margaret Doyle, Mrs. Vera Fairman, Mrs. Kathleen Corlett, Mrs. Audrey Becking and Miss Susan Brickwood.

Mrs. R. Grant Harrison, wife of the president of the Kiwanis Club, and Mrs. R. R. Brain, past president of the Kiwanis Auxiliary, welcomed the guests.

Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Phyllis Hume, Mrs. M. Stalker and Mrs. M. Reid. Door prizes were won by Mrs. H. Fleming, Mrs. Sybil Wills, and Mrs. E. Emery. Lucky draw winners were Mrs. L. Jordan, Mrs. Edna Lockhart, Mrs. Jean Beach, Mrs. Eileen Briscoe, Mrs. Reta Lawrence, Mrs. Louise Hurst and Mrs. Jean Riley.

Children Copy Dad's Eating Habits

Dear Doris: This concerns my uncle's husband. In every other way he is a good husband and provider; thinks the world of his wife and family.

But on his job he can be called out at any time, with the result that his food is just plebbed down, hardly chewed at all.

I lived with them for three months; and I saw how things were going. Even when he has time to take a meal at leisure, he is always first finished. My niece worries as the children are starting to eat fast like Daddy.

He just changes the subject if his wife says anything. Doris, I am 70, have had a lot of illnesses and in me health is more than wealth. I just hate to see anyone who is strong and healthy running into trouble, as it were. — Worried

Dear Worried: Trouble of several kinds!

(1) Tension troubles: ulcers or indigestion, or nervous breakdown.

(2) Failure to communicate. Mealtime should be a gracious family time; an important daily time to chat with husband and dearest.

In the rush of making a living, he has forgotten what living is all about. Let's hope he comes to before all his darlings (but one) have grown up and left the nest.

Dear Doris: Years ago I wrote to you when I was organizing a young mothers' group in our church. Your answer was really appreciated. We are well organized now but everything that is worth while is worth working for.

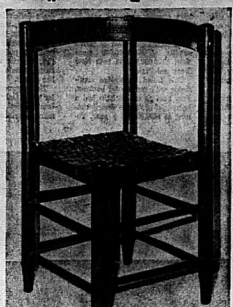
It's odd how one can look back and see mistakes that were made. That's what they call hindsight. Thank heaven others don't judge us as strongly as we judge ourselves for our little boo boos.

Now I need new ideas for program. — Growing.

Dear Growing: It isn't easy to forget our blunders, and that's for sure. But it takes courage to sail in and start something; and learn by trial and error.

A good reason for reading up on what we want to do! Write for a helpful 24-page booklet called "The Art of Secretary of State, Ottawa. Full of ideas for meetings. I'm sending you my list of Skits and Games, for your fun-times.

Program Planning", to the Canadian Citizenship Branch.



Dear Doris: I have a girl friend in the Reform School in Bland City. Some people say you are not allowed to write letters to them. Some say you can.

Can I? — Lonely Boy Friend

Dear Boy: Why not ask her parents? There may be some restrictions about who can write to her; but these change from one place to another.

If you have no reason to think the authorities disapprove of you, it could be that; word from you would make her glad she wasn't forgotten by the girls.

Corner furniture has always delighted collectors. This country furniture version of the corner chair was painted black when it was made in the 19th century.

Corner Furniture Solved Common Space Problem

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Space in the corner has been a problem for housewives and decorators for centuries. Corner furniture was first designed in the 18th century. It became popular during the 19th century with the Queen Anne style.

The corner or roundabout chair was made for comfort. The seat was wide and the arms appropriate. One leg was in the corner, the others were placed at the corners of the square seat. Corner tables were also made to fit in the tirangle of space at the corner of a room.

Corner furniture was most popular from 1725 to 1775. Later styles of furniture were less suitable for the corner construction. A few country furniture chairs with slat backs were made in this shape.

Q. When were nodders made?

A. Nodders are figurines with balanced hands and heads that move with the slightest breeze or tremble of the table. The porcelains were originally called "pagods." They were used in Chinese temples and shrines.

The Meissen Germany made porcelain copies of the nodders about 1735. A more familiar nodder is the papier-mache doll with a large moving head that gained favor about 1890. Some types of nodders are still being made.

Q. I have a lamp shade on an old lamp that is made from the stuff that was in the door of old stoves. I don't know what it was called, but you could look through it to see the fire. Sometimes it would peel off in layers.

A. Heat resistant glass is a relatively new invention. Early 20th century stoves and lamp shades were made of mica or isinglass.

Q. My picture originally came out of a magazine. There seems to be a question as to whether it is authentic. It says "Godey Print 1864."

A. The Godey prints were originally fashion prints made and published from 1830 to 1896 in the magazine called "Godey's Lady's Book." The prints were signed and dated. Copies of Godey prints have been made since that time.

Q. How old can an American item be that has a trademark?

A. Trademarks were first registered at the United States Patent Office in 1870. Patents on designs were first used in 1842. Patents on inventions were first offered in 1790.

Credit Buying Courses Are Suggested

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Ontario's elementary and secondary schools should include courses on credit buying, a provincially-sponsored conference on consumer protection recommended Thursday.

Several speakers and one of the panel workshops strongly recommended children and teen-agers be given mandatory courses in credit and all its implications.

F. J. Pilgrem, deputy minister of the department of financial and commercial affairs, said the idea has been discussed with the department of education, but he doubted such courses would be included in regular studies.

He said the department of education frowns on doing anything in schools that interfere with the regular school program.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Boy: "Look out, Joe. This is a butter-throwing contest."

Girl: "Please don't throw the food around. My parents will be angry at me when they come home."

A teen-age hostess cannot always cope with exuberant young guests who might get out of hand. If parents are in the house and the guests know it, this may be all the control that is necessary.

Mother and father should greet the guests at a teen-age party and then quietly circulate every half hour or so to see that things are under control.

Nuns in Los Angeles Involved in Controversy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They wear dresses. Some get permanent waves. They use their real names and sleep as late as they wish. So what's unusual?

The difference is that these are nuns—members of the teaching Sisters of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. And they're involved in one of the hottest controversies simmering anywhere in Roman Catholics' ferment over "renewal."

The sisters say the way they dress, the hours they keep and other changes are to update their 97-year-old order and help it serve the modern world.

But 81-year-old James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles, disapproves. He is known both as a parish builder and a firm traditionalist.

In resolutions and letters to newspapers, many laymen, Franciscans, Jesuits and others heatedly take sides.

In the balance is whether most of 200 immaculate Heart sisters will return next fall to their teaching posts in 36 parochial schools of the Los Angeles archdiocese.

As matters stand—at an impasse—they will stay put, considering themselves fired by Cardinal McIntyre. Some parochial school doors could close and hundreds of Catholic youngsters be thrown into public schools.

What's the nub of the hassle?

For one thing, dress. No longer in ankle-length, dark blue habits with starched white headgear and black veils, sisters stroll the campus of Immaculate Heart College in dresses so contemporary you can't tell nuns from students or visiting mothers.

Some sisters are visiting beauty parlors and getting permanent waves for the first time in their lives.

Most have dropped ecclesiastical Latin names for the names they had since infancy. Sister Mary Humiliata, the order's vital and gracious mother-general for example, now is Sister Anita Caspary.

No longer do sisters rise invariably at 5:30 a.m. and, in the experience of some, "spend the first three hours of the day in a fog. It was possible to sleep through morning prayers. I speak from experience."

Gone is the arbitrary 10 p.m. lights out. Nuns set their own schedules for retiring, rising, praying, meditating and attending mass.

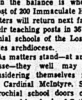
The sisters announced their experimental changes last October saying they were in keeping with Pope Paul's exhortation to Catholic orders "to examine and renew their way of life and to engage in wide-ranging experimentation in achieving this renewal."

Gradually the word got out that the cardinal disapproved, that he even had fired the tradition-defying teachers.

Cardinal McIntyre issued a statement denying he had dismissed the sisters. It did say that he'd been asked to determine how many wish to remain teachers "as religious" rather than as members of a religious order.

The cardinal has said "the final decision on the future steps to be taken by the Immaculate Heart sisters resides with the sisters themselves."

Will the teachers return in the fall?



That still is not a settled question," replied the college's president, Sister Helen Kelley, 42.

Are they fired if they don't return to their own ways?

"That's certainly the interpr.tation we have put on it."

Ann Landers

Young Mother Pays Dearly for Promiscuity

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from "Miss Honest," the high school girl who believes in free love and sees nothing wrong with going to bed with a boy if she "likes him as a person."

That letter could have been written by me, five years ago. I put up the same foolish arguments. Here is how my life turned out, and I am only 22.

I was married at 17 — three months pregnant. Bill and I have been married three years and have been separated for one. We started divorce proceedings six months ago and discovered I was pregnant so we called off the divorce and are trying to work things out.

I am so tired of sex I could scream. It used to be the beginning and end of the world and now I hate the thought of it. I realize I am not being fair to Bill and I am sorry.

I talked to my doctor about this and he told me that due to my early promiscuity I have become disoriented sexually and need psychiatric help. I don't have the words in the dictionary and what it boils down to is that I ran around so much when I was in my early teens that sex has lost its importance to me and I'm disgusted.

I hope Miss Free Love (and all the other young girls who think they can play this game and get away with it) will learn something from my experience. Believe me, Ann, I am — PAYING DEARLY.

DEAR PAYING: Thanks for sharing. I hope you will take your doctor's advice. The first step is understanding the problem, and you do, so now get going.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 12-year-old son has been a nail biter since childhood. I don't recall ever seeing Buddy with his fingers in his mouth, at least not in the past five or six years, so he must do the biting in private. Yesterday he was walking around barefooted and I noticed that Buddy's toenails are also very short. They look very much like his fingernails. I asked him if he cuts his toenails with a scissors and he said, no. What do you make of this? — BAFFLED.

DEAR BAFFLED: Are you suggesting that your son bites his toenails? This likelihood is simply improbable.

There is a possibility that Buddy has a disease of the nails — both finger and toe — which stunts the growth. Take him to a doctor. If there is no evidence of disease, the boy is probably picking off his toenails and biting his fingernails.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I happen to be one of those unfortunate people who has terrible handwriting. I just can't seem to get the words down so people can read them.

Recently I sent a note of condolence to a friend whose husband had passed away. It was typewritten. I later heard that I had committed a grave social error. Such notice, I was told, in no uncertain terms, should always be handwritten. What about this? — PERPLEXED.

DEAR PER: Better a typewritten note than a hand-written one no one can read.

A Familiar Ring for UK

Gnomes of Zurich Bring Back Memories of 1931 Gold Bust

LONDON (AP) — The last time Britain was enmeshed in a major international financial crisis she devalued the pound sterling and went off gold.

The date: Sept. 21, 1931.

Abandonment of gold backing —the system under which the monetary unit is kept at the value at a fixed weight of gold —shook the City of London to its foundations.

The trouble which blew up in 1931 wasn't entirely from clear skies. There had been the Wall Street crash of 1929.

Then, as now, it was the Gnomes of Zurich who had started things back in July by becoming worried about Britain's short-term position.

The drain began. The Bank of England lost nearly £70,000,000 more than $280,000,000 at the then current exchange rate in gold and foreign currencies between July 15 and Aug. 1. To help compensate this it raised credits of £25,000,000 more than $100,000,000 in both New York and Paris.

This failed to restore confidence with continental bankers. For, then as not, Britain had a balance-of-payments deficit running at £100,000,000 a year. Today's deficit is more than five times that, but £100,000,000 was a lot for the 1930s.

And, then as now, Labor government policies were under fire. A parliamentary report accused British of living beyond her means.

The arguments have a familiar ring: Only by balancing its own budget could the government convince other countries of its determination to defend the currency.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden stood at the centre of the storm.

The Bank of England was calling urgently for new credits to hold the pound. Somehow an economy program had to be produced to satisfy skeptical foreign bankers.

But, when MacDonald asked his cabinet to agree to a 10-per-cent slash in the dole to help meet his economies figure, nine out of the 21 ministers refused. Britain's first Labor government fell.

On Aug. 24, King George V asked MacDonald to form a national coalition government, to face the crisis. He formed a new cabinet with Conservative and some Liberal support.

Credits were raised in New York and Paris. Snowden introduced an emergency budget with rigid economies and higher taxes.

But the flight from the pound could not be halted. On Sept. 21, Britain went off the gold standard after all.

Where Does Gold Go?

LONDON (AP) — The London, Paris or Zurich bullion dealer, even today in the throes of a worldwide financial crisis, would rather cut off his hand than identify one of his clients.

The assurance of complete customer anonymity is one of the basic requirements of the trade.

Yet by tracing traditional patterns and carefully putting together snippets of trade news and gossip, it is not too difficult to see where the gold goes.

Probably the largest single hoard lies in the Arab states of the Middle East, where U.S. dollars are piped in as oil royalties. The sheikhs have long preferred the solidity of gold and waste little time converting their dollars.

European middle classes and peasants always have held gold as a defence against war, inflation and currency collapse. Gold seems a sound bet to the Frenchman who has seen his franc devalued 14 times since the First World War.

In some European countries many businessmen feel safer with a portion of their reserve assets in gold. The metal stands as a hedge against inflation.

German Bank Sells Gold

Employees of a bank in Frankfurt, West Germany, load a fortune in fine gold ingots into cartons for delivery to buyers. The French government refused to join in the suspension of gold trading and ordered the Paris gold market opened as usual. But otherwise all dealing in gold was suspended across the continent.

U.S. Last to Be Harmed If Money System Collapses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many U.S. officials believe that if foreign gold speculators bring about a collapse of the world monetary system, the United States would be among the countries last harmed.

It is agreed that a devaluation of the U.S. dollar in terms of gold or an abandonment of the fixed exchange values among world currencies would precipitate a period of disruption, hesitation and uncertainty in world commerce.

If foreign trade were thus stalled, the countries most dependent on exports would suffer most—and the United States is less dependent on foreign trade than any other major power.

Government sources point out that exports of U.S. goods in 1967 totalled about $30,000,000,000 or less than four per-cent of the total national output of goods and services. For most European and other industrial countries the proportion is 20 per cent or more.

Those countries therefore would be hard hit by any prolonged period of disorder during which buyers and sellers in foreign trade found it difficult or impossible to close sales bases on firm currency values.

That is one reason, officials point out, why the major European countries have pitched in to help defend the U.S. dollar—with the notable exception of France. Paris has brought gold heavily and hopes for a revaluation that would perhaps double the value of its hoarded gold reserves.

It is assumed by financial experts that if the United States let the gold price rise the move would set off an almost global chain of greater or smaller currency devaluations—from which the dollar would emerge again as the dominant currency.

A period of stagnation in world trade caused by currency uncertainties would be most painful, however, to American companies which rely on foreign markets for a major or substantial part in their sales volume.

And if the slump in foreign trade should contribute to economic depression for the most important U.S. trading partners —including Canada, Japan and Britain—officials acknowledge that the United States could not avoid some significant adverse domestic impact.

Sharp Predicts Two Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp expects a two-price system for gold to be developed this weekend, but no devaluation of world currencies—including Canada's dollar.

Under the two-price system, gold would continue to be traded between governments as a backing for their currencies at $35 an ounce in U.S. funds.

But a secondary market would be permitted in which the price of gold would fluctuate according to supply and demand, and the buyers and sellers would be gold users and investors.

Such a free market would benefit Canadian gold mines, which now have to be subsidized by the government in order to produce gold for sale to the Royal Canadian Mint at the Canadian equivalent of $35 U.S. This week the govedpment paid $38.015 an ounce, plus the subsidy depending on each mine's cost of production.

If the free market develops, the government probably will discontinue the gold subsidy. Mines would be able to get a higher price as long as demand for gold remains strong.

It hit $44 an ounce during the speculative flurry on the Paris market Friday—the only major world gold market to remain open after the London market was closed.

Mr. Sharp called a press conference Friday night, after the Commons rose for the week, to announce he is still in the Liberal Party leadership race. But he cancelled his plans for a Western swing this weekend to remain in Ottawa watching the gold situation.

Royal Fashion On Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, dined, danced and made merry Friday night along with some 400 New York socially-prominent and theatrical personalities who gathered to honor the royal couple and raise some money for charity.

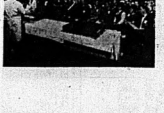
The men almost outshone the women in the fashion department among the guests who danced to the music of Peter Duchin's orchestra, supped on salmon and steak and were entertained by a group of performers including Jack Cassidy and Shirley Jones, Dionne Warwick, Lisa Kirk and Tony Randall.

Actor Richard Harris, one of those performing, was in a red velvet jacket. Several others displayed dress shirts and black bow ties with turtlenecks and necklaces adorned with jewelled medallions. And actor George Grizzard stepped out on the dance floor in a blue uniform with red epaulettes which even he was hard put to describe.

"I guess you could say it's a uniform," he said. "Doug Fairbanks was staring at it. I think he thought he wore it in Gunga Din."

Susan Stein, Grizzard's date, matched her escort's five feathers by sporting a red, white and blue-striped silk crepe formal and huge red, white and blue earrings by jewelry designer Kenneth Lane.

Most of the women wore floor-length gowns.



Princess Margaret, in a long, white lace gown with jewelled collar, and Snowdon, in a midnight blueteuxedo and white turtleneck, arrived shortly after 9 p.m.

The proceeds of the $125-a-person soiree went to the New York Association for Brain-Injured Children.

The royal couple were invited to attend the charity ball by Sharman Douglas, daughter of a former U.S. ambassador to Britain, a friend of the princess.

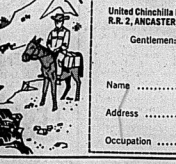
A small capital investment payable over a two year period, can make you many thousands of dollars in just a few short years.

EDUCATION

United Chinchilla Breeders "new rancher" training programme includes regular work shops, such as illustrated here. U.C.B. members are kept up to date on all the latest developments in the chinchilla industry through lectures and discussion periods. They are conducted by leading authorities, and are designed along with our monthly bulletins, ranch inspections, and training manuals, to fully inform each rancher as to the care and feeding of his animals, setting up and maintaining a successful breeding programme, and assist the new rancher in every way possible to operate a financially successful business.

BREEDING STOCK

United Chinchilla Breeders carefully select only top quality breeding stock for new ranchers. These animals are the cream of our Preferred Rancher blood lines. They are mated in polygamous units at our U.C.B. Ranch and given all necessary tests to make sure that they will live happily together, and breed productively. The animals supplied by U.C.B. are guaranteed to live and reproduce and written warranties are supplied to each new rancher.



HOUSING AND CARE

Chinchillas are housed in galvanized wire cages, which can easily be set up in a dry basement or garage, clean wood shavings are used for the bedding material, which requires changing only once a week. A water bottle attached to each cage assures a clean, fresh supply of water. Vitaminized pellets are placed daily in the feed hopper located at the front of each cage. The chinchilla bathes in attapulgus clay placed in the cage each evening. He rolls around in this bath, keeping his fur clean, fluffy, and completely odour free.

The demand for top quality chinchilla pelts is extremely high, and they command a market price of from $20.00 to $50.00 per pelt. A full length chinchilla garment requires from 80 to 120 pelts, and they are designed and marketed by leading fur salons throughout the fashion world. The trade name "Aurora Chinchilla" is synonymous for fur, is known and respected throughout the industry. The outstanding beauty, extreme lightweight, and exquisite softness of chinchilla assures a continually growing demand for this most luxurious fur.

HISTORY

The Chinchilla is native to the Andes Mountain region of South America, and is named after the Chincha Indian, who hunted and trapped the little animal for food and clothing. Gradually, down through the centuries, the demand for chinchilla fur spread all over the world by way of the Spanish adventurers who killed the little animals by the thousands, and took the fur back to Spain, where chinchilla fur was worn by only the wealthiest people. By the early 1900's the chinchilla had become almost extinct, and a government ban was placed on their further export. The animal was finally rescued from complete extinction by an American mining engineer by the name of Mathias F. Chapman, who secured permission from the authorities to search for the few remaining chinchillas still in existence. Over a period of three long, frustrating years, Chapman managed to gather a herd of eleven animals, only four of which were females. From this small colony which was brought to the United States in 1923, the chinchilla industry has grown into a multi-million dollar business. Thanks to the faith and perseverance of Mathias F. Chapman, chinchilla fur is now available as one of the most beautiful and valuable of all furs.

SPORT SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

Will Memorial arena or the new Community Gardens resound to the cheers of lacrosse fans within the next few years?

Will professional lacrosse resurge to the point where it will challenge baseball, hockey and football, fan and television-wise?

There are people who think it will.

The formation of an International Professional Lacrosse League, it is claimed, has laid the foundation of a nation-wide upsurge in interest in the national sport.

Member teams of the new professional lacrosse loop include Montreal, Peterborough, Vancouver, Victoria, New Westminster, Portland, Oregon, Toronto and Detroit.

If expansion plans materialize, next year will see entries from Detroit, New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

It is the first venture of the Canadian Pacific coast teams into professional ranks. Peterborough, long a lacrosse hotbed and Toronto will play their pro "maiden" year.

Representatives of pro teams and those of district centres held a press conference in Peterborough this week.

Efforts will be made to revive the sport in former lacrosse centres and introduce it to those places to which the game is new.

This city will see its first game of box lacrosse in nearly four decades in early May when two clubs of the Professional League will stage an exhibition game here.

And just to prove the younger fry can play the sport, two power teams will stage a pre-pro exhibition tilt.

Also displaying their lacrosse wares here will be two top junior clubs the Toronto Maitlands and the Peterborough Petes.

Lacrosse was played in Belleville several years ago and is now on the sports curricula of the city's secondary schools.

The sport died a lingering death in this area with Peterborough and Cornwall the only large centres to retain its identity.

It still maintains a strong hold in these cities with Peterborough boasting Mann Cup championships as not a few occasions.

Ike Hildebrand, well-known here as coach of the world amateur hockey champions of 1959 the McFarlands, was a noted player for the Petes.

Confident that lacrosse is on the threshold of wide-spread resurgence, the new professional clubs will help to promote the sport in their various district centres.

They will concentrate on minor and junior clubs since they will form the "feed-boxes" of the future.

Consensus of the Peterborough meeting was that lacrosse stands on the threshold of wide-spread revival and, as was noted, within the next few years should take its place with pro hockey, football and baseball.

The exhibition games slated for this city early in May should prove nostalgic to old lacrosse fans but provide a new sports spectacle for those who have yet to see the game played.

And if I can be forgiven for indulging in the whim of a visionary, a Belleville entry in the International Professional Lacrosse League, would be a source of summer revenue for the commercial Community Centre, if and when, in a few short years to come.

With the exception of the minors, summer spectator sports here have noted a decline in the past two or three years. Senior baseball almost faded away but hopes to get a new lease of life this year, Senior softball reached lulo one team in a district league in 1967.

Perhaps lacrosse may prove a boon to those Sunday sports fans who eschew fishing, hunting, cottaging, camping and "carring" and would welcome the he-man action of the gutted stick exponents.

NHL Brass Rejects Vancouver Bid

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A ray of light penetrated the murk surrounding two struggling teams in the National Hockey League expansion Western Division Friday.

Vancouver hockey fans could only watch as NHL governors in turn shot down a proposed takeover of Oakland Seals by Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. and transfer of the franchise to Vancouver.

But the Quebec City Bud Poile, general manager of Philadelphia Flyers, the other troubled team, Friday suggested a simple swap of franchises that may hold the answer to all problems.

He suggested the Philadelphia franchise could be moved to Oakland or San Francisco while the Oakland franchise could go to Vancouver.

The Flyers have been on the road since March 1 when damage was done to the roof of their home Spectrum by high winds and the building since has been plunged into a mire of local politicis.

With no indication of when the Spectrum might be reopened, Flyers president Bill Putnam Thursday said the club might soon have to consider looking for a new permanent home unless the situation was quickly resolved.

Friday, Poile said:

"If I had my way, I'd gladly shift from Philadelphia to San Francisco-Oakland. Let the Seals move to Vancouver and we'll replace them.

"Any thought of leaving there seems a little ridiculous to me.

"One year in the Western League we did $600,000 worth of business in the Cow Palace in 'Frisco. Naturally you should do more with a big-league operation."

Poile managed the San Francisco entry in the WHL for six years prior to expansion of the NHL this year and his joining the Flyers.

With Los Angeles and Toronto owners strongly opposed to shifting the Oakland franchise to Vancouver and with Montreal and St. Louis management reported to be lukewarm at best, William Wirtz, president of Chicago Black Hawks, Friday appeared to drive the last spike into the proposal.

He said in Chicago he considers the move premature and unlikely.

"I'd say the deal would not be able to accumulate the necessary nine of 12 votes needed."

By NHL bylaws, nine of 12 league governors must approve either sale or transfer of any league franchise.

Wirtz added that the league is strongly against moving out of the San Francisco area.

But still the offers keep crowding in for the Oakland franchise, the latest being from Ralph Wilson, owner of Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

Wilson, who lost out to Jack Kent Cooke for the Los Angeles franchise a year ago, Friday entered a bid for the club, which led NHL president Clarence Campbell to observe from Montreal:

"The Labatt deal was strictly conditional, depending on league approval for a move to Vancouver.

"I don't think the Seals solved anything at all by dealing with the brewery."

He also said Wilson's application and others that have been received might yet reopen bidding on the Oakland franchise.

Nicklaus Tops Pack; Palmer Out

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus is out in front. Arnold Palmer simply is out. Period.

"I can't recall when I shot that bad," Palmer said after taking a disastrous 79 Friday and failing to qualify for the final 36 holes of the Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament. He had a front nine 41 and missed the cut by two strokes.

Nicklaus, meanwhile, claimed a two-stroke lead going into today's third round. He fired a four-under-par 68 Friday for 135. Bob Charles, a New Zealand lefty, was second with a 69 for 137.

Miller Barber, who shot a second-round 71; Don Massengale with a 70, and Dan Sikes with a 67 were deadlocked at 138, one stroke in front of Australians Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin.

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 70 to finish the round tied at 141 with 10 others.

Defending champion Julius Boros was back in the pack at 143, despite a 70 in the second round. South African Gary Player was in better shape after shooting a 68 for a 140.

Nicklaus, however, appeared set to pick up his first winner's check ever for a tour victory in Florida.

"I've finished second in all the Florida tournaments, but I've never won one," Nicklaus said. "I've got an opportunity to take care of that this week."

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP) — Teams from opposite ends of the country will clash here tonight for the Canadian senior basketball championship.

The two are Vancouver Grocers, who clobbered Windsor Ont., Wanderers 79-54 in the opening game of a four-team tournament Friday night and Halifax Schooners, who scored a last-minute 69-66 victory over Winnipeg St. Andrew's Dunlops.

Windsor and Winnipeg will meet in a preliminary game tonight to decide the third-place finisher.

The Halifax-Winnipeg game Friday night was decided by a 30-foot jump shot in dying seconds by Schooners' Brian Heaney. The ball dropped through the basket as the final buzzer sounded.

A crowd of 1,800 was on its feet in the final minutes as Winnipeg cut into Schooners' 15-point margin at the half, reducing it to one point with six minutes to go in the game.

Junior "A" Playoffs

Outshot Habs Win 6-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Being outplayed and outshot does not always lead to defeat —ask Montreal Junior Canadiens.

The Canadiens took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A quarter-final playoffs Friday by defeating St. Catharines Black Hawks 6-3.

But the Hawks, playing at home, outshot the Canadiens 48-25.

It was something the same Tuesday in the first game at Montreal. The Montrealers trailed 8-4 in the third period but rallied for five goals to win 9-8.

In Friday's other playoff action, Kitchener Rangers defeated Toronto Marlboros 4-2 in the opening game of their best-of-seven series. Niagara Falls Flyers beat Peterborough Petes 6-2 to lead 2-1 in theirs, and underdog London Nationals tied their series 1-1 by upsetting Hamilton Red Wings 9-4.

The Canadiens, outshot 24-12 in the first period, 15-5 in the second and 9-8 in the third, got two goals from Jean-Guy Gratton, Paul Lessard, Ralph Stewart, Marc Tardif and Rejean Houle scored the others. Ron Anderson scored twice for the Black Hawks and Dale Power once.

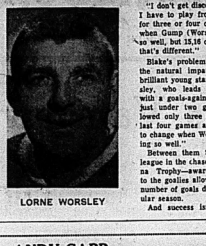
While "Gump" Rides Hump of Success, Vachon Frets on Bench



By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Sport Writer

Rogatien Vachon has a problem that Montreal Canadiens don't seem in any hurry to help him solve.

The problem facing the 22-year-old goaltending whiz is, of course, how to get back into the lineup with the leaders of the National Hockey League's Eastern Division.

Montreal appears destined to close out the 74-game schedule in first place, and unless he runs into more grief than coach Toe Blake figures he can handle, Lorne Worsley appears to be the popular choice as goalie.

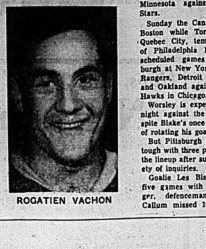
It's not that Vachon doesn't appreciate the position of the club management either.

LORNE WORSLEY

"I don't get discouraged when I have to play from the bench for three or four or five games when Gump (Worsley) is doing so well, but 15,16 or 17 games—that's different."

Blake's problem is satisfying the natural impatience of his brilliant young star is that Worsley, who leads NHL goalies with a goals-against average of just under two goals, has allowed only three in Montreal's last four games and "It's hard to change when Worsley is playing so well."

Between them they lead the league in the chase for the Vezina Trophy—awarded annually to the goalies allowing the least number of goals during the regular season.



And success isn't something NHL coaches tamper with lightly.

A couple of other goalies who came up shining Friday are Glenn Hall of St. Louis Blues and Gary Smith of Oakland Seals.

They were instrumental in the 1-1 tie played between their teams in the only scheduled game, Hall turning aside 28 Oakland drives and Gary safely handling 42 by the Blues.

The only players to beat them were Red Berenson for St. Louis and Ron Harris for Oakland.

The Blues are back in action tonight, at home to Detroit Red Wings, while Pittsburgh Penguins visit the Canadiens, Boston Bruins play in Toronto against the Maple Leafs and Los Angeles Kings are in Minnesota against the North Stars.

ROGATIEN VACHON

Sunday the Canadiens are in Boston while Toronto goes to Quebec City, temporary home of Philadelphia Flyers. Other scheduled games have Pittsburgh at New York against the Rangers, Detroit at Minnesota and Oakland against the Black Hawks in Chicago.

Worsley is expected to go tonight against the Penguins despite Blake's once firm intention of rotating his goalies regularly.

But Pittsburgh could turn up tough with three players back in the lineup after suffering a variety of injuries.

Goalie Les Blakley was out five games with a broken finger, defenceman Dunk McCallum missed 10 games with chest and rib injuries and centre Earl Ingarfield skipped the team's last game because of a negative reaction to penicillin treatment.

Toronto hopes for a possible playoff berth in the east suffered a minor setback Friday when it was discovered that left winger Wayne Carleton has been playing with a broken left wrist, now in a cast, that will keep him out of action the remainder of the season.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By ROB BLAIND

Spring is just around the corner. Mr. Crow is starting to appear around the country and several woodchucks have been seen on these beautiful sunny days we are having.

Ice fishermen are taking full advantage of this nice weather to pursue their favorite fish, be it Trout, Pickerel, Pike or Perch. Upwards of 600 fishermen are fishing Desert and Devil Lakes north of Kingston every Saturday and Sunday since the opening day and almost any week day will see at the very least 150 fishermen on Desert Lake alone.

Moira Lake has produced more Pickerel this winter than any year on record. I have kept a reasonable count of many of the fishermen who fish at this lake and the count was over 2,000 Pickerel

This lake has been very heavily fished. Hundreds of fishermen have made the lake look like a honeycomb with the number of holes cut. Fish cerbies were on at the lake by several clubs and nearly every fisherman has had good luck with Pickerel here. A real hot spot this year.

Jack Wardhugh picked up his limit of nice specks last weekend and no headed out again for another try today.

Crow hunters can get ready anytime now for a good practice round of shotgunning.

County refuse dumps are very good spots to hunt these wily ghosts.

Now another rap on the new licence for fishing and the increase in price of the hunting permits.

I have talked to hundreds of fishermen in the past two or three days and have listened to all kinds of objections in connection to the new licences.

The main beef of most fishermen is this: Monies collected from hunting and fishing fees should be earmarked for improvement of hunting and fishing in Ontario and not put in a general fund to build roads, schools, bridges etc.

According to our forestry minister Rene Brunelle it is government policy that revenue from these sources go into a general fund and there is little chance this money raised from the sale of hunting and fishing will be "earmarked" for conservation purposes.

At present, petitions have sprung up all over Eastern Ontario against the new licence unless earmarked for conservation. One sports shop in Belleville collected over 500 names in two days. All fishermen and hunters from all walks of life, laborers, teachers, housewives, businessmen, lawyers, doctors, name the occupation their name will be on the protest slip.

It looks like a new tax to fatten the pot in order to help pay for anything but hunting, fishing and pollution.

I also see the non-resident angler is going to pay more for a fishing licence and the three day permit is being done away with a real good tourist attraction. We apparently do not need any U.S. dollars anymore.

By the way if you would like to sign this petition give me a call.

Nancy Up for World Cup

ASPEN, Colo. (CP-AP)—Nancy Greene, Canada's Olympic gold medalist, won the women's downhill event in the Roch Cup ski race Friday, a victory that moved her to second from fourth spot in the World Cup standings.

Miss Greene, the defending World Cup champion from Rossland, B.C., skimmed over the 1¼-mile course in one minutes 33.29 seconds and was exhilarated over the result.

Although some racers said, tion, finished third behind Austria's Gerhard Nenning and Haini Messner.

Nenning, skiing in perfect style through a dangerous curve called the Strawpile, captured the event in 1:33.49. Messner was timed in 2:01.82 and Kilty in 2:02.15.

Bob Beattie, the U.S. ski team coach, said Kilty probably lost the event at the Strawpile.

"He came in a little wide, caught an edge and lost his poise."

Kilty, who started 12th in the field of 71 skiers, admitted he went wide there but added: "I lost time at like way down."

It was near the same Strawpile that Austrian Christl Haas fell and twisted her left leg. Up to that time, she had been closely pressing Miss Greene.

they felt the course was soft after two days of snow totalling 16 inches, Nancy said: "It was in excellent shape. This is my best event anyway, and everything went perfectly."

Everything went less than perfectly for Jean-Claude Killy, the French super-star who had been favored to win the men's downhill.

Kinsmen Win Opener

The Belleville Kinsmen pulled out a well-deserved win in the opening game of the OMHA Bantam AA semi-finals here last night blanking the strong Brampton team by a 2-0 score.

The second game of the best-of-three series is slated from Brampton, Sunday, March 24th.

The Kinsmen youngsters came up with one of their best efforts of the season with the defence turning in an outstanding effort.

The front lines checked hard stopping many goal-seeking forays by the speedy Brampton front lines.

A highlight of the game was the sterling effort put out by Roger Lamorre the Kinsmen goalie who was full value for,

and thoroughly deserved the shutout.

The city youngsters got away to an early start, Rick Meagher scoring the first goal in the opening minute of play on a neat passing play with Cliff Jasitsch.

It was a slip-and-tuck battle from here on until the middle of the second period when David Smith scored the second goal on a well-executed three-way passing effort with Danny Lapinteie and Mike Rollins.

Stung by the setback Brampton went all out in the third period to pull the game out of the fire.

They drove hard against a stubborn Kinsmen defence and with 90 seconds to go pulled the goalie. The Kinsmen defence held until the final whistle.

The game was cleanly played with only a few minor penalties being handed out.

Minor Hockey

Wings defeated Americans 6-4 and Rangers turned back the Leafs 6-1 in BMHA novice games last night.

The Rangers divided their goals six ways, Paul Hayman, Glen Woodley, Paul Bunnett, Barry Beer, Brian Kerr and Wayne Bates doing the scoring.

Gordie Male counted the Leafs goal.

M. Lowry scored twice for the Wings and B. Hamilton, C. Rutledge, P. Kincaid, and G. Siddal adding singles.

John McAuley, Greg Pearson, Richard Saylor and Mike Addison were the Americans marksmen.

Kings Win!

"Power" Play Nips Aces!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They played it close to the vest in Ontario Hockey Association Senior playoff action Friday night.

Both Galt Hornets and Collingwood Kings had to score late-game goals to pick up key victories.

Galt edged Kingston Aces 4-3 when Ted Brown's goal was the winner with only 30 seconds left in the game. The Hornets now lead the best-of-seven, semi-finals with two consecutive victories.

Power shared the scoring with Bill Hway, Pete Brennan and John Beechry. Tom Carty paced the Aces with two goals while Eddy Long notched the other.

In Toronto, Collingwood's Fern St. Onge scored the winning goal with a rising slapshot that helped thump Toronto Marlboros 4-3. The win gives Collingwood a 2-1 lead in the series.

Clair Alexander, Hec Brainard and Dave Fitter were the other Collingwood marksmen. Bob Awrey paced the Marlies with two goals and Grant Moore added one.

In Kingston, Galt led 1-0 after the first period and 2-0 early in the second before two consecutive goals by Carty tied the score at 2-2.

Galt's Don Snider picked up a game misconduct midway through the third period. He won't be allowed to play in the third game of the series on home ice tonight unless the Hornets win at least his $25 fine.

Marlies took a 2-1 first-period lead, but Collingwood tied it 2-2 during the second. In the third, Collingwood took the lead before Toronto tied it again. St. Onge scored at 16:06.

Toronto lost what could have been the tying goal with 1:20 remaining in the game when the goal judge put on the red light, then changed his mind, saying the puck did not cross the goal line.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla. (CP-AP) — Sandra Haynie opened the 1968 ladies PGA season Friday by shooting a slick 69 and taking a one-stroke first-round lead in the St. Petersburg Orange Blossom open golf tournament.

Miss Haynie missed a chance to end with a two-stroke lead when she three-putted the 18th hole.

One shot back with a 70 was Kathy Whitworth.

Sandra Post, 19, of Oakville, Ont., shot a 38-39 to finish tied with six other players at 77. Miss Post is Canada's first female golf pro.

Saskatchewan First Rink To Win Second Mixed Title In Row

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Larry McGrath of Kindersley, Sask., who curls as if he invented the game, sat back with the bye Friday night and watched the other 10 rinks rush for a place in the.

McGrath's foursome earlier became the first in the five-year history of the Canadian mixed curling championship to take the title twice in a row.

All that stood between the 28-year-old wheat farmer and a perfect 10-game record was the 11th and final round against Nova Scotia today. Nova Scotia was tied for last place with Manitoba and New Brunswick after 10 rounds.

The same Saskatchewan rink won the title last year in Quebec City. McGrath said he would like to get the same four together next year and try for three straight.

His third, Darlene Hill, said she would be "ready and waiting" for the chance.

Mrs. Hill said her red-haired skip, with his long, low delivery always "plays the shot that should be made."

"It gives you a lot of confidence," she added, "but if you miss a shot it doesn't bother him—he's right there to fix it up."

Lead Marlene Dursett and second John Gunn fill out the rink.

Bill Tetley of Port Arthur notched another second-place finish for Northern Ontario on the mixed when he defeated Peter Connell of Arnprior, Ont., 14-3. The Tetley rink finished tied for second-place in the 1966 mixed.

The Northern Ontario skip coaxed five points out of the first end of the game and stole five more in the second.

The game ended with both rinks throwing their rocks against the back-stop to play out the regulation eight ends.

Third-place Edward Stochinsky of Edmonton drew the four-foot in the 10th end to force an extra end in his game against Earl Carson of Bagotville, Que.

In the extra end, Stochinsky was lying shot rock when Carson wrecked his last rock on a guard and gave the Albertans the game 7-6.

British Columbia's Vern Becker of Kimberley and Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown were tied in fourth with five wins and four losses after the 10th end.

Carson and Frank Stent of St. John's, Nfld., were tied with Connell was 4-6. Robertson, Jim Hodgson of Roland, Man., and Fred Fraser of Moncton, N.B., had two wins and seven losses.

In other final-round games today, it was to be Manitoba vs. B.C., Northern Ontario vs. Newfoundland, Alberta vs. New Brunswick and P.E.I. vs. Quebec. Ontario had the bye.

Three for George Scott

Home-Run Bug Bites Bosox Giant!

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

You'd think pitchers would let a man George Scott's size have his way. But they keep challenging the big guy and so he keeps hitting baseballs out of sight.

Scott, Boston's huge first baseman, hammered his third home run of the spring Friday, lifting the Red Sox to a 3-1 exhibition victory over the Houston Astros.

It was Scott's ninth hit in 17 at bats.

In other action Friday, Oakland whacked Washington 8-4, Detroit shaded Philadelphia 2-1, Pittsburgh tagged the New York Mets 8-1, and Cincinnati topped Atlanta 7-5.

Also, St. Louis nipped Minnesota 3-4, California defeated San Francisco 3-1, Cleveland dropped the Chicago Cubs 4-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged Chicago White Sox 4-2 and Baltimore topped Los Angeles 4-2.

Tenth-inning home runs by Jim Pagliaroni and Sal Bando helped Oakland overcome Washington. Reggie Jackson and Dick Green also homered for the Athletics.

Bill Freehan's fourth-inning homer snapped a scoreless streak of 30 2-3 innings pieced together by Philadelphia's pitching staff, and the Tigers went on to beat the Phillies when Dick McAuliffe scored all the way from first base on Lennie Green's two-out seventh-inning single.

Willie Stargell and Bob Robertson snapped spring slumps with home runs as the Pirates ran over the Mets. Both shots came with one man on base.

Two errors by Felix Millan and another by Bob Tillman helped Cincinnati to four runs in the third inning as the Reds rolled over Atlanta.

Three straight two-out singles in the eighth inning by Curt Flood, Bobby Tolan and Ed Spiezio snapped a 4-4 tie and gave St. Louis its victory over Minnesota. Flood also cracked a two-run homer.

Juan Marichal worked five innings and was tagged for two runs and the loss as California defeated San Francisco.

Vic Davalillo doubled, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on an infield bouncer as Cleveland pushed across a 14th-inning run to beat the Cubs.

Boog Powell drove in a pair of duns with two doubles and Dave Johnson knocked in two with a pair of singles as Baltimore beat Los Angeles.

New York Yankees stole five bases—three of them by Horace Clarke—overcoming 12 Chicago hits and five errors to beat the White Sox.

Pro Tour Golfers Get Good News

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Golf Association took steps Friday to give pro tournament golfers stronger representation in the U.S. Open.

Under new exemption provisions, winners of the last five U.S. Professional Golfers Association titles will be exempt from all qualifying. In the past, only the current champion was exempt.

Winners of tournaments on the PGA tour will be exempt for the first of two qualifying tests. Coming under this provision is George Knudson of Toronto, winner of two PGA tournaments this year. The 1968 Open is scheduled June 13-16 at the Oak Hill Country Club in Rochester, N.Y.

Not only is Buick a better car, it's a better buy. By far.

Too many people who would like to own a Buick seem to think all Buicks cost a lot of money. Some Buicks do. But a lot of models—like the LeSabre shown below—are priced right along with the so-called low-priced cars. So why buy a lesser car? Buick styling, prestige, luxury and comfort are unmatched. And Buick gives you a bigger return on your investment at trade-in time. All of which makes Buick a better buy. Your Buick dealer can prove it to you.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

Poll of Protestants Shows Disapproval of War Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixty-three per cent of Protestants polled in the U.S. and Canada disapprove of the way President Johnson is handling the Vietnam war.

A poll among members of nine major denominations indicated Friday they're about evenly divided over whether the conflict may prevent, or start a third world war, and nearly half of them think there is a likelihood that Russia or China may become a belligerent.

The United Church of Canada was included in the poll.

However, more than half of them think the United States should use any force short of nuclear weapons to achieve military victory, and a majority also opposes an immediate, unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

The findings, based on 33,934 replies to surveys conducted among readers of denomination al magazines, disclosed wide difference between clergy and laymen, with most clergy wanting more limits put on the war effort.

While 57 per cent of clergymen favored a prompt, unconditional halt to the bombing, only 28 per cent of laymen did so—an average 56 per cent. Also, 60 per cent of laymen favored a military push for victory, while only 30 per cent of the clergy did so—an average 56 per cent.

The questions were circulated prior to the recent Viet Cong Tet offensive, a spokesman explained, and should be interpreted in that light. Replies came from 28,000 lay persons and 2,005 clergy.

Viola MacMillan Released After Serving Nine Weeks

TORONTO (CP) — Viola MacMillan, the 64-year-old millionaire mining promoter convicted of wash trading last March, was released on parole Friday after serving nine weeks of a nine-month sentence.

Mrs. MacMillan was released from the Ingleside branch of Mercer reformatory. She was sentenced to nine months and fined $10,000 March 17, 1967, for wash trading in shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines Ltd.

Judge Garth Moore later amended the sentence to an indeterminate sentence not to exceed nine months under a provision of the Prisons and Reformatory Acts which states a woman, unless sentenced to a penitentiary, must be given an indeterminate sentence.

The Ontario Court of Appeal unanimously rejected her appeal Jan. 11, 1968, and Mrs. MacMillan started serving her term.

Wash trading is fraudulent manipulation of the market by trading in a stock with intent to create a misleading appearance of market price or active public trading.

This may be accomplished by buying and selling shares on an exchange, but without a real change in ownership, or by acting for both buyer and seller in a legitimate transaction, transferring the shares from one to the other.

The maximum penalty is five years in prison. The only other person convicted of the offence to date was Albert Gould. He received a three-year sentence in 1960 after pleading guilty to the charge in connection with Cabanga Mines Ltd.

Bodies of Two Airmen Found After Crash

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP) — A Canadian Forces search party Friday recovered the bodies of the pilot and navigator of a CF-101B Voodoo flight-interceptor which crashed earlier in the day near here while on a routine training mission.

The pilot was Lieut. Yvon Ytherriault of Riviere du Loup, Que., and the navigator was Capt. Harry Boulos of Barrie, Ont. Both men were single.

One body was found near the aircraft. The other still was in the plane's cockpit.

Val d'Or is 270 miles northwest of Montreal.

He said the aircraft belonged to Canadian Forces 425 squadron, based in Val d'Or.

Heart Canvass In County 'Over Top'

PICTON (Staff) — County Heart Canvass has gone "over the top" this year it was announced this week. Chairman of the campaign, William Strachan said that collections were more than double that of last year. Mr. Strachan's territory included all of Prince Edward County except the Town of Picton and donations totalled $1,680.57. Last year's comparable total was $800.

Mr. Strachan said that he was thrilled with the outstanding job done by the team captains in each of the municipalities and the generous assistance given by the many citizens who contributed so generously. Mr. Strachan added that not only is the campaign more than twice as successful as last year, but it has also been the first total collections from the county campaign.

Mickey Rooney Signs Singer Well Known in Belleville Area

The way to the stars is sheer hard work.

And if stardom comes to Wallace Williamson he will have earned it, says his Belleville-born wife.

Right now, the future augurs well and the Canadian tenor may be headed for fame and fortune.

Right now, he is in Windsor sharing the show-business act of film comedian Mickey Rooney — who may become the key figure in the singer's future success story.

After hearing Williamson sing in Toronto, Rooney signed him up on a holding-for-visitas of a career in movies.

"I plan on making movie musicals with him," Rooney says. "We'll probably have some other plans for him. Undoubtedly. His voice can make it."

Rooney, who is hoping to launch a Canadian film company recently was quoted as hoping to make a second Mario Lanza of his discovery.

Bellevillians already have had a chance to judge for themselves. The Williamsons gave a concert here in 1966.

It was music that first drew them together, his wife recalls, relaxing this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reid.

Wallace Williamson

After concluding her local education — her father was a history teacher at Belleville Collegiate — Tamsin Williamson went to the Royal Conservatory to further her piano studies.

While there she met Wallace Williamson and the couple eventually were married four years ago in Belleville.

Williamson's career has been an active one since.

The 30-year old tenor has sung with the Canadian Opera Company, for the CBC, in Stratford festival opera productions, and in summer stock with stars like Jane Powell, Van Johnson, Andy Williams.

For Tamsin Williamson, her husband's career has been that of a dedicated, hard-working professional.

If this is his first big break, he has qualified for it.

"We've been working for it for a long time," she says. "He deserves it. He has been in the business 10 years and always made his entire living at it."

"Sometimes" she adds musingly, "it's been a bit of a struggle. It's difficult to get a break in Canada."

Canada is a demanding environment for the artist, she agrees.

"They don't seem to want to make big stars in Canada. I don't know why." she ponders.

The show - biz breakthrough for her husband came about two weeks ago when he went down to see Rooney who is playing the Royal York's Imperial Room.

Rooney was delighted when he heard her husband sir a song the comedian had written. He signed Williamson into his act.

This week the act moved into Windsor.

After that, Williamson goes his own way for the moment to fill bookings in Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

En route, he will be conferring with Rooney's manager in Hollywood.

As for the singer, a change for the better already is apparent.

"Just appearing with me other offers," he says. Mickey has already brought "Performing with him opens people's eyes right away."

Mrs. Tamsin Williamson pores over score in music room of parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reid, R. R. 1 Belleville. Music is the key to success for Mrs. Williamson and husband Wallace — long a hardworking tenor now with sudden prospects of stardom.

Worms May Make Baby Cry on Waking

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

A bit agh we had a letter from the mother of a baby who fell asleep easily enough but woke frequently with a shriek and and crying.

I suggested — and still feel — that one strong possibility was emotional. It's years, the child already had been in the hospital five times for surgery, and that's no picnic.

However, some readers take issue with me. From Massachusetts:

Dear Doctor: I think you missed an extremely simple procedure — feed the child worms. Should this be the child's problem, relief is usually prompt and dramatic. — J. R.

Dear Doctor: We had the same trouble with our youngest daughter, who would open her eyes and scream as if scared to death. She said she could see snakes crawling off a neighbor's front porch — which she could not see from her bedroom. A friend suggested that she might have worms, and after use of a vermifuge, no more trouble. — H. T. C.

Piworms do indeed cause restlessness. Children grind their teeth, toss, roll, squirm, sometimes wake up from the discomfort.

But rather than suggest treating a restless child for piworms, I'd suggest that steps be taken to find out what is causing that restless. One way is to take a flashlight at night and examine the child's anal (rectal) area as the tiny worms choose night time to crawl out and lay eggs.

A more accurate way, though, is to use a sticky tape which has been developed for the purpose, and in the morning see whether any piworms or their eggs have been caught. Then you have evidence as to whether to start treating for the pests.

To finish things off, here's another letter, inspired by the same restless youngster, this one from Florida:

Dear Doctor: I just read about the 2½-year-old boy who wakes with a scream. You may be right about the trouble; however, I started doing that about 10 years ago, when it was caused by allergy which seemed to affect my nervous system.

I still get it once in a while. Then I take allergy pills, and it gets better in about 20 minutes. After blaming everything else, I found the culprit was bleach in my bed linen. Please tell the mother of the child about this. — L. O. W.

Moral of all the above, in eluding my own thought: It's dangerous to guess what the trouble is from symptoms which can result from various causes.

I can suggest things in this column, but when it comes to pinning down what an ailment is, instead of what it might be, there's no substitute for having your doctor explore various possibilities until the right one is determined.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for pregnancy to occur without penetration ? — B.H.R.

Yes — in your sense of the word "penetration." Pregnancy can occur whenever a viable sperm cell, by whatever means, reaches a fertile ovum or egg. To some extent the sperm can "swim" upward to enter the womb and reach an ovum.

Dear Dr. Molner: After reading your column I tried to buy medication containing tolnaftate but at three drug stores they said they never heard of it. It must be misspelled. — T. Y.

You have the spelling correct. Evidently nobody bothered to look it up in a drug and pharmacological index. However, since it is a prescription drug, you still couldn't buy it "over the counter." It is an excellent drug for combating certain types of fungus infections.

Shortage of Doctors in North At Critical Stage Claim MPPs

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature was told Friday that a Timmins boy nailed so long to be treated for a cut hand that he had to have transfusions to make up for the loss of blood.

During debate on a resolution presented by Patrick Reid (L—Rainy River) which called for a government investigation into the shortage of medical personnel in Northern Ontario, Rev. William Ferrier (NDP—Cochrane South) also told the house about a man who died of injuries suffered in a car crash.

He said the injured man was taken for treatment to the village of Matheson in Northern Ontario, but the only doctor was not there.

The man was then driven 20 miles to Iroquois Falls "but when he reached there he was dead," he said.

Mr. Ferrier said there is one doctor for every 776 residents in all of Ontario, but in the north the ratio is one in 1,103. Also, there is only one dentist for every 4,778 population in the north.

Mr. Reid said there is only one dentist to serve 8,000 resident of Atikokan, forcing many to drive 140 miles to Port Arthur and Fort William for dental treatment.

To overcome the shortage of medical personnel, Mr. Ferrier suggested that medical schools be operated year round to speed the training of doctors and that the salaries of nurses be increased to attract more women into the occupation.

William Newman (PC—Ontario South) agreed that nurses' salaries should be increased and added that last year 800 nurses left the province for better-paying jobs in the United States.

Both Liberal and NDP speakers favored government-subsidized flying health services for the north.

Murray Gaunt (L—Huron-Bruce) accused the government of robbing Chatham area farmers of $2,000,000 by allowing the province's last sugar beet refinery operated by Canada and Dominion Sugar Co. Ltd. to remain closed.

Agriculture Minister William Stewart told the legislature Thursday the owners of the refinery had refused to sell or rent the plant to anyone or to resume operations which ended Feb. 29.

He also said the government had decided against a "forceful take-over" because new staff would have to be hired and trained and about $1,000,000 in repairs done before it could resume operations.

Mr. Gaunt said since the government is to do nothing about the plant's shutdown, "$2,000,700 of federal money is lost to the industry in the way of support."

He said Mr. Stewart "intimated that the industry wasn't really vital to supplying our sugar needs."

"I don't agree. I think an industry that's worth $10,000,000 to the economy of the area in addition to supplying three per cent of the sugar needs in this Country is a vital industry."

Mac Makarchuk (NDP—Brantford) asked Mr. Stewart if the sugar beet growers would be compensated for their investment in equipments f use only in beet harvesting and fertilizer used to promote beet growth.

The agriculture minister replied that a firm has promised to buy the equipment "at depreciated prices" but no compensation is planned for fertilizer costs because the fertilizer "will be there for the benefit of other crops."

Opposition Declines to Rock Boat as Tax Bill Passes House

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government strock pay dirt Friday on its third try to carry budget-balancing tax legislation through Parliament.

The bill levying three-per-cent surtaxes on personal and corporate income taxes was approved by the Commons and advanced during the day to the final legislative stage before the Senate.

The upper chamber is expected to timetable the bill before March 25 to give the bill third reading.

Aware that the future of the international monetary system may hang on a meeting of seven gold-pool nations this weekend in Washington, Parliament was in no mood to rock the boat at home.

Opposition Leader Stanfield briefly repeated his party's objection to the surtaxes before submitting to a vote on third reading of the bill, which was carried 122 to 106 in what amounted to a foregone conclusion.

The 118 Liberals in the House were joined by three Social Credit members and J. A. Mongrain (Ind—Trois Rivieres) in voting for the bill.

Opposed were 76 Conservatives, 20 New Democrats, eight Creditistes, Gordon Churchill (Ind-PC—Winnipeg South Centre) and Gilles Gregoire* (Ind—Lapointe).

Standings in the 265-seat Commons: Liberal 130; Conservative 94; NDP 22; Creditiste 8; Social Credit 4; Independent 2; Independent PC 1; Vacant 4.

The Senate later gave the bill a second reading—approval in principle—and sent it to a one-hour committee session where Finance Minister Sharp defended the fiscal policy behind the taxes.

Mr. Sharp said a recent U.S. announcement exempting Canada fully from restrictions on direct American investment, as well as Ottawa's steps to bolster exchange resources, have combined with the taxes "to enable us to weather the international storm as well as we have."

With the $300,000,000 in budgetary revenues from the surtaxes and a speed-up of corporation tax collections, the government expects to come within $40,000,000 of balancing its $9,200,000,000 budget 1968-69.

All hope had been abandoned Friday that Commons business could be cleaned up to permit an immediate recess. Liberals are anxious to take up full-scale campaigning before the April 4 leadership convention and Conservatives have said they are willing to break off.

New Democrats, however, still nourished hope that they could force the government to bring back its legislation designed to reduce drug prices.

The NDP expressed criticism Friday of an increase in the Bank of Canada lending rate, prompted by a similar bank-rate increase Thursday night by the U.S.

Mr. Sharp said the increase would mean higher interest rates in Canada. But he said this action, together with suspension of gold trading for the day, was necessary to maintain capital flows into Canada and prevent disorder in gold sales.

One of the MPs missing from Friday's Commons vote was Ralph B. Cowan (L—York Humber), who earlier had been informed by the Liberal caucus that he would not be invited to any of its future deliberations.

Mr. Cowan voted against the tax bill on second reading and has been a harsh critic of his own party on many occasions since he was first elected in 1962.

No Firm Stand Yet - Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — The government still has an open mind on its proposed revision of laws on abortion, firearms and lotteries, Justice Minister Trudeau said in a formal statement Friday.

He issued a special 1,800-word clarification of several of the Criminal Code amendments introduced in the Commons 12 weeks ago. The omnibus bill incorporating the amendments has received first reading.

Mr. Trudeau said there has been considerable public confusion over some of the proposed changes.

"In most instances he defended contentious points in the legislation. But he said he always had intended to make any changes that appeared necessary as a result of public representations.

On abortion, he said there is confusion about the intent of the existing law.

As proposed, the law would permit a hospital committee to approve an abortion in circumstances where continuation of the pregnancy would endanger the life or health of the mother.

Whatever the views of the public may be, there is a need for clarification, Mr. Trudeau said.

He also referred to a $10,000 limit on the value of prizes religious and charitable organizations may award in running lotteries and games of chance.

The justice minister said he will recommend to cabinet a higher limit or no limit because he has learned that games of chance such as bingo "finance very useful and sometimes necessary community activities."

There also have been many misunderstandings of changes proposed in legislation governing possession and use of firearms, he said.

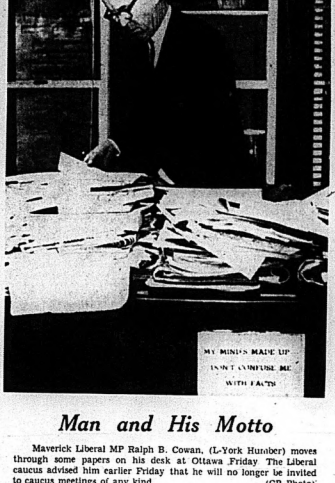
He said he would be meeting representatives of gun clubs and wildlife groups to discuss their concern.

Other amendments in the bill would remove any penalties for acts of gross indecency committed in private between consenting adults.

"In putting these amendments forward the government must not be taken to be condoning, in any manner whatever, this type of conduct," the statement said.

History No Longer Compulsory

TORONTO (CP) — The first vice-president of the Ontario Educational Association is dismayed at the provincial government's decision to drop history as a compulsory course for senior high school students next fall.



Walter Pitman, an associate history professor at Trent University and New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Peterborough, said in an interview Thursday:

"I can understand the pressures to take history off the compulsory list, but it is astounding that the government would take this step on the heels of Centennial Year without consulting history teachers in the province."

The government ruling was outlined in the latest high school regulations to school boards and principals. The regulations said history would be compulsory only until the end of Grade 10.

TO HOLD FESTIVAL

NEW DELHI (AP) — A synagogue at Cochin in the Indian state of Kerala will mark its 400th anniversary of continuous use with a festival next December. Historians, art and archeological experts and religious leaders from Europe, the Americas and India have been invited.

Man and His Motto

Maverick Liberal MP Ralph B. Cowan, (L-York Hunober) moves through some papers on his desk at Ottawa Friday The Liberal caucus advised him earlier Friday that he will no longer be invited to caucus meetings of any kind. (CP Photo)

Cut From Caucus

Cowan's Antics Prove Too Much

OTTAWA (CP) — Exasperated Liberal MPs finally cut maverick Ralph Cowan out of the herd Friday, more than a year after inviting him to get out.

"You can be a maverick and still be a member of the herd," the 63-year-old member for York-Humber said in response to the 1967 invitation to quit the party.

"But a maverick doesn't carry a brand."

Mr. Cowan, a constant critic of the Liberal government, was told Friday that he will no longer be invited to attend the weekly Liberal caucus of MPs.

He may attend uninvited, though he hasn't since Dec. 14.

It appeared likely he will have difficulty getting party support as the official candidate in his Toronto riding in the next election.

Mr. Cowan stopped the weekly meetings after Prime Minister Pearson announced his retirement intentions because he would not support what he termed "a lame-duck leader."

However, it wasn't that harsh statement—one of many since his election to Parliament in 1962—that finally irritated other Liberals to the point of action.

Nor was it the fact that Mr. Cowan voted against the federal surtax bill.

Caucus Chairman Russell P. Honey, MP for Durham, said the last straw was Mr. Cowan's suggestion that the tax bill, considered vital by the government, be withdrawn.

This was the latest in a series of irritations that began when Mr. Cowan, 63, bitterly fought introduction of the maple leaf flag in 1964.

A constant critic of bilingualism, he called Prime Minister Pearson "a weak leader" in a speech to the anti-French Canadian Bulldog party last year.

Early this year his criticism of the CBC irritated waspish State Secretary Judy LaMarsh to the point where she offered him $5.48, the corporation s per capita cost to each Canadian, "to shut up about it."

A barking orator and phrasemaker who can inject an hilarious bite into any argument, Mr. Cowan delivered passionate speeches in favor of retention of the death penalty.

His latest crusade seems to be shaping up against the abortion and homosexuality clauses in the Criminal Code amendments Justice Minister Trudeau introduced before Christmas.

In the meantime, he has been giving the hard-pressed government a hard time on its tax bill.

After the first bill was defeated Feb. 19 in a vote on third reading, with a number of Liberal MPs including himself caught out of town, he said many had good reason to be away.

But this was "more than I can say about someone who went off to Jamaica and was drinking rum swizzles and didn't leave a pair behind," he added in a typically devastating shaft at Mr. Pearson.

U.S. and Six Associates Halt Private Gold Sale

Market Price Swings Widely

LONDON (AP) — The weekend decision by central bankers in Washington to sell gold under a two-price system touched off wide swings when Europe's financial markets reopened today.

Gold shares on the London stock exchange fell sharply. Also the free market prices of gold jumped to about $45 an ounce when trading opened in Zurich. Both were predicted by economist experts.

Elsewhere caution prevailed. West German banks suspended the sale of gold pending establishment of a suitable free market price.

The unofficial gold market in Italy remained closed until prices become established.

Gold shares on the London stock market dropped by as much as £3 10s ($9.10) in heavy bout of selling at the opening.

The price of gold shares on the London exchange had been driven way up last week on the expectation that the Washington meeting would approve an increase in the official price for the metal.

The adoption instead of a two-price system—$35 an ounce for government central banks and a free market price for individuals—disappointed stock market speculators and touched off the selling wave.

The London gold bullion market, scene of the buying stampede that precipitated a major world financial crisis last week, remained closed today on government orders. It will remain closed for two weeks.

In the foreign exchange market, opened for the first time since Thursday, sterling was marked up sharply against the U.S. dollar at the start to $2.3980, then backed away to $2.3946 in light trading. It stood at $2.3900 at the close Thursday. Parity is $2.40.

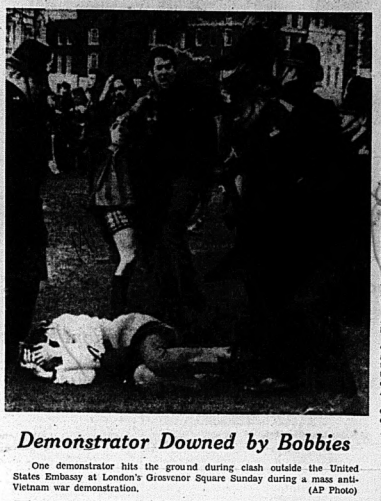
European commentators and bankers greeted the Washington gold agreement with relief, but termed it a temporary measure and pressure would depend on cuts in American and British spending.

The Bank of England ordered the London bullion market to remain closed until April 1, "to give things a chance to settle down . . ."

The London gold market will no longer handle official gold transactions between central banks, but will buy and sell gold at a free market price.

The big question was whether South Africa, which produces 70 per cent of the gold in the Western world, will continue to sell its output in London.

Gold trading also remained suspended in Canada while the Bank of Canada and the government assessed the implications of the new system. The central bank's governor, Louis Rasminsky, pledged Canada's co-operation with the seven nations of the gold pool.



Swiss bankers met in Zurich and decided to let their big banks operate a free gold market in Switzerland. One major question still unanswered was where the free market would get its gold. Prospective sources of supply included South Africa's newly mined gold, small hoarders and speculators who stocked up during the recent rush, and some central banks which might collect gold from other banks and funnel it out the back door at a good profit.

Speaks for Seven

Supply Of Gold Cut Off

WASHINGTON (CP) — A two-level gold pricing system took effect today as the gold pool governments halted the flow of metal from their treasuries into the fevered speculative markets.

Telegrams sped to all capitals reporting Sunday night's decision by the seven central bankers at their weekend meeting in Washington—and inviting all countries to join in maintaining the established $35-an-ounce price for all transactions between governments.

But the rest of the world's gold was set free to find its own price.

The London gold pool was, in effect, dissolved. The London gold market—biggest of all, and the one which supplied most of the gold to other markets—was ordered to stay closed until April 1.

Sir Leslie O'Brien, governor of the Bank of England, said the decisions taken in Washington

Separatism Blasted By Johnson's Aide

MONTREAL (CP) — Separatism in all its forms received a blasting from the Quebec government's newest and biggest constitutional gun at a new weekend world-skirmish on the future on the province.

Marcel Faribault, the big-time, lawyer-financer who became Premier Daniel Johnson's economic and constitutional adviser last fall, hit hard at English-Canadian attitudes that he said haunt Confederation.

But his assertion that a "full consensus" now exists in Quebec for a new federalism was regarded as the central event at a three-day conference at Loyola college.

He opened by rejecting the title "Quebec at the crossroads" given to the conference by the Loyola student-sponsors and submitted "Quebec and Canada at the crossroads." He declared:

"There has been so much debate about this or that proposal, this or that viewpoint, this or that TV comment, that the plain fact about which there is a full consensus in Quebec has been blurred, namely, that it wants the constitution reviewed and this request is so eminently sensible, that it cannot be denied nor can it be delayed."

Eighty Policemen Hurt Battling London March

LONDON (AP) — Police filed criminal charges against 220 rioters today after battling an estimated 10,000 screaming marchers in a big anti-American demonstration.

More than 80 policemen were injured and 28 were taken to hospital Sunday as 1,000 unarmed bobbies fought off demonstrators against the Vietnam war trying to storm the U.S. Embassy on Grosvenor Square.

In Nuernberg, 500 left-wingers protesting the war jeered West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and for 10 minutes kept him out of his political party's national convention.

In Paris, explosions before dawn broke windows at the Chase Manhattan Bank, the Bank of America and the TWA office. No one was hurt.

Those arrested in the London riot were charged with threatening behavior, possession of offensive weapons, assault on police, obstructing police or obstructing the highway. Most of them were released on bail and will appear in court during the week.

Gold Sales Reduced At Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — Gold trading on the Paris bullion market extended by an extra half hour—dropped today, with the total volume down one-third from Friday's figure.

Volume of trading was 153,-900,000 francs ($30,700,000) compared with Friday's 219,300,000 francs ($43,800,000).

The market opened today in a calmer atmosphere than last week's frenzied gold rush.

Trading was down in both volume and price as supply and demand determined a new free rate.

The one-kilo (2.2-pounds) ingot closed at 6,330 francs ($1,266). Dealers estimated this to be the equivalent of $40.10 an ounce, compared with the pegged price of $35 an ounce which the United States and its partners in the now-suspended London gold pool fought to defend.

Vietnam Problem Baffles Trudeau

VANCOUVER (CP) — Justice Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Sunday, the Vietnam war is wrong in terms of international relations and the results it achieves.

The Liberal leadership candidate made the remark at a news conference after he was picketed by a group of 35 anti-Vietnam war demonstrators. He told the demonstrators, "You're just being morally comfortable."

"The U.S. inherited a situation they didn't create and let themselves be drawn into kind of war they never contemplated.

"It's a terrible lesson to them. But this being said, I don't intend to preach morals to them and this is what I was going to the demonstrators.

"It's one thing to be opposed to it. It's another to find a solution to it."

Another Attack On Khe Sanh Fails

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese rangers fought off another attack on Khe Sanh today and southern allied troops sweeping around Saigon claimed a Viet Cong death toll exceeding 800 in the first week of their big drive.

About 600 North Vietnamese soldiers charged from their trenches, some as close as 20 yards from the outer barbed wire, in their second attack this month on the South Vietnamese position at Khe Sanh.

A sheet of machine-gun fire from the rangers' trenches and U.S. marine mortars drove the North Vietnamese away after about an hour.

LBJ Rejects Kennedy 'Ultimatum'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy embarked today on the first full week of an uphill campaign for the White House with the breach between himself and President Johnson probably too bitter to heal.

Kennedy and the Johnson administration Sunday exchanged politically explosive charges over the New York senator's proposal to stay out of the presidential race if U.S. policy in Vietnam were revised.

High administration sources labelled as an ultimatum Kennedy's proposal that President Johnson appoint a blue-ribbon panel to work on war policy revisions. They said Johnson spurned it as a totally unacceptable political deal.

Kennedy acknowledged Sunday he proposed the commission, but called published reports on it distorted and blamed that on White House leaks to news media.

"I am surprised that the traditional rules of confidence governing White House conversations are no longer respected by the White House itself," said Kennedy.

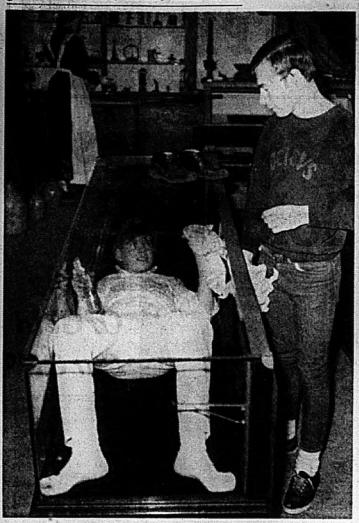
Kennedy, who entered the race for the Democratic presidential nomination Saturday said he told defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford last Thursday that his candidacy wouldn't be necessary if Johnson accepted the commission proposal.

Kennedy put it this way:

"I made it clear that if it (the commission) were more than a public relations gimmick . . . then my declaration of candidacy would no longer be necessary."

But the administration source said Kennedy demanded that any statement announcing the commission indicate that Johnson had "grave doubt of the wisdom of his past course and that wa- why this reappraisal was necessary."

The source said Kennedy wanted to be on the commission and presented to Clifford a list of other possible members.



Johnson immediately rejected the proposal, the source said, on grounds it smacked of a political deal, cast doubt on his Vietnam policies, might encourage North Vietnam to think U.S. resolve was weakening and furthermore represented an attempt to usurp presidential authority.

Newsweek magazine quoted a White House aide as calling the proposal "the dammest piece of political blackmail" he had ever heard of.

Deeruck Lake

Regulations Could Hold Up Dam

A Department of Lands and Forests requirement for clear cutting with four inch stumps for areas to be flooded, could conceivably hold up construction of the Deerock Lake reservoir dam planned by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The Authority plans the reservoir dam for Partridge Creek, a tributary of the Shoreacres River northeast of Flinton.

Under the proposal the present area of Deerock Lake (about 300 acres) would be increased to more than 1,000 acres. The purpose of the storage area would be to lessen the summer flow in the lower Moira.

However a Department of Lands and Forests requirement calls for clear cutting of all trees with a maximum of four inches for stumps and Authority officials feel this would make the project too costly. Some of the trees are under water.

The proposal calls for clearing of more than 700 acres. Currently a survey is underway marking out limits of the area to be flooded.

At the last water advisory committee meeting of the Authority, committee chairman Graham Bell reported that progress with the Deerock reservoir dam was being held up until more satisfactory arrangements could be negotiated regarding reservoir clearing specifications.

Subject to satisfactory arrangements being completed, the board recommended to the Authority executive that Kilborn Engineering be retained to prepare detailed plans, specifications and tender documents and to supervise construction of the Deerock reservoir structures.

School Children Start Holiday

Quinte area youngsters, together with children all across the province, have a new holiday this year.

The week long winter break which runs from Saturday, March 16 to Sunday, March 24 replaces the old Easter vacation which wandered all over the calendar from year to year.

Naturally the new holiday is greeted with joy by the youngsters, who will also get a four-day weekend at Easter.

Th edepartment of education decided on the mid-term break in an attempt to standardize vacation periods throughout the school year. The change means students will be required to spend one extra day in classes. They finish the school year on June 30 rather than June 29, June 29.

In Hastings County the holiday releases 27,000 youngsters from the daily routine of schoolwork. It also places an added responsibility on the motorist who should keep a sharp eye for oncoming children.

Older students and many families will be travelling during the week and for those going south the winter break has added advantages.

Ontario is the only province to abandon the traditional Easter holiday so many vacation spots will not be crowded. It can also mean less crowded highways and more space on beaches and golf courses.

But many families will be travelling to ski resorts so travelling may be a little more hectic than usual in Ontario.

Quinte Development Area Is Proposed in Motion

A motion by Alderman Arthur Keegan asking for the appointment of a four man committee to sound out area municipalities with regard to formation of a Quinte Development Area will be before Belleville city council today.

The suggested membership on the committee is the mayor and three representatives of council.

The terms of reference asked for the committee is that it determine what municipalities would be willing to meet to discuss mutual problems which are holding back area development.

The motion suggests such problems could be transportation (railways and highways), water and sewage, industrial location and new homes in the rural sections.

Also up for discussion at today's council meeting are letters from two Parker Street business places Reid's Dairy and Carm's Beverages protesting the decision to make Highland Ave. a dead end street at its intersection with Dundas Street West, when the Dundas Street roadway and bridge project is completed.

The complaint of the two firms is that elimination of the present Highland Ave. - Dundas street intersection would seriously jeopardize their cash and carry business.

It has been suggested that a possible solution to the problem might be to construct a connecting street between Wellington and Sidney streets.

The feeling of city engineer Wilbur Purcell is that such a connecting street could assist in the circulation of traffic in the area affected by the Highland Ave. cut-off.

However, from a residential standp t he feels that the connec g street would not be necessary.

Fractures Leg In Collision

BRIGHTON — A Camp Borden motorcyclist is in hospital in Kingston recovering from injuries received Sunday in a highway 401 mishap.

Edward Pero suffered a fractured leg and an estimated $200 damage was caused to his motorcycle in a collision in the westbound lane of highway 401 near Little Lake.

Provincial Police said an estimated $150 damage was caused to the other vehicle, a car driven by Joan Irene King of Toronto.

The accident occurred around 11.00 p.m. Sunday.

Municipal Board Will Convene Sewer Hearing

TRENTON — An Ontario Municipal Board hearing March 29 may enable the town to salvage, at least part of a winter works subsidy for a stalled sanitary sewer project.

Mayor James MacDonald revealed today the OMB will convene the hearing, which was necessitated earlier this month by five objections to the $400,000 Dufferin and Bay Street sewer program.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission had approved issuing a contract for the construction and a bid by Tatham Construction in Belleville had been accepted before five letters from local residents objected to the proposal.

The objections came when the project was advertised a second time in view of a change that had been made in originally advertised specifications. Earlier plans calling for a South Dufferin Street pumping station were deleted from the contract.

There were no objections to the original advertisement of the Sewer projects, which will require an estimated 26 weeks to complete.

Mayor MacDonald refused to disclose the nature of the five objections at council's March 4 meeting, but said any further delay in the sewer program would be costly.

A town official later estimated Trenton would lose the last $12,000 of winter works subsidy if work did not proceed until the April 30 winter works deadline.

Winter works grants are available for municipalities from the Federal and Provincial governments for up to 75 per cent of labor costs. Work must be such that in the absence of the grant program, it would not normally have been undertaken at that time by the municipalities.

Mayor MacDonald petitioned for an OMB hearing to air the sewer project complaint but predicted it would be a time - consuming process, adding " hope we can get it over with by summer."

Today, however, the mayor said an early decision from the March 29 hearing could still enable the town to begin the construction and quality for the last month's portion of the grant.

Regional Government

Don't hold your breath waiting for regional government to become a reality in the Quinte district.

It will be five years before the Ontario government comes up with a "reasonable" solution to what form regional government should take. Implementation will take longer.

That was the message Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs sent to a meeting at Queen's University of representatives of public and private organizations interested in planning. Saturday's symposium on regional development was sponsored by the Kingston Area Planning Board and the Kingston Branch, Community Planning Association of Canada.

"In his letter the minister Darcy McKeough, stressed the need for more exploratory talks between officials of neighborly municipalities," Frank Stokmans, Belleville's assistant planner reported.

Mr. Stokmans was Belleville and Suburban Planning Board's representative at the meeting.

Sawyer-Stoll Workers Strike

TWEED — Workers at Sawyer-Stoll Lumber Company struck this morning — the first labor problem to hit this village in many years.

Picketing the plant for higher wages were members of the International Woodworkers of America, whose work contract with Sawyer-Stoll ran out March 1.

Company manager Mel Ostman said about 30 of the lumber mill's 48 employees were on strike but gave no background details on the demands precipitating the walkout.

He said the company and union had been negotiating "sometime before" the contract expired.

The company established here 1959, manufactures wood pallets for the Toronto-Hamilton market.

Sawyer-Stoll has been a major lumber contractor in the northern reaches of the Quinte district, where it has been operating 30 years. Its main camp is in the Matinaw Lake area.

Spring is still a few days' distance, but it's already here for most Bellevillians. First signs are the youngsters who hit the pavements with their skipping ropes. One of many taking a first trial run yesterday was six-year-old Donna Godfrey, of East Bridge, sharing buoyant spirits with smaller sister Bonnie, 3, (right) and Tammy McIlmoyle, 2½.

Touch of Spring Visits District

St. Patrick's Day colored the Quinte district green yesterday.

And it looks like it's here to stay. In fact it might as well be spring.

The first touch of real spring weather yesterday brought the Quinte area bouncing clear of winter's discontent.

Bright, balmy weather drew hundreds of motorists to the open countryside as temperatures lifted to the high 40s across the district.

On city sidewalks, youngsters broke out skipping ropes and tricycles, while parents began pottering around garden plots, planning spring-cleanup chores.

Heavy rains Saturday cleared the last traces of winter snow from Belleville, the thaw dried by Sunday's warm sunshine.

The result was the first real showing of green grass in the district for many a month.

There were other signs of spring in the air.

The first report of migrant geese was turned in today. A northbound flight passed over the Bay of Quinte at Deseronto at 6:00 a.m., returning to Canadian home grounds from warmer winter climes.

There's even a hint of spring in the weather forecasts. The current buoyant weather is expected to last much of the week, the duty forecaster at CFB Trenton predicted today.

Some showers are expected about mid-week and next weekend.

However, the weather continues mild with a high tomorrow of 50 and lows around 30.

Spring arrives officially Wednesday morning.

Winter's Away!

Suddenly, winter is so much water under the bridge. Signs of spring were everywhere yesterday in the Quinte area — even at the West Moira fire hall. Testing their strength for upcoming spring cleanup chores, firemen Fred Dainard (left) and Jay Ross took pikes to free ice and debris clogging nearby creek as warm weather brings thaw.

Late Payment of Taxes To Cost More in Thurlow

Thurlow township residents are going to be charged a higher interest rate for late payment of taxes.

At a special meeting held late last week to deal with items left over from the regular monthly session, council voted to increase tax arrears' interest to two - thirds of one per cent from the present one half of one per cent. The increase will become effective on April 1.

Council concurred in a resolution from Cxford, Perth, Waterloo and Elgin counties, opposing the setting up of school boards along county boundaries. The resolution does not oppose the idea of larger areas of school administration but objects to boundaries being established along county lines.

Council approved the 1968 Belleville and Suburban Planning Board budget of $43,170. Thurlow's share of the budget is 9.7 per cent or $3,979.28.

Councillor Fletcher Reid was named township representative on a special committee being set up to investigate the feasibility and advisability of Quinte area animal shelter as is proposed by the local chapter of the Ontario Humane Society.

City's Program

Belleville's capital works program for the next five years is going to cost more than $11 million.

It is a substantial sum and yet it contains little in the way of frills or extravagant budgeting. On the contrary, Council has turned down a motion to include $450,000 in the 1968 budget to enable a start to be made on the much-discussed arena this year.

It is simply a case of not being able to afford to start at this time. Council based its decision on information from City Manager J. R. Reynolds that if the arena were included in the capital works program, the city's entire share of the million dollar structure would have to go this year.

Worth considering, though, is Mr. Reynold's compromise suggestion that approximately $100,000, or one mill, could be included in the tax levy for the next two or three years. The city manager said this could be set aside in a special fund for arena construction.

And despite a plea that the public school board is cramped for space, council voted against a sum of $300,000 for construction of a new administration building this year.

Routine projects like road and bridge building account for much of the outlay. A start is anticipated on the initial phases of the Dundas Street bridge project.

Also under the heading of local improvement are such projects as installation of sanitary sewers in the northeast area of the city. Expansion of water and electrical services are other important facets of the city's expansion plans. Plans for urban renewal have not been forgotten. A sum of $100,000 has been set aside for the city's share of this long-term scheme to improve the city's downtown image. This sum will be applied in 1969, and a further $750,000 for the 1970-72 period.

It's a workmanlike budget. Over five years it amounts to $11,299,000. We have noted that it avoids extravagance. At the same time costs are rising all the time and the city can expect to pay more for any projects that are being postponed. By that time, however, Belleville will have more people and possibly more industries. The city will then be in a better position to afford them. Meanwhile, further consideration of the current budget is ahead of Council. And the mill rate — not yet established — likely will be higher.

Stress and Health

Health is something many people come to appreciate only after they have experienced ill health. But even in good health people are under some degree of stress due to the pressure of everyday life.

Stress of course is as normal as it is unavoidable. Keeping it within reasonable bounds is the key to daily fitness. And that means embracing such necessary elements as food, fresh air and exercise. Of these three the two last named are what people lack most.

Where the heart is concerned mere youth is not necessarily a guarantee of stability for this one vital organ without which no life is possible. This is borne out by the news of the death of a 20-year-old University of Toronto student.

The student, described as a first-class athlete who recently passed a medical test, suffered a heart attack during a gymnasium workout.

For most people, though, the heart is a stalwart ally which functions well for upwards of three score years and ten if not more.

A leading expert in this field, Dr. Paul Dudley White has this to say on the subject of stress and strain, "I have a feeling these elements have been here since the days of Adam and Eve who were certainly under stress when they walked out of the Garden of Eden. Every generation has stress and strain and exercise is one of the best ways to counteract the nervous tension that results.

"Hypertension is often the villain behind strokes, heart failure and coronary heart disease. Tension can be avoided by balancing work with play, taking advantage of a temporary escape from a problem or worry in some diversional activity and when tensions do develop, they can be worked off with physical exercise."

Monetary Conflict

U.S. and Anglo-Saxon World Versus Western Europe

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The international money mess — at its climax this weekend — amounts to the showdown in a stubborn struggle between the Anglo-Saxon world, led by the United States, and much of Continental Europe, with France in the vanguard.

The outcome could leave both sides losers.

The argument arises from "the problem of international liquidity" — the way trade and the cash never work out evenly, some countries building up a surplus of cash reserves while others develop deficits.

Economists have been debating the problem since the collapse in the early 1930s. It has become an increasingly pressing issue in Western politics since 1960, when a gold-buying rush showed faith was faltering in the two main international currencies, the United States dollar and the British pound sterling.

Fundamental differences between the Anglo-Saxons and the Europeans were exposed by banking leaders tried to work out corrective measures during the last eight years. The protagonists cannot even agree on what the problem is, let alone what the solution should be.

The United States says there is not enough international currency around to finance growing trade, aid and other exchanges — hence the chronic U.S. and British deficits.

On the contrary, say the French in effect, the U.S. and British have been printing too much reserve currency and using it to finance their own deficits — taking a higher living standard than they have earned.

The dollar-sterling side has argued that action to correct the unequal accumulation of reserve currency might better be taken by the big surplus Europeans — through upward revaluation of their own money, removing barriers to imports or giving more aid and investment overseas.

The Europeans counter that it is not their job to get rid of their surpluses, but the Anglo-Saxon duty to pay off their deficits by cutting down spending.

A paradox involved is the fact that under the present system liquidity can only be increased when the U.S. and Britain are in persistent deficit.

But the deficits tend to make the dollar and pound seem less reliable, causing governments and banks to exchange the reserve currencies for gold — further weakening the international exchange and payments system.

The French-led campaign against the reserve status of the dollar and the French has been partly on resentment that some of the U.S. deficit results from heavy American investment in France.

In effect, France has been losing control of major industries in return for dollars — in the form of U.S. treasury bills — she doesn't trust. France has been forcing the issue by demanding U.S. gold in exchange for the bills.

By taking action to expose the weakness of the present international reserve system, opponents are in danger of hurting themselves in the long run.

By forcing the United States and Britain to devalue, deflate or cut overseas spending, the opponents are increasing the chances of a 1930s-style depression, not just in the two reserve-currency countries but throughout the capitalist world.

The deadlock has blocked agreement on various proposals for changing the international payments system, including a plan that would create a new kind of international currency tied neither to gold nor any one country's money.

Most economists agree that the only way such basic reforms could be introduced would be in orderly fashion in a non-crisis time. The present panic seems an unlikely moment for fundamental change.

Nasser Eats Humble Pie

Ottawa Journal

A retraction rarely receives as much attention as an accusation, something President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt undoubtedly counted heavily upon in his rather extraordinary confession that he was mistaken in charging U.S. connivance with Israel in last June's war. Nasser's admission of error takes place discreetly in an interview published in an American magazine this week.

What a difference between this humble pie and the strident charges which filled the air in Cairo and the United Nations!

"Israel alone did not defeat us," Nasser said in his "resignation" speech on June 9. The U.S. and Britain, he said, were in "open collusion" with Israel. Planes from both these countries had flown to Israel to give support to Israeli ground forces.

Now Nasser admits that his accusations "had been based on suspicious and faulty information." He is also about as close as any dictator can get to making abject public apology.

The humble pie means that diplomatic relations between the United States and Egypt may be restored, which is something

"Back Britain" Girls Fired

Toronto Globe and Mail

The British have been known to respond magnificently in times of crisis. One recent example of inspired initiative was the Back Britain campaign, started by two young secretaries at the Windley Bros. engineering plant. They persuaded the staff to work an extra 30 minutes each day to help get Britain's economy out of the red, and the example caught the imagination of the entire country.

B[illegible]row the girls are out of work. Managing director Eric Windley explained: "Unfortunately we found these people in excess of our requirements and it is not our policy to have people hanging about doing nothing."

Has Mr. Windley considered rehiring them as public relations consultants? The secretaries have a flair for that kind of thing and Windley Bros. is undoubtedly in urgent need of advice.

Alcohol Drugs in Same Boat

Hamilton Spectator

The drug problem must be serious when the Ontario Temperance Federation decides to change its name to the Ontario Federation on Alcohol and Drug Problems.

The Toc Alpha youth group (Teach Our Canadians to Assess Liquor by Preserving the Hazards of Alcohol) is also taking a punch at drugs with the slogan, "The pitch today is . . . you just don't swing on alcohol and drugs."

The new approach of these, two militant groups, is very significant. That they would put drugs on the same level as liquor demonstrates that in their minds the two are equally dangerous.

As significant in its way is the dropping of the word "temperance" from the senior body's name. Does this mean a more militant approach to the problems or is it merely recognition of the fact that temperance and abstinence don't mean the same thing?

Brickbats and Bouquets For Montreal's Subway

Letter to Montreal Gazette

I read your "Comment" column fairly regularly and find it to be free of bias and full of good sense. In the recent portion entitled Metro Vexillation I regret that the writers local pride has resulted in a regrettable deviation from the true facts. I refer to the concluding remarks that overheating of the Metro is its only flaw.

Two major flaws immediately spring to mind:

1) It's noisy!

2) It's too small.

The first of these criticisms is perhaps the most serious since the whole concept of the system with its rubber tired carriages was to offer a smooth, quiet ride. In fact the system is little, if any, quieter than the iron wheeled vehicles used by both London and New York systems. I regret that I am unable to compare the Metro with a more modern system than either of these two since the only one I know of (Toronto) is outside my experience at this time, perhaps someone else with more experience can give this side of the story.

As the Metro extends to reach out to the suburbs the suburbs will expand. By itself the Metro can cause the whole of Montreal island to become so densely populated that the commuter traffic will choke the system. In the heart of the city the present trains fill the station. In several places the next station is in clear view along the tunnel. Longer trains will merely be travelling their main length in certain areas before they have to stop again — hardly an efficient transit system.

Today in History

March 18, 1968 . . .

After only two years on the imperial throne, German Emperor William II demanded the resignation of Chancellor Prince Bismarck, 78 years ago today — in 1890. Bismarck was the architect of German unification and attempted to draw the teeth of the reform movement by founding a welfare state without conceding much to democracy. Bismarck was 73 when William I died and maintained a bitter feud with the young Kaiser until his death.

Flood Control

Windsor Star

The Ontario Legislature is now considering a redrafted Conservation Act which gives the provincial government powers to step in and act in a flood emergency when local conservation authorities cannot agree on immediate action.

The new powers could conceivably speed action in some future flood. But it is unlikely that they will be greatly used, since the record of cooperation among existing local authorities is good.

It is notable that the government, in reviewing the report of a select committee which last year studied conservation, has not accepted a recommendation that all of southern Ontario be placed under conservation authorities.

The recommendation is now hardly applicable, however. In all southern Ontario, only three areas are so backward as not to have established a conservation authority. Essex County is one of the three.

Restless Students

London Observer

From Warsaw to Cambridge, it's the same story — student in revolt. Although the Poles may have a great deal more to demonstrate about than their English counterparts, both reflect the same youthful idealism and dissatisfaction with the conventions of their elders. "We cannot have it both ways. We cannot, at one and the same time, praise the courage of the Polish students — because we don't like the regime against which they are demonstrating — and condemn the English students because they are demonstrating against our own world of grown-ups."

Now — Psychedelic Volleyball

Brantford Expositor

Joseph wore a coat of many colors, but nobody thought to call it a psychedelic garment. This grand overworked word has now found a home in the volleyball court with the report that female players will be clad in tunics of phosphorescent pink, delicate tones of blue, garish greens and profuse purples.

If psychedelic connotes a unique sensory experience, then the volleyball court will hardly be the place for a color blind person. The slogan of this fashion-conscious volleyball sponsor is: "Streamline it, package it attractively and sell it" — suggests she has more in mind than improving the quality of the game. Mrs. Myra Waller of Vancouver wants to make it more attractive, especially for male spectators. She is being aided by a $5,200 National Fitness grant.

Psychedelic minibloomers, however, will have to take a back seat to the peek-a-boo lace panties and other eye-catching garments that tennis costume designers produce each year for Wimbledon. Mrs. Waller should take a trip to the famous English tournament where "Anyone for tennis?" is a superfluous question. The NFC grant looks to have been a bloomer.

Bonnie and Clyde Mentality

Brockville Recorder and Times

The glorification of cold blooded murderers by Hollywood moviemakers is nothing new but the current rage over two of the worst, "Bonnie and Clyde," and the fact the movie may win an Oscar, gives a wrong slant on the life of criminals. In an attempt to put the record straight many newspapers in the United States are running trueife stories of the notorious murderers. The same could be done to some advantage in this country.

What the movie doesn't get across to young people is the fact that "Bonnie and Clyde" were not an amusing, seemingly abused and misunderstood handsome couple. They shot down innocent people with abandon. They shot down policemen. And "Bonnie and Clyde" in real life were anything but good looking.

The families of the men and girl "Bonnie and Clyde" murdered aren't going to the movies. It makes them a little sick that two such vile characters could be glamorized in such a manner. There is very little in the movie about the many dead men left in their wake or about the countless widows and children and orphans. Yet Hollywood calls the movie "realistic." It is hardly that.

Dual Price Stopgap Measure to Stabilize Monetary Structure

NEW YORK (AP) — The dual price for gold, decreed Sunday by the seven countries of the London gold pool, is an attempt to regain the initiative from gold speculators and stabilize the present monetary structure.

It is a stopgap measure, its immediate goal is to protect the keystone of the present structure, $35-an-ounce gold, until a new system can be developed that would reduce the metal's role.

It means the market for nations, another for individuals. So far as possible, they would have nothing to do with each other.

In the monetary market, any nation with dollars could cash them in for gold. The seven gold-pool members feel they have plenty to satisfy this demand, for they own among them $36,000,000,000 worth.

Pool members are: The U.S., Britain, Belgium, Italy, West Germany, The Netherlands and Switzerland. France quit the pool last June.

The other market, the private market, will be made up of individuals and nations. The price will not be pegged, meaning it will float with supply and demand.

The big news about Sunday's action is that no longer will one market be able to affect the other. The seven nations have turned their backs on the private market. No longer will they permit any of their gold to reach it.

This was a gravely dangerous situation as long as it existed.

So long as the speculative market could drain off the monetary market's gold supply, the chance existed that the United States would not be able to fulfil its guarantee.

This would have created a potentially dangerous situation. By guaranteeing to give an ounce of gold for $35, the United States then provided a stable, fixed point of reference by which the value of other currencies could be judged.

This system, therefore, permitted England to say the pound sterling was worth $2.40 U.S., the Germans to say their mark was worth 25 cents, the French that the franc was worth 20 cents, give or take fractions.

This system could have been endangered if the United States could not maintain that peg. With U.S. supplies shrinking, speculators thought the price of gold might be doubled in order to conserve the supply.

Sunday's action means that speculators and others interested in buying gold will be left to buy from miners of the metal, such as South Africa or Russia, at whatever price the traffic will permit.

Nobody can say for sure just how high this private price will rise—or how low it might descend. Estimates vary widely, for there is little certain knowledge of what industrial demands exist—as opposed to speculation.

To plug the drain completely, to sever the conduit through which gold flowed from the monetary stock to the private market, any central bank that buys monetary gold resells it in the private market might find itself shut off from additional purchases from the gold pool.

This move takes the United States and other defenders of a stable gold price out of their defensive position. Since speculators no longer can easily get their hands on monetary gold, presumably they can do little further damage.

However, a serious problem of policing might be involved. And there are many doubts concerning the ability of the gold pool to keep their metal from falling into private hands.

There is definitely a time element involved. Work will have to be speeded by the International Monetary Fund to lessen the importance of gold as a stabilizer of currencies.

Canada Suspends Gold Trading To Bolster 7-Nation Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Gold trading in Canada was to remain suspended today while the Bank of Canada and the government assessed the implications of the world's new two-price system.

Governor Louis Rasminsky of the central bank, with the support of Finance Minister Sharp, pledged Canada's co-operation with the central banks of the seven countries making up the London gold pool.

The seven met in Washington Saturday and Sunday and announced they have sufficient gold for their currency-backing needs, and will let the price of gold go free of control for commercial purposes.

Gold will continue to be traded between governments, however, at the $35-an-ounce price which has backed the U.S. dollar.

Mr. Sharp said no change is being made in the value of the Canadian dollar, either internally or in international markets. It continues at 92.5 cents in U.S. funds, the rate pegged under International Monetary Fund rules. It can trade between 91.375 and 92.425, and last week averaged 92.055.

Mr. Rasminsky announced that the Bank of Canada and its counterpart in the U.S., the Federal Reserve of Boston, have agreed to a currency-swap arrangement totalling $1,000,000,000 instead of $750,000,000.

This is an arrangement whereby either country can call on the other to exchange its currency freely up to the limit, when the foreign dollars are needed to offset swings in foreign exchange rates. Canadian drew U.S. dollars in a swap for Canadian dollars in January to support the Canadian dollar, when it dropped as low as 91.743 cents.

Mr. Sharp said he was greatly relieved by the Washington decision and found it constructive. Uncertainty about the future of gold and the U.S. dollar had been unsettling, and part of the reason for high interest rates, he said. It also had threatened Canadian foreign trade.

Solution of the crisis, the finance minister said, may mean a lowering of interest rates. It also removed the threat to trade, and to jobs in Canadian export-oriented industry.

Mr. Sharp asked the banks and other gold traders to suspend trading Friday, in line with the closing of the London gold market and most other gold markets.

Sunday night he sent telegrams to the banks and traders asking them to continue the suspension "until further notice."

The government was reviewing its gold mine subsidy machinery to determine how it will be affected by the two-price system.

Mines that deliver gold to the Royal Canadian Mint are eligible for a cost-of-production subsidy averaging $18 an ounce and amounting, in the case of some high-cost mines, to $10.

Canada produces about 3,300,000 ounces of gold a year for export and keeps about $1,000,000,000 worth in its foreign exchange fund.

Canadian Gold Production

Hard Times

Canada's gold industry has fallen on hard times since the end of the Second World War. Production reached a peak of 5,345,000 ounces in 1941 when there were 146 mines in operation. By 1956, the number of mines operating had dropped to 33, with production down to 3,296,000 ounces. Reason for the decline has been a squeeze on operators between rising cost and a fixed return. While labor and other costs climbed, the price for their product remained at $35 U.S. Even federal government subsidies haven't halted the mine closings.

Price Must Hit $60 To Aid Canadian Mines

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of Canadian gold mining companies said Sunday night the price of gold on the private market will have to rise to at least $60 in U.S. funds to provide any significant expansion in Canada's gold industry.

They were commenting on the Washington announcement that the central bank governors of seven nations had decided to establish a two-price system for crisis from shaking the international financial structure.

The current price of $35 an ounce is to be maintained in transactions between the central banks and international monetary authorities.

Canadian mines produce about 3,000,000 ounces of gold annually, but most stay in business because it is needed to obtain $20 U.S. or more. Canada would have a tremendous surge in exploration and development of gold production."

W. S. Row, chairman of Kerr Addison Mines Ltd., said most producers get a total; including subsidies, of about $48 (Canadian) an ounce.

He said if the private market price were to be $50 (U.S.) or $54 (Canadian), the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act under which subsidies are paid probably would be rescinded.

But Row said a high price for gold also would mean increased pressure from Canada's 10,000 gold miners for increased wages.

"I think $60 (an ounce) or up would have to prevail to result in any expansion in the industry."

R. B. Redpath, president of Dome Mines Ltd., said:

"If the price were to rise to $70 (U.S.) or more, Canada would have a tremendous surge in exploration and development of gold production."

Domestic Producers Freed of U.S. Controls

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The U.S. announced today it will allow U.S. gold producers to export gold freely to foreign buyers and to sell it to domestic users.

This means domestic American gold producers—which account for a relatively small share of world newly-mined gold supplies—may obtain higher prices in overseas gold markets.

Since 1934, U.S. gold producers had to sell their gold exclusively to the treasury, which in turn was required to buy it at the fixed price of $35 an ounce.

The treasury was announcing amendments to its gold regulations, pursuant to the agreements announced by the international gold conference here this weekend.

The treasury warned U.S. citizens and corporations abroad that they are still prohibited from holding gold in accounts in the case since 1934.

There have been persistent but unconfirmed reports that American citizens and treasurers of U.S. corporations overseas were participating by various underground means in the panic gold buying of recent months.

The treasury announced it would no longer purchase gold in the private market "nor will or artistic purposes.

It will gold for industrial, professional or artistic uses."

The departments gold sales to U.S. domestic users ran about $180,000,000 a year in recent years.

A buyer of gold in the United States must still hold a treasury licence and the gold can only be used for industrial, professional

London Pool Finished

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Sir Leslie Obrien, governor of the Bank of England, said Sunday night the London gold pool had, in effect, been dissolved by action taken by the gold crisis conference here.

He told a press conference following the two-day meeting of Western central bank governors here that nothing at all remains of the pool.

"They have seen the last ounce of gold from monetary reserves at least through the medium of the pool," he said.

France, the original member of the pool, did not attend the Washington meeting.

Asked if other gold markets would follow the London lead and close down, he said the Swiss believe it is impossible for them to close the Zurich market.

Private Gold Trading Halted

meant the virtual dissolution of the London gold pool which operated since 1961 in stabilizing all gold trading at $35 an ounce.

U.S. officials radiated confidence that the frenzied speculative attacks on the dollar would die away. London was dubious. Paris saw the action as a stopgap, not a solution.

No official ventured a public guess on where the free market price would go when the Paris, Zurich, Hong Kong and other markets reopened.

In early trading on the Zurich free market, banks started selling bullion at $40 an ounce and selling it at $44. But the price quickly dropped to $38 and $42, dealers said.

Among all the uncertainties, these results were assured:

1. The rate of exchange between dollars and other currencies will stay put.

2. The pound sterling has been bolstered further. The six other countries which have supplied gold to the London pool are increasing by $1,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 the total of currency credits available to hard-pressed Britain. Their previous commitments were not disclosed.

3. On the home front, jewellers and other licensed users of gold can no longer buy from the treasury. The treasury will continue to issue licences to legitimate users, however, and the holders can buy on the free market here or overseas.

None of the governments, the seven bank governors said, will henceforth sell to gold buyers or buy from private sellers.

Speculators and legitimate users alike thus will have to buy from those who mine the metal —in South Africa, the Soviet Union or Canada—or those who may be ready to sell from private hoards.

The question that hung heavily over the two-day conference in Washington's Federal Reserve Board building is whether the $35 official price can stand up if the free price is much higher.

Not even Washington expects the plan to endure unless solid measures are taken to repair confidence in the dollar abroad.

To make sure no government tries to make a sneak profit selling official $35-an-ounce gold to private buyers at the free market price, the seven signatory governments agreed they will not sell to any government "to replace gold sold in private markets."

In other words, if any government chooses to violate the ban on private sales, it will lose for good that much gold from its reserves.

The seven signatory governments—Britain, Belgium, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Switzerland and the United States—have $36,000,000,000 in their official gold reserves. The total held by all governments is close to $40,000,000,000. Privately held stocks are comparatively small.

Among other decisions announced by the central bankers were these:

—To maintain the existing exchange parity of currencies.

—To cease supplying gold "to the London gold market or any other gold market."

—To co-operate in curbing a flow of funds into any country that threatens to cause instability "in the exchange markets" "and to offset as necessary any such flows that may arise." This curb would apply in such cases as, for instance, a flow of investment funds into West Germany, or some other strong-currency country, in expectation of an upward revaluation of its currency.

They also agreed on a massive increase in their currency swap arrangements to deal with recent continuing pressure on the British pound and expected turmoil in foreign exchange markets in the next few weeks.

The U.S. Federal Reserve said it would increase by $2,275,000,000 to a total of $9,355,000,000 its arrangements with 14 central banks for exchanging currencies when the currency of one of the participants comes under pressure.

The swap arrangements between Canada and the U.S. were increased to $1,000,000,000 from $750,000,000.

France was not invited to the meeting, but participating governments plainly expected that France, with a $5,000,000,000 gold reserve, would go along with the new rules.

France does not now buy and sell gold on the open market, and officials foresee no change in that policy.

The reaction in Paris was that the two-price market might answer the gold problem for the present but was not a lasting solution.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds 5.35, plunged a prices in other sections of the market bounced back in light opening trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

It was the market's first reaction to the announcement Sunday by seven major central banks that they would stop selling gold bullion in private markets.

The decision followed weeks of a speculative buying stampede on bullion in European markets. The rush sparked a boom in prices of Canadian gold mine stocks under buying pressure from the United States which forbids all private holdings of gold bullion.

After one hour of trading, Toronto's gold index fell more than nine points or four per cent to 216.85—some 44 points below the all-time record hit two weeks ago.

The average's two most volatile issues, Dome Mines and Campbell Red Lake, were not included as trading in their shares was delayed at the opening to match buy-and-sell orders.

Tips Are Given on the Proper Storage of Eggs

OTTAWA (CP) — Some tips to the housewife on eggs from the consumer section of the federal agriculture department:

Eggs should be stored in the refrigerator with the large end up. They should be kept away from highly-flavored foods.

Store left-over yolks or whites in a tightly-covered container in the refrigerator. Add a little water to yolks. Use whites within a week, yolks within two or three days.

Use eggs to thicken sauces or puddings. To replace one tablespoon of flour or one-half tablespoon of corn starch, use one whole egg or two yolks. Combine beaten egg with a little of the hot mixture and stir into sauce or pudding.

Use egg yolks in custards, salad dressings, eggnogs, ice cream, pie fillings or meat loaves.

In general, substitute two egg yolks for each whole egg called for in a recipe.

The consumer section offers this recipe for French pancakes: Two-thirds cup sifted all-purpose flour; one-quarter teaspoon salt; one tablespoon sugar; four beaten eggs; 1½ cups milk; two tablespoons melted butter; butter for frying.

Mix dry ingredients, add eggs and milk and beat until smooth. Stir in melted butter. Refrigerate overnight.

Heat enough butter in small heavy frying pan to coat lightly. Pour in two or three tablespoons batter and tilt to spread evenly in a thin layer.

Cook over medium heat until underside is lightly browned — about one minute. Turn and brown other side.

Fold in quarters or roll up and keep warm while frying remaining pancakes. Serve with maple syrup, jam or jelly. Makes 18 seven-inch pancakes.

To serve as dessert, spread pancakes with maple sugar or a fruit filling before rolling or folding.

Speaker Criticizes CAS

TORONTO (CP) — The Children's Aid Society was the worst thing that could have happened to Indian reserves, says Verna Johnston, a Canadian Indian who was once a foster mother.

Mrs. Johnston told the annual meeting of United Church Women Thursday that Indian children have always been looked after and loved, if not by their parents, then by other members of the family, before the society came to the reserve.

"Now the society is another crutch for the Indian to lean on," she said. "If the parents cannot feed or dress the children as well as the Children's Aid can, they abandon them. As a foster mother, I have seen what happens to children who are yanked from the reserve."

She suggested the CAS should pay more for foster children taken in by Indian families as many would love to take in a child but cannot afford to do so.

Squirrels Help

LADYSMITH, B.C. (CP) — The boarding instinct of squirrels provides a boon to reforestation in British Columbia. Loggers felled a hollow tree near this Vancouver Island community which contained 1,500,000 hemlock seeds. Forestry experts say the seeds will be enough to reforest 1,700 acres.

Earns $120 an Hour

Model Arrives in Startling Wear

TORONTO (CP) — She arrived here wearing a fur-trimmed coat over an outfit that made her look like someone from Robin Hood—black tights and tunic; red bolero; wide, red, cinched belt over-the-knee black boots.

One of the world's top models, Veruschka, stands five feet 11 inches. She earns $120 an hour.

Thursday she modelled five outfits at a fashion show and revealed some of her beauty discipline at a news conference.

"A good model must concentrate on finding herself, not imitating another girl because she's successful.

"It takes me an hour to put on my make-up, sometimes two hours, depending the way I want to look."

She takes three dancing lessons a week and does half an hour of gymnastics before breakfast.

To keep her skin soft, Veruschka brushes her body every day with a hard brush.

She was born in Prussia the Countess Vera von Lehndorff and began modeling in Paris and New York. She returned to Italy to gain grace and confidence, then approached Vogue magazine in New York mute and dressed all in black.

She was hired immediately.

Now she travels with her friend and photographer, France Rubartelli, and hairdresser Imo Ughui. They live in Rome "when we aren't travelling all over the world."

Her age has been estimated at 24, 26 and 28.

Does she find it difficult to find a man tall enough for her?

"It doesn't bother me," she says. "I like to be the tall one. If someone is taller than me, I don't like it."

Ann Landers

New Marital Problem: Wife Abuses Husband

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am sure you receive many letters from men whose husbands sock them around from time to time. Have you ever heard from a husband who gets slapped, kicked and punched? Well, this is my problem and I need to know what to do about it. We have three small children and if I ever lose control of myself and give my wife what she deserves she'll be in the hospital for a month.

You probably want to know why she hits me. Here's what set off the last two episodes: She forgot where she parked the car and I had to ride around town in a taxi for an hour before I found it. When I got home I was disgusted and told her so. She socked me in the jaw and broke my bridge.

Last night when I came home from work the soup was burning on the stove and my wife was next door visiting with a friend. I gave her a piece of my mind and she hauled off and kicked me. Now I have a lump on my leg the size of a golf ball.

If anyone had told me I would wind up writing to Ann Landers for help I would have said they were crazy, but I need someone to tell me what to do about this wild woman. — H.B.L.

DEAR H.B.L.: You don't have three children, Mister, you have four. A woman who has such a short fuse needs to learn how to handle her hostilities in a rational, civilized manner. Insist that she get counselling. I feel sorry for those kids as well as for you. Rest assured they catch plenty in your absence. Your doctor can direct you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm almost ashamed to write because my problem makes me sound like a moron, but the truth is I am being victimized by a five-year-old child.

Almost every evening when I come home from work this little neighbor girl is standing outside my door. I live in an apartment. Sally is a darling child, and I enjoy her company, but there are times when I would like to be alone. More often than not Sally asks me if she can stay for supper and I say yes. If I didn't lead her by the hand and take her home at 8:00 p.m. she wouldn't stay all night.

It seems strange to me that her parents never seem to be looking for her. When I bring her home they are very pleasant and thank me for being so "nice."

Last night I was very tired, and didn't want company so I thought I'd sneak in the back door. I wasn't in my apartment five minutes when Sally and her mother appeared at the door. The mother said, "Your girl friend wants to see you."

I pretended to be pleased because I didn't want to hurt the child's feelings. Again Sally stayed for supper and when I took her home at 7:45 I was mad at myself. What's the solution to my problem, Ann? — TRAPPED.

DEAR TRAPPED: The little girl isn't victimizing you, her mother is. Unless you extricate yourself from this weird situation you may be stuck with it until Sally gets married.

Tell the mother (privately, of course) that there are times when you need to be alone after work — that you will come and get Sally when you want her and please not to allow her to wait at your door. If the child turns up, anyway, take her by the hand and return her to her mother.

Successful Living

'Nice' Widower Suddenly Seems To Become Quite Busy

Dear Doris: I have kept company with a nice widower for nine months. He's 62 and I am 60. He told me the other day, after not seeing him for three weeks, that he was busy. He said he went out which took up quite a bit of his time so he hired a housekeeper till April, and the way he talked I understood that he didn't or couldn't come to see me till spring or so, and we will then go on a holiday.

Now I just can't understand him or figure him out. I met him through an ad I had put in a paper and also put in it "matrimony if suited".

I like him a lot and I think he likes me too but it seems to me that his business comes first. — Can't Wait And Wait.

Dear Can't: If you can manage it keep sweet without trying to keep a grip on your busy boy's coat tails. An ardent swain would call you up sometimes even if he worked until midnight.

I wonder if the new housekeeper turned out to be unexpectedly agreeable? I did my best to read between the lines about that. And what does he mean — you two will go on a holiday?

Wait — but not too long.

Dear Doris: Upon what grounds can the wife get legal separation from her husband? If the wife is able to support herself and her two children, can she take her children and leave him? If she leaves behind all the financial assets accumulated in the past years except for personal belongings and beds, can he sue her for them? For kidnapping?

If the wife has been working steadily to pay off purchases (house, furniture and car) which have been bought by him on impulse and beyond his means, how can she prove this, if everything is in his name and paid for?

The wife has threatened to leave and he laughs because he "made sure he had complete control". — A Fool for Two Long.

Dear Fool: Nobody can make a woman live with a man; but there might be a catch to getting support unless she can prove infidelity or mental or physical abuse.

Kidnapping? Nobody'd fall for that one. And if she has been the beginnings of proof that she paid all those instalments, it would make interesting reading in a divorce court.

A lawyer is what she needs. Not me. And police protection. And nerve and determination not to back down half way.

Confidential to Cheated On Him: Perhaps you were unknowingly seductive with this younger man. He happened along when you were bored and alone. You appreciated the same sort of things. The very novelty of a new man to talk to made you mistake his physical attraction for you for love.

Now that he seems to withdraw, for goodness' sake, let him. Your pride is hurt. Take it and be glad you can do at least this penuance. Your long suffering, forgiving husband deserves a little extra attention; so get busy.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Directions for Fried Chicken

By MARY MOORE

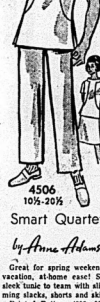
This lesson is leading up to an end-of-first-quarter t e a t meal for the whole family. If our young people have cut out and tried all of the cooking lessons I have given here each week since the beginning of this year they can prepare a whole meal for their admiring families now.

FRIED CHICKEN (serves 4)

4 whole chicken legs (drumstick and thigh attached, these weigh approximately ½ lb. each.)
2 tbsps. butter

Coating:
¼ cup flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. paprika
¼ tsp. Accent (M.S.G.)

Dry the chicken legs. In a strong paper bag mix together flour, salt, paprika and Accent. Shake chicken legs, one at a time, in flour mixture, firmly grasping top of bag and shaking to coat. (Reserve flour in bag for making g r a v y later.) In large frying pan that has a lid to fit it, melt the butter until golden and bubbly. Add coated chicken legs and fry over medium heat until golden and crispy looking on both sides. Do not overheat butter or it will brown too much. This takes a b o u t 10 min. At arm's length add one tablespoon hot water to centre of pan, cover, reduce heat to simmer and cook 30 to 35 min. longer, turning over once, until fork tender. Remove to preheated platter. Add leftover flour mixture to pan drippings and stir well to mix. Now stir in 2¼ cups milk until thick. You must stir well to reduce lumps or beat them out with rotary beater. (I have a cousin who likes the little lumps.)



MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Mixed Grill: Sausages, Crumbed Chicken Livers and Mushrooms; Potatoes en Gratin; B r u s s e l s Sprouts; Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers Vinaigrette; Apricot Upside Down Cake; Tea.

Serve this Cream Gravy over chicken if desired or in pressed gravy boat and pass at table.

NOTE: For your benefit to make an easy vegetable to accompany this chicken I served carrots. I bought one 10-oz. can small whole carrots and drained off the liquid. I tipped the little carrots into a small saucepan a n d added 1 tbsp. each butter and light brown sugar, ½ tsp. salt and the grated rind of half a large orange. I ebook these occasionally over low heat for about 10 to 15 min. They are called Glazed Carrots and nearly stole the show from the fried chicken and I wished there had been more of them. You could do the same with cut-up carrots you have cooked yourself.

Liberal Leadership

Assess Candidates and Make Choice in Ottawa: Winters

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Time is running out for the hard-travelling contenders for the Liberal leadership, but at least one isn't in a hurry for leadership convention delegates to make up their minds.

Trade Minister Winters during the weekend told Saskatchewan delegates, who will help pick a new leader in Ottawa April 4-6, they should not commit themselves until they are on the scene.

"Take the opportunity to assess all the candidates and then make the choice," he said at a Regina meeting Saturday. The new leader should be chosen to fit not only one occasion but all occasions.

Confronted with 25 Vancouver pickets demonstrating against the war in Vietnam, Justice Minister Trudeau told them they were being "morally comfortable."

He said at a later news conference: "It's one thing to be opposed to it. It's another to find a solution to it."

If he won the leadership and became prime minister he doubted he could do more to end the war, he said. There was not much that Prime Minister Pearson had not already tried.

Two other candidates were in New Brunswick, one in Quebec and two in Ontario.

In Edmundston, N.B., Health Minister Allan MacEachen told a meeting of convention delegates he had never threatened the prime minister with his resignation if the universal medical care insurance plan was not started July 1.

Mr. MacEachen said the federal government was not trying to force the provinces to join the program.

Agriculture Minister J. J. Greene, meeting with delegates in Saint John, N.B., said: "The next two decades will see more economic growth than we have yet seen in this country."

"We are entering the age of electronics with manufacturing and industrialization playing a larger and larger role in our economy, and it cannot be allowed to become centralized."

Paul Martin, external affairs minister, told a news conference in Montreal Sunday that a national conference involving all sectors of Canadian society must be launched immediately to co-ordinate development and combat regional economic disparity.

Mr. Martin said economic inequality between French and English Canada is a major threat to Canadian unity which can be met only through co-operation between federal and provincial governments and the public.

Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner, speaking to reporters in Toronto before the Washington announcement that a two-price system for gold had been established, said such a system would hamper the creation of a new system of reserves to finance world trade.

"We must continue to work toward the creation of a new international currency," Mr. Turner said. "That currency must be backed by gold. . . there should be only one price for gold."

Transport Minister Paul Hellyer, asked at a news conference in Sault Ste. Marie if Canada should adopt a hard line with French President Charles de Gaulle because of his interest in Quebec, said:

"I think we have to show a little patience and I think . . . the problem will disappear."

Mr. Hellyer said withdrawal of Canadian troops from Europe could create a vacuum resulting in West Germany setting up its own nuclear force.

He said if Canada leaves NATO and withdraws troops from Europe, it might put political pressure on the United States to do the same.

Albanian 'Coup' Claimed Futile U.S.-UK Fiasco

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold A. R. (Kim) Philby, former British counter-intelligence official who spied for the Soviet Union, says the United States and Britain landed men in Albania in 1950-51 with hope of starting a revolution, but that the plan dissolved in fiasco.

Launched with the approval of the U.S. state department and the British foreign office, the operation was "futile from the beginning," Philby said, and was quietly put aside when information on overthrowing the Communist regime proved "wholly negative."

Philby's account is contained in My Silent War, a collection of memoirs printed by Grove Press. A member of British intelligence organizations for 23 years while serving the Russians, Philby was forced to flee to the Soviet Union in 1963. He now lives in Moscow.

Philby told of wrangling between the Americans and British over who would lead a counter-revolutionary government in Albania.

He characterized FBI agents as bumblers and said J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, had a "bubble reputation."

Philby instead provides accounts of how he headed off suspicion.

Philby said that when the arrest of the spy Donald MacLean was imminent in London, it was decided a third man in Washington, Guy Burgess, would have to get back to Britain to warn him. His return was made to look "willy-nilly."

"Three times in one day he was booked for speeding in the state of Virginia, and the governor objected just as we hoped. He sent a furious protest to the state department against this flagrant abuse of diplomatic privileges, which was then brought to the attention of the ambassador. Within a few days, Burgess was regretfully informed he would have to leave."

Both men later reached the Soviet Union.

Seven Shot to Death In Michigan Rampage

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — Seven persons were shot to death and two others critically wounded by a man who roamed this Upper Peninsula community with a high-powered rifle before being subdued by a patron of the local tavern.

The shootings occurred Saturday night within a two-hour span at two residences and the tavern in nearby Ironwood Township.

Eric Pearson, 56-year-old janitor, was arrested and charged with the slayings.

Gogebic County Sheriff Chester J. Prebish said Pearson had been drinking heavily and was incoherent when captured at the tavern, where one man was slain and one woman wounded.

The tavern was the last stop on the rampage. The slayer first visited a home about a mile from the tavern. There, four persons including a mother and her daughter were killed in the living room.

A 12-year-old girl, trying to hide in her bedroom closet, was wounded when a bullet was fired through a door.

The killer then went to another home, killing one man and wounding the man's wife. From next stop was the tavern.

"He just walked in the door and started shooting. He didn't say a word," said one customer.

He said another bar patron, John Niemi, picked up a beer bottle and hit Pearson on the head. Pearson crumpled to the floor.

Auto Talks Resume

TORONTO (CP) — United Auto Workers officials resume talks this week with both General Motors of Canada Ltd. and Ford Motor Co. of Canada and the union warns it will set an "early target date" for settlement of its contract dispute with Ford.

The UAW, already on strike against General Motors, says in a statement that if the dispute with Ford is not settled by the target date, and if the strike continues at GM, it may abandon its "traditional one-at-a-time strike policy" and carry on strikes at both companies at the same time.

Talks with General Motors, where some 23,000 Canadian employees have been on strike since Feb. 10, were to resume today. They broke off last week.

Talks with Ford are scheduled to resume Tuesday, and the union said its Ford master negotiating committee will meet early in the week to set a target date for completion of the talks.

Northern Townships Pass Roads By-law

Fire insurance on the Hastings Club was increased by $6,000.

Men working for the road superintendent will be paid $1.40 an hour begining March 1, if Ontario Department of Highways approval is obtained.

Council decided to buy 30 stacking tables for the township hall.

The following appointments were made: chief fire warden, Everett Wannamaker, Ed Reavie, Frank O'Rourke, Charles James; issuers of burning permits, Bruce Leslie and Margaret Lockwood.

When you start comparing dollar values, you realize that Olds didn't get to be where it is on good looks alone.

Sure. Styling had a lot to do with it, but that isn't all that makes a great car great. The value you get. That's important too. And that's where Olds has the others beaten. No two ways about it. Buy an Olds and you get more for your car-buying dollars.

Take this Delta 88. It's resting on a big, sturdy 123-inch wheelbase, over a smooth-riding four-coil suspension. And that's only the beginning. Inside, there's the largest standard Rocket V8 that Oldsmobile's ever put out . . . a full 310 horses.

As for its looks. We think they speak for themselves. That's why Olds is where it is. At the top . . . with more of what you want in a car, for less money than you'd think. Olds. The irresistible one. Unbeatable. No matter how you look at it.

"A big milestone along the tough rocky trail that leads to the envied circle of the National Hockey League has been reached by Steve Reze, the sensational young goalie who wore the jersey of the Belleville Mc-Hawks and later the second National hockey team.

The 10-year-old Peterborough goalie has been invited in a five-game tryout by Jack Riley, general manager of the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Reze went overseas with the second National squad and made a fine impression on officials. Lack of experience was one of the factors that prevented Steve from making the first Nationals but the powers-that-be have kept a watchful eye on him.

After his return to Canada Steve proved a standout with the seconds in a senior loop down Ottawa valley way.

When Riley was in Belleville with the Penguins to keep an exhibition date with Wren Blair's Minnesota North Stars he was a visitor to the press box with his coach Red Sullivan.

"We scouted Reze when he was playing with your Mc-Hawks" he told me at the time "and they turned in highly favorable reports. We have him on our negotiation list."

"We invited him to the training camp but he was under the impression that trying out with a professional club would prevent him from making the Canadian Olympics team — and he did his mind set on that. However such was not the case. But the youngster refused to take any chances."

Trying out with the Pittsburgh club will not, I am told, prevent Reze from coming to the Minnie Menard Night on Friday.

Speaking of Menard Night, the entire Chicago Black Hawks club bought the books of tickets sent them. Everybody from the trainer up to management "got in the act" and the other day a cheque for $100 was received by the Menard Fund.

Coach Billy Reay, it will be recalled, was the assistant manager of the McFarlands on their overseas junket in 1939 — and naturally knew Minnie very well.

In a letter accompanying the cheque Billy wrote: — "We were extremely sorry to hear about Minnie's misfortune, and I'm glad that the fellows up there are spending the time and effort to help him."

"Give Minnie our sympathy and tell him hockey players are made of the stuff that bounces back."

Another letter arrived from that grand sportsman and well-known National Hockey League figure "Jolly Jawn" Jack Adams former general manager of the Detroit Red Wings and now enjoying his present term as president of the Central Professional Hockey League.

Jack enclosed a league cheque for fifty dollars with his wishes for a sell-out success of the Menard night. Jack, by the way, is a native of Napanee.

The response of professional hockey has been good up to date. With the Hawks and Central Pro League the Montreal Canadiens have donated $100; the Rochester Americans $200 and the Detroit Red Wings $25.

Donations from Wren Blair and the Minnesota North Stars and other pro clubs are expected to arrive momentarily.

And tick off March 22nd and 23th off on that calendar. On March 22 the Quinte Figure Skating Club debuts the first series of performances of its annual colorful extravaganza. Don't miss it. More about that later.

Injuries Hit Habs; 3 Players Out!

By GRAHAM COX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens lost more than a game Sunday.

The National Hockey League's Eastern Division leaders let their defences down for 2½ minutes and Boston ripped in three fast goals for a 3-1 Bruin victory.

Montreal still holds an eight-point edge over the Bruins and New York Rangers, tied in second, but their future looks bleak after the rugged game at Boston.

The Canadiens lost defencemen Terry Harper and Ted Harris through injuries along with goalie Rogatien Vachon who was clipped in the face by a stick on the play that resulted in the first Boston goal.

The situation wasn't helped any by the fact that he was replaced by veteran Gump Worsley, injured in Saturday's 4-4 victory over Pittsburgh Penguins at Montreal, who was the victim of Boston's final two scores.

After the game in Boston, Montreal officials would not speculate on the extent of Canadiens weekend injuries.

And in Quebec, Toronto Maple Leafs, rapped 7-4 by Philadelphia Flyers, Western Division leaders, lost the services of winger Floyd Smith, one of Toronto's most potent scorers since being purchased recently from Detroit Red Wings.

Smith was crashed into the boards by defenceman Ed Van Impe and suffered what coach Punch Imlach later described as a "bad injury" to his right knee. Impach said the injury could keep Smith out of action the rest of the season.

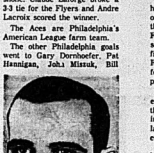
Toronto, in fifth place, trails Chicago Black Hawks by 13 points and has just seven games in which to make them up. To do that, the Leafs would have to win their remaining games while Chicago lost all of theirs.

Chicago's 4-1 victory over Oakland Seals coupled with Detroit's 5-1 loss to Minnesota North Stars Sunday effectively eliminated the Wings from the playoffs in the east.

Sunday's other game was a 3-0 victory for New York Rangers over the Penguins while Saturday Toronto eliped the Bruins 3-0, Detroit beat St. Louis 6-3 and Los Angeles Kings nipped Minnesota 3-2.



Smith scored three Toronto goals before his third-period injury Sunday, boosting his production for the year to 24. Paul Henderson scored the other Toronto goals while Dave Dunlap and Norm Ullman picked up three assists.

The trio has been the hottest Toronto line since joining the Leafs two weeks ago in a trade that sent Frank Mahovlich, Pete Stemkowski and Gary Unger to Detroit.

The 13,650 fans who jammed the 10,030-seat Quebec Coliseum got just what they wanted as former Quebec Aces players shone. Claude Laforge broke a 3-3 tie for the Flyers and Andre Lacroix scored the winner.

The Aces are Philadelphia's American League farm team.

The other Philadelphia goals went to Gary Dornhoefer, Pat Hannigan, John Mistuk, Bill Sutherland and Jean Gauthier.

ED GIACOMIN

Imlach used both his goalies, pulling John Bower after Philadelphia's fourth goal, in the third period, in favor of Bruce Gamble.

At Boston, the Bruins were held off the scoreboard until only 1½ minutes remained in the game, then hit for goals by Fred Stanfield, Derek Sanderson and Phil Esposito to snap a five-game Montreal win streak. Ralph Backstrom had scored for the Canadiens in the first period.

Giacomin, who leads the league in shutouts, handled only 20 shots compared with the 34 chances for Pittsburgh goalie Les Binkley.

Chicago goalie Dave Dryden also had a brilliant night although he had to make only 23 chances. Billy Harris beat him, but it was far too little to cope with Bobby Hull's 44th goal of the year and other Chicago goals by Doug Jarrett, Chico Maki and Bobby Schmautz.

NHL Scoring Leaders

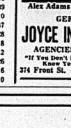
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stan Mikita won't set any National Hockey League scoring records this season. The veteran Chicago Black Hawk centre may even have trouble retaining his crown.

After weekend action, he's still No. 1 NHL scorer with 79 points on 38 goals and 41 assists. But hasn't added to his total in three games.

Now Mekita is being pressed again with Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins and Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers tied at 76 points while Chicago's Bobby Hull and Rod Gilbert of New York have 75.

Both Esposito and Ratelle picked up a goal each Sunday as the Bruins clipped Montreal Canadiens 3-1 and the Rangers whipped Pittsburgh Penguins 7-2. Esposition now has 32 goals and 44 assists while Ratelle has 31 and 45.



Hull scored a goal and assisted on another as the Hawks dropped Oakland Seals 4-1 and Gilbert earned an assist for the Rangers.

Hull's 44th goal of the year—he also has 31 assists—makes him easy leader among goal scorers while Gilbert's 45 assists, to go with 39 goals, makes him the leader in that department.

But the biggest weekend surge was by Norm Ullman of Toronto Maple Leafs, who came up with three assists Sunday when the Leafs lost 7-4 to Philadelphia Flyers after a goal and assist Saturday when they beat Boston 3-0.

OK Pal, Is This You?

Lounging comfortably in your conversation pit before a crackling fire after an eventful day fishing. Your wife is just over in the kitchen frying one of those beauties you landed this afternoon and the kids are having a pillow-fight in that huge bedroom you furnished for them with pillow-fights in mind. Or maybe you're just languish...quietly contemplating your tall drink, the haunting call of loons over the lake focuses your thoughts on tomorrow's adventure — a boat tour through the neighboring lakes with the whole family. You could barbeque a couple of chickens over the fire right now and then the wife could whip up a salad in the morning, toss in a few odds and ends and you're off!

You really enjoy those trips, don't you. After the picnic, while the kids are busy investigating a colony of chipmunks, you and your wife sort of laze around making idle conversation. You've probably discussing the various activities you've planned for your two week vacation next month at the cottage.

Things sure have changed since you bought the cottage, haven't they? Why before, summer's pleasantries were limited to your all-too-short vacation. But now! Every weekend, the family hops into the car on Friday night and in an hour or so, "bang" vacationtime all over again!

And that's not just in the summer. Now that you have your own cottage, winter has become a fun-in-the-sun time too! What, with skiing, ice fishing, tobogganing and ski-dooing, winter is just as exciting as summer. Remember those zero-cold nights you spent with friends in the conversation pit snug and warm while winter howled outside? Remember that riotous afternoon ice fishing when you trudged through waist-high snow, cut through two feet of solid ice, only to discover that no one remembered to bring the minnows?

They've been good times eh? You bet! Now that you've got the cottage you spend more time with your family, more time with your friends, more time simply enjoying yourself! Actually, come to think of it, you should have bought the cottage 10 years ago!

If you agree that this is you, give George Mills a call right now. George is our cottage expert and he can show you a multitude of cottage plans and sites in a wide price range. You know, you can own a pretty nice cottage for as little as $2,000.

Rollins have cottage sites on beautiful Shawenegog and Limerick lakes — about an hour's drive from Belleville — at very reasonable prices. Also, for the economy minded, we have river front lots on the famous Trent River System — enjoy fishing at its best!

May we suggest that it is most important that you act now. Summer is fast approaching and cottage orders will be increasing every day. Make preparations now so that you can be assured of maximum use of your cottage this summer.

When you deal with Rollins you may purchase your cottage and any lot of your choice with no money down. All loans are life insured with terms up to 10 years.

Nancy Wins Slalom, Cup; Regains Lead For World Title

ASPEN, Colo. (CP-AP) — Canada s Nancy Greene capped a weekend of superb skiing Sunday by winning the giant slalom, and Aspen Cup that goes with it and regained the lead in defence of the World Cup.

The giant slalom completed a sweep of all three women's events for Miss Greene, giving her 75 points and a healthy 26-point lead over Isabelle Mir of France in the Cup race. Miss Mir did not compete here.

Two more events—at Rossland, B.C., later this month and at Heavenly Valley, Calif., next month—count toward the Cup.

Miss Greene, who won gold and silver medals at last month's Grenoble Winter Olympics and grabbed the world combined title, far overshadowed French sportswear Jean-Claude Killy during the Aspen meet.

Killy, who swept all the men's Alpine events at Grenoble to become only the second triple gold medalist in Olympic skiing, finished third Friday in the downhill, fourth Saturday in the slalom and fourth Sunday in the giant slalom. But he still maintained a solid lead in the men's Cup standings. He won the Cup last year.

Miss Greene, 24-year-old arts student from Rossland, B.C., who arrived here fourth in the World Cup standings, zipped through Sunday's giant slalom in one minute 26.02 seconds—a spectacular 1½ seconds ahead of Miss Goitschel.

West Germany's Rosi Mittermaier was third over the 67-gate course in 1:29.07.

"I wanted to win here because it takes the pressure off in the Rossland World Cup races two weeks from now," Nancy said.

She knew she had to beat Miss Goitschel to win the giant slalom.

"But that didn't change my plans any," she said, "I ran the course just as I intended to."

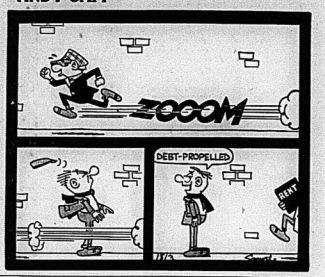
Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., beat the world's best for the slalom championship Saturday and with a fourth place in downhill Friday he carted away the Roche Cup for the best combined performance. He finished third in Sunday's giant slalom.

"This was my best weekend ever," Kidd said.

Reinhard Tritscher, 21-year-old Austrian giant slalom champion, raced to victory in his specialty Sunday to win the men's Aspen Cup. His countryman, Gerhard Nenning, won the downhill.

Tritscher twisted down the 75-gate course in 1:54 to beat runner-up Dumeng Giovanoli of Switzerland, timed in 1:54.37.

Kidd's time was 1:54.74, just ahead of Killy, clocked in 1:54.99.



Scott Henderson of Banff, Alta., finished 12th in the Giant Salom in 1:57.37.

Other Canadian finishers and their times:

16. Keith Shepherd, Waskesiu Sask., 1:59.03; 18. Wayne Henderson, Banff, 1:59.56; 28. Bill McKay, Vancouver, 2:02.42; 30. Bob Swan, Chelsea, Que., 2:02.79; 32. Dan Irwin, Fort William, Ont., 2:03.56; 34. Gerry Rinaldi, Kimberley, B.C., 2:04.87; 36. Bert Irwin, Kamloops, B.C., 2:10.42.

In the women's event, Judy Leinweber of Kimberley, B.C., was 11th in 1:31.38 and Stephanie Townsend of Banff was 27th in 1:41.10.

Aces, Marlies Bounce Back!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a St. Patrick's Day celebration that Toronto Marlboro goaltender Gerry McNamara will remember for a long time.

McNamara blocked 40 shots Sunday as Toronto Marlboros blanked Collingwood Kings 3-0 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior playoff game.

The victory tied the best-of-seven, semi-final series at two games each. The fifth game will be played Tuesday in Toronto.

In the other semi-final series, Kingston Aces won their first game, defeating Galt Hornets 5-3 Saturday. Fourth game of the series is scheduled for Kingston next Saturday.

McNamara, who played briefly with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League a few years ago, was especially brilliant against Collingwood's Dave Flitter.

The 33-year-old netminder stopped Flitter twice in the third period after making a save on Flitter's breakaway later in the second.

Flyers Grab 3-1 Lead!

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series found out during the season that if they want to defeat Kitchener Rangers they have to depend on the Rangers' team captain Walt Tkaczuk having a bad game.

Tkaczuk, the slim, muscled pivot around whom Kitchener's attack revolves, was in poor form Sunday and the Marlies beat the Rangers 6-1.

Tkaczuk was penalized five times and was on the ice for five Toronto goals as the Marlboros tied the best-of-seven quarter-final series 1-1. In the first game, with Tkaczuk staying out of the penalty box and settling up a goal, Kitchener won 4-2.

In other Sunday games, Montreal Junior Canadiens and Niagara Falls Flyers moved to within one game of winning their quarter-final series. Montreal whipped St. Catharines Black Hawks 7-2 to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series and Niagara Falls downed Peterborough Petes 6-3 to take a 3-1 lead in games.

Hamilton Red Wings defeated London Nationals 8-4 in Hamilton to take a 2-1 lead in their series.

The daily double of Gal Hunter in the first race and My Sis in the second paid $119.50.

In night racing, Adios Gale won the $3,500 Shamrock Preferred Trot at overtaking Bobby Aaland and nipping Masquerade's Boy by a nose.

The eight-year-old gelding paid $13.70, $5.40 and $2.70.

The afternoon crowd of 6,304 wagered $502,545, a season's wagering decord.

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP) — A strong Vancouver Grocers team clipped Halifax Schooners 74-51 Saturday to win their third consecutive Canadian senior men's basketball championship.

Brent Watson scored 26 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to pace the Grocers. He scored 21 points in the first half when Vancouver built up a 36-17 lead.

Brian Heaney, with 14 points, was top scorer for Halifax, but the six-foot-five guard who scored 74 points in one intercollegiate game early this season, was held back by the outstanding defensive play of the Grocers' Alex Brayden.

Sanderson Scored The Winner

BOSTON (AP) — Five minutes before the start of Boston's National Hockey League game with Montreal, Derek Sanderson expected to be watching from the sidelines. One minute and 25 seconds from the end of the game the Canadiens wished he had been.

Sanderson missed the last three Bruins' games with an eye injury suffered when he was struck by a puck at Toronto March 7. His status remained uncertain until just before game time Sunday night, when team physician Dr. Ronald Adams gave the go-ahead.

The 21-year-old rookie centre and his team-mates had their troubles throughout most of the game as Montreal, first in the East Division, nursed a 1-0 lead into the final 2½ minutes, then Boston's Fred Stanfield scored to tie the count with 2:21 left, and with 1:25 remaining Sanderson took a pass from Glen Sather and drove the puck into the right corner for the winning tally.

Phil Esposito then scored into an open net in the closing seconds to wrap up the 3-1 victory.

Oklahoma City blanked Houston Apollos 3-0 Sunday night to move within one point of capturing the Southern Division title.

In other Sunday games, Fort Worth Wings beat Memphis 5-3 and Dallas Black Hawks edged Kansas City Blues 2-1.

Saskatchewan Sweeps Mixed Curling Title

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP) — Larry McGrath knew Friday he'd retained the Canadian mixed curling title here, but there was a little something missing.

The six-foot-two, 205-pounder from Kindersley, Sask., had lost one game the previous year and wanted this 1968 title with a clean slate.

His opponent Saturday, Cliff Robertson of Halifax—wanted a win for just the opposite reasons. He was last in the 11-rink, round-robin tournament.

But McGrath wasn't to be denied, taking the measure of Robertson 9-5 and the O'Keefe Cup for the second successive year—this time with a 10-0 won-lost record.

Robertson had McGrath down one in the fifth end and stole one in the sixth when the Saskatchewan skip made one of his rare misses.

"We stole one," said Robertson, shrugging some humor from his eventual 9-5 defeat. "That's pretty good, eh?"

It was one of two eds stolen from Saskatchewan in 10 games.

McGrath said he hopes to take the same four into next year's mixed at'Kitchener to try for three straight titles. His third, Darlene Hill, said "we're ready and waiting."

The other members of the 28-year-old what farmer's rink are lead Marlene Dorsett and second ohn Gunn.

Northern Ontario's Bill Tetley finished a more-convincing second this year than in his 1966 try when he ended in a four-way tie.

With consistent backing from his wife Elaine in lead spot and Eric and Norma Knudsen in second and third, Tetley hammered Newfoundland 11-5 in the final.

His defeats were at the hands of McGrath and Quebec's Earl Carson of Canadian Forces Base Bagotville who squeaked by 5-4 in the second round.

Edmonton's Edward Stechinsky ended tied for third with Prince Edward Island at six and four after long-shot Fred Fraser of Moncton, N.B., came through with a 14-6 win over the Alberta four in the final.

Fraser's five in the seventh was the biggest end scored against the Albertans in the competition.

For good measure Fraser, lying one, squeezed his last rock in the ninth through a narrow three-rock port to take out an Alberta shot in the four-foot and count five more.

Ken MacDonald of Charlottetown won his battle with Quebec for a share of third place. Carson forced the game into an extra end, but MacDonald outdrew him with last rock and won 9-8.

Manitoba's Jim Hodgson spoiled British Columbia's chances of getting a piece of third place when he downed Vern Becker of Kimberley 7-4. Becker finished with five wins and five losses.

Frank Stent of St. John's Nfld., Quebec and Peter Connell of Arnprior, Ont., ended tied for sixth. They had 4-6 records Connell sat out the last round.

Manitoba and New Brunswick came next with three wins and seven losses while Robertson won two of his 10 games. The Nova Scotia wins were over Newfoundland and Ontario.
